DEMOCRATS PLAN DANCE

BANQUET IS POSTPONED UNTIL AFTER AUGUST PRIMARY—DANCE WILL BE HELD AT WHITE VILLA CLUB HOUSE.

The Young Men's Democratic Club held their regular monthly meeting at the courthouse Monday night with quite a large number of its members present, and final plans were made for the Spring dance that will take place in the near future.

It was announced that the dance will take place in Boone County at the White Villa Club House, Florence, on Saturday, April 23rd. All other plans for the occasion have been completed except for the floor show. The committee in charge of this particular item reported that they were making an effort to secure a floor show that will be presented at the Netherland Plaza Hotel earlier in the same afternoon. If these plans are carried out, everyone can look forward to even a better show this Spring than on other occasions.

The club had originally planned to sponsor a banquet and invite some prominent person to deliver the address. However, due to the expected fight between Democrats in Kentucky this summer, the organization agreed not to become entangled in the conflict. The banquet will be held as planned, but not until after the August primary, it was announced.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the White Villa Clubhouse, Florence, and refreshments will be served. Everyone must have their 1938 membership card in order to be admitted to this meeting on May 9th.

Don't forget the date and place of the Spring dance—White Villa Clubhouse, Saturday night, April 23rd.

"Lovely Ladies" To Be Presented At Local School

The Burlington Senior class will present "Lovely Ladies" at the auditorium Friday April 22, at 8:00 p. m. The following is a brief synopsis of the play:

Lovely the ladies are in this play ...in a tone of voice which implies that they are all cats, potential gangstermolls, big bosses, and far from lovely.

The story involves Mary Lamb, who hopes to get married...if her wedding gown comes, and if the grooms shows up. Neither Wilma, her wise-cracking friend, nor Minnie, her maid, have much success in quieting her down. Then Auntie arries with her niece, Gloria, in tow, to take over the management of the ceremony. Gloria is being spirited away because her boyfriend spoke harshly to her and sent her into hysterics. Her laments do little to settle Mary's agitation over the non-arrival of the wedding dress.

From this beginning the plot gets muddled up by Nanette and Teresa, who are to deliver and fit the dress, but who get side-tracked when they discover that Nanette's boy friend has been two-timing her and representing himself, via the Lonely Hearts Club for the Matrimonially inclined, as an English Lord to Minnie, Mary's maid ...under the impression that Minnie is an heiress. Nanette, thinking the wedding dress is for Minnie, takes it away again and causes more hysterics by locking Minnie up in the clothes closet.

Through the play a weird stranger makes appearance after appearance, first as Juliet searching for her Romeo, then as a Man-About Town in a stolen tuxedo.

The bowls and roads which follow many of the funny lines of the play will be sure to send the audience away when the final curtain falls, feeling that they have certainly received their money's worth.

KENTUCKY CASTS VOTE FOR QUOTAS

LEADS IN FOURTEEN STATES, ACCORDING TO RETURNS—ONLY ONE COUNTY FAILS TO GIVE TWO-THIRDS NEEDED.

Lexington, Ky., April 11—Led by Kentucky, which not only polled the heaviest vote but also gave the largest majority in favor, burley tobacco growers Saturday voted 87 percent for marketing quotas in 1938 crop, almost complete returns complied today from the 14 states participating in the referendum revealed.

From the office of O. H. Farrington, State AAA Executive, it was shown that with six small producing counties yet to be tabulated, Kentucky growers cast 104,213 votes in favor of the quotas, and 9,636 against, a percentage of 91.54 in favor. Kentucky's total vote today stood at 113,848 and probably will reach 114,500 when all returns are in, Mr. Farrington said.

Kentucky counties from which returns have not been received are Webster, Union, Marshall, McCreary, Hickman, and Calloway. None has a large vote Farrington declared.

While Kentucky returned the heaviest majority in favor of the quotas, all but three of the eight principal producing sections voted "Yes."

Tennessee approved by 88 per cent, North Carolina by 74 per cent, West Virginia by 74 per cent, Virginia by 75 per cent, Missouri by 61 percent, Indiana by 63 per cent, and Ohio by 64 per cent. The quota plan had to receive 66.7 per cent of the total vote cast by all burley growers in order to become effective.

Votes challenged in the various counties at Saturday's referndum were decided upon as to eligibility today, and those declared eligible were opened and included in the totals.

Erlanger Board Makes Water Plans

The Erlanger Board of Trustees adopted a resolution Wednesday night of last week, calling upon Reynold & Co., a New York bonding firm, to take up the necessary waterworks revenue bonds to permit Erlanger to proceed with construction of its proposed water plant.

The action followed delay during the time when Erlanger's bid was being considered for the Elsmere water franchise. The bid was rejected Tuesday night.

The New York firm has contracted with Erlanger to take up the $175,000 in revenue bonds issued for the municipal plant.

The city clerk was instructed to send copies of the resolution to the the Reynolds Co. and to the Ohio Drilling Co., Massilon, O.; the Haley Construction Co., Nashville, Tenn., and to the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Co., contractors, who have accepted work on the plant.

Ninety-Two Percent Of Tobacco Growers Favor Limitation

Boone County Polls Largest Vote In Northern Kentucky—1216 Farmers Participate in Referendum.

Eleven hundred and thirty Boone County tobacco growers in the AAA referendum held Saturday, April 9th voted "yes" to 86 "no" for burley tobacco marketing quotas in 1938, according to H. E. White, Chairman of the Boone County AAA tobacco referendum committee. A total of 1218 ballots were cast, two were mutilated, leaving 1216 to be recorded. An average of 92.9% of growers favored quotas.

The turnout of growers was the largest on record and the percentage favoring was the largest of any previous referendum submitted to growers. Early returns from 106 of 114 counties in the stated showed that 99,899 growers voted yes and 9,053 voted no for marketing quotas. Quotas for the state were approved by 91-7 per cent of the growers or 11 to 1 in favor. Other states have been reported as favoring quotas by good majorities. The national quota for burley tobacco to be marketed this year is 350,000 pounds. Quotas to individual farmers will probably not be announced for several weeks yet.

The following is the Boone County summary by communities in the AAA tobacco market quota referendum held last Saturday, April 9th:

Community	Yes	No	Total
Burlington	138	16	154
Petersburg	78	—	78
Walton	141	15	156
Grant	80	8	88
Florence	76	13	89
Constance	16	3	19
Union	146	3	149
Carlton	89	3	92
Hebron	107	11	118
Hamilton	82	3	85
Beaver	73	2	75
Verona	104	9	113
	1130	86	1216

Farmers in three northern counties, Boone, Campbell and Kenton voted overwhelmingly in favor of the burley tobacco market quota. Results of the referendum in the Counties were Boone, yes 1,130, no 86; Campbell, yes 232, no 80: Kenton, yes 380, no 61.

Kentucky, by far the largest burley producing state, cast enough favorable votes to insure success of the limitation plan. However, several other states displayed a similar sentiment. Tennessee, second largest producer of burley leaf, voted 23,000 to 3,000 in favor of the plan.

Every heavy producing county in Kentucky gave the restrictive plan more than the necessary two-thirds majority. The only two counties reported against the plan so far are Pike, which had only eight votes (no, six; yes, two), and Carlisle County, which voted 19 to 15 against the plan.

To be checked this week for eligibility are 1,700 challenged votes, but these cannot appreciably affect the total.

Of the 1,700 challenged votes 444 were offered in Woodford County and 429 in Laurel County. Of the accepted votes in Woodford, 497 were in favor of the plan and 189 against it. It is believed that most of the challenged Woodford votes, if finally accepted, will be found to be against the plan, since there was reported to be considerable sentiment there in opposition to the restriction.

Opposition sentiment higher than the general average was found principally in Woodford, Fayette and Scott Counties. In the main, Central Kentucky counties cast a higher percentage of "No" votes than the remainder of the state.

This was attributed to a newspaper and radio advertising campaign attacking the restrictive system, launch the day before the election and backed by a group of heavy producers. One of their arguments that appeared to appeal to a considerable number of Central Kentuckians was that the section stood to bear the burden of reduction and that the cut would be heavier here than elsewhere.

Fayette County cast a comparatively light vote. Approximately 3,000 planters were eligible to vote, but only 1,334 ballots were issued. Of these two were spoiled and 48 challenged. The remaining ballots were cast 971 in favor of the plan and 313 against it. Thus Fayette County's vote was only 75.6 per cent in favor of the plan, compared to the general average of 91.7 for the state.

Miss Lombard Sets New Style

Fashion-wise women will recognize a grand new "asic daytime dress" style in one of the frocks worn by lovely Carole Lombard in "True Confession," Paramount's comedy-drama which will be on the screen at Gayety Theater Sunday and Monday, with Fred MacMurray and John Barrymore costarred with the gorgeous blonde.

The dress, which was designed for Miss Lombard by Travis Banton, leading Hollywood stylist, is a straight, one-piece model of black crepe in which simplicity is stressed. The neckline is high, the sleeves long and fitted.

A black zipper accents the dress from the hem to the neckline, and with the dress Miss Lombard wears a narrow belt of patent leather.

Hollywood fashion experts are enthusiastic about the style, which they predict will sweep the country because of its adaptability for practically every type of daytime wear.

HONOR A BOY HERO

Life everyday presents its heroes who deserve the acclamation of the world no less than those who die on the battlefields.

Of course, we do not hear of all acts of bravery, but one day this month a Maryland home caught on fire. All of the family escaped two small boys, six and four years old. An older brother, James Haddick, 17, died in a vain attempt to rescue them.

Hearing ths younger boys' screams, he broke away from those restraining him and dashed into the burning house. Later, he was seen to reach the door with one of them in his arms but staggered and fell back into the flames.

James probably did not stop to think of the danger to himself when he answered the cries of distress that came from his small brothers. Some may content themselves with the observation that he should have been more cautious in view of the improbability of effecting a rescue.

However, millions of people everywhere, who hear of his deed, will laud his brave and self-effacing act in the face of danger, knowing quite well that the future of the human race depends upon the impulse that moves men and women to sacrifice themselves for others.

APRIL, OUR MONTH OF WARS

April is the month of wars, so far as the United States is concerned.

On the 6th is the anniversary of our declaration of war against Germany, in 1917; the 12th is the anniversary of the first shot, fired at Fort Sumter, that initiated four years of fighting in the last century and the 25th marks the anniversary of the declaration of war against Spain, in 1898.

Luckily, as this is written, no impending struggle is in prospect but so uncertain are world events that one can hardly tell when the next conflict will begin.

There are, of course, pending problems with Japan but these should not lead to war in the near future, whatever may be the possible consequences of future aggressiveness on the part of the Far Eastern Empire.

Then, as possible source of trouble, South America looms up. With it is the necessity of a decision on the part of the people of this country whether they are willing to abandon the Monroe Doctrine if that principle implies the risk of warfare. As we see it, the danger is real. Already exchanges are taking place between Brazil and Germany, at the instigation of Berlin, on the subject of the treatment accorded Germanic inhabitants of the South American country. It might lead to complications.

The fact that a choir singer was recently murdered in an eastern state proves that some people never will be able to distinguish between good and bad singing.

ARE OUR YOUNG PEOPLE WRONG?

Mothers and fathers often wonder whether certain activity of their young sons and daughters is exactly the wise thing for young people.

The anxiety of parents for the conduct of their children is understandable. Naturally, they are sincerely concerned. They want their boys and girls to grow into fine men and women.

There is a way in which parents can influence the conduct of their children. It is not by denouncing their customs or punishing the young people. After all, growing boys and girls require some form of amusement and social life. It is natural for them to congregate together. If parents dislike current activities it might be a good idea for parents to provide other activity.

So far as we know there is no concerted, community effort to provide wholesome amusement and entertainment for the young people here. Some parents welcome young folks to their homes and others like to keep them from being in the way. There are occasional devices for the pleasure of the young but nothing like a coordinated social program for growing boys and girls.

Before older people complain of what younger people are doing, it behooves them to bestir themselves and see what they are doing for the boys and girls.

"SIGNS" AND A BIG WAR

Human beings are prone to seek signs and portents of coming events. We like to prophesy.

Our efforts are seldom restricted by the "signs" that mean something. Recently, an Associated Press dispatch from Rochester, Indiana, advised that "war cannot be far away." The conclusion was based on bumper lamb yields which "oldtimers" asserted had been followed in the past by long and costly and destructive wars. Those who believe in this sign say that Providence is providing the extra meat for the battling armies. This year the lamb yield is "believed to be the largest in the country's history."

After the Apple Episode

"So glad to see you, dear. How are you getting on now that you are married?"

"It's just like the Garden of Eden."

"I'm glad to hear that."

"Yes, we have nothing to wear and are in daily fear of being turned out."

Lesson for April 17

THE VICTORIOUS SERVANT
(Easter)

LESSON TEXT—Acts 2:22-36.
GOLDEN TEXT—This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we all are witnesses.—Acts 2:32.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter's First Sermon.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter's Greatest Sermon.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Risen Christ Our Hope of Victory.

"Up from the grave He arose
With a mighty triumph o'er His foes;
He arose a Victor from the dark domain,
And He lives forever with His saints to reign;
He arose! He arose!
Hallelujah! Christ arose!"

Let the glad chorus swell the good tidings that the One who humbled Himself to become the servant of all is the "Victorious Servant"—yes, the Victorious Lord!

Easter is the great holiday—a real holy day of the Christian church. We rejoice in the incarnation, for only as the Son of God identified Himself with the human race could He bear our sins on Calvary's tree. We keep the cross before us, for only as He died did He make atonement for our sin, but above all we observe the ressurection, for had He not risen for our justification we would indeed have been without any hope. Ours is a resurrection faith; let us live it in resurrection power.

Life is so serious in its responsibilities and burdens, so often disappointing in its trials and sorrows, that we need to sound the note of victory. But it must be real victory and it must be assured at the crucial point where all the hopes of man find defeat—at death. Only the Christian has the assurance of victory there, but, thank God, he does really have it in our Lord Jesus Christ.

Turning aside from our studies in the Gospel of Mark for today we consider together the sermon of Peter on the day of Pentecost. He declares Jesus to be:

I. Approved by Mighty Works (v. 22).

Theories may have validity only to the man who accepts the authority of the one who proclaims them, but facts are stubborn things, the reality of which no man can deny. There are those who speak about the Lord Jesus as though we asked them to accept Him on the basis of our claims for Him as the Son of God. They forget the facts of history—from the hundreds of years before His incarnation when the prophets spoke of His coming, down through the account of His earthly life, death, and resurrection to which we may well add the inescapable argument of Christianity as it stands in the world today—all speak of Him as the Son of God.

II. Delivered Up to Die (v. 23).

The cross was not an accident. Jesus did not die as a martyr to a noble but hopeless cause. He came into the world "to give his life a ransom for many" (Matt. 20:28). He said, "I lay down my life . No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again" (John 10:17, 18).

But the fact that the cross was in the eternal plan of God in no way justifies those who slew Him. Though they were fulfilling the divine purpose, they were acting as free moral agents fully responsible for their wicked deeds.

III. Raised Up by God (vv. 24-32).

"It was not possible that he should be holden" of death (v. 24)—what a beautifully final and positive statement. It was an impossibility that Christ should remain in the grave, and it is the absolute assurance of Scripture that we who "be dead with him shall also live with him" (II Tim. 2:11). To the believer, the one who is in Christ, the resurrection of the Saviour is the guarantee that we shall be raised. Christ is the first-fruits of them that sleep in the grave. (I Cor. 15:20.)

Peter in his sermon turns to the Scriptures to prove the resurrection referring to the prophet Joel as well as to the Psalms of David. It would be well for us to do likewise on this Easter Sunday of 1938, for we have infinitely richer resources, for in our hands is the New Testament with the story of the resurrection and all the references of the epistles to this glorious truth.

IV. Ascended and Exalted (v. 33).

"Look, ye saints! The sight is glorious:
See the Man of Sorrows now;
From the fight returned victorious,
Every knee to Him shall bow:
Crown Him! Crown Him!
Crowns become the Victor's brow."

"He humbled himself . . . Wherefore God hath highly exalted him" (Phil. 2:8, 9). Read Philippians 2:5-11 as a fitting close to this glorious lesson.

MASTERS NEW IMPROVED 1938 PLANT SETTER

Plants, Covers and Waters With One Operation

There is excellent reason for Masters' leadership in the plant setter industry, for it was Masters who built the first practical automatic plant setter over forty years ago. Since then it has been continually improved. Our 1938 model is the last word—it has no competition. Others have tried to imitate, but never have been able to equal Masters' efficiency and durability. It is so simple and easy to use a Masters'. A Masters' Plant Setter is assurance of maximum stand and prolific yield.

Tobacco buyers say they can tell when a crop has been planted with a Masters' by its uniform high quality. They gladly pay highest prices for this finer yield. One man can set 8,000 to 15,000 plants a day, and do it without even a crick in his back. Once you use the Masters' you will never be satisfied with any other method of plant setting. Masters' Improved Plant Setter is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction in setting

Tobacco, Tomatoes, Cabbage, Sweet Potatoes and other plants

Nearly all first-class Hardware and Implement dealers handle, recommend and sell Masters' Improved Plant Setters. Ask your local merchant to show you this newest and best device of its kind. Examine it—see the fine workmanship, the smoothness and ease of operation. If your dealer doesn't have it in stock, write for full information direct. Don't wait until planting time, or you may be disappointed. Last season the demand exceeded the supply by thousands. Make sure of getting your Masters' Plant Setters by ordering NOW.

RABBIT HASH

Are you going to the Hamilton All Star Revue? Well you better, everyone else is.

Quite a lot of snow and hail fell here the latter part of the week.

There were services at the Baptist church Saturday, afternoon. Rev. Smith and wife were supper guests of Paul Acra and family.

A large crowd attended the funeral of Wm. Hankinson at the M. E. church Thursday afternoon. His widow and family have the deepest sympathy of this community in their sad loss of a husband and father.

We extend sympathy to Chas. Batchelor in the loss of his brother.

Mrs. Adah Wilson received word of the death of Mrs. M. C. Kay in West Virginia, formerly of this place.

Quite a few attended the play, "Where's Grandma" at the school house Friday evening.

There was an election concerning tobacco held at Ryle's store Saturday.

Bring your wife out to the Hamilton All Star Radio Revue, and everybody in the county will see new hat. Remember the date Friday night, April 22.

W. C. Acra and wife were weekend guests of Raymond Acra and wife in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mrs. Prudie Craig, of Indiana spent a portion of the week with Joe Hodges and family.

James Feely and wife were the Monday guests of their daughter, Mrs. Wm. Delph and family. Other guests were Wilma Lee Ashcraft and Wallace Delph.

Friends

Ain't it fine when things are going
Topsy turvy and askew
To discover someone showing
Gold old fashioned faith in you?

Ain't it good when life seems dreary
And your hopes about to end,
Just to feel the handclasp cheery
Of a fine old loyal friend?

Gosh! One fellow to another
Means a lot from day to day,
Seems we're living for each other
In a friendly sort of way.

When a smile or cheerful greetin'
Means so much to fellows sore,
Seems we ought to keep repeatin'
Smiles and praises more and more

SAVE MONEY?

The Standard Coupe

The Standard Ford V-8, with 60-horsepower engine, gives you a lot of car for a little money.

300,000 new owners acclaimed the "thrifty 60" last year. Hundreds a day are buying it in 1938. Why?

Because it is priced low—includes essential equipment without extra charge—and goes farther between filling stations than any Ford car ever built. Owners all over the country report averages of 22 to 27 miles on a single gallon of gasoline.

But economy isn't all the story by any means. The Standard "60" is built with the same precision as the De Luxe "85," and has the same 112-inch wheelbase chassis. It is easy to look at and ride in—as well as easy to buy and run. There's a Ford dealer near you.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

At this time, we offer you an editorial from the Ohio County News, written by Percy H. Landrum that we think is timely and to the point.

We Kentuckians get as much sport and enjoyment out of an election as others get from their Centenials and Worlds' Fairs, for after all there is nothing more enjoyable than a good debate and there is no better topic of conversation around the grocery store or the corner service station than a hot election campaign.

So in the coming heat of the present election let's all remember that elections are our favorite out door sport and from them statesmen are born, get their experience under fire and often rise to national fame.

Let's not get bitter, but be friendly and enjoy it.

DON'T LET POLITICS GET . BENEATH THE SURFACE

Lots of people get all worked up over politics and lose some of their best friends during the campaigns because they disagreed on some subject or candidate. There is no good reason for this, as any sensible person will agree.

Politics is a thing that shouldn't get under the skin of any voter to the extent that it will break up friendship. Those who want to do the right thing will give the other fellow the same right he demands for himself—and that is to think and act on the question of politics as he pleases.

Why get mad at someone who doesn't think as you do? This would be some world if everyone thought alike, wouldn't it?

The way to win persons to your side of the fence is not to become angry, but continue to be friendly and smile instead of frown upon those who disagree with you on politics or any subject.

Campaigners in the coming Democratic senatorial primary should remember this.

The special session closed last week. With the approval of the Teachers Retirement bill, with an amendment making it apply to only those actually engaged in teaching.

Bank nights are now legal in Kentucky. This was a life saver to theatre owners who gets lots of patrons that way.

The Bridge bill was killed. This bill would have taken money from the Highway funds to buy the Louisville bridge that was already financed privately.

The amendment allowing the sale of beer on Sunday was killed and no Sunday Silage will be purveyed in Kentucky as has been heretofore.

They killed a bill that would have divided the county road funds one-third on area and one-third equally. This would have hurt the counties with large population as it is now divided one-half on area and one-half on population.

RANDOM SHOTS

Out of the Special Session came three men and from their ranks in all probability the next lieutenant governor will be chosen. John Hunnicutt House Floor Leader and outstanding young politician. John Kirtley, Speaker of the House, and an astute and likeable politician and Tyler Munford, from Union county, who drew much favorable comment for his work this session.

We are packing our bag and getting ready to follow the campaign. This column is your ticket for ring side seats for we'll be there for you.

Think of the far-reaching importance of coal in our daily living . . . in producing power . . . in generating light . . . in heating our homes . . . in giving employment to thousands of people.

Indeed, carrying coal . . . or any other commodity . . . helps to develop the community where it is produced and adds to the comfort and welfare of the section where it is consumed. That's why the L & N for over 87 years has played such an integral part in the development and growth of the Central South. That's why we like to consider ourselves your neighbor, for the progress of the communities we serve promotes the well-being of all.

COURT ADJOURNS AFTER FIVE DAYS

NINE INDICTMENTS RETURNED BY GRAND JURY—D A V E HAINES SENTENCED TO TWO YEARS, SENTENCE PROBATD.

The Boone Circuit court which convened Monday of last week, adjourned Friday, after only five days in session.

According to Circuit Clerk A. D. Yelton nine indictments were returned by the grand jury, of which it was reported some were dismissed as they were only misdemeanor charges.

Orville Cobb, of West Virginia, who was indicted for housebreaking at this session and tried before a jury was dismissed by the Commonwealth after the jury was unable to reach a verdict.

Dave Haines, Covington, who was tried before Judge Vallandingham on a charge of chicken and turkey stealing was found guilty by the jury and given a sentence of 2 years which was probated.

The docket for this term of court was very small, therefore the session was shortened, much to the delight of the farmers who were very much delayed in preparations for their crops due to the heavy, heavy rain fall during the past few weeks.

300 Pounds Of Meat Stolen

Thieves made another raid at the farm of George Griffith, obtaining approximately 300 pounds of old hams and other cured meat last Saturday night, and again left no clues as to their identity.

According to Mr. Griffith, the robbery occurred either Saturday or Sunday night, but he did not discover the loss until sometime Sunday. The cheriff and his deputy were called and several outside tips were followed, but to no avail.

It seems that the thieves are able to make a clean get-a-way each time, and do not leave anything behind that the officials can work on. This brings the total meat for this season up to approximately 1,000 pounds, which is quite a loss to the residents of this community.

PREPARATIONS FOR RALLY DAY

BEING MADE BY BOONE COUNTY FOUR-H CLUBS TO BE HELD AT BURLINGTON MAY 14TH

The 4-H clubs of Boone County are holding their fourth series of community club meetings this week and next, according to Jack Dye, assistant county agent.

The club members are busy making plans for 4-H Spring Rally Day which will be held at Burlington on May 14th. Rally Day will be an all-day affair and one eagerly anticipated by those who have attended Rally Days in the past.

Foremost among the activities of the day is the contest among demonstration teams. The winning teams in Agriculture and in Home Economics get a trip to the District contest at Williamstown and possibly to Junior Week at Lexington, so competition will be keen. Boys and girls al lover the county are selecting team mates and preparing to give a demonstration. A team is composed of two members who carry out and explain some good farm or household practice. The demonstration takes about 15 minutes and should show a practice related to the member's 4-H project. Adults may be surprised to find how much they can learn from these club boys and girls.

Home Economics 4-H Leaders To Meet April 22

Pointers for training a good demonstration team will be discussed at a meeting Friday, April 22nd at 1:00 p. m. at the courthouse in Burlington. All Home Economics leaders of the 4-H clubs in Boone County have been asked to attend this meeting. Miss Anita Burnam, State 4-H leader of girls, will assist the leaders in outlining demonstrations.

Each of the ten 4-H clubs in Boone county are planning to have at least one demonstration team, according to Mary Hood Gillaspie home demonstration agent. Three hundred points will be given to clubs for each demonstration team taking part in the county contest at Spring Rally, May 14th.

BOND COMPANY REJECTS ISSUE

FOR ERLANGER — MISREPRESENTATION CLAIMED BY CO IN STATMENT TO T O W N TRUSTEES.

Erlanger's Board of Trustees was placed "in the middle" of a difficult problem Wednesday night of last week, when attorneys representing Reynolds and Co., New York bond firm, announced their company would not take up the $175,000 issue of waterworks revenue bonds previously contracted for.

Ted Lewis and Gaylord Cummin, representing the Reynolds company, charged that the company had been mislead into purchasing and reselling the bonds already taken up.

They stated that misrepresentation of certain conditions by former city officials had led to a favorable opinion on the bonds and the contract between Erlanger and Reynolds and Co. The "value and validity" of the bonds has been impaired since the truth was learned about the present set-up, Reynolds' representatives said.

The financial condition of the town was not accurately set forth before the contract was signed, and mis-statements were made concerning the ownership of a 12-inch water main along the Dixie Highway in the town, according to Mr. Lewis.

A portion of the main is owned by the Kenton County Water Commission, and another portion is jointly owned by Erlanger and Elsmere.

Erlanger officials declared that Reynolds' Kentucky representative had had ample opportunity to discover the actual condition of the town. The true condition was actually known by the Reynolds representative, Erlanger officials added.

The city will go to court to seek to force the bond company to carry out the contract. after official notification has been received in writing from the company that it will not carry out the contract, it was said.

Several construction companies, engaged to do the construction work on the Erlanger plant, will have recourse against the town, it was reported, in the event that the water plant construction is not carried out.

Shower Given Miss Mary Louise Renaker Monday

Miss Nell Martin's home in Burlington, was the scene of a beautiful shower Monday afternoon, given in honor of Miss Mary Louise Renaker, bride elect of Dr. William McVey Townsend.

Soon after two o'clock guests began to arrive and found a house decorated in every room with seasonal flowers. Assisting Miss Martin in receiving was her sister, Mrs. A. L. Furnish, of Golden Pond, who is visiting her.

When practically eighty-five persons had arrived, a small group at a time was ushered into the dining room where they were served with punch and homemade petit fours iced in pastel colors. From the chandalier in the center of the room pink and white streamers were draped to the corners of the lace covered table, where pink and white umbellas held pastel mints. A bouquet of white lilacs, a toy bride and groom, and antique punch bowl, and plates of cake were found under the canopy formed by the streamers. Pink candles were burning in crystal holders, and a profusion of ferns and spring flowers completed the picture of sheer beauty.

After all were served, they returned to the living room to see the opening of the many attractively wrapped packages. Miss Renaker was assisted in this pleasant task by Mrs. Milburn V. Mills, and Mrs. Britton Monroe. When all were opened, the room seemed to be filled with lovely presents, and these were left on display for several hours, so that anyone who was unable to be present in the afternoon, could have the opportunity of seeing them that night.

Gypsies Hold Celebration Near Walton

Kenton County Patrolmen Harry Nuxoll and Thomas Young advanced the theory last week that a celebration over the death of a member of a band of gypsies was the cause of a reported slaying in a tourist camp two miles south of Walton in the early morning hours.

The officers were summoned after two young girls had gone to another tourist camp a short distance from the one where the shooting was alleged to have occurred, and reported the affair. The girls told Mrs. George Ruth, operator of the other camp, that "our baby sister has been killed."

It is customary for gypsies to hold celebrations on the occasion of a death.

PHOSPHATE AVAILABLE

TO ALL FARMERS IN AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION PROGRAM, SAYS H. R. FORKNER, COUNTY AGENT.

TVA phosphate, testing 47 percent, is available toll farmers in the Agricultural Conservation Program on terms similar to those of last year, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Farmers are urged to take advantage of the phosphate offer immediately as the supply was exhausted by midsummer last year.

Farmers this year may secure up to 80 percent of their 1938 ACP soil building allowance in lieu of cash payments for soil building practices carried out. The farmer, in securing his phosphate, agrees to use it only on grass and legume crops.

The farmer receives credit for the use of phosphate at approximately the same rate it is charged against his earnings. The only cash outlay to the farmer is the freight and handling charge at the time of delivery at the railroad station. This cost will be approximately $7.25 per ton.

Phosphate on carefully checked demonstration work in Boone County has increased grass and clover yields approximately 91.8 percent. Lime and phosphate together increased yields an average of 251 percent with still more favorable increases where phosphate, lime and a light covering of manure were used.

The profitable returns secured from phosphate on most farms with the possibility the supply may be exhausted again by mid-summer makes it important that every farmer should file his request immediately. His request should include not only his phosphate needs for this spring but also for this fall. Farmers should also plan for their limestone needs at the earliest possible date. Applications for 75 percent phosphate may be filed any week day between the hours of 8:00 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. at the county agent's office in Burlington.

Leaders attending the training class will go back to their local clubs and hold a special meeting for those interesting in making gloves. Chamois gloves are made at the first class at an average cost of fifty cents.

FERRYMAN IS DROWNED

LOSES BALANCE IN ATTEMPT TO THROW ROPE TO SHORE—HAD OWNED LAWRENCEBURG FERRY ONE YEAR.

John Lloyd Cox, age 31, operator of the Lawrenceburg ferry, was drowned late Tuesday afternoon in the Ohio river, about 20 feet from the Kentucky Shore.

According to his brother, William, who owns half interest in the ferry, and who was on the boat at the time, John was attempting to throw a large rope to the shore as the boat landed, when he lost his balance and fell into the water. The current on this side of the river is very swift at this point, and the victim tried to swim to a nearby float about thirty feet down the river from the landing. Under ordinary circumstances, it would have been very easy for anyone to swim that distance, but the water was cold and the victim was wearing a pair of hip boots that hindered his progress.

One of the helpers on the ferry rushed to his rescut with a motor boat, but only got within about ten feet of him when he disappeared beneath the surface and never was seen again. Shortly after he went down, a package of cigarettes and his wallet came to the surface of the water. It was said that if a rowboat had been available he could have been reached in time, as it required a short time to start the motorboat.

A large group of workers labored faithfully all night, but to no avail. Wednesday morning the body was found at 9:00 o'lock by the workmen, who were dragging the river with chains. The body was found fifty feet down stream from where he fell from the ferry.

Mr. Cox is survived by his mother, Mrs. Cordelia Cox and one brother, William.

Funeral arrangements had not been made as we go to press Wednesday at 1:00 p. m.

AN APRIL FREEZE

Uncle Sam has not had time to make a complete survey of the damage done fruit and other vegetation by the recent April snow and ice storm which swept over the entire Middlewest and a large part of the western area, but since the advance discussion of it is not widespread and newspapers in but few sections actually report death-dealing conditions there appears no reason why housewives should start worrying for fear they are in for a poor preserving year. This much is known for sure—the great volume of the fruit crop in this country is not far enough along the first week in April to be wiped out. It may be a total loss in a few sections, but it seems safe to assert that the great bulk of it wintered the storm and will, with the help which old Mother Nature always renders in the niche of time, be in abundance. That canning bridge is still another one that need not be crossed until you get to it.

THE DANGEROUS AGE

The enormous increase in crime among the teen-age boys of this country, as shown by statistics gathered over the past few years has revealed a situation that is as great an indictment against adults as it is against the boys.

The teen-age boy is no worse by nature than he was 25, 50 or 100 years ago. He is exactly the same bundle of nerves, energy and animal spirit, subject to the same powerful and bewildering urges. But he is living in a different world than existed a half-century ago. And a large part of our adult population has failed to realize that this different environment for youth calls for different treatment of youth.

For one reason or another, the home and the school have in many ways failed to measure up to their new responsibilities to youth. This realization is coming to towns, the same as it is to the larger cities. Proof of this is to be found in the fast-growing agencies to direct boys' play through such organizations as the Boy Scouts, through organized sports, through better playgrounds. Smaller towns are commencing to get these things now, and it is interesting to note that the greatest percentage of increase in the Boy Scouts last year was in the smaller towns and villages of the country. There is need now for more men who will interest themselves in directing the teen-age boy's energies in the right direction. We know of no more helpful thing to which any local man could turn his hand and as much of his time as he can conveniently spare.

QUIT POSTPONING

Weather changes are always somewhat indefinite, and waiting on them to become 100 percent perfect before starting spring house cleaning almost always results in delays that make the job harder in the long. Somehow it seems that the women who take chances on the weather and get at it regardless always find the task lightest. And always the ones who, as a result of it, always have the most leisure time. No matter how clean any woman may keep her house and premises, there is always something to be done in the way of cleaning and brightening up at this season. Paint, and paper and whitewash do not stay bright forever; they must be removed every so often. Winter brings trash and rubbish to yards and alleys, no matter what size town one resides in. But nothing is to be gained by using the weather as a schedule for removing it. Spring is officially here by the calendar. That means it's time to do spring cleaning, and it also means that those who get at the job without further delay will be rewarded by having more leisure time later on, possibly when they need it most.

WHY DO WOMEN WORK?

At some time or another during the past half-dozen years possibly almost every male citizen has found himself aksing why so many women and girls are at work while the male unemployment rolls have mounted into the millions. Much criticism has accompanied the query, the old belief that "women's place is in the home" still prevailing.

Now reliable figures are available as to why women work, and local readers will be interested in them. In a group of 12,000 higher paid women workers, with an average income of $1,300 a year, less than 10 percent of the number had no dependents. One out of every three supported households ranging from two to seven persons. In the lower paid group, girls averaging about $950 a year, two out of every three reported they were virtually the sole support of at least one other person than themselves. If the surveys resulting in these figures are to be taken in a real cross- section of the millions of women gainfully employed in this country, then it is evident that the great bulk of our women workers get their jobs because they have to do so. They are the sole support of themselves and others dependent on them.

The common idea that most women work because they want "pin money" with which to procure more clothes and more luxuries does not hold up under this new survey. The one prime answer to why they work seems to be: "Because they have to."

THE HOBO'S RETURN

It won't be long now until the hobo will answer the call of his mate and rural residents will again lose heavily in farm vegetables and poultry. The hobo army is greasing up its dilapidated flivvers preparatory to bumming enough gasoline money to "hit the road"—roaming all over the countryside, living off of somebody else. They don't ride the freight trains any more, to amount to anything. They find their transportation problems more easily solved if they can get hold of an old rattle-trap auto. Besides, with the auto, they can steal what they need and get into another county in less time and with smaller chance of detection. There will be the usual number of them in this section for the next several months to come, so our advice for residents is to make it so unwelcome for the first few that come through that it will get to the others that this is pretty good territory to stay out of.

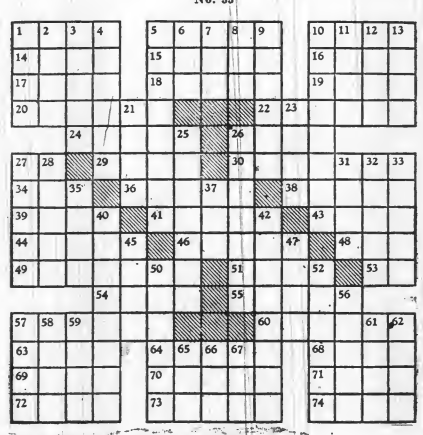
INDUSTRY MOVES



Industry is moving to the south and west at a rapid pace, according to close observers. Ten years ago textile factories began leaving the east for southern locations. Today the movement is not confined to textile mills; factories of many kinds are now joining in the move.

Lower wages, reduced living cost lighter taxation and freedom from labor union troubles are declared to be back of this movement. It is noticeable that in choosing new locations the factories are avoiding the large centers of population. Industry decided years ago that concentration in and around the big cities of many manufacturing concerns is detirmental to both themselves and the country.

This decision, and the results now evident in carrying it out, are going to mean much to towns all over America. It is bound to result eventually in a decrease in size and importance of the big cities of the country and the growth of our smaller towns and cities as industrial centers. The southern states, for instance, already have shown plenty of proof of this. The growth of towns between 1,000 and 5,000 has been remarkable through the south in the past 10 years. Will these towns not become the fair-sized cities of the next 10 years? No, say the wise ones. Industry has learned its lesson. It prefers to do business in many small towns rather than in one large city. Not only is this seemingly the wisest way for industry, but best for the American people.

RECEIVING VISION FOR SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:2-10.
GOLDEN TEXT—This is my beloved Son: hear him.—Mark 9:7.
PRIMARY TOPIC—On a Mountain with Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—With Jesus on a Mountain Top.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Place and Purpose of Vision.

"Where there is no vision the people perish" said the wise man of old (Prov. 29:18). For want of a true vision of God, a knowledge of His truth, and the God-given constraint which makes men give themselves in sacrificial service, the people will perish in their sins. But let men come to know the truth as it is in Christ, learn to know Him as the Son of God glorious and powerful, and then let them translate their knowledge of Christian truth and their personal spiritual experiences into the daily ministry to the needs of their fellow-men, and there will be songs of salvation and joy.

The transfiguration of our Lord meant much to Him as it brought new assurance of His divine Sonship, His acceptance with the Father, and His resurrection to follow the death of the cross. We do well to recognize its testimony to Him, but we think today especially of the experience of the disciples and their preparation for service. We, like them, must

I. Know Christian Truth.

Fundamental in both Christian life and service is a clear understanding of the person and work of Christ. One may come to Christ knowing little more than that He is the divine Savior, and one may enter into Christian living with a meager knowledge of the doctrines of the Bible. But the Christian who fails to grow in knowledge will not grow in grace as he should.

The disciples came to a fuller conviction that He was the Son of God as they saw Him transfigured and heard the Father say, "This is my beloved Son." They learned more plainly the truth of His coming death for the sins of all mankind. They saw in the indescribable beauty of that moment the foregleam of His coming glory. What important truths these are—His deity—His redemption—His coming kingship. Do we have a clear grasp of these truths?

II. Experience Spiritual Power.

Great experiences of spiritual renewing and power are necessary to effective life and testimony. They may not be in outward manifestation, in fact they are more often in the inner recesses of the soul, but they transform men and send them forth to magnificent living for God.

The disciples had an unforgettable mountain-top experience. Even so have many others found the secret of power. It came to D. L. Moody as he walked down a New York street, praying in agony, "Deliver me from myself. Take absolute sway." The story of what happened to him and through him as a surrendered instrument in God's hand is written large on the pages of history. Others had similar experiences. Let us remember that such privileges are not reserved for a few, they are the birthright of every Christian. Power without knowledge is a dangerous and destructive thing, but knowledge without power is a dead thing, resulting in a stale and unfruitful orthodoxy that in turn produces a dreadful and unchristian religious system. It is not enough to know the truth, to be able to discuss it, to divide it, and possibly to fight about it. Let us study God's Word, but let the truth be baptized in the overflowing spiritual power of a personal experience with God.

III. Serve Needy Humanity.

Dr. Moore beautifully suggests that Jesus and the disciples went up to the place of prayer, into the place of glory, and down to the place of service. How fitting is that sequence. Much confusion exists in the church because those who have foolishly abandoned their interest in the truth of God's Word and have substituted the energy of the flesh for spiritual power, have been most diligent in service to humanity, while those who know and accept the truth about Christ, and who profess to believe in the power of the Spirit-filled life have failed to serve their needy neighbors. How delightful and useful is the normal, well-rounded life of the true Christian, one equipped with an understanding of Christian doctrine, endued with Holy Ghost power, and humbly serving others.

Warren William As Napoleon's Aid In "Firefly"

Jeanette MacDonald has added Warren William to her list of willing victims in the new M-G-M musical hit coming three nights, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, April 27, 28, 29 to the Gayety Theater, Erlanger.

The occasion was the filming of "The Firefly," adaptation of the famous Otto Harbach-Rudolph Friml opertta, in which Miss MacDonald, in the title role, is supported by Allen Jones and Warren William, the latter in the role of Col. Julian de Rougemont, staff aide of Napoleon.

The setting was a Bayonne cafe of the year 1808, replesndent in all the gold paint, scroll work and brightly colored drapes of the period, its balcony booths reminiscent of opera house boxes, its floor covering half of an immense sound stage.

Sunday and Monday

That there will be no "boner' regarding life at Annapolis as pictured in "Navy Blue and Gold," coming to the Gayety Theater Sunand Monday with Robert Young, James Stewart, Lionel Barrymore, Florence Rice, Billie Burke and Tom Brown heading a stellar cast, is guaranteed by the fact that the picture was observed in the making by no less than four ranking naval officers.

In order to outwit her he masquerades as a dashing young widow and is employed by Professor Boyd as her governess.

In attempting to conceal his identity, many hilarious scenes are depicted.

Commencement activities begin this week. Thursday and Friday nights the Senior class will present Edward Eggleston's famous Hoosier Schoolmaster. You may recall that two years ago the graduating class presented "David Copperfield" while last year "Tom Sawyer" was given. "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" is a novel of school teaching in the Flat Crick Deestrick of Southern Indiany, in the year 1872. Pluck and ready wit, as well as book-learning, were essentials—particularly if the schoolmaster was young, inexperienced and not of prizefighter build.

Included in the scenes there is the spelling bee at the schoolhouse; family life in the Mean's home, a snatch of a sermon by the "hard shell" preacher, the amusing and thrilling trial scene; and finally the happy ending in the home of Hannah's mother. Don't forget the dates, April 21 and 22.

Baccalaureate services will be eld at the Hebron church on April 24. Rev. Drake, of Francesville and Bullittsville Baptist churches will deliver the sermon.

Commencement exercises will be held Tuesday evening, April 26th at the school auditorium. There are 26 members of the graduating class. thirteen boys and thirteen girls. You are cordially invited to all of the school activities.

TWO NEGROES ARE ARRESTED

ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE —LOCAL AUTHORITIES FIND GAMBLING EQUIPMENT VALUED AT $1,000.00

James Hickenson and Frank Baines, colored truck drivers, were arrested Monday afternoon on U. S. Highway 42 by State patrolman Winterburg, and brought before County Judge N. E. Riddell on a reckless driving charge.

They were tried and found guilty as charged, and were fined $19.50. Local authorities made an investigation of the contents of the truck and found it to contain two gambling tables that were valued at approximately $1,000.00, and a small lot of men's and ladies' clothing. The pair said they were transporting the gambling tables from Newport to Indiana. Upon an order from Judge Riddell, the two tables were confiscated and stored in the County garage, Burlington, until they could be destroyed. The truck and the remainder of the merchandise were relased as soon as the fine was paid.

Patrolman Winterburg reports that he has made several other arrests in the past few days, one being a Mr. Beatty, of Jonesville, Ky., on a charge of reckless driving. Mr. Beatty was arrested at the White Villa Cafe, near the Boone-Kenton line late Monday afternoon.

TAKE NO SIDES CLUBS ADVISED

RESOLUTIONS PROHIBITS ANY OFFICER OR MEMBER FROM PLEDGING SUPPORT TO ANY CANDIDATE IN PRIMARY.

"Hands off" was the ultimatum handed down to officers and members of the Young Men's Democratic Clubs of Kentucky regarding the Democratic senatorial race of Gov. A. B. Chandler and U. S. Sen. Alben W. Barkley.

The Executive Committee of the State Young Democratic Club, in session last Friday afternoon at the Glenn Hotel, Newport, passed a resolution which prohibits any officer of the state or local club or any club member from pledging support or indorsing any candidates in a Democratic primary election.

Any club officer or member who shall attempt to pledge his club's support to any candidate in a primary election shall automatically forfeit his right of membership and shall be expelled from the club," the resolution states.

A personal poll of those state officers attending the conference indicated 90 per cent would throw their individual support to Gov. Chandler. The majority of the officers, however, hold some position under the Chandler administration.

Walter Ferguson, Union, who is the Young Democratic Chairman for the fifth Congressional District and J. P. Brothers, Limaburg, President of the Boone County Club, represented our County at the meeting.

Renaker, Burlington, Ky., on Monday evening, April 25, the marriage of their only daughter, Mary Louise, to Dr. William McVey Townsend, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Townsend, Union, was solemnized by the Reverend Hilton Augustus Windley, pastor of the Christian church at Maysville. Only the closest relatives of the bride and groom were present at the ceremony, but afterward a reception was held for more than two hundred friends.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Milburn Verner Mills (Elizabeth Hensley), Florence; Miss Dorothy Nell Furnish, Golden Pond; and Miss Elizabeth Shelby Eaton, Louisville. Dr. Townsend had as his best man Mr. Milburn Verner Mills. Ushers were Messrs M. C. Townsend, Union, brother of the groom; N. L. Royse, Falmouth; Frank Allen Gibson, Mt. Healthy, Ohio; and Robert Bernard Hensley, Frankfort.

Before the ceremony Mrs. Frank Allen Gibson rendered appropriate selections on the piano, and at eight o'clock began the wedding march which started the procession. The four ushers led the way into the library, followed by Miss Furnish, wearing hyacinth blue marquisette, and Miss Eaton wearing daffodil yellow marquisette. Mrs. Mills, wearing flesh lace, entered alone. Then followed the bride, wearing white lace and fingertip veil, leaning on the arm of her father. The procession advanced to the altar fashioned of garden flowers, where the groom was waiting with his best man and the minister.

After the ceremony, performed in soft candle light, the bride and groom turned to receive the members of the family present, and then went into the living room to greet the guests arriving for the reception.

Dr. and Mrs. Townsend did not disclose their destination, but left on their wedding trip the same evening. After their return, May 15, they will live in Falmouth, Ky., where Dr. Townsend is established in practice.

Hager Addresses Utopia Members

A. L. Hager, landscape architect, Ft. Mitchell, advised Boone County Utopia Club members Thursday night that most of the Boone County farm homes could be made beautiful at very little cost. Landscaping the farm home according to a definite plan, will not only bring greater satisfaction to the owner but will increase the value of the farm property.

Mr. Hager addressed the members at the regular April meeting held at Burlington last Thursday evening. This is the third address he has made to the club in the last six years. His address was most interesting an instructive and was appreciated by every one attending the meeting.

The Utopia Club held a recreational hour following the business meeting. C. W. Jones, Field Agent in older boys' and girls' club work, led the club in a series of old time folk games that were enjoyed by all. The next meeting of the Utopia Club will be held at Burlington, Thursday evening, May 19th.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Freeman spent several days in Covington attending his stepbrothers funeral, who died Monday morning. They spent Wednesday with her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Lewis, of Owenton, Ky.

Farmers Urged To Order Their Phosphate Now

Farmers are urged to order their ACP phosphate needs on their ACP soil building allowance now, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

Several car load orders have already been made by many Boone County farmers. It takes several days to receive a car shipment after it is ordered. Farmers should also order their fall phosphate now because the present supply will likely be exhausted before next fall.

Farmers desiring to get phosphate to carry out soil building practices may receive up to 80 per cent of their allowance in lieu of cash payments. The only cash charge is the freight and handling charge when the fertilizer is delivered. The county agent's office is glad to take your application on any week day between hours of 8 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

Mary Lou Jones carried away the honors with swinging renditions of "Mary Lou" and "I Double Dare You." The Girls of the Golden West, won loud and continued applause with two selections of Western songs sung sweetly and plaintitively. Comedy relief of high caliber was furnished by Garland Huff as Uncle Ezry, a number of the school P.-T. A. in a burlesque of the schools of the Gay Nineties; Noel Walton and Kathryn Carroll in Clown Hall News and Velma Lee as Aunt Ida.

WOOL SACKS DELIVERED

TO FOUR DIFFERENT SECTIONS OF COUNTY—11,000 FLEECES EXPECTED TO BE SOLD THRU WOOL POOL THIS YEAR.

The Boone County Wool Pool, the first of this week supplied wool growers 425 sacks at four convenient points in the county, according to H. E. White, president of the County Pool. Both sacks and strings are available at the following places:

Lusby's store, Walton.
Hebron Bank, Hebron.
Tanner's Feed Store, Florence.
Gulley and Pettit's Store, Burlington.

There are approximately 14,000 mature sheep in Boone County, the fleeces of around 11,000 of which are sold each year through the County Pool. Growers will meet at Burlington next court day, May 2, to set the date the clip will be offered for sale. The clip is usually sold the first of June, and received and paid for by the buyer at Walton, Burlington and Petersburg, three convenient places in the county.

The pool supplies sacks to all growers at a charge of 35 cents per sack. The grower in turn receives 35 cents back if he delivers his wool and sack in good shape. Because these sacks are handled at a slight loss, only growers who expect to pool their wool are urged to buy them.

Growers who have not pooled their wool are urged to do so immediately. The listing with the local committee the approximate number of fleeces to be sold is all that is necessary. Local committeemen who will be glad to receive your list are as follows: Carton, Orville Kelley; Verona, Walter Johnson; Beaver, J. W. Conley; Walton, B. W. Franks; Union, Ezra Blankenbeker; Petersburg, Charles Stevens; Hebron, C. S. Riddell, Constance, L. D. McGlasson; Burlington, H. E. White; Grant, Lillard Scott.

SINE GROCERY ROBBED FRIDAY

LOOT IS SMALL AS THIEVES ARE FRIGHTENED BY NEIGHBOR'S GUN—SEVERAL WITNESS ENTIRE AFFAIR.

Several residents of Florence had the privilege of witnessing a robbery from beginning to end last Friday morning when thieves entered Sine's grocery store and escaped with only a small lot of merchandise.

The auto, a large red sedan with a cardboard in the window, had been seen in Florence earlier in the night, according to several persons, but no one had suspicioned anything wrong until Mr. Stanley Lucas was aroused about 2:30 a. m. by a car stopping in front of Sine's grocery store opposite his home.

Two of the three occupants got out of the car and gained entrance to the store by forcing a front window with a screwdriver. The sheriffs were called, but they had previously been called to Florence to settle a quarrel at one of the saloons and were on their way home when they were called. Mr. Lucas, in the meantime, had fired several shots into the air and the robbers made their getaway before the officials arrived.

Local authorities searched until 10:00 a. m. the following morning for the car, but were unable to locate the car or thieves. The state highway patrol was also notified and given the description of the car.

The loot consisted of several cartons of cigarettes and a lot of tobacco and candy. Boxes had already been arranged to pack the canned goods, but they were frightened by the shots fired by Mr. Lucas and did not take anything except what they could carry in their arms.

8954 CATTLE ARE TESTED

11.8 PERCENT REACTED TO DISEASE ACCORDING TO REPORT OF DR. W. F. BILES, FEDERAL INSPECTOR.

Eleven and eight tenths percent or 1059 of the 8954 cattle tested for Bang's disease in 864 Boone County herds up to March 31st reacted to Bang's disease, according to the April 20th report of Dr. W. F. Biles, Federal Inspector in charge of Bang's disease elimination work in Kentucky. These cattle were tested by Dr. Kenneth Ryle, veterinarian of Burlington, who has done a splendid job of testing herds in the county.

The report shows that since the starting of testing on July 1, 1934, a state total of 488,892 cattle have been tested with 31,626 head or 6.5 percent reacting.

Bang's disease causes more loss in dairy cows than any other single disease. It is a disease that can not be cured by medical treatment. The federal Bang's disease elimination project gives the farmer an opportunity to have his cows tested free of charge. The government in turn pays up to $25.00 for grade and $50.00 for purebred animals that react and do not bring the full appraised value when sold for beef. The farmer is thus, in most cases, paid the full appraised value for reactors and is able to build up a herd free from this devastating and dangerous disease.

KITE DANGERS

To the average boy a kite is nothing more than a few sticks and some paper and twine. It appears on the surface of it to be just about the most innocent toy ever invented. And yet, newspapers in various parts of the country have found it necessary to issue warnings to kite flyers, especially since several fatalities have resulted from it. The kite, so long as it consists of only paper, sticks and string is not dangerous. It is when a few feet of wire to form the frame, or a light strip of copper to help form the tail are added that the kite becomes dangerous, and the danger is traveling in every electric wire that runs above the head of the boy who is flying the kite. Coming in contact with a "live wire," the kite that contains metal of any sort becomes a conductor of electricity, and if it happens to be a high-tension wire enough electricity can be carried down through the kite string to kill. Children are not expected to know this, and the kite-flying season is at hand parents should see that they are cautioned without delay.

IT SOUNDS QUEER

Wisconsin's new law to prevent on week-ends and holidays is going to be watched all over the country. It will come as a surprise to motorists to be told that instead of entering a protest against the new law the big trucking companies actually are welcoming it, so there will be no opposition from that source, queer as it may sound. They contend they can, by shifiting schedules, get the most necessary part of their freight in the clear in time to observe the week-end as a holiday. They say it will provide more time for overhauling and needded repairs, and that means a saving of money. It will mean shorter driving hours, and that means their drivers will always be in better condition. And their damage suits will dwindle because most of their accidents are said to be over the week-ends. So the balance of the country is watching what promises to be one of the most advanced steps toward safety taken in this country in a long time.

A LONG STEP

Congress has passed and the president has signed the new housing bill, and it is now up to every citizen who is anxious to secure a home on the lowest and easiest possible terms ever devised to get busy and learn all about it.

The purpose of the measure is to make possible vastly increased business in the building of modest homes by government financing and at the same time provide work for the huge army of building trades workers. The new plan is attractive and its possibilities are great. It's invitation is extended principally to residents of the smaller towns of the country, for the present law gives little attention to a continuation of slum clearance. There is one thing that Uncle Sam will have to bear in mind, however. When a man invests $500 or $600 in a new home, and undertakes to pay the balance in the next 20 years, he must have some confidence in the future. If he is a working man, he must feel that his job is secure; if he is a small merchant, he must believe that business is not going to be hedged about with so many restrictions that he cannot continue.

Congress has taken a long step forward by creating and passing this new bill providing for more and better and cheaper homes. How it can help this nation-wide program to become still more effective by creating a confidence in the future that is absolutely necessary to make the whole setup a success.

A FINE INVESTMENT ALWAYS

There's no excuse for anyone with a plot of ground large enough for growing vegetables not having a garden, and no matter what the weather conditions are at this moment, it is not too late to start one that will prove a fine investment before the coming summer is over. Not only is it a good investment, but a garden affords healthy and wholesome exercise, and since many people fail to get a sufficient amount of exercise it may also prove economical from still another standpoint—it may save doctor bills. But it is the satisfaction of having fresh, home-grown products for the dinner table, right out of your own garden instead of out of your pocket, that stamps a garden as worthwhile. We know it is pretty hard to keep from "burning out" under the hot suns that will come later on, and it takes a lot of fighting to lick the weeds. But there is always more genuine pleasure in doing something hard than something easy—and that is just one more of the many reasons why the man or woman who is not garden-minded is losing out on a fine investment.

ALWAYS DANGER

Regardless of season, there is always enough inflammable material in the fields and forests and along the roadsides of this country to make the flipping of matches and cigarette stubs dangerous. While the danger of forest fire is greater in some sections in winter than in other sections, the fact remains that in no section is the danger wholly absent, regardless of month or weather conditions. Citizens who follow their daily papers closely know this because they have read of heavy damage in several parts of the country in recent weeks as the result of carelessly tossed matches or cigarette or cigar stubs. A camp containing more than 300 fine trailers and sheltering more than 600 people had a narrow escape from destruction, and perhaps great loss of life only a few weeks ago. So no matter what season of the year we must keep on being careful. Make sure the match or cigarette you toss carelessly away is extinguished before it leaves your hand. It may take a moment of time to do this, but what time compared with what may result through your failure to do so.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

In cases where acid or lime gets into the eye try allowing 1 teaspoon of vinegar or lemon jusice to a glass of water to flow into and over the eye. One tablespoon of baking soda to a glass of warm water can be used for relief in the same manner when the eye has been affected by acid. Follow by irrigating the eye with a tablespoon, or even a teaspoonful of sweet oil to soothe it. If the burrn appears to be on the pupil, consult a physician at once.

Lesson for May 1

FOLLOWING VISION WITH SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:14-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—All things are possible to him that believeth.—Mark 9:23.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When Only Jesus Could Help.
JUNIOR TOPIC—At the Foot of the Mountain.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Living Up to Our Knowledge of Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Following Vision with Service.

One of the lessons that seems hard to learn and to keep constantly effective in the life of a Christian is that mountain-top experiences of spiritual uplift are not an end in themselves but a preparation for service. All too often we come to regard such times of peculiar blessing, whether in the privacy of our own room, or in the great conference of Christian workers, as something which should glow warmly in our own hearts, making us glad in the Lord, and not as a background and preparation for ministry to others. One might just as well hope to feed the physical body constantly without any work or exercise and keep in good health, as to feed the soul on good things, do nothing for God or fellow-man, and still avoid what someone has called "spiritual dyspepsia."

The writer has just attended a most unusual and blessed Bible conference, the leaders of which rightly apprehended this truth. Evangelism was the matter chiefly in mind, but instead of announcing the theme of the week's meetings as "Evangelism" the program presented it as "Preparation for Evangelism." That is sound spiritual sense. We came not to discuss evangelism itself so much as to prepare ourselves to go out and evangelize. God help us to do it!

Jesus rightly characterized the time in which he lived as

I. A Faithless Generation (vv. 14-19).

"Jesus found in the valley disputing scribes, a distracted father, a demon-possessed boy, and defeated disciples." The unbelief which called forth the rebuke of Jesus "is revealed in different phases. There were the scribes, willful and persistent unbelief; there was the father, unwilling unbelief; there was the boy, irresponsible unbelief; and there were the disciples, unconscious unbelief. The whole atmosphere was an unbelieving atmosphere" (Morgan).

As we look at that depressing picture of long ago, let us consider ourselves lest we also be tempted to "limit God" by our faithlessness. The most casual reader of Scripture cannot help but see that God seeks out and honors faith, and as we begin to study God's Word with care we realize that the fundamental of all fundamentals is really to believe God. Some Christian men and women are living out a tremendous testimony for God by fully believing Him and His Word, but many of those who profess to follow Him actually make Him appear ridiculous before the world because their unbelief makes Him out to be a "small" God instead of the infinite, eternal, omnipotent God.

II. The All-Powerful Saviour (vv. 23-27).

The keynote of our first division might well have been the sad words "they could not" in verse 18. But now the Son of God has come and the new keynote is the inspiring words of verse 23, "all things are possible to him that believeth." There is no problem too difficult for our Lord; there is no sorrow too deep for His comfort; there is no challenging opportunity too great for His enabling power.

III. Prayer the Connecting Link (vv. 28, 29).

The disciples in chagrin at their inability to deal with the difficulty of the demon-possessed boy, having witnessed the power of Christ in delivering him, begin now to realize that evidently even though unconscious of it, they had come into the powerless position of unbelief.

What a solemn warning there is for us in the experience of these followers of the Lord. Like the termites who destroy the very life and strength of wood—and yet leave it apparently whole, only to crumble in dust when it is put under the pressure of daily use—there are spiritually destructive influences which all but unconsciously destroy the virile strength of the Christian. Prayerlessness is the most effective weapon of Satan at this point. Without prayer there is no power. Real problems are not successfully met nor are opportunities grasped "but by prayer."

The objectives this year are:

1. To give each individual an invitation to attend Sunday School.

2. To stimulate all Sunday Schools to greater activity.

3. To advertise to the community that the Sunday School is for all ages and to bring into the schools as many new pupils as the churches are able to teach.

4. To impress upon the church a larger sense of its opportunity and responsibility in the Sunday School.

5. To unite the Sunday School people of Kentucky in a definite program to "Reach All For Christ; Teach All Of Christ; and Bring All to Christ."

We, heartily endorse this movement and extend an invitation to all to attend Sunday School May 1.

The easy roads are crowded
And the level roads are jammed;
The pleasant little rivers
With the drifting folks, are crammed.

But off yonder where it's rocky,
Where you get a better view
You'll find the ranks are thinning
And the travelers are few.
Where the going's smooth and pleasant
You will always find the throng,
For the many, more's the pity
Seem to like to drift along.
But the steps that try men's courage,
And the task that's hard to do,
In the end result in glory.
For the never wavering few.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

It's Spring in Kentucky—the thundering hoofs of the thoroughbreds are a symphony of the sweetest music to all Kentuckians. In the early morning on these soft spring days, the stable boys gallop sleek horses over blue grass terrain, preparing them for future battles on the track.

Last week, "Keenland" the model race track of the world, opened its spring racing season, and the Derby is not far off. This gala sport event of the country, early indications show, will be run before a record breaking crowd, with the fastest and most scintillating field ever entered in the Derby.

Governor Chandler put aside his executive duties last week to welcome big league baseball to the Capitol city and threw the first ball of the game past Joe Moore for a strike. The New York "Giants" and the Cleveland "Indians," played an exhibition game here, sponsored by the Lions Club, for their milk fund.

The Kentucky Safety Council met here, in Frankfort, and heard a proposal from Major W. B. Hansen, Council secretary, that the State Highway Patrol, should be put under a merit system and kept out of politics. The Council is doing great work in the effort to make the highways of Kentucky safe. They were instrumental in getting a new automobile driver's license law passed at the General Assembly, and after the second of June, all new applicants for drivers licenses will be required to pass tests on their ability to drive and their knowledge of driving regulations.

The deadline for filing income tax reports was passed last Friday, with almost three million dollars revenue paid to the treasure from this source. A new law permitting the tax to be paid on the installment plan, was a life saver to many who are taking advantage of it. For this reason the exact income tax revenue for the past fiscal year is as yet uncertain.

Frank D. Peterson, director of accounts and control in the Department of Finance, warned some of the departments of state government, that they are making expenditures that will exceed legislative appropriations, unless they curtail their spending. He suggested that they reduce salaries or dispense with the services of some of their employees, in order to stay within their appropriation.

The inauguration of an annual "Dog Wood" festival, beginning in April 1939 at the "Mammoth Cave" is being planned by officials. Virginia has its apple blossom festival, Michigan it's tulip time and Kentucky can certainly profit by a "Dogwood" festival. It will bring increased revenues from wanderlust victims of the Spring fever bug who would travel from afar to see it.

Random Shots—A contract was let last week, by the Highway department, for the construction of 7.1 miles of road in Fayette county, between Versailles and Lexington at a cost of $772,984.84 . . . Governor designated April 15th, as "Bird Day" . . . President Roosevelt plans to visit Kentucky, sometime this summer to aid Senator Barkley, it was announced from Washington . . . The two Senatorial candidates are slated to speak on the same program at the State Convention of the Democratic Women's Clubs, in Lexington, Friday of this week. . . .The road fund receipts for the last fiscal year were $18,860,039 while the expenditures were $19,339,499, not including toll bridge change advances . . . Dr. A. T. McCormick, State Health Official announced in Washington that there are over 99,000 cases of syphilis in Kentucky and that it would cost at least $2,000,000.00 a year to adequately cope with this alarming situation.

The Wilderness trail ran twisting through Kentucky—evading the swamps and the hills, winding innumerable miles to cover small distances, because time was measured by sunrise and sunset and our pioneer ancestors were more interested in establishing homes and guarding them against the Indians, than in building communication and transportation systems.

Time is a comparative thing, and not much of it has passed against the back ground of the ages. Since our first ancestors established their homes and trod out their wilderness trails. The navigable rivers were the first highways, easiest to travel, and time was still measured by the length of the day.

A few short years ago, wagon roads and ferrys and sometimes fords through shallow streams, had to be used by travelers in Kentucky. Now, time is counted in seconds and seems important, and broad highways tunnel or cut thru hills and cross rivers on concrete bridges, Kentucky is keeping pace with the times.

Kentucky is planning for the future in its road building program under the expert guidance of Thos. Cutler, scientifically trained at the University of Kentucky and builder of Missouri's highways and long lasting, hard surfaced rural roads. The double highway out of Louisville that has a park between the lines of opposite traffic, is a barometer of what future roads will be. This route will be open in time for Derby visitors to see the progress Kentucky is making.

As we predicted some weeks ago in this column, there will be another special session of the legislature the middle of next month. Kentucky is making an active and sincere effort, under the direction of Commissioner of Welfare Frederick A. Wallis, to give scientific treatment to mentally ill patients in state institutions.

The legislative action of the special session will be on proposals for the assignment of a number of specialists on brain disorders and psychiatry, to those asylums—the colonization of epileptics now in hospitals, and specialized treatment for various types of insanity.

The Registration and Purgation Act was declared unconstitutional last week, by Judge Humphrey, as it relates to the city of Louisville. He said that, 1. The bill repealed part of the old Model Registration law, and that this was not included in the title as required by law. 2. That is created a city office because it supervised city registration and the appointments to the board should therefore be made by the city. 3. That it fixed the pay of the three members and not for the other over the state.

Senator Gilbert, senate floor leader, said that the legislature did not see the new Registration and Purgation bill until two days before passage. He stated the bill makes brutal provision to disfranchise voters, and that the bill is so confusing that even attorneys can not agree on it.

The income tax for this fiscal year, Individual 1,767,952.71 and Corporation 1,408,749.43, is short of last years, and final figures will be around $200,000,000 less than last year. The Department of Revenue believes that the loss wasn't altogether because of depleted incomes, but that much was caused by flood losses which were deducted from this year's returns.

Random Shots: Write down another probable entry in the next Governor's race, J. E. Buckingham, State Treasurer leans that way. — The two Senatorial candidates met and shook hands last week. The occasion was the state convention of the Democratic Women's Clubs of Kentucky. Governor Chandler made a number of cracks at the Senator who confined his talk to praise of the National Administration and its program. At a business session before the speaking, the convention elected officers. Mrs. Eleanor Hume Offut holds her olifce as President until next year. Mrs. Curtis McGee, Burksville, vice president, Mrs. Albert Kaltenbrun, Frankfort recording secretary ,and Mrs. John L. Woodbury, Louisville, member from the State at large were new officers elected at the convention. Mrs. Kaltenbrun was relected for a two-year term. — The State executive committee of the Young Democratic Clubs of Kentucky adopted a resolution prohibiting their county and State officers from taking part in primary elections. This was done to prevent clubs indorsing either of the Senatorial candidates in the first primary. The club announced State headquarters will be opened at Frankfort.

IN THE LAUNDRY

If you are trying to remove spots from clothing with a cleaning fluid, it is most important to have the right sort of cloth for the job. A piece of wool or a piece of old sweater is splendid to used on dark materials as it holds the fluid and still has good resistance in the rubbing, leaving no lint. If you have a piece of nitted goods try it in your next cleaning.

There is no statute to compel an individual to trade at home but self-interest advises us to do so.

"Rosalie" Has Nine New Songs By Cole Porter

Cole Porter has put rhythm into the Army, swing into a girls' college, and a few hot licks into Europe.

In other words, he wrote the score for the first international musical, "Rosalie," the ultra-lavish musical extravaganza, co-starring Nelson Eddy and Eleanor Powell The spectacular film comes to the Gayety Theater, Wednesday and Thursday, May 4th and 5th.

Porter contributed nine numbers to the new musical, including "Close," an instrumental number. The title song, "Rosalie," is sung by Nelson Eddy as he stands outside the girls' college dormitory, singing to his love. He also sings "Who Knows," and woos Miss Powell with the ballad, "In the Still of the Night.' '

Miss Powell sings and dances to "I've a Strange New Rhythm in My Heart." Eddy is accompanied by his West Point football squad in singing "To Love or Not to Love" and "It's All Over But the Shouting."

Sunday and Monday

Proof that stars shrink during their constant work under intense studio lights has been found on a sound stage.

After six weeks work in "Man-Proof" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Myrna Loy, Rosalind Russell and Walter Pidgeon stepped upon a weight scale.

Miss Loy had lost seven pounds since the start of the picture; Miss Russell ten, and Walter Pidgeon six.

As explained by Miss Russell: "I lose weight during every picture. The only explanation I can offer is that the hot lights dehydrate our bodies and this results in weight-losing."

PETERSBURG HOMEMAKERS

ON IRONING DAY

When something prevents finishing of the ironing after you have the starched clothes dampened for ironing and the weather is hot, there is danger of them becoming mildewed if you leave them rolled. Try slipping the roll into a heavy paper bag and put in the refrigerator until you have time to iron them. They will keep indefinitely without mildewing and be in fine shape for ironing when removed.

Why is it that a woman always feel complimented when you tell her that she looks like a movie actress?

Another good idea is to park, whenever it is possible, next to a new, shiny car. The owner will back it out without scraping yours.

KITCHEN KINKS

To improve the flavor of carrots turnips, cabbage, onions and peas add a fourth of a teaspoon of sugar for each three cups of water used in cooking. Meat rubber well with vinegar before cooking is less likely to be tough. Fresh rhubarb needs little water when it is cooked as a sauce and none at all when it is used in a pie.

When the pioneers crossed the great western plains they didn't stop every 50 miles for ten gallons of gasoline and a hot-dog sandwich.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of my sister Laura Porter Huey, who died 10 months ago today, July 1, 1937.

You have mastered Life's strifes and sorrows,
Your work on earth was "Well Done;"
Up there, your vacation in Heaven
Must be wonderful for the Chosen Ones.

Your loved ones adored you and are lonesome,
This earth to them will never be the same;
And as others come to take your place,
To us, they cannot—never.

Tho some may have forgotten you,
And your loved ones hearts be broken;
Remember Laura, to us, you live forever,
And will never be forgotten.

Your sister, Mrs. Laura White

Insects Injuring Tobacco Beds

Farmers are reporting severe insect injury in tobacco plant beds, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. A number of control measures are recommended. Those measures that have given best results are as follows:

First—A tight boxed and canvassed bed gave best control.

Second—The following insecticides gave good results in the control of flea beetle injury. (a) Barium Fluosilicate dust 80 per cent strength applied at the rate of ½ pound to 100 square yards of bed gave most effective control. (b) Bordeau mixture 'liquid spray) 3-3-50 strength with 2 pounds of arsenate of lead to each 50 gallons of solution gave good results. The effectiveness of this solution was increased when 1 pint of 40 per cent nicotine sulphate was added to the 50 gallon solution.

Paris green, 1 part: lead arsenate 4 parts; and hydrated lime 1 part—when used as a dust gave fair results.

The Bordeau mixture sprayed over the beds is particularly important this year in that it is also an effective treatment for the control of Blue Mold.

Circulars on plant bed management are available at the county agent's office.

People who have a reputation for making money han dover first usually manage to keep their hands and fists over it, too.

Are Parents Obligated for Children's Visits?

DEAR Mrs. Post: What is my position regarding the parents of friends of my daughter? She is at college far away and goes home frequently with the girls whose homes are closer to the school. She sometimes mentions in her letters home that these girls' parents are going to New York on a holiday, and as we live in the environs of New York I'm wondering whether it is expected that we extend some kind of hospitality to the parents at such times.

Answer: Your real obligation is in encouraging her to invite these girls home with her when they have longer recesses or perhaps to let her ask them to come between school terms when they can stay longer. But why don't you ask her whether she wants you to show particular hospitality to the parents she knows especially well, and what she suggests. She knows what type of people they are and whether they have friends in New York, or on the other hand, whether they are going as strangers or whether the mothers are likely to be alone while their husbands attend to business, or just what the individual situations are.

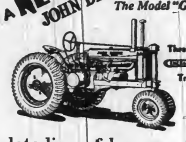
Note Is Mandatory.



DEAR Mrs. Post: A man I know spent a week-end at my married brother's house. My sister-in-law had let me ask him so that my visit would be more pleasant. She and my brother certainly put themselves out to entertain us. I feel that the least my friend can do is write her a note, which I happen to know he hasn't done. Is there a way I could remind him to write her, because his thoughtlessness certainly puts me in a bad light?

Answer: I can think of nothing else to do except say to him, "I hate to ask you to write another one, but my sister-in-law never got your letter." Then he will probably say, "What letter?" and you answer, "Why, didn't you write and say anything for that pleasant week-end we had?" And that is that!

"If Cigarettes Could Talk"

they would tell a story of a great American industry . . . In 1492 upon reaching America the Columbus crew noticed natives smoking rolls of dried tobacco. When the Spaniards landed in Mexico in 1519 natives were cultivating tobacco with great care and skill. Cartier, upon discovering Canada, found Indians drying leaves in the sun.

John Rolfe, at Jamestown in 1612, is credited with the culture of tobacco, but it actually did not begin in Maryland until 1631.

Tobacco manufacturers have spent millions in scientific research to improve their products. Utmost care has been taken in the selection of the right crops. Tobacco industry for many years has used newspaper advertising to increase sales and put out a better product at lower cost.

Cigarettes and tobacco are no exception to the rule of nationally advertised brands. The national brand with the manufacturer's name and trade mark is his guarantee that this product is the best that can be produced for the money.

Geo. R. Kennedy

Funeral services for George R. Kennedy, Erlanger road, Erlanger, were held at 10:30 a. m. Saturday with Rev. Leslie Sparks, pastor of the Erlanger Christian Church, officiating. Burial was in Owenton, Ky., with Philip Taliaferro, Erlanger funeral director, in charge.

Mr. Kennedy was a well-known building contractor. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Sarah Kennedy, a son, Porter Kennedy ,and three grand children.

The average man wouldn't object to having company for Sunday dinner if he could sit so far away that his wife couldn't kick his shins under the dining table.

If eating is a necessity, then why didn't nature arrange it so all women could enjoy cooking and dishwashing?

GOOD THINGS TO KNOW

Chicken fat may be used as a butter substitute in cooking . . . Try using boiled noodles as a topping in place of pie crust for meat or vegetable pies. . . When browned they give a nice, crusty covering . . . For a quick dessert, cut cup cakes through the middle, cover the lower half with sliced peaches, replace the tops and cover with whipped cream.

CLEAN-UP HINTS

To keep linoleum in good condition, rub it with linseed oil once or twice a year, during spring and fall house-cleaning—A stain can be removed from a mattress by placing the mattress in the sun and covering with a thick paste made of starch and cold water. Allow mixture to remain an hour or so, scrape off and repeat process if necessary.

GRAYSON GIRL WINS STATE BEE

IS THIRD TIME IN FOURTEEN YEARS THAT GRAYSON HAS WON FIRST PLACE IN STATE SPELLING BEE.

Grayson County, for the third time in the fourteen years The Courier-Journal has sponsored a State Spelling Bee, will send a youngster to Washington in May to represent Kentucky and The Courier-Journal in the National Spelling Bee.

Corine Dunn, 15, eighth grade pupil of Horntown School, outspelled 101 city and county school system spelling champions in the State Spelling Bee Thursday, April 14, in Louisville. The match was a feature of the Kentucky Education Association convention.

At a luncheon at the Kentucky Hotel, presided over by Barry Bingham, president and publisher of The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times, names of forty-three spellers who qualified in a morning written test of fifty words were announced.

These youngsters entered the finals at Memorial auditorium in the afternoon. WHAS radiocast the final hour of the oral match. Spellers eliminated by the written match were given dictionaries and a theater party, at the Rialto Theater. The forty three finalists spelled for three hours until only Corine and Ann LaFollette, Louisville parochial schools' speller were left. Both missed the words "solecism" and "wraith." After a long duel, Ann missed "raucous." Corine corrected the misspelling and then spelled "queue" to clinch the State championship and an all-expense trip to Washington for herself and chaperon. She will share in the $1,750 in National awards.

Ann, 12, sixth grader of St. Brigid's School, Louisville, received $100 for finishing second. Third place and $75 went to Hildegarde Wedding, Graves County. Both Ann and Hildegarde will be eligible to return next year as neither will have reached the eighth grade by that time. Fourth place and $50 went to Bernice Matthews, Jefferson County. Mabel Robey, Scott County, finished fifth and won $35. Sixth place and $35 were taken by Merel Wilson, Hancock County. Fifteen dollars was the award of Ann Williams, Ohio County who finished seventh. The next ten spellers were given checks for $10 each. Five-dollar checks were given spellers finishing eighteenth to thirty-seventh.

SOME MORE COMMANDMENTS

Running through a bunch of exchanges we find a new set of commandments, and since they are very appropriate now that the house-cleaning season is on we take the liberty of reproducing them:

Remember the cleaning day and keep it faithfully.

Thou shalt honor thy neighborhood, and keep it clean.

Thou shalt not kill thy neighbor by ignoring a fire menace nor by poisoning the air with rubbish.

Thou shalt not keep all windows closed during the night season.

Thou shalt keep in order thy alley and back and front yards.

Thou shalt not steal thy children's right to health and happiness by forcing them to abide in surroundings that are not sanitary.

MILK MARKET NOW UNDER AAA

IN CINCINNATI AREA — REFERENDUM IS VOTED BY MILK SHIPPERS AND DEALERS BY LARGE MAJORITY.

The Cincinnati Milk Market beginning May 1st is operating under Federal Milk Marketing Agreement under the supervision of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Hensley-Hitzfield

A very quiet wedding was solemnized Saturday at 7 p. m. at the home of Rev. Lucas, when Albert Hitzfield and Miss Lucille Hensley were married, with Rev. Lucas, officiating.

The attendants were Henry Deck and Miss Mary Walston.

FOUR-H FAIR AUGUST 20TH

WILL BE EVEN LARGER AND BETTER THAN LAST YEAR, SAYS H. R. FORKNER, COUNTY AGENT.

The seventh annual Boone County 4-H and Utopia club free fair and county picnic will be held on August 20th, according to a tentative date set by the 4-H and Utopia Club Council in a meeting at Burlington, Monday night, May 2nd. Committees were appointed to begin work immediately on plans for the event.

The fair and picnic this year should be the largest and best on record according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The club enrollment this year has increased from 318 members to approximately 525 members under the supervision of 72 adult leaders. The early work of the committees and the most effective organization all indicate a bigger and better fair and picnic this year.

Arthur "Podge" Alloway, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., was visiting friends in Burlington Friday, and while here called at the Recorder office. He never fails to stop in and get a "whiff" of printer's ink.

Five Carloads TVA Phosphate Are Ordered

One hundred and thirteen Boone County farmers, cooperating in the Agricultural Conservation Program the first of this week, have ordered five carloads of TVA phosphate totaling 212,500 pounds, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

This phosphate, testing 47 per cent P205 phosphoric acid equivalent is advanced to cooperators in lieu of cash payments for use in improving grass and legume crops. The only cash expense the farmer is out is the freight and handling charge. Farmers may secure up to 80 per cent of their ACP soil building allowances.

TVA phosphate the past year increased grass and legume yields on Boone County soils an average of 32 per cent. Lime and phosphate combined increased yields an average of 251 per cent. Every farmer who desires to secure TVA phosphate on his ACP allowance to improve his grass and legume crops should contact the county office in Burlington immediately.

Last year phosphate orders for 232 farmers were received too late. Farmers expecting to use phosphate this fall should order now. Phosphate will remain in good condition if stored in a dry place.

SHEEP GROWERS HOLD MEETING

TO FORM PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION AGAINST LOSSES CAUSED FROM DOGS — 380 SHEEP KILLED LAST YEAR.

Boone County sheep raisers voted to organize a sheep growers Protective Association against dog losses in a meeting held at Burlington courthouse, May 2nd. A survey of 1937 losses showed 380 sheep or 2.7 per cent of the 14,000 sheep in the county were killed by dogs last year. Records further show that losses increased from 119 head in 1934 to 192 head in 1935 to 222 head in 1936 and 380 head in 1937.

The Association will protect members through a mutual insurance system in which each grower will pay a $1.00 initial membership fee and the first year 10 cents per head for adult sheep. The sheep will be insured up to $8.00 per head. Payment will be made to individual growers at the end of each fiscal year on June 30. Insurance premiums will be reduced to old members after the first year provided it is found that less payment will take care of sheep losses to members.

The association payments for losses will be independent of payments from this county sheep fund, which at the present time has around a $3,000.00 deficit. The organization however, will cooperate with the sheriff and law enforcement officers to secure 100 per cent enforcement of the dog law. If the point is reached at the end of any fiscal year where losses are readily paid from the dog fund the association can ceas to collect annual premiums and remain unoperative until a future emergency arises. All members however, will remain in good standing during this period. All sheep raisers in the county are urged to pay their dues and receive membership agreements at the earliest possible date from their nearest committeeman listed below:

Carlton—Orville Kelly.
Verona—Walter Johnson.
Beaver—J. W. Conley.
Walton—B. W. Franks.
Union—Ezra Blankenbeker.
Florence—C. F. Blankenbeker.
Petersburg—Charles Stevens.
Hebron—C. S. Riddell.
Constance—L. D. McGlasson.
Burlington—H. E. White.
Grant—Lillard Scott.

You can also secure membership agreements from the temporary officers of the Association consisting of H. E. White, Burlington, president; John C. Bedinger, Walton, vice president, or O. K. Powers, Verona, secretary-treasurer.

The association will begin operation July 1st when the goal of at least 3000 sheep insured is set up. If the goal of 3000 sheep is not secured all payments will be refunded. The first fiscal year will be from July 1st, 1938 to June 30th, 1939.

A. W. Corn, well known Erlanger man was a business caller in Burlington. Mr. Corn appears to be in the best of health, although he has seen many summers.

WOOL POOL SELL CLIP JUNE 13TH

SEALED BIDS WILL BE RECEIVED BETWEEN HOURS OF 1:00 AND 2:00 P. M. AT WALTON EQUITABLE BANK.

Boone County Wool Growers voted Monday to offer to sell the county clip Monday, June 13th, according to H. E. White, president of the County Pool. Sealed bids will be received between the hours of 1:00 p. m. and 2:00 p. m. at the Walton Equitable Bank, Walton.

Committeemen reported there had been a splendid sign-up this year and prospects are for the largest pool on record. Last year the pool sold the record clip of 64,684 pounds.

The growers voted that all wool to be sold through the pool must be listed with either the local committemen or secretary not later than June 6th. The clip will be sold at the highest dollar on the date of sale and will be received, weighed and paid for by the highest bidder at three convenient points in the county, Walton, Burlington and Petersburg. The dates for delivery will be announced immediately after the date of sale on one of three consecutive days. Each grower will receive the same price, grade and consideration as every other member of the pool. No pooling contract is signed and members are obligated in the pool only by their moral responsibility. Every sheep raiser is invited to pool his clip.

HEARING SET FOR MAY 12TH

FOR SALESMEN CHARGED WITH DISORDERLY CONDUCT AT ED SULLIVAN'S HOME NEAR GUNPOWDER.

A hearing will be held before acting County Judge C. L. Cropper on May 12th in the case of the two hardware salesmen charged with disorderly conduct at the home of Ed Sullivan last Thursday morning.

The two salesmen, Kay and John Walker, who have been selling merchandise in this community for several years, called at the Sullivan home Thursday morning, and after being told to leave by Mrs. Sullivan, they insisted upon her making some kind of purchase. Her two sons overheard the conversation between their mother and salesmen, and came to the house to force the men to leave. A fight followed, and the older of the pair was struck on the head with a large timber, cutting a gash about four inches long just above the hairline. His arm and leg was also injured considerably. Mrs. Sullivan was also injured in the melee, but it was not disclosed as to whether one of the salesmen had struck her, or whether she had been injured in trying to prevent the fight.

Deputy Sheriff Jake Williams was summoned, and brought the pair to Burlington. Dr. M. A. Yelton treated their wounds before they were taken before the judge.

Both of the salesmen pleaded not guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct and were released on $100 bond to appear in court here May 12th for hearing.

All-Comedy Cast In "She's Got Everything"

One of the strongest casts ever assembled for one picture is that seen in "She's Got Everything," coming to the Gayety Theater, on Sunday and Monday in which Gene Raymond and Ann Sothern head Victor Moore, Helen Broderick, Parkyakarkus and Billy Gilbert.

The story itself, a tale of a bankrupt society girl whose hungry creditors endeavor to wed her to an opulent coffee merchant, offers a wealth of hilarity through smart situations and dialogue contrived and written to fit the matchless talents of the capable comedians. Joseph Santley directed "She's Got Everything" for RKO Radio.

Saturday

Ronald Sinclair, Hollywood's new discovery in British boy actors, is teamed with Judy Garland and Sophie Tucker, of "Broadway Melody" fame, Mickey Rooney, and other notable players in "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry," a new attraction coming to the Gayety Theater.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, May 11, 12 and 13th

Diogene's hunt for an honest man was a mere nothing compared to Director J. Walter Rubens' hunt for a genuine, old-fashioned blacksmith. Mute commentary on the contrast between days of the old West and the motorized modern era, Ruben's search for a trio of horseshoers to tend to the small regiment of horses used in "The Bad Man of Brimstone," took him almost to San Diego. He discovered that although Los Angeles is surrounded by small farms, the farmers use tractors and motorized machinery almost exclusively. The three blacksmiths whom he finally discovered told him that the job represented more horses to shoe than they had worked on for almost a decade. "The Bad Man of Brimstone," starring Wallace Beery, will be shown at the Gayety Theatre for three days. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, May 11, 12th and 13th.

Last week a youth from Jonesville, Ky., was arrested while on his way home from his dentist in Covington, and when he was questioned as to his condition, he related this story which would be a good one for anyone who is going to take a drink and then attempt to drive an automobile: "I took a drink after I came from the dentist's office, and I suppose that the drink and the medicine the doctor used didn't agree. My mind went completely blank and I don't remember driving my car from Covington to Florence, where I was arrested. My dentist told me to come back next week, and if I do, be d——n if I'm not going to walk."

ALL SET TO START

Here's the first call for the bucket and mop brigade, the rake and shovel regiment, the paint and whitewash corps and the hatchet and saw recruits. The spring push is about to get under way. The entire nation is arming for its annual war on dirt and rubbish, soot and disease-breading dumps. It's a mighty army that is now getting set for its annual campaign, and it behooves everyone to promptly fall in line.

There's no way of estimating the benefits that arise from a clean house. clean yard and a clean community as a whole. It not only means more comfortable living conditions, but it assures health and prevents epidemics that might easily claim a heavy toll of death. Starting early means more time for other duties too, and serves to lighten the jobs that come along later in the season.

It is well to remember that no better beautifier and no more effective sanitary agent can be procured than whitewash. Use it, as well as the raw, unslacked lime plentifully about your premises. But get on the job now, for once you start your neighbors will follow your example, and even our city fathers will be encouraged to set about giving streets and sidewalks the attention they need to place them in proper shape for spring. Roll up your sleeves, whistle if you can't sing and help make the home town shine like the noonday sun.

RAISING CHICKENS

Despite the fact that more money has been lost and more people discouraged in poultry raising than in most any other venture, it still remains one of America's greatest industries. In fact, government figures show more people directly interested in the production of poultry and eggs than in any other food commodity. Last year, according to recent government estimate the business amounted to approximately a billion and a quarter dollars.

While the smaller cities, towns and villages still contribute much to the general success of poultry raising, it is on the farms and in rural poultry yards that production piles up fastest and where the "big money" is made. Citizens who keep chickens are mainly in it to serve their own needs and yet, if they will figure a little, they will be surprised to find that a good profit can be had from even the smallest flock. In no other food is there as little waste as in eggs. No other food can be eaten in as many ways—boiled, raw, fried scrambled, poached, steamed, shirred or scalloped. And no other food serves as satisfactorily in both sickness and health.

We are paying this little tribute to the American hen because she deserves it. She is a friend of humanity, and one we cannot get along without, since practically all cooking is based on eggs. Here's hoping her numbers never decrease and that come what may—strikes floods, fires or earthquakes—she will always be found on the job.

A CHESTNUT FAMINE

Most everyone recalls the poem of boyhood starting "Under the spreading chestnut tree the village smithy stands." And most everyone knows that the smithy has about disappeared with the advent of the auto. But few there are who realize that the chestnut tree is fast disappearing from America and may have entirely disappeared within another dozen years. A steady drop in the chestnut crop each year for several past has caused Uncle Sam to take notice, and he finds that a strange blight, caused by a foreign insect has been destroying this particular variety of tree all over the nation. The destruction is said to have been going on steadily for almost 20 years. So slowly, in fact, has been the work of destruction, that the average citizen has not noticed it. Thus are we being robbed of still another institution for long years linked pretty closely with boyhood joys—the chestnut tree.

MERITED HONOR

When the state of Ohio started in a few years ago to confer the degree of "Master Homemakers," through its farm bureaus, it set a splendid example. It is interesting to note that numerous other states are adopting the same innovation. Yet it strikes one as strange that the country is just beginning to reward woman for a task she has been carrying out in a masterly way for thousands of years. Since the beginning of time, women have been the homemakers. There are dozens in every community in Boone County entitled to be recognized as masters of the art. But the only prize they seek is the love and esteem of their families and the respect of their neighbors and friends. It is different in this day of bridge parties and tin-can meals that prizes have to be offered to those who really know how to keep a house and how to make it worthy of the name of home? It might be necessary in some sections, but we don't believe this community has yet reached that stage.

THIS USUALLY WORKS

Just what to do with household articles she no longer has use for is a worry to more than one woman now about to engage in the annual task of house-cleaning. We know house-cleaning is a big job, and for that reason we again want to offer a hint that has solved the problem for many in the past, and to their advantage. Someone would be glad to have the old stove, chairs, bed, floor covering or other household furnishings you are discarding for something new this spring, and they would be glad to pay a fair price for it. But, unless they know what you have to dispose of, how are they going to purchase it. A few cents—a smaller amount than you would ordinarily thing—will tell everybody for miles around just what you are willing to dispose of when those few cents are spent for a little reading notice in these columns. In that way you get actual cash for what you do not want, and someone else gets what they want at a bargain. Drop in and let us explain how this feature of your annual housecleaning problem can be happily and profitably solved.

AMERICA'S SHAME

When an important industry reports a shortage of labor these days it is real news. And when, despite such a condition, relief rolls in that same section show a steady increase, there is food for some sober thought. The N. Y. Dept. of Agriculture recently issued a bulletin in which it said: "Many farmers of New York state are seriously handicapped, and were even in the dull winter season, by a scarcity of labor." The reason as set forth is the unwillingness of city idlers to leave the security and assistance given them by public and private agencies when they become unemployed in industry. They would rather be paid for loafing in the city than take a job for pay on the farm. And this is the kind of reports that are making taxpayers sick and tired of "relief" as it is now doled out in every section of the nation. It is reports of this kind which are certain to hasten a clean up of the whole mess.

UNSUNG HEROES

There are heroes to be found in all walks of life, and every time we read or hear of their exploits our faith in the finer quality of human nature seems to be bolstered anew. Down one of the steep mountains in western Pensylvania a Maryland driver was guiding his heavily-ladened truck. He discovered that his brakes were not working, and almost at the same time he saw two passenger cars approaching. To avoid the impending collision he risked his own life by taking a chance and turning the big truck into a side road. It crashed into the bank, upset, and he lost his life beneath the wreckage. Unselfishness is always a mark of true heroism. This unheralded truck driver gambled with his own life to save the lives of others. He lost the gamble, and the penalty was death. The great Book of Life cannot record a deed more heroic.

Lesson for May 8

CO-OPERATING IN SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:30-41.
GOLDEN TEXT—For he that is not against us is on our part.—Mark 9:40.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When We Want to Be First.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Not in Our Class.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Working with Others for Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Co-operating in Service.

That there is strength in united and co-operative effort is a truth so obvious that in the affairs of the home and of the office we would not attempt to make progress with "a house divided against itself." But with strange and destructive inconsistency some who are engaged in the propagation of the Christian faith, and often the very folk who speak much of love and fellowship and sacrificial service, fight one another with cunning and often bitterness of spirit, and all in the name of Christ whom they profess to serve.

No one who is awake to the real issue involved would ask any true believer to co-operate in Christian work with those who, while holding the name and outward symbols of the followers of Christ, deny His deity and His Word. But surely there is need for loving co-operation between all those who truly love the Lord, who believe in Him and in His Word.

I. A Dispute by the Way (vv. 30-34).

Jesus had taken His disciples from the Mount of Transfiguration by secluded roads through Galilee so that He might instruct them in the all-important truths regarding His death and resurrection. One could hardly conceive of a more propitious arrangement for their growth both in knowledge and grace. Did they profit by it? No; they not only did not understand what He told them but they used their time to dispute "among themselves who should be the greatest" (v. 34).

Possibly James, Peter, and John were a bit puffed up by their experience on the Mount, or perhaps the others were jealous because Jesus had taken them with Him. Or perchance it was just another unprovoked expression of the sinful pride that is so close to the surface of the human heart and mind.

II. An Example of Humility (vv. 35-37).

"True greatness . . . consists not in attaining the first place in the notice and praise of the world, not in being served by many, but in being willing to stoop down to a humble place, not for the sake of self-effacement, not in timid diffidence, but in order to serve others for the sake of Christ" (Erdman).

Note carefully that it is the receiving of a little one in the name of Christ that brings to us the glory of His presence with us. Every deed of kindness and love is commendable and has its own reward, but there is a vast difference between it and humble service in the name and for the glory of Christ.

III. A Lesson in Co-operation (vv. 38-41).

John, quick to apprehend spiritual truth, sees in the teaching of Christ concerning the little child the condemnation of something he had done. " 'If indeed it be true that to receive a child, an ordinary everyday child, is to receive Christ, and to receive God,' said John within himself, 'what did I do when I forbade that man who in the Name was casting out a demon?' Verily, the light had broken in upon him."

The man who casts out demons, or who gives the disciple of Jesus a cup of water, in His name—that is with true faith in Christ, and in His power, and for His glory—must be a believer. He may not belong to our group or circle, he may not speak our language, he may not use our methods, but if he is serving Christ we should not forbid him or speak evil of him. God has at times called a man to witness for Him, who has done so in a manner distasteful to others, and these in turn have aligned themselves against him and hindered his full usefulness in the gospel. One of the great evangelists of the last generation used methods which shocked many church folk. They stood against him, and yet that man was used to win hosts of business and professional men that the church had scarcely touched, into earnest Christian testimony and service which continues to this day. You and I may not like one another's appearance, or voice, or methods, but let us love and co-operate with one another for Christ's sake!

NEIGHBOR
Sitting home at night, you've probably heard the neighborly whistle of our locomotives.
Next time you hear that sound, we hope it will be a reminder that we are home-folks, too . . . sharing in community responsibilities . . . making a definite contribution to the comfort and security you enjoy when you step inside your own front door.
From wherever they are produced, we help bring your home-building materials to you . . . lumber, stone, cement, brick, steel. Chances are, we brought many of the things you use inside your home as well . . . furniture, fixtures, heating equipment, even your foodstuffs. Last year we hauled around six million tons of material largely used in construction and home furnishing.
Thus we have been a helpful partner in developing the communities we serve . . . carrying nearly fifty million tons of freight last year at an average cost of less than a cent per ton for each mile hauled. That's why we're home-folks, too . . . why we hope to deserve your continued friendship and patronage.

Aged Woman Dies In Georgetown

Georgetown, Ky., April 27—A descendant of one of Kentucky's earliest settlers, Mrs. Kate Bradley Rice, 83 years old, died at her home here today after a short illness.

Mrs. Rice was born September 21 1854, at the old homestead of her grandfather, John Wickliffe Bradley, Sr., near Georgetown. She was the daughter of Alfred Marion and Catherine Long Bradley and on her father's side was a lineal descendant of James Suggett, who came from Virginia with a little group of settlers to form the first permanent settlement in Scott County at Great Crossing. She was a great-granddaughter of Nicholas Long, who settled just north of Georgetown, on the Cincinnati Pike, on land granted him for service in the Virginia Continental Army. Long donated the land on which the historic Dry Run Baptist Church is located.

As a girl, Mrs. Rice joined the Great Crossing Baptist Church and assisted in organizing the Woman's Missionary Society. She later became a member of the Georgetown Baptist Church and was a charter member of the Woman's Missionary Society of that church. She also was a charter member of the Big Spring Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution and the Woman's Association of Georgetown College.

In 1898, she married Lewis Rice, Boone County. After his death two years later she returned to Georgetown and had resided here since.

She is survived by several nieces and nephews, among them Katherine Bradley, Jessie Bradley, all of Georgetown, and John Demoisey, Walton, former University of Kentucky basketball player and at present a pitcher for the Louisville Colonels in the American Association.

One of he heroes started his conquest courting coy Kentucky voter last week.

Governor A. B. Chandler started a ten-day speaking tour in Danville last week with an address to the "Senior Pitkin Club" of Centre College. His tour will cover Harrison, Grant, Owen, Shelby, Spencer, Anderson, Mercer, Boyle, Fayette, Garrard and Jefferson counties and will close the first ten days at the Colonels' dinner at the Kentucky Hotel.

The Special Session, as previously intimated in this column, has been definitely set for May 16. It will last six days, and will cost the State about $15,000.00. The general and special session, which just closed, cost $213,693.89. The six-day special session in May, will follow recommendations made by the American Mental Hygiene Society, and a group of Kentucky physicians, in making new law that will provide for scientific treatment of inmates in state institutions.

Commissioner of Welfare, Fredrick A. Wallis, who was definitely won over to the Chandler side by the Governor's action in calling the Special session to aid state institutions stated, "As a member of the Governor's official family, I have always been personally attached to him. His splendid co-operation with all the new plans of the Welfare Department; his willingness to adequately staff the State institutions, make it almost unnecessary for me to say that I heartily favor his election to the United States Senate, and I believe that Governor Chandler's election to the United States Senate will insure the completion of Kentucky's great welfare program." Wallis, until this announcement, had withheld promise of his support to either candidate, and some weeks ago, it was rumored, and not denied by Wallis, that he would support Senator Barkley.

Fred M. Vinson, congressman, from the eighth Kentucky district, will resign shortly to accept a place as Federal judge, on the United States Court of Appeals, for the district of Columbia, a life-time appointment, with an annual salary of $12,500.00. Vinson, as chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means, sub committee was chief author of the new tax bill, originally presented to the house.

Joseph Bates, former clerk of Greenup county has the inside track for the Democratic nomination to fill Vinson's place. The Governor, has the right to call a special election, to fill this vacancy.

Random Shots—The Kentucky Derby will be held this Saturday, before the largest crowd to ever attend a race in this country.—The campaign took a humorous turn last week when an ad. appeared in a Northern Kentucky paper comparing the people of Kentucky to the Children of Gallilee and the Governor, to Jesus. The add requested the people not to "crucify him" by not voting for him.

Rev. R. Lee James and Albert W. Weaver attended the brotherhood meeting at the Elsmere Paptist church last Sunday afternoon.

SEAL GARMENT BAGS TO KEEP OUT MOTHS

Paper garment bags and wrappings and cardboard closets and boxes protect against clothes moths only if they are sealed tightly at every opening and if the clothes or other contents were entirely free of moths when the container was sealed, say home economics women at the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

Once moths get inside paper or cardboard containers, damage will result, even though the paper has been treated with cedar, tar or pine oil. Scented paper or cardboard is no more effective against moths than plain paper, it is said.

Clothing which has just been dry cleaned or washed before wrapping in unbroken paper with the edges carefully sealed will remain safe from moths indefinitely. Unbroken hat boxes or other cardboard containers will also exclude moths if carefully sealed. To destroy any moth that may have found its way in with the clothing, put flake napathalene in the package.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

They no longer advocate disarmament: China, Ethiopia.

There are few facts so stern that a sincere compliment will not cause them to loosen up.

This would be a great government if selfishness could be removed from public offices.

"You tickle me and I'll tickle you" is a rule that explains much of what one hears and reads.

Most men will talk to you but they almost shut their eyes when you start trying to sell something.

There are many good books, well worth serious study: why not read some of them every year?

The world is filled with people who think they discharge obligations by finding a plausible excuse for ignoring them.

Public office is not always used as a public trust; sometimes it is used as a shakedown racket.

Great Britain and Italy seem to have made peace. The puzzle is how long the rapprochement will last.

Fifty years from now people will look back to 1938 and wonder why there was complaint over taxes.

Advertising is what business needs; it will make people buy one product and pass up a similar product.

Power, without intelligent direction, is dangerous, and intelligence, without moral guidance, is fearful.

Crop control is a success if it raises the standard of living for our farm families and a failure if it does not.

It may be human nature to criticise others but we find it hard to understand those who never find anything good anywhere.

Correct this sentence: "The surest way to have peace in the world is to let the aggressor nations have what they want."

You are entitled to what you earn in life, and nothing more; if you get something extra, you are taking it from somebody else.

Spring came to Greenland last week but it was 21 degrees below zero and the air, instead of being filled with greenness, was full of snow.

Speaking about ignorance: You have been eating food all your life but you probably know very little about the science of correct dieting.

Still Digging at Dugaid

Mrs. Mac Pherson just at meal time)—Dugald, we've guests at the door.

Gugald — Grab a toothpick, quick!

A Long Year

Josephine—I certainly had a good time when I was twenty-one.

Jack—I'll bet you did. A person can have a lot of fun in eight years.

That Troublesome Part

She (to husband tinkering with car)—What causes the trouble dear?

Novice—I don't know exactly but I think it's the exasperator.

Cactful Man

Young Bride — Darling, I'm afraid I put too much milk in the mashed potatoes.

His Alibi

"I'm surprised that you get such poor marks in spelling, my son."

"Well, you see, daddy, it isn't my fault. The teacher don't spell words the same as I do."

Old Maid—Do I look as though I drank beer?

The Change

She was the ray of sunshine
That brightened up his life,
That dazzled till he asked her
To be his sunny wife.

So with his ray of sunshine
He said the marriage vow
But, oh, these quick divorces!
She's just his ex-ray now.

Spicy Definition

The family was preparing the lesson for Sunday school.

"Surely you remember what 'synonym' means?" queried the mother.

"Sure, we remember," said one of the small boys, alertly. "Synonym is something you put in pies."

Not a Nice Assistant

Mistress—I must get a griller for the kitchen when I'm down town. You know what a griller is?

Green Girl (with recollections of the Zoo) Indeed I do. It's a long hairy monkey the size of a man, and if you want one of those in your kitchen I'm leaving at once.

LLOYD SOCIETY TO MEET

WOOL GROWERS TO BE ASSISTED

THROUGH COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION IN ORDERLY MARKETING OF THEIR 1938 CLIP.

The Federal Government, thru the Commodity Credit Corporation, under the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, has granted a loan of $50,000,000.00 to assist wool growers in the orderly marketing of their 1938 clip and also the 1937 clip that remains unsold. It is designed specifically to protect wool growers against the unfavorable conditions now existing in the wool industry.

The loan has the advantage of being:

1: A loan without recourse, the grower has no liability should there be an over advance on the wool.

2. A loan in which the grower still retains a beneficial interest in his wool.

3. A loan based on the pre-war market conditions and parity prices, and not on present market conditions.

4. A loan without production control.

The Kentucky Wool Growers Cooperative Association will take advantage of this liberal act for the benefit of all consignors and will operate this year under the provisions of the Commodity Credit Corporation rules.

On the delivery of wool to the Association a flat advance of 16 cents per pound will be paid as soon as the wool is received and weighed. As quickly as the woll can be graded by U. S. licensed grader and accepted by the Commodity Credit Association a second guaranteed advance check will be mailed to the grower.

Guaranteed advances to be paid:
Three-eighths staple, 22 cents.
Three-eights clothing 21 cents.
One-half staple 20 cents.
One-half clothing 18 cents.
One-fourth staple 22 cents.
One-fourth clothing 21 cents.
Fine staple 19 cents.
Fine clothing 17 cents.

Eighty per cent (80%) of Kentucky wool grades into three-eighths and one-fourth staple.

KITCHEN KINKS

To prevent peeled apples turning dark while standing, cover them with salt water . . . Unless you sift flour before measuring, it is possible to put as much as an extra cup of flour in the batter . . . ABC's in Manners: Invitations and Greetings

IS THE tissue paper left in commencement announcements or invitations when they are mailed? And why your answer?

Answer: It is correct to remove the tissue paper before mailing the announcements or invitations. But if you think the ink has not dried sufficiently to prevent the clean page from getting smudged, then this is a sensible enough reason for leaving it.

Use Double Sheets.

DEAR Mrs. Post: I have always been under the impression that correct writing paper for a man was cut in single sheets, but recently you suggested to a reader that in his particular case the paper should be double. Has the style in men's writing paper changed or is it that I have been under a wrong impression?

Answer: I am sorry but I am afraid you have been under the wrong impression. Social paper, or at least that which can be used for formal occasions such as notes of invitation, answers to invitations, etc., should never be on a single fold paper. Of course when file copies need be made of personal letters then they as well as long business letters are necessarily written on single paper of typewriting size.

Use Logical Form

DEAR Mrs. Post: Is there a proper answer to make when someone expresses thanks for a birthday card or other slight remembrance? If I say, "I'm glad you liked it," then I feel that I am assuming they liked the card when all the person may have said was "Thank you." I always find the situation awkward and wonder whether there is some suitable reply to be used at such times.

Answer: If they admire the card or think it amusing, then you say, "I'm glad you like it," and if they merely thank you for having sent it then you say, "You're very welcome."

STYLE HINTS

Almost every other new frock has some type of yoke. This may be a feature of the blouse or it may be a part of the skirt. The shoulder yoke introduces all over embroidery or braiding to bring it into the limelight or adopts an odd shape. Little corded trims sometimes adorn the edges and indicate the emphasis upon novelty. Skirt yokes are employed to give a slender hip line in spite of numerous pleats.

Weak Inrolling Feet Means Aches and Pains

The basic cause of foot trouble lies in weak shoes that do not support the outer weight bearing arch of your feet.

This arch sags, letting your ankle roll inward crowding your foot into the forepart of your shoe.

HOW FOOT TROUBLES AFFECT THE WHOLE BODY

BY N. TULCH
Foot Cmfort Specialist at Peoples' Foot Comfort
9th and Madison Ave., Cov., Ky.

Unless one is ,or has been, a sufferer from foot troubles, it is rather hard for him to understand the far reaching effects which such conditions produce. In our school days, we received at least a superficial education in physiology which included the nervous system.

It may be compared with an intricate and comprehensive electric system. Messages are instantly transmitted from one part of the system to every other part. So it is with the human nervous network that reaches every part of the system to every other part. So it is with the human nervous network that reaches every part of the body.

It is a demonstrated fact that the pains produced by foot troubles can and do travel to and serious affect other parts of the body far removed from the feet. Sometime ago a Chicago School had occasion to serve a man who had both ARCH and EYE trouble. While no one suspected that there was any connection between the two, it developed that when his Foot Troubles were relieved his eyes showed a marked improvement.

Headches are almost invariably traced to the stomach, eyes, liver or some other part of the body. The feet can and do produce the same condition. No one suffering from intense foot pain can conceal it in his or her facial expression.

THE GARDEN

THE INSECTS

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

A most important speculation on the part of gardeners revolves about what to do to bring their gardens past the insect hazard that besets them as regularly as the seasons roll around. Sometimes the trouble starts so innocently and unobstrusively that one is lulled into think that this is not to be the year for this or that insect, only to be made rudely aware, later, that misplaced optimism is an extremely expensive commodity.

On the other hand, one need not be a hopeless pessimist concerning garden insect matters, because of contemplating the great number of pests there are and the great variety of vegetables they attack, for there are but two kinds of insects and two methods of control, though modified somewhat by the nature of the vegetable to be protected.

One class of insects consumes foliage or root or stem tissue. For this class, the control is an arsenical, applied where the insect does its feeding. Coupled with using the correct material and applying it at the proper place, is also the matter of right timing. It is in this last respect that so many gardeners fail, and from these come the bulk of the complai t that the recommended remedy ' fattened the bugs."

The insects of the other class have no chewing mouthparts but subsist on plant sap which they draw through pointed snouts plunges into the deeper tissues of the vegetable plants. It is quite obvious that inasmuch as no surface feeding is ever done, surface-applied control materials cannot have effect, but the insects must be destroyed through other means.

Fortunately, the sucking insects are soft-bodied throughout their lives, or at least until just before they become adult, and they succumb easily to materials that corrode their bodies or effect their "gassing," if applied to hit them.

For the chewing insects, an arsenical stomach poison has been recommended, but arsenic is poisonous to man as well. Therefore, judgment must be used not ever to apply it on plant parts that later become human food. If the insects continue their depredations after food parts form, or if they afe troublesome on plants that are wholly used for food ,the new insecticide, rotenone, should be used for, although deadly to all insects, it is harmless to man. It comes as a concentrate to be dissolved in water, or as a dust, ready-mixed. All druggists and seedsmen carry it or can obtain it.

For the sucking insects, the most simple material to use is tobacco tea, made at home by steeping trash tobacco in water, or because the nicotine strength of tobacco is not uniform and this results in "tea" of uncertain strength, commercial nicotine sulfate "black leaf 40," instead. This material all druggists and seedsmen handle. Bought in small glass bottles, it is rather expensive; gardeners should purchase it in the larger tin containers. To answer complaint that on greens, the tobacco flavor persists, let it be said that rotenone dust or spray may be used instead. The expense of the two is about the same.

Russell county farmers set 76,000 strawberry plants last month.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Though barley is a new crop in Metcalfe county, it has furnished thousands of dollars worth of pasture recntly, reports County Agent R. B. Rankin. A nitrogen topdressing for the crop is being tried with good results.

Taylor county farmers have brought in 500 Jersey cows and heifers, and five bulls with high records. They are holding discussion meetings to study ways of making dairying more profitable.

Marshall county's tree program is continuing unabated. Sixty-five thousand Black Locusts and 4,400 pines were set out recently on 60 acres of land no longer suitable for cultivation. Many of these seedlings were raised by 4-H club members last year.

To encourage purebred dairy production in Magoffin county, the Salyersville National Bank is lending money to 4-H club members to buy bulls. No interest is required on the money for one year. It is to be repaid from profits from the project.

J. B. Bird, Livingston county, has hatched 750 high-grade chicks from eggs produced on his farm. He has bought 150 ducks from a hatchery. Last year he made a profit on ducks sold at six weeks of age.

Hundreds of acres of grass mixtures were seeded in Harlan county this spring, including korean lespedeza, redtop, orchard grass, bluegrass and Italian rye grass. More than 7,000 seedling trees also were transplanted, in the soil conservation program.

BUILD AGAINST TERMITES

Persons planning to build houses are urged by agricultural engineers at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture to adopt every possible method to prevent damage by termites. Most contractors now know how to termite-proof construction. Where termites already are at work they may be temporarily controlled by poisoning. Effective poisons are orthodichlorobenzene or a mixture of kerosene and coal-tar creosote.

BODY IS FOUND AFTER 4 DAYS

WOODY SULLIVAN HANGS SELF FROM RAFTER OF GRAINERY —HAD BEEN IN ILL HEALTH SEVERAL MONTHS.

The body of Woody Sullivan, age 58, Burlington, was found Wednesday of last week, hanging from a rafter in the grainery of his son-in-law Harry May.

Mr. Sullivan had been missing from the May home since Sunday night, but the family never investigated his whereabouts, as he would often be gone several days without notifying the family when he would return. Harry May, discovered the body Wednesday when he went to the grainery to obtain feed. Magistrate Hubert White was called and returned a verdict of suicide by hanging.

The body was badly decomposed due to the warm weather, and it was very difficult to handle the body, according to reports.

He had returned to the May home, on Sunday night, and had apparently obtained the key to the grainery, entered the front door, unfastened the back, then went out the front door, locking it and returning the key. It is thought that he then climbed through the rear window, and attached a window cord to rafter, where he was found.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Harry May and one son, Allen Sullivan, and one sister, Mrs. Virgie Sullivan, all of Burlington.

The body was removed to Taliaferro funeral home, Erlanger for preparation and services were held at the Highland cemetery Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, with Rev. R. Lee James, officiating.

Ruth Paddock

Funeral services for Ruth Paddock, sister of Benjamin Paddock, of Hebron, were held at the Wiltsee chapel, Cincinnati, at 2 p. m. Saturday. Miss Paddock died late Thursday.

Besides her brother, Benjamin, she leaves two other brothers, Truman G. Paddock, Wyoming, O., and William Paddock, Durango, Calif.

Thirty Boone County farmers will use 80,000 pounds of TVA demonstration phosphate in pasture and legume crop demonstrations this, year, according to Jack Dye, assistant county agent.

Farmers cooperating in this program, are selected by the TVA. Major portions of their newly seeded grass and legume fields will be treated with 47 percent super phosphate. Parts of the field will be treated with agricultural limestone and certain portions will receive no treatment. Each demonstrator will have a major portion of his field treated with lime and phosphate, a check plot with phosphate only, a check plot with lime only and a check plot with no treatment.

Farmers cooperating in this work will make a study of yield differences and will give reports at the end of the year. Farmers conducting these demonstrations are J. C. Aylor, Sam B. 610 ATTEND MEET OF HOMEMAKERS

AT WINCHESTER ON MAY 6TH—FORTY WOMEN FROM BOONE COUNTY IN ATTENDANCE—FINE MEETING REPORTED.

Boone County Homemakers can well feel proud of the diligent work they have been doing, after hearing the plaudits handed to them at the convention held at Winchester on May 6th. Some forty women made this journey, the majority by bus, others driving down in their own cars. A complete tabulation of members present from the six counties which comprise this district, revealed that six hundred and ten women registered.

The morning session was opened by community singing lead by Mrs. Rucker Lewis, of Clark County, she being an accomplished singer as well as a music leader. A panel discussion followed at which time problems that confront the various clubs were aired. Mrs. Walter Ferguson represented Boone County in these discussions.

Miss Grace E. Frysinger, a member of the Department of Agriculture at Washington gave an interesting message on present day Independence.

Luncheon was a highlight during the intermission, with both the Christian and Methodist churches serving. As this section of the country is a bit advanced as to seasons, a profusion of roses and iris decorated the many tables and coupled with the perfect hospitality shown by the Clark County Club, was an inspiration to all.

To know Mrs. T. M. Johnson of Warren County, who is the State President of Homemakers, is to love her and adire her and her talk on "Thirills Along Life's Highway," could only be foreshadowed by the ever popular and interesting Miss Fannie Brooks, who hails from our neighboring state of Illinois. Miss Brooks, who also spoke at Farm and Home Week in January was received with loud applause. Miss Brooks whose snow white hair belies her youthful spirit spoke of "Living While We Work."

Burlington Men First To Set Tobacco

Farmers Plan Fivestock Tours

Boone County farmers have planned a series of livestock marketing tours to the Cincinnati Livestock Yards on May 18th, 26th, and 27th. The marketing, grading and slaughtering of lambs will be given special study on these tours.

Farmers taking part will meet at the stock yards at 8:00 a. m. on the dates of the tours and will spend the entire day in the stock yards and packing plants. Dinner will be arranged for all farmers taking part.

Every farmer in the county is invited to take part in one of the tours. The number that can be handled on any one day, however, is limited. It is important therefore that everyone who expects to take part in the tours call Burlington 412 and make reservations. There is no charge and the tours are of a strictly educational nature but it is important that reservations be made at the earliest possible date.

Wednesday, May 18th, has been set for farmers in Burlington, Florence and Union District. Thursday, May 26th has been set for farmers in Verona, Walton, Beaver and Hamilton districts. Friday, May 27th has been set for farmers in Grant, Petersburg, Hebron, Constance and Taylorsport districts. It is not necessary that one pick the particular date for his district.

Judge Riddell Tells Fishing Story In Letter

In a letter received at this office recently from Judge N. E. Riddell, who is vacationing in San Antonia, Texas, he states that he is having a wonderful time fishing. The Judges writes that everyone who was any fishermen was able to bring in a catch each day. He reported catches of several large ones, which if hung in local waters would be considered whales.

The Judge has been making this trip once each year for sometime and has always found fishing great. We are sure he will have some tall stories to tell when he returns home.

Jack Dempsey Visits Colonel Joe Anderson

Jack Dempsey, the Manassa Mauler of old and the restaurateur of late, visited his fighting friend, Col. Joe Anderson, at the colonel's Erlanger cafe, one night last week.

The ex-champ was in Cincinnati to attend the convention of the American Mining Congress Wednesday.

The two former prizefighters never fail to visit one another whenever they are in the other's neighborhood. And Jack's presence didn't hurt Joe's business any on that night, either.

National Air Mail Week May 15th To 21 Inclusive

On May 15 the Post Office Department will celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the inauguration of scheduled air mail service, and in commemoration thereof will observe National Air Mail Week, May 15 to 21 inclusive.

I have been appointed chairman of the organization in Boone County and I urge that all postal employees as well as all postmasters will give their fullest cooperation to make this anniversary and National Air Mail Week a complete success.

It is therefore, fitting that the patrons of each post office and rural route in Boone County join with the Post Office Department and "put over" in a big way, National Air Mail Week.

I appeal to each patron of every post office and every rural route in Boone County to mail at least one air mail letter during this period.

Mail an air mail letter to that old friend or relative that you have so long neglected and in so doing bring sunshine and gladness into their lives and bring back pleasant memories of the long ago.

To the patrons of the various post offices in Boone County to the postmasters and all postal employees, I wish to express in behalf of the Post Office Department its most sincere appreciation for your aid in making this drive a success.

Very sincerely yours,
Newton, Sullivan, P. M.
Burlington, Ky.

DEATH COMES TO BRIDE OF 4 HOURS

END WAS UNEXPECTED—HAD BEEN ILL ONLY THREE WEEKS —CECIL DAVIS, WALTON WAS GROOM.

Unexpected death hushed the happy echoes of sickbed marriage vows for Mrs. Dorothy Jane Otto Davis, 23, of 34 Holmes Ave., Ft. Thomas, Monday night.

Four hours after she held the hand of her husband, Cecil Davis, Walton business man, and pledged herself as his wife, death made a bier of the bed in which she lay during the ceremony.

Rev. J. W. Black, pastor of the Latonia Baptist Church, who united the couple Monday, will officiate at Mrs. Davis' funeral Thursday.

"My daughter had no idea she was going to die, none of us did when she was married," the girl's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Otto, said.

"They planned a trip. We didn't know—that's what makes it so awful," the mother said.

Mrs. Davis had been ill in bed three weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Otto. Monday afternoon during the wedding ceremony she appeared bright and strong, her mother said.

The wedding took place at 4:30 p. m. Joy and an anticipated honeymoon to Texas filled the hearts of Mr. and Mrs. Davis. Their original wedding date, May 9, had been fulfilled as scheduled, despite her illness, and they were happy. Mrs. Dravis was dead at 7:30 p. m. The girl's physician, Dr. Ed Hermann, had given no indication of death, Mrs. Otto declared.

Cemetery Fence To Be Dedicated At Belleview Sun.

There will be an all-day meeting at the church at Belleview Sunday, May 15th to dedicate the beautiful new fence, which has been built at a cost of about $1,500.00. This fence will be dedicatedd to the sacred memory of friends and relatives buried therein.

It is believed that there are many people who live in Boone County but not in the Belleview community that will be happy for the opportunity of helping pay for this fence which the trustees have built with such great pride. Love, respect, reverence and honor for those who sleep in that "silent city of the dead" should create such wholesome pride within the friends and relatives to want a fence like the one that has been built.

The following is the program for the day at the church:

10:00 a. m. Bible School. William Rogers, Supt. The goal has been set at 150.

11:00 a. m. Bro. Smith, the pastor will bring the message on "Our Dead Who Still Live."

12:00 Dinner served on the church grounds.

1:30 p. m. Rev. O. J. Steger of Covington, will speak. His message will be in keeping with the spirit of the day. At the close of the message, Rev. R. A. Johnson will offer the prayer of dedication.

There will be no services at night.

AUDIT REPORT FOR ERLANGER

IS SUBMITTED—EXACT FINANCIAL CONDITION OF CITY TO BE EXPLAINED OFFICIALS ANNOUNCE.

The long-awaited audit report of the city of Erlanger was made last week by Auditor Clinton F. Gardiner, who stated that the books showed a "shortage" of $8,479.54.

Coincidental with submission of the report, councilmen stated after the meeting that they planned to call a mass meeting of the citizens of the city to explain to them the exact financial condition.

The present board of trustees, elected last November, promised a complete and thorough audit and report in the campaign for election.

The figures given on the city's indebtedness show that $48,054.36 is in accounts payable to creditors; $26,803.23 is in notes to banks; $13,169.20 is in notes to creditors; a court judgment for property damaged by underpass construction is $600; $112,800 in general obligation bonds, and interest on general obligation bonds is $3211.90.

The total is $204,638.69.

The figures are not complete, according to the report, as the "shortage" takes no account of partial payments and interest that may have been received and not recorded. Neither does the idebtedness figure account for an issue of $101,000 of sewer revenue bonds known to have been prepared.

The exact usage of the sewer revenue issue was not known, according to the board. The record of minutes of meetings of former board of trustees and the spending records also fail to check in places, Mr. Gardiner reported.

Mr. Gardiner added that the valuation of property in the city was $1,432,710 in 1937. Erlanger, a sixth class city, has a tax limit of 75 cents on the $100 valuation. This means that the city's highest expected income from taxes is $10,745.33 annually, the auditor said.

The report was not completed at last week's meeting but the full typewritten statement will be presented at the next meeting of the board.

Other official business included the passage of an ordinance to annex a portion of land adjacent to the city on the north, as surveyed by R. C. Stout, city engineer. The ordinance was ordered posted in prominent places in the city.

TOBACCO BASES ARE ADJUSTED

BY BOONE COUNTY COMMITTEE — REDUCTION OF 67.7 ACRES MADE FOR ENTIRE COUNTY.

The County Committees of the Agricultural Conservation Association spent two days the past week adjusting Boone County's 1938 tobacco bases to meet adjustment requirements set up by the Washington office. The 1938 base for the county as a whole was adjusted from 3367.7 acres to 3300 acres, a reduction of 67.7 acres.

It is understood that a few additional acres will be set up by the Washington office for new growers. However, no definite acreage for these growers has been announced for the county.

The committees reported the problem of adjusting bases as the most difficult job encountered during the year. Every effort was m de to set up the most equitable d ribution possible among individ al producers. Growers should sh uld receive official announcements through the mail on their 1938 tobacco bases by the last of thi week or the first of next week.

A FRUIT FORECAST

Political questions may continue to furnish the chief topic of conversation where more than one may be assembled at a time, but when one or more women get together it is pretty certain to be the outlook for a big fruit year and a good canning season.

That the country as a whole was in for another bumper fruit crop before the severe and unexpected sleet and snow struck a goodly part of it in early April seemed almost a certainty. Since that disastrous bit of weather, however, reports officially made to Washington and gathered by newspapers in various sections, indicate that the damage was heavier, and somewhat widespread, than anticipated immediately following the storm. The fruit belts of Vermont northern New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Michigan report considerable damage but still an excellent outlook for apples, grapes, peaches and cherries. States bordering on the Mississippi, also hard hit by sleet and freezing temperatures not yet so sure they are going to fare as well. Through the southern fruit belt, however, the outlook is far from gloomy, taken as a whole, and the south may be counted upon, it is reported, to make up any shortage occurring in the other states when the harvest is over.

So it would appear that so far as anything like bordering on a famine is concerned, local housewives will not not need to worry. Uncle Sam's reports indicate that there will be enough for all, and without the necessity of tilting prices. And that ought to be pleasing news just now.

TOO MUCH WIND

With another spring marked by more than the usual number of cyclones and windstorms throughout the country, with scarcely any section totally immune from them, one is apt to wonder just why these visitations seem so much numerous now than in former years. Ask an old timer for his opinion and in almost every instance he will blame it on the steady slaughter of shade and forest trees that has been under way for the past 40 or 50 years. With the forests declimated, the wind gets a clean sweep. And with a population far more dense now than it was a quarter of a century ago it is pretty hard for any sort of windstorm to rage without greater property damage than used to be the case.

Since all the preaching the newspapers can do, and all the praying the conservationnists resort to do not have any effect and the slaughter of forests goes on just the same there appears to be no relief from the ever-increasing tornadoes than to insure your property, trust to luck and sit back and take what comes. Since these storms seem to have a habit of sweeping the poorer and less prosperous sections, however, this is not a remedy because too many cannot afford insurance. For his own protection, and the protection of the generation that will follow him, the man who cuts a tree today might try the plan of planting two in its place. You can't have forests if you destroy faster than you replace, and you can't find any other protection against cyclones and windstorm as your forests form, for nothing has yet been invented to provide it.

A GRUESOME JAMBOREE

The motorist who has awaited official figures of the 1937 auto casualty list may now have his curiosity gratified. Exactly 39,700 is the toll. And while there is a tiny bit of satisfaction in finding that it is a few thousand—two or three—short of the previous year, it still offers plenty of proof that there is need for still greater care, still more sanity at the steering wheel, if even this deplorable death toll is to be lessened in the months ahead. This year is reported to have started out with a slightly better showing than last year. There should be a nation-wide prayer that this ratio may be maintained. Recklessness and carelessness are twin vices, bad habits that we have acquired in the rapid pace at which we go through life. It will pay us rich dividends to slow down a bit, to think before we act, to take precaution instead of chances. There are a lot of things most of us would rather do than ride in an ambulance or a hearse.

BOOK-KEEPING AT HOME

Wonder how many residents depending on the soil for a living actually have an accurate system of book-keeping and keep tab on production? We are reminded of this by reading where a western farm agent declares that a recent investigation in his section showed that those who keep books, and a careful check on all receipts and expenditures, get a better return on their money than those who just pay out as they get the money and get the money as they can and without keeping accounts of it. He says some have doubled their labor income by maintaining a business-like check on all transactions. Of course, it takes a little time, and considerable patience, but if it is economical then it is time and patience well expended. We'd be glad to hear more on this subject, and especially from anyone in the neighborhood who has had experience in farm bookkeeping, and who knows how to explain his system to his neighbors.

A WIDE DIFFERENCE

Unfortunate for the better-type motorists of the country there exists today a type of driver who thinks he can hide behind the idea that he is a "stranger" and thereby break traffic rules, regulation of a community and get by with it. The average community is sympathetic with the stranger within its midst. But at the same time they have the greatest sympathy for the gentleman driver, the one who feels regret when he breaks a traffic law and who doesn't expect special privileges or special consideration simply because he is a stranger. That type of motorist has little trouble in setting himself right when he breaks a rule. He can be forgiven his error. But sympathy soon vanishes for the fellow who thinks that because he is a "stranger" he should be allowed freedom to go his way with a wink and a smile. This type of motorist is a disgrace to the entire fraternity of American motorists and the sooner the communities in which he appears put him in his place, and keep him there, the better for all who drive autos.

TESTING DISCIPLESHIP BY SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 10:17-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come . . . and follow me.—Mark 10:21.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Young Man Jesus Loved.
JUNIOR TOPIC — What a Rich Man Needed.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Proving Our Loyalty to Christ by Service.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Marks of Discipleship.

"The almighty dollar"—how triumphantly it rules in the affairs of nations and of the men who make up nations. The world's measure of success is how much one can "make," and "no questions asked" as to how one made it, if he but avoid the legal pitfalls that may land him in jail. Even that is no longer a disgrace, for men who have defrauded others serve a term in jail to "pay their debt to society," and then return without shame to enjoy the use of their ill-gotten gains. Skill in the arts and sciences is rated according to its financial value. Brains and beauty are commodities of the market place. Liquor is permitted to destroy our people because it provides a profit.

The minds of men and women of decency and intelligence revolt at the whole situation. Let us encourage them as we improve the opportunity today to present God's moral and spiritual standards.

I. Self Before God (vv. 17-22).

The rich young ruler had many advantages and virtues. He was young, life was before him, vivid was his imagination, strong was his body. He was educated, and developed intelligence is an honor to any man. He had position, which can always be used for good. He had money, which when rightly gained and used, is a powerful and honorable possession. Above all, he had the priceless jewel of good character. Notice that he had kept the commandments, that he came before the Lord in humility seeking truth, and that Jesus "loved him" (v. 21).

Almost any father would be proud to own this young man as a son. Many churches would welcome him to membership and even to leadership. Jesus dealt with him honestly, however, and went to the root of his difficulty which was that he loved himself and his possessions more than he loved God. Therefore he must give them up before he could really follow Jesus. Sad indeed was his refusal. He came running (v. 17), but he went away sorrowful (v. 22).

What stands between you and a full surrender to Christ? Face it honestly. Be thankful if your pastor or a friend frankly points it out. Shun those who would "pat you on the back" and assure you that all is well. A cancer will kill unless it is cut out. The surgeon's knife may hurt, but it is an instrument of good.

Note that the statement of Jesus in verse 18 is not a denial of His deity, but a definite claim that He is God. He says in effect, "If you call me good you must recognize that I am God."

II. God Before Self (vv. 21-27).

The disciples, who evidently shared the common opinion that money could do almost anything, were surprised to hear that riches were really a hindrance to spirituality, because (v. 24) of the tendency of men to trust in their wealth and forget their need of God.

Jesus does not leave the rich man without hope, for he goes on to say that what is impossible for men and even for the rich man himself is entirely possible with God.

Two things need emphasis in this connection. First, let those of us who have little of this world's goods be thankful that we have, at least, been delivered from this temptation. It may well be an expression of God's love and grace toward us. Second, let us thank God for every man of wealth who has given himself and what he has into God's hands.

III. The Last Before the First (vv. 28-31).

The ways of God are confusing and humbling to the flesh. The way up in spiritual things is to go down (Mark 9:35). Those who are first in the eyes of men are often last in God's sight. Others whom men count as least stand highest in God's sight because they are faithful and true to Him. The world looks at the missionary of the cross and says, "He has sacrificed everything," and knows nothing of the "hundredfold" reward even in this life, "and in the world to come, eternal life" (v. 30).

A STYLE HINT

The blousy blouse which is cut to look as if it is at least two sizes for the wearer is the hit of the early springtime. Some call it the "balloon" blouse and some the Gibson girl shirtwaist. The sleeves are large from shoulder to wrist although gathered into a snug band at the bottom, and there are pleats, tucks or gathers both front and back to provide the clousiness. An elastic band at the waist line holds the fullness in place.

THE GARDEN

WEEDS

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

So far, gardeners have had little cause to be concerned about the weeds among their vegetables, for there has been rain sufficient for both crops. Also, average temperatures have been low, and this has further favored the vegetables and operated against the sprouting of weed seed. From now on, however, the rains will slacken, the soil will dry out and the weather will become warmer, and this will operate in favor of the weeds, for they have been surviving through many unkindly season, and despite hard conditions.

The vegetables, on the contrary, are pampered pets, bred for production only, dependent wholly on the gardener's effort in their behalf. This effort is summed up in one word, "cultivation": the modern way of saying "working" the garden. The two terms are by no means synonyms, though the aim of both processes is the same but with quite different approach.

"Working" the garden consisted of churning the soil, cutting it with deep gashes and turning up to the sun the deeper, moist soil, for it to lose its moisture. Incidentally, some weeds were uprooted and some "smothered," at least for the time being.

Another aim of this working was to prepare the soil ahead of the root ends so they would penetrate it, and still another was to "air the soil," so that the roots were supplied.

The beneficient part of this sort of "working" was that weeds were destroyed, though not all, for some of those that were somthered need to be smothered again, but the other objectives, those of making the soil open so the roots could work into it, and giving these same roots air in the amount they needed it, were missed. For any such loosening of soil that tends to run together and to bake could not be of permanent value, and neither could such airing of run-together soil, if in fact, plant roots need as much air as some persons supposed. Rather, to keep soil in easily workable condition, humus matter should have been plowed into it at the beginning of the season and the soil properly fitted, to take care of both its root pentrability and its correct aeration.

In the course of the "working," sometimes roots were laid bare and their ends cut off, but this was regarded as part of training to make the vegetables hardy against later hard times, but they lost time, and wasted energy that might have been used to better purpose, but the harvest suffered. If the weather was dry, the set-back was more pronounced, and sometimes the vegetables died.

So, deep "working," close to the vegetable roots, went out of fashion and "cultivation" came in, as taking less effort ,to which there could be no valid objection, and as being infinitely kinder to the crops especially inasmuch as cultivation accomplishes all that was necessary, anyhow, which is to remove weeds.

A man can't have a good time unless he spends a lot of money. But it's different with a woman.

After a citizen has been on this earth about fifty years he reaches the conclusion that the real trouble with this world is that there are too many things to buy and too little money to do it with.

IN THE KITCHEN

Equal quantities of mustard and grated horseradish when mixed make an excellent relish for cold meats . . . When sugar gets hard and lumpy put it in the regrigerator for two or three days and you will find it will become quite hard again . . . One-fourth bread crumbs and two tablespoons of water added to each pound of meat when preparing hamburger steak makes a much lighter mixture.

COLLATERAL IS RETURNED

TO WALTON MAN UPON $2,500 NOTE HE PAID—CHRISTIAN CHURCH IS ADJUDGED OWNER OF BONDS.

Lexington, Ky., May 5—John L. Vest, Walton, Ky., attorney, and the Christian Church of Campbellsville won points today in a case tried before Federal Judge H. Church Ford, involving the tangled affairs of the Taylor National Bank, Campbellsville, which closed July 1, 1937.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Company, as receiver of the closed bank, had sued Vest in an attempt to collect on two notes, one for $10,000 and another for $2,500.

At the conclusion of an all-day hearing, Judge Ford took the matter of the $10,000 note under consideration, but entered an immediate decree upholding Vest's contention that he was entitled to a credit of $50 on the $2,500 note, and was entitled to return of collateral he had put up to secure it.

Vest, admitting liability on the $2,500 note, already had paid into the court registry $2,454.28, which he contended was the correct sum due. Judge Ford held this sum was sufficient to satisfy the note in full and ordered return to Vest of 500 shares of stock of the Formica Insulation Company, which he had pledged as collateral. The court further upheld Vest's contention the Formica stock could not be considered collateral on the $10,000 note.

The Christian Church of Campbellsville was adjudged the owner of four bonds of the Allegheny Corporation, of a par value of $4,000, which the receiver had found attached to the $10,000 note as collateral. Vest disclaimed any interest in the bonds, and so did the receiver. How they came to be attached to the note was not disclosed.

Still to be decided by Judge Ford is the question of Vest's liaibility on the $10,000 note, which he said he signed merely as an accommodation to T. O. Morton, then President of the bank, now under indictment in connection with the bank's failure.

Vest testified he did not receive the $10,000 or any part of it. He declared Morton had asked him to sign the note(explaining that he (Morton) wanted to borrow the money for his own private business but that it would not look good for the Prseident of the bank to be borrowing that much money from the bank.

When the money was obtained, Vest declared, it was deposited to Morton's credit in the Bank of Commerce, Louisville.

Vest said Morton promised to put up sufficient collateral to cover the $10,000 note, and to pay the interest. Vest said at no time was he ever called upon to pay any interest on the note, which was executed January 26, 1935, more than two years and five months before the bank closed.

Vest declared he executed the final renewal of the note in blank, letting Morton fill it in afterwards.

Morton was owner of 80 per cent of the bank's stock, and testimony was offered today that he completely dominated affairs of the institution. This was considered important in view of a plea of Vest's that Morton, in effect, "was the bank," and that "the bank" therefore had notice that the proceeds of the $10,000 note were going to Morton and not to Vest.

Several Directors of the bank, put on the witness stand to controvert the theory that Morton dominated the bank's affairs, said all loans were approved by the Directors. Taking over the questioning himself, Judge Ford drew from one witness, a Director and a member of the bank's Loan Committee, an admission that Morton made all the loans first and then told the Loan Committee what he had done.

Eugene R. Attkisson, Louisville, appeared as counsel for the Federal Deposit Insurance Company, while the defendant was represented by Vest and Vest, Walton, and Shelley D. Rouse, Covington.

After passing on the ownership of the church's bonds and the matter of Vest's $2,500 note, Judge Ford ordered briefs submitted on the question of Vest's liability on the $10,000 note.

INTERESTING TRIP ENJOYED BY HAMILTON SENIOR CLASS FRIDAY

The senior class of the Hamilton school composed of Dale Williamson, Corrine Williamson, Pauline Aylor, Wallace Aylor, Bessie Hodges Mary Calvin Atha, Margie Miller and Robert W. Carroll, enjoyed a two-day trip though a large portion of Kentucky last week.

Leaving home early Friday morning the youngsters motored to Richmond State Teachers College, where they attended the activities of Senior Day held there annually for high school seniors from all parts of Kentucky. The morning hours were spent touring the buildings and grounds of the college campus under the leadership of an interesting little student guide.

At the noon hour a delicious lunch was served the visiting seniors, which you may well imagine was readily appreciated, after the tour of inspection which involved many miles of walking. Immediately after lunch the entire body gathered in the stadium for a most interesting and varied program, put on by the various departments of college work, including games, stunts, wrestling matching, R. O. T. C. drill work and a period of football practice. A few Boone County boys, now students there, were noted as taking part in these activities. "Peggy Robinson," Elmore Ryle and Leslie Voshell, of Burlington, were recognized. The college band rendered stirring selection during lapses of the program, and at the conclusion everyone admitted having spent an enjoyable afternoon, even though the sun was several degrees too warm for complete comfort. Following the program at the college the party enjoyed a late afternoon trip out of the foothills of the Kentucky mountains, visiting Big Hill, and the Deer Stables, near Sand Gap. That evening, upon return to Richmond for the night, they "took in" the movie, "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," and returned to their rooms at the Hotel Eastern, eight very tired but happy youngsters.

After an early breakfast Saturday morning they started for Cumberland Falls, going by way of Berea, London, and Corbin. Many stops were made for the purpose of taking kodak pictures, study of various rock formation, and natural plant life, etc. A short visit at the falls and the party started the long drive home, stopping at several interesting points, such as High Bridge, Harrodsburg and Danville.

Nearing home they found that they had traveled over five hundred miles, that they were very, very tired, that they had consumed a hug stack of hamburger sandwiches, (to say nothing of all the soft drinks and ice cream, etc.), but everyone voted the trip a great pleasure and wished they might have had a longer time to spend at the various places of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Huff chaperoned the boys and girls on this trip. William Allen, a senior of a few years back, also accompanied the group, taking a part of the passengers in his car.

MRS. AGNES VICKERS

Mrs. Agnes Vickers passed away Tuesday evening, May 3, at the age of 86 years.

She was the oldest member of the Pt. Pleasant Christian church and had been active in church work, throughout her life.

Funeral services were held at the Pt. Pleasant church on last Thursday at 2 o'clock with interment at the Hebron cemetery by the side of her husband.

She leaves one son, Frank Hood, two grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn her passing.

Several Jefferson county homemakers clubs have established circulating libraries.

PARAGRAPHS

Still another trouble with average man who rides a hobby is that he wants to take up the whole road with it.

It's an easy matter to drum up a crowd for a public auction sale or a baseball game but it's a job getting the same fellows to the polls.

When a man says he came out "about even' 'at a horse race or a poker game it's pretty safe to bet he lost.

It may not interest you, but a lot of people wonder why the fellow who has but very little hair left doesn't comb it over the bald spot.

As a general thing, those who know how to properly pronounce the names of French dishes haven't money enough to pay for them.

The easiest way on earth for a woman to make her husband mad is to start in repeating a few of the promises he made while he was courting her.

The mother who tells you her daughter has talent for music often does so to blind you to the fact that daughter pounds the piano because she would rather do that than wash dishes.

As a rule, the mother who made a poor job of training her own children is the first one to want to tell the school teacher how to do it.

NAVY CATAPULTS

The U. S. Navy is largely responsible for the development of the catapult. The first power catapult was built on the Santee Dock at the Naval Academy in 1912 and tried by Lieutenant T. G. Ellyson, one of the Navy's first aviators. Unfortunately the track could not be trained and a cross wind took hold of the craft and spilled it into the water. One thing had been learned—that the plane and fittings could withstand the shock of the initial acceleration. Undaunted, Lieutenant Commander Richardson set to work to build the second catapult on a barge. It was a great improvement with the car secured to the tracks and the outer end of the track curved up so as to throw the plane into the air. Again Ellyson tried, and on October the 12th, 1912, made the first successful catapult launching as he left the 31 foot track at 40 miles per hour. It was not until 1915 that the catapult was installed aboard ship, on the cruiser North Carolina. It was mounted on the stern where a boom placed in the muzzle of a turret gun could be used as an aviation crane.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Spice Cakes—Stir up 1 egg with 1 cup sugar; add 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1 teaspoon cloves. Then add 1 cup sour milk into which has been put 1 teaspoon soda; add ½ cup melted shortening. Stir in 2 cups of flour measured after sifting twice. Beat in all together. Add 1 cup of chopped raisins, ½ cup chopped walnuts, salt and flavoring. Bake in muffin tins in a moderate oven.

THE SEWING ROOM

For decorative touches on small daughter's dresses use linen handkerchiefs. These may be cut diagonally into collar and cuffs or the corners may be made into very attractive flaps for pockets. Since the handkerchifs come in almost any color and have touches of lovely handwork, you will find that you not only save a great of time and trimmings but also have the prettiest of trimmings.

STATION TESTS APPLE GRAFTING

The principal advantage in using whole-root grafts instead of piece roots, in the propagation of apples, is in the lower mortality after they are set in the nursery roy, according to tests made by Prof. C. S. Waltman at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station and reported in circular No. 49. He found no difference in the height and diameter of nursery trees produced from whole and from piece roots.

Some nurserymen also think that the central portion of the cion produces best results. Waltman obtained just as good results when using the tip half as when using the basal part of the cion.

TO HOLD CHICK SHOW FOR BETTER POULTRY

The Poultry club, a student organization, the poultry section of the College of Agriculture and the Kentucky Poultry Improvement Association are cooperating in the fourth annual baby chicks show at the Phoenix hotel in Lexington May 17-18. The purpose of the show is to show the public, farmers, poultry raisers, hatchery operators and others just what good chicks are, and how they are necessary for better poultry. Prizes will be awarded in the principal breeds of chickens, and on turkey poults, guineas, ducks, geese and game birds.

MORE INTEREST IN RAISING WORKSTOCK

Inquiries received at the Kentucky Experiment Station at Lexington point to increased interest in the breeding of horses and mules. Many of the letters are directed to the department of animal pathology and concern problems of feeding, breeding, the kind of mares, stallions and jacks to use, and the control of diseases of both mature animals and new-born foals.

Kentucky is fortunately situated to raise and use horses and mules, says Dr. W. W. Dimock of the Experiment Station. Pasture in some sections is available 9 or 10 months in the year, and farms are of moderate size and diversified, favoring the use of animal power.

The United States department of agriculture says that on Jan 1, this year, there were on Kentucky farms 232,000 horses valued at $23,500,000 and 231,000 mules valued at $28,534,000, or a combined value of $52,034,000. This considers all horses in the state at farm workstock prices.

The number of sheep in Kentucky is estimatd at 1,110,000, valued at $7,770,000, and the number of hogs in the state put at 1,024,000 worth $9,324,000. Milk cows number 551,000, according to census figures, worth $22,040,000, while there are 621,000 other cattle valued at $14,557,000. Hence the value of all livestock in Kentucky, other than horses and mules, is 53,691,000 compared to $52,034,000 for workstock.

TODAY IN KENTUCKY

By Henry Ward

Frankfort, Ky., May 10—The extraordinary session of the Kentucky legislature planned for this month has been postponed until May 2', but not because there is insufficient time before that to prepare the legislation proposed for it.

Governor A. B. Chandler had indicated that the session would be call for May 16th, but changed his mind. In a speech at Louisville, the Governor said that postponement of the session was forced because details of the legislation to be considered have not been worked out. His statement conflicts with one made three weeks ago by Frederick A. Wallis, state commissioner of welfare, who said that the issues relative to the legislation had been agreed upon, even to the extent that a devision had been reached that approximately a half million dollars would be appropriated to pay the cost of the new program for the employment of trained doctor for the state hospitals and asylums.

Wallis said the legislation was ready for submission whenever Chandler convened the special session. In fact, he made an announcement that he would support Governor Chandler in his campaign to wrest the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate from Senator Alben W. Barkley with the definite understanding that the session would be called for May 16. On the same day, Governor Chandler said he would call the legislators to Frankfort for that day, but changed his mind after Wallis was safely on his side.

The real reason for postponing the session is that the Governor hopes that the Court of Appeals will pass on his purgation act before the legislators go home, so he can have the act corrected and made ready for use before the August primary. The court will hold a hearing on the purgation measure on May 20. Circuit Judge Churchill Humphrey, Louisville, has held it unconstitutional.

Governor Chandler made nationwide news last week by switching his position and bestowed his blessings on the famed Kentucky colonels, and adding 10 to the list. They are the first colonels he has appointed since he was lieutenant-governor, when he vied with Governor Laffoon as a colonel-maker.

When he looked about this year for distinguished persons who merit the honor of being designated as colonels on his staff, Governor Chandler found only three Kentuckians. Seven of the 10 he selected and anounced do not reside in this state. They are: Don W. Frazier, West Lynn, Mass.; L. B. Seltzer, editor of the central group of Scripps-Howard newspapers; J. Edgar Hoover, Washington, head of the G-Men; Charles F. Gannon, New York, Warren Wright, Chicago, baking powder magnate; Ralph Quin, Cincinnati, managing editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, anti-New Deal paper; and John M. Considine, Boston. The three new colonels listed as Kentuckians are: Maj. Louie Beard, Lexington, general manager of the Whitney racing interests; W. F. Wright, Lexington; and B. C. Lee, Erlanger, state commander of the American Legion.

The big tobacco companies are planning to finance an assault on the new national tobacco act, but not openly as tobacco interests. The campaign actually will be directed against Senator Barkley, and it will be charged the legislation was passed against the wishes of the farmers. Recently both burley and dark tobacco growers gave overwhelming endorsement to the legislation in referendums in which they had the right to say whether they wanted marketing quotas established.

Jim Farley, postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic national committee, came to Kentucky for the Derby, and denied, incidentally, that he and President Roosevelt are in disagreement about the Kentucky political situation. Asked about his attitude toward Senator Barkley, Farley told a reporter: "You know what the boss (President Roosevelt) thinks of him." He added that as chairman of the Democratic national committee he does not take a personal part in any party primary contest.

Thousands of aged Kentuckians are going to get at least one old age pension check before they die. Directors of the old age pension division here have been instructed by the Chandler campaign strategists to add from 12,000 to 20,000 names to the pension list for the month of July, and to send each a check of at least $7. The new fiscal year starts July 1, and there will be plenty of money available then—at least enough to provide old age pensions for one month.

The P.-T. A. of Hamilton school holds its final meeting Thursday, May 5th at the schoolhouse. Committee reports showed a very prosperous year had been enjoyed. The following officers for the year 1938 and 1939 were elected: Mrs. Noel Walton, president; Frank Hager, vice president and Mrs. R. E. Kirtley, secretary-treas.

Angling Notes

By James J. Gilpin
Director of Publicity

Frankfort, Ky.—A bill, sponsored by the Division of Game and Fish, was passed at the 1938 regular session of the Kentucky General Assembly which will give protection to jack salmon or wall eyed pike and striped bass in this state.

These three species of fish have, heretofore, been unprotected, but this new law, which will become effective May 30, midnight, places a limit on the number of fish which can be taken in any one day. The new law states: "No person shall take, or catch, or have in his possession more than fifteen (15) jack salmon or wall eyed pike nor more than fifteen (15) striped bass in any one day; provided, however, that any person having fished two days in succession may have in possession a total not to exceed thirty (30) jack salmon or wall eyed pike, or thirty (30) striped bass."

The new act also protects these fish in the seining of minnows. It states: "It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to take from the public waters of this State minnows to be used for bait for fishing with pole and line, hand line, set lines or trot lines with minnow seine. Said seine shall not be more than ten feet in length, four feet in width or heighth with mesh not larger than a quarter of an inch. Minnows, within the meaning of this act, shall be all fish under six inches in length, except bass, rock bass, or goggle eye, trout, crappie, jack salmon or wall eyed pike, or striped bass."

It shall also be unlawful to sell or offer for sale in this State any jack salmon or wall eyed pike, or striped bass.

The 1938 Kentucky General Assembly also enacted a law which will make it unlawful for any person in this state to set, use or maintain, for the capture of furbearing animals, any trap, snare, or other device which does not either take alive unhurt or kill at once. The trapper will be within the law to use any of the new kinds of leghold traps which take and hold without pain or injury. He may use any box or wire-cage trap, the old-fashioned deadfall, and the instant-killing traps for very small animals, provided, that if instant-killing traps are used, they shall be set within a burrow or hole, so as not to injure domestic animals.

It shall also be unlawful for any person to set trap or traps on the land of another person without first having secured a written permission from the owner of the land. After the traps have been set, they must be visited at least once every thirty-six hours and any animal or bird caught therein removed. Any violation of the law upon conviction will mean a fine of not less than fifteen ($15) dollars and not more than one hundred ($100.00) dollars for each offense.

Cats can find the most carefully hidden birds' nests by the calls of the young birds that are still in their shells. Being extremely fond of eggs that are just about to hatch, cats will go to a great deal of trouble to reach such nests.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Rouse entertained Mother's Day, Mr. and Mrs. John Holbrook and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Rouse, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Holbrook and two children and Frank Parker. The occasion was in honor of Mrs. Rouse's birthdady. She received several nice gifts.

Men of the Mounted

by Captain G. Elliott-Nightingale
Copyright, WNU

THE SKULL WITH A HOLE IN ITS FOREHEAD

THEY found the headless body of an aged man on the banks of the Bow river right after the ice had gone out, and right away there was a check-up to find out who was missing. That was in June, 1910. Several months passed and then, just as the beautiful Bow was beginning to freeze up again, a trapper stumbled over a small boulder. Later on, upon examining the round thing that had tripped him, the trapper realized that he was handling a human skull. Like a good Canadian he was soon in touch with the Royal Mounted.

A more thorough and extensive search and investigation was soon under way. Within a few yards of where the skull had been picked up, the Mounted saw a strange looking heap which later proved to be a blanket and a cowhide tied with ropes, the whole still frozen solid. The first discovery had come in June, the second in November, and still no one had turned up missing. With everyone accounted for, the only thing the Mounted could do was to store the remains. The check-up of transients and settlers, however, continued; meanwhile a grizzled and widely experienced physician and surgeon examined the remains. The physician announced, a little while later, that the man had been about fifty or sixty, had iron-gray hair, and that the hole in the forehead had been made by a bullet of .22 caliber, and that the bullet had been found imbedded in the skull. Moreover, there had been another bullet found in the body. It had entered from the right side and had coursed upward through both lungs and had lodged in the ribs of the lower left side.

Then a constable had a bright idea. Everyone had been accounted for, he argued, but that was only for the year 1910 or for the months preceding and following the discovery of the headless body. What about last year? After all, the constable argued, the deceased could easily have been done in a year or two years ago, so why not go back a bit? Soon all interest was centered upon the absence of one of the first settlers, an Englishman named Peach. In no time the Mounted discovered that Peach had sold out to a man named Robertson and had then returned to his home in England. Robertson was soon being questioned in a town a hundred miles away, and he corroborated the information of the deal with Peach. Later it was learned that Robertson had moved to Calgary after having bought the Peach homestead and that he had left orders that all mail for Peach be forwarded on to his address in Calgary. Well, this was really the first "break" for the Mounted. Why should Robertson want Peach's mail forwarded to him?

Robertson was again questioned, this time by a Mounted policeman he had never seen before but who knew the results of the first interview.

Robertson's story changed color entirely during this second questioning, but the Mounted policeman kept this discovery entirely to himself. Some days later another Man of the Mounted had a quiet little chat with Robertson, and again the latter's story changed completely. Surely Robertson was tying himself up into a knot. Then he announced that he was going down to a small settlement just a few miles away for a few days' rest, a sort of short vacation.

Instead of alighting at the small town, he stayed on the train and went through to McLeod. Here he proceeded to get drunk and was soon boasting that he had made a cleanup in the Yukon gold fields and was returning to his home in the States. And, as he sat boasting how tough he had been in his time, a constable of the McLeod detachment walked in and very quietly arrested him for the murder of Tucker Peach. Back in Calgary, Robertson tied himself in such a knot of lies and falsehoods that there was nothing else to do but confess. His confederate, one Fisk, had fired the first shot, into Peach's forehead. He, Robertson, had fired the second. Fisk had learned that Peach had a large amount of money hidden somewhere about his homestead cabin, and was scheming to get it when he met Robertson who was planning to buy the Peach homestead. "Buy it," advised Fisk, "then we'll knock him (Peach) on the head and get your money back. Then we'll ransack the cabin and find the two thousand he has hidden somewhere in it. After that, you take the homestead, and I'll take the horses, and we split his money between us when we find it."

No one knows to this day whether Fisk and Robertson found the old man's hoard, but they do know that Canadian law worked fast, and smoothly as these two renegades were tried. Fisk was sentenced to hang. Robertson was given life imprisonment. Inside of a month after capture, both men had begun paying for their awful crime.

Write Note of Thanks to Sympathetic Friends

DEAR Mrs. Post: Is it proper to acknowledge notes sent in sympathy with a thank you card? I believe that friends and acquaintances should eventually be thanked by note no matter what the extent of their expressions of sympathy, but my daughter feels that for slighter expressions a printed form could be used. In fact, she thinks that these times, and birthday and anniversary occasions are the only ones when printed cards of thanks would be suitable. Will you give us your opinion.

Answer: In return for a card another card is suitable. But thanks for a present or a real favor or anything as serious as a letter of condolence must be answered by a note or at least a handwritten message. Sympathy shown to a family in deep mourning can be answered with fewest handwritten words on a visiting card. This limited answer is obviously permitted because of the effort that any longer reply would be to one in sorrow. Moreover, less near members of the family may write in the places of those most nearly concerned.

Junior Bridesmaid

DEAR Mrs. Post: I have a sister only eleven years old, but big for her age. She is my only sister and at an age that seems to make it impossible to include her in my wedding party either as a flower girl or as a bridesmaid, and yet I know the poor child will be heartbroken if you can't find some place for her.

Answer: Make her a junior bridesmaid. That means that she wears a dress as nearly as possible like those worn by the bridesmaids, but modified to suit her age. If you have a maid of honor, your sister should follow the ushers either walking alone or else walking with another junior bridesmaid. If she walks immediately before you, this would make her your maid of honor, which she can perfectly well be if you have not already invited your best friend.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

The campaign took a definite turn this last week when Governor Chandler attacked the president in a speech at Lawrenceburg. It has long been rumored that Dan Talbott and Bob Humphries were spending many sleepless nights worrying over their effort to keep the Governor from taking this step. The Governor said in his speech at Lawrenceburg last week, "When Mr. Roosevelt was running for President, he told you the depression was caused by President Hoover—allowing the country to go in debt to the extent of $5,000,000,000. If being in debt $5,000,000,000 caused the depression, then what about the $42,000,000,000 we have now."

With the Lawrenceburg speech the battle lines are definitely drawn and the seige guns will start firing. The campaign seems to be Chandler and his State debt payment program against Barkley, Roosevelt and the Federal spending program.

The farmers have been suffering from a shortage of farm labor because of the WPA spending program, which uses labor in their projects, which the farmers need so Governor Chandler intimated. But in same speech he denounced the fact that the WPA maximum wage in Kentucky is the minimum wage in surrounding states.

The special session of the General Assembly will be called about the last of this month, the reason for the delay, being the extra time required to draft the bill on the proposed legislation, that deals with the moderization of state institutions for the treatment of the insane inmates.

Senator Barkley appeared before the Senate Appropriation Committee last week requesting additional sums to be appropriated for use in the forestry service and for tobacco grading administration. He asked that a total of $10,000,000 be provided for the Forestery Service and pointed out that this would enable the service to acquire 128,000 additional acres in the Eastern Kentucky region known as the "Breaks of Sandy" for the Jefferson National Forest Reserve. Rumors from Washington have it that Barkley will be busy in Washington until the early part of June and will have to confine his active part in his campaign with week-end visits to Kentucky. It is said that the House and Senate will not adjourn until the first week in June.

RANDOM SHOTS

A delegate from the N. Y. World's Fair called at the Capitol last week extending an invitation to the people of Kentucky to visit the fair. Kentucky has appropriated $35,000 for an exposition at the fair. . . . . Texas State Auditor, Mr. King, was in Frankfort last week, at the request of the governor of his state. He came to study the Kentucky financial system set up by the Re-organization Act. Mr. King said, the next session of the Texas Legislature will be asked to enact a law embracing the Kentucky system. Under the expert guidance of Commissioner Martin, Kentucky's taxation and financial setup has gained national recognition. The states of Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Indiana, Ohio and West Virginia have studied it, in an effort to model theirs along similar lines. . . . Governor Fred P. Cone, stopped for a brief visit at the capital last week, on his way to the Derby.

NEW LAW IS EXPLAINED

CONCERNING FISHING DURING MONTH OF MAY—WILL BE IN EFFECT IN 1939, ACCORDING TO INFORMATION.

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky's fishing season ended at midnight Saturday, April 30th. And now that the month of May has arrived, there seems to be a great deal of misconception and misunderstanding in the ranks of the fishermen as to just when and where they can fish during this month.

The new Game and Fish Code as passed by the General Assembly of Kentucky at its recent session, enacted a law permitting pole and line fishing in "Navigable Waters" during the month of May. But you fishermen should not misunderstand that. Because the bill did not carry an emergency clause and did not become a law immediately upon being signed, but became effective through the normal course. As a result, the only May fishing day this year will be May 31.

"Navigable Waters" means: Any waters within this State under lock and dam. That would include the Kentucky; the Ohio; the Green, and its two tributaries; the Barren and the Rough; the Cumberland; the Tennessee: the Big Sandy, and its two tributaries, the Levisa Fork and the Tug Fork. The four tributaries that are mentioned above are open to fishing below the dams that have been placed some distance from where they flow into the larger streams.

The new law states: "It shall be unlawful to take fish or attempt to take fish in any manner or by any means in any of the public waters of this State during the month of May each year, except that this shall not prohibit fishing with pole and line in any navigable streams but not above the last lock and dam." The Locks and Dams in each stream are numbered, starting with No. 1 and going on up to the number of the last lock and dam on the river. Taking the Kentucky River was an example: The No. 1 lock is located at Carrollton, Ky., at the mouth of the Kentucky river, where it enters the Ohio river. The locks are numbered consecutively up to Lock No. 14, which is located at Heidelberg, Ky. This is the last lock and dam on the Kentucky river and under the new law, it will be unlawful to take fish in any manner above that lock and dam. Fishing with pole and line between Locks No. 1 and 14 will be permitted on the 31st day of this month and not before.

Some fishermen have conceived the idea that they can fish any place a boat as small as a canoe can take them, but they have the wrong idea about that. If they will just remember to find a stream with a government lock and dam on it, when they start out fishing on the 31st day of this month, they will be within the law, but it will be unlawful to start out before that date.

Fishing in ponds will be permitted as before.

Film Relics Seen In Film

Two of Sonja Henie's family heirlooms at last have a chance to appear on exhibition. She wears them in scenes of "Happy Landing," Hit-Maker Darryl F. Zanuck's newest 20th Century-Fox production, which co-stars Don Ameche.

In this musical of superlative splendor, some early scenes show Sonja as a peasant girl at the gay Norseland festivals. When "Happy Landing" appears at the Gayety Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday night, May 18th and 19th, a big Norwegian celebration will show her in typsical costume.

On such occasions it is customary to dress up in traditional finery that does not change in style from generation to generation. Most of these articles of clothing are handed down from mother to daughter.

For the sake of the picture, Sonja's mother presented her with a red, embroidered cap and a colorful hand-woven shawl which she had received from her mother when she was a young girl. Around these two articles Sonja carefully built the rest of her costume, authentic in every detail.

The cap and the shawl have now passed into Sonja's possession, to be handed in turn to one of her children in the distant future.

Sunday

When Stuart Erwin pops the question after a seven-year courtship of Una Merkel, it's not a pop—it's an explosion! And it's Jane Wither's who light the fuse for this hilarious romance in her latest starring picture, "Checkers," which will be shown at the Gayety on Sunday and Monday. Another star of the picture is Marvin Stephens, the famous bad boy of "Borrowing Trouble."

Still another home where happiness always reigns is the one where Mother never kicks because she has to put Dad's shaving set away.

The hospital has a suite of operating rooms, consisting of two major operating rooms, a nose and throat operating room, and a fracture room. In the past year 595 operations were performed.

There is also an emergency receiving department, fully equipped, ready to meet any need. In the past year 1,038 emergency room treatments were given.

The nursing staf fin the obstetricle department is thoroughly trained for this particular work, and the nurse in charge has had extensive experience in deliveries. A maternity and nursery section complete in every detail cares for this particular need. In the past year 260 babies were born.

Hospitals are the outgrowth of modern and scientific medicine. The necessity and importance of hospitals to community life are generally recognized, and obviously adequate facilities must be offered to give the best service. All the people of Northern Kentucky are interested in the hospital a community enterprise. Free work done during the past year amounted to $26,385.36.

From January 2, 1937 to March 31, 1938 the followings sent patients in for free treatment:

Burlington 4; Constance 1; Florence 14; Hebron 1 Union 9, amounting to approximately $500. Last year our County did not come anywhere near donating that amount. Of course ,the hospital goes right on with that work regardless of the response of the public. Our donation makes hospitalization possible for the man in the street. Those who can pay, do; those who cannot must be assisted.

Our organization ,although incomplete, of workers in the County is as foloiws:

POISONED BAIT FOR CUTWORMS

To control cutworms in tobacco beds, spread at the rate of four pounds to 100 square yards of bed a mixture of 25 pounds of bran and a pound of paris green, mixed dry and then dapened. Apply in late afternoon or evening. Were fields of alfalfa or clove are infested, apply the bait among the worms or just ahead of their advance at the rate of 8 to 10 pounds to the acre. These are the recommendations of Prof. W. A. Price, state entomologist at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington.

Flea beetles in plant beds may be controlled with a dust made of 5 parts of arsenate of lead and one part of paris green. Mix well and apply with a rotary hand-operated duster at the rate of a half-pound per 100 square yards of bed, and repeat every fur to seven days.

Rose slugs in rose bushes can be controlled by the used of arsenate of lead, either in dust form with 90 parts of sulphur, or in the form of a spray used at the rate of 10 level teaspoonfuls to a gallon of water. Cover both sides of the leaves.

Mickey Mouse and Minnie will appear in person at Anten's this Saturday at 3 p. m. Free presents for everyone.

Joy Begins In Arcaro Family As Son Rides Winner

Joy, near to the point of hysteria, resigned in a china store at 736 Madison Avenue, Covington, as Eddie Arcaro rode down the stretch on the thundering Lawrin to win the Kentucky Derby.

The race was a whirl of emotions for Eddie's father, Pat Arcaro his mother, Mrs. Josephine Arcaro, and his sister, Miss Helen Arcaro, as they huddled near the radio in the store, intent on every detail of the exciting race.

When Lawrin, Eddie's mount, took the lead near the finish of the race, the jockey's parents prayed more than cheered for their son's victory.

As the winner of the race deepest in the hearts of all Kentuckians was anounced, the father gave a loud cheer. Helen danced about the store in sheer delight. The mother broke into tears of joy.

When the mother had regained her composure, aided by a tender embrace from her husband, she did the womanly thing—she went to a beauty shop next door to have her hair dressed and a manicure. The father put in a telephone call to Louisville and left word for his son to call him. The duty of receiving congratulations of friends was taken over by the sister—Mr. and Mrs. Arcaro said they were too overcome with emotion to talk to friends and well wisher for a time.

Arcaro said he did not accompany his son to Louisville because he was apprehensive that he might bring the boy bad luck. Eddie visited his parents at their home 2325 Joyce Avenue, Newport, Thursday, and urged them to accompany him to Louisville, but the father refused. The father said he believed his presence at the Derby two years ago caused his son to go down in defeat when he rode Nellie Flag.

Another sister, Miss Evelyn Arcaro, listened to an account of the race over a radio in a store on Monmouth Street, Newport, operated by her father. "This is what we have been hoping for since Eddie went on the track," she said.

An old superstition was broken Friday when Eddie's father and two friends lighted three cigarettes on one match.

Eddie, who is 21 years old, began riding at Latonia when 14 years old. Since that time he has shown considerable success. His wife, Mrs. Ruth Arcaro, remained in New York.

His parents said they hope to see him within a few weeks. A celebration was held at the Arcaro home Saturday night in the absence of the hero son.

HUNT LISTS WAYS TO IMPROVE QUALITY OF 1938 TOBACCO CROP

Although there is no sharp dividing line, tobacco growers fall into two general classes—those who try to grow the most tobacco and those who try to grow the best tobacco. Those in the first class often sacrifice quality for greater production by planting more acreage than they can tend properly, says Russell Hunt, extension tobacco specialist of the Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Under marketing quotas adopted by the growers and administered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the "quantity" growers are encouraged to become "quality" growers.

Large quantities of burley tobacco are used in the manufacture of granulated smoking and chewing tobacco, and it is second only to flue-cured in the manufacture of cigarettes in this country. There also is a trend toward consumption of blendid cigarettes in practically all of the western European countries from Portugal to Norway and Sweden, it is expected to result in gradually increased exports as long as good quality burley leaf can be obtained at prices comparable with other types of cigarette leaf. Burley experts, however, are small.

Weather conditions often affect tobacco quality, but even in bad years with proper care growers can produce a good quality crop if they give careful attention to a few simple rules. Here are suggestions by Mr. Hunt for improving the quality of the burley tobacco crop this year.

Plan for disease control. When plants are set out in the field, or while the seedbeds are weeded they are the chief occasions of tobacco mosaic infection, which is also known as french, black french, blue french, wallon, calico, and top burning. Mosaic is a virus disease which remains active in cured tobacco and is carried overwinter in the roots of tobacco plants that stay alive. The hands of workers who use tobacco, either smoking or chewing, often are contaminated and transmit the disease when plants are handled. The disease is easily prevented if beds are properly cared for and the plants are set out by workers who do not use tobacco. Tobacco users should wash thoroughly and change their clothes before handling the tobacco plants. If a few mosaic infected plants are found in the field they should be removed and no other plants handled until the hands have been washed thoroughly.

ON IRONING DAY

When pillow cases begin to show wear, rip or draw the end seams. Open the case. Then refold it, changing the creases from the sides to the center. Sew the end seam again and you will have a pillow case that will give added wear. Embroidered pillow cases altered this way can be concealed under spreads.

Another thing this country needs is more solving of problems and less surveying of them.

Yodeling Hank To Appear At Belleview May 26

Kay Karroll has yodeled her way through 42 states and part of Canada. Now she's yodeling over the WCKY air lanes every afternoon at 5 o'clock with Yodeling Hank and his Radio Ranch.

Perky little Kay, just five feet and crowned with a mass of black curls, claims to be the only girl radio artist who can yodel in three distinct octaves. She was born and reared "way down East." Several years ago, when just a child, she joined her two brothers and a sister in a radio act that played over stations in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Then Major Bowes's hour became a big event on the air, and Kay decided she'd pack her grip and go to New York. She wasn't a 100 per cent amateur, but she didn't know much about the rules. Kay figured that if Major Bowes heard her, he'd like her enough to give her a chance. And so it happened. Miss Karroll induced the Major's secretary to waive the rules and arrange a private audition.

Bowes did like her act; he told her to come back next day. When she returned she signed a contract The following day she appeared on the Bowes network program.

On March 30, 1936, Kay opened at the Roxy Theater in New York. For 18 months she played with a unit of Bowes entertainers touring the East, South, and West. At Winnipeg she tired of traveling and quit the show. Somebody informed her that folks in Iowa liked her type of music, so she took a train for Des Moines. After an audition at WHO she won a place on that station's staff.

Along came a radio act headed by "Yodelin' Hank" and Kay was offered a part. By that time she was ready for traveling again, so she joined.

They will appear in person on Thursday night, May 26th at 8:00 p. m. at the Odd Fellows Hall, Belleview, under the sponsorship of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Belleview Christian church. Admission will be 15 and 25 cents.

This popular group may be heard each Week day over WCKY at 5:05 to 5:30 p. m., also on Saturday from 10:15 to 10:45 p. m. and Sundays from 8:00 to 8:30 p. m.

Listen to them over your radio and then bring your family and see them in person at Belleview, May 26th.

WOOL SIGN-UP CLOSES JUNE 6

INDICATIONS POINT TO LARGE SALE THROUGH POOL THIS YEAR—90 PER CENT SOLD THROUGH POOL IN 1937.

The sign-up in the Boone County Wool Pool closes June 6th, according to H. E. White, President of the association. The signed up wool will be offered for sale on Monday, June 13th.

Approximately 475 wool sacks have been delivered to wool growers during the past few weeks. Indications are that the pool this year will exceed the record sale of 62,779 pounds sold in 1937. Approximately ninety percent of the county clip was sold through the pool last year.

Growers must be signed up to sell through the pool. No contract is signed and simply the listing of the number of fleeces is all that is required. The clip will be delivered and paid for at three convenient points in the county. Committemen who will be glad to receive the listing of all wool to be pooled are:

Carlton, Orville Kelly.
Verona, Walter Johnson.
Beaver, J. W. Conley.
Walton, B. W. Franks.
Florence, C. F. Blankenbeker.
Petersburg, Charles Stevens.
Hebron, C. S. Riddell.

BELLEVIEW WINS OVER VISALIA

BOB & GENE TAKE MT. ZION 6 TO 3—BELLEVIEW AND BOB & GENE TO TANGLE SUNDAY, MAY 22ND.

Belleview and Bob & Gene, members of Northern Kentucky Amateur League, continue to win and to date neither team seems to be hard pressed by their opponents.

The pitching of the Ryle brothers and the timely hits banged out by the Belleview boys featured Sunday's game. The Ryle brothers showed the Visalia boys how the old strike out ball should be used, striking out 20 of the Visalia hitters and holding them to 5 hits.

Mt. Zion, new comers in the league, traveled to Bob & Gene's park Sunday and gave a good account of their class by holding Bob & Gene to six runs.

The game was well played with both the pitching and fielding the best shown on this park this season.

Sunday, May 22nd, Belleview travels to Bob & Gene's park at Crescent Springs, and this is the game we have all been waiting to see. These two teams are tied for first place and with Mahan and Allphin forming the battery for Bob & Gene and Ryle and Deck for Belleview, it seems to be a toss-up as to the winner.

Building Of Bob & Gene Remodeled

The Bob & Gene Sandwich Shop, Dixie Highway, Florence, has recently been remodeled. The entire structure has been enlarged to approximately twice the original size. New tables and chairs have been installed and the parking space has been increased.

Since the remodeling has been completed, and the new furniture installed, the establishment is one of the most attractive in northern Kentucky, and no doubt will be patronized by much larger crowds.

Bob & Gene have been operating in this location for the past several years and have built up one of the best reputations for courtesy and service in this locality.

The management anounces in this issue of the Recorder that they will have their formal opening on Saturday, May 21st. A special invitation is extended to Boone Countians on this night.

JEFF MILLS, EX-CONVICT CONFESSES THEFTS HERE

Five Others Implicated As Ring Leader Tells Story of Boone-Kenton Robberies.

Jeff Mills, ex-convict, of Boone County was arrested Saturday morning on Amsterdam Road near Covington, by Bernard Schneider, Chief of Ft. Mitchell Police. He was arrested on a charge of operating a car without drivers license.

Patrolman Schneider was returning home at 3:00 a. m., when he noticed Mills car on the highway, with the rear license plate unreadable Patrolman Schneider reported following the car to the Lookout House where Mills turned into the old road. During the time he followed the car he noticed the rear compartment of the car was propped open, and at several intervals a chicken head or foot was exposed through the small opening which was apparently left for ventilation.

At the intersection of Amsterdam Road, Schenier stopped Mills and asked for his driver's license. Mills stated that he din't have a license. Upon questioning Mills, Schneider asked where he had obtained the chickens, and Mills stated that his father had given them to him where he had been visiting near Williamstown. Upon further investigation, the patrolman found three sides of cured meat and one shoulder. Mills also stated that his father had given him the meat.

After Mills was arrested he requested that he be taken home to procure a pair of dry socks, which the officer granted. Hower Mills was taken to police headquarter and Patrolman Schneider returned to the residence of Mills, where he learned that Mills' parents were not residents of Williamstown, but resided near Big Bone.

Later Boone County officials were notified of the arrest, and upon being question by Sheriff F. M. Walton, Mills confessed that chickens and meat which were found in his car were stolen from the farm of Buddy Stephenson, of Union, Henry Sleet, Omer Atha Bob Baker and Will Horton, all of which were raided Friday night. The contents of Mills' car, however, contained only a portion of the loot stolen from the various farms, and authorities believe there was a second car which has not yet been found.

In Mills' confession of other robberies of recent date he gave the names of the persons involved as follows: The robbery at Bob Green's farm, Kenton county; Tim Martin, Joe Miller, William Portwood, and Jeff Mills. At the Geo. Monehan, also of Kenton county, Sam Portwood, Jess Portwood and Jeff Mills. At Martin farm, Fiskburg, Ky., was Jess Portwood, Joe Miller and Jeff Mills.

Mills stated that the car driven by him was owned by a colored friend named Tipkin, and that he had told Mills that when he was finished with the car, to leave it parked on the street. The negro has not been arreseted to date, but probably will be taken into custody and questioned by authorities.

A report Tuesday stated that all men have been arrested andTAO the men implacated have been arrested are being held in Covington until Saturday, when they will be turned over to Boone County authorities.

Jeff Mills was tried in the Boone County court in 1930 for the murder of Chas. Young ,and was sentenced to six years in the State penitentiary. After serving three years of his sentence he was paroled.

For the past several months local farmers have suffered considerable loss at the hands of thieves, stealing meat, chickens and other farm produce. Mills confessed many of the robberies, but denied that he participated in several others.

Bob Burns Dramatic In New Picture

RKO Radio is making a departure in screen tradition that no other studio has yet had the courage to attempt—that of making three outstanding comedians play partially dramatic roles.

In "Radio City Revels," Bob Burns, Milton Berle and Jack Oakie do a five-minute scene that is purposely played "straight."

The scene was drafted after executives had viewed first rushes of the picture in which a brief scene between Oakie and Ann Miller reached dramatic heights.

Producer Edward Kaufman and director Ben Stoloff found that the script of "Radio City Revels" as a musical comedy failed to supply a balance in sympathetic scenes, and decided to give the three comedians opportunity to display their versatility.

"Radio City Revels" will be shown at the Gayety Theater, Erlanger, Sunday and Monday, May 22nd and 23rd.

Other shows for the Gayety this week are Saturday, "Trader Horn," Wednesday and Thursday, May 25 and 26th, "Old Barn Dance."

Livestock Tour Scheduled May 26

The final 1938 tour to the Cincinnati Livestock Yards and Packing plants will be held next Thursday, May 26th. All Boone County farmers who have not attended previous tours held this year are invited to attend.

Lamb marketing and slaughtering will be given special study on the tour. All those who have attended previous tours report these meetings are well worth the time spent. Farmers wishing to attend should call Burlington 412 at the earliest possible date.

REGISTER NOW CLERK URGES

JUNE 7TH IS LAST DAY UNDER NEW REGISTRATION AND PURGATION ACT, PASSED AT FEBRUARY SESSION.

According to C. D. Benson County Clerk of Boone County June 7th is the last day voters can register, under the registration and purgation act which was passed during the February session of the legislature.

Despite a widespread impression this legislation did not change the law under which a person who was registered as a Republican at the last November election cannot change his party affiliation a vote in the Democratic prima.

Persons who have never registered may do so now and vote in the August primary, provided they have resided in Kentucky one year, the county six months, and the precinct 60 days by August 6. A person who has changed his residence from one precinct to another or within a precinct should change his resgitration before June 7, according to County Clerk Benson. A trip to the office of the county clerk is all that is needed.

Mrs. Garnet Tolin was quite ill Monday.

TOO MANY LAWS

When wise old Moses was on earth, and had a prominent part in running it ,he found that only ten laws were needed for the regulation of its conduct. Woodrow Wilson believed that the famous 14 points he submitted to the Versailles peace conference was sufficient to save the world for democracy.

Keeping these figures in mind, it should interest taxpayers to learn that the legislatures of our 48 states passed during the year 1937—in one single year alone—more than 19,000 new laws as they joyously assumed the burden of regulating the lives and activities of our people. Either the world has grown to be a terrible place since it accepted the Ten Commandments as all that was necessary to keep it morally safe, or the making of laws has become a habit and a "racket" there's no way out of. It scarcely seems possible that so many human transgressions were still at liberty after a century and a half of lawmaking.

Thomas Jefferson, third president of the United States, once said: "That government is best which governs least." But we have come a long way since Jefferson's time. Are we any better off? Is the world any better with its thousands of laws than it was when it had but the Ten Commandments? Surely the average taxpayer, who has to go down into his pockets for the cost of all these laws, has an interesting answer to those questions.

DON'T BE A SUCKER

Postal officials at Washington say that after nearly every one of those big English horse races where millions of dollars are wagered in betting pools, there comes an influx of inquiries, especially from residents of small towns, requesting information about where such "tickets" can be purchased. We've no way of knowing if residents have been among those seeking such information, but we imagine they have since there is about the same amount of "sucker bait" to be found around here as around the usual town of its size.

Here's both sides of the picture. The recent English race at Aintree paid sums ranging from $1,000 to $150,000 to 1700 winners, however, there were 5,500,000 losers. Every one of these wagered their hard-earned cash and never got a penny in return. There were just three winners in every 1,000 ticket buyers. Even a professional gambler who would play such odds as that would be considered crazy.

Viewing both sides of the picture it would seem that the best advice that can be given Americans interested in this new sucker game of horse racing as a road to sudden wealth is this—Keep your money in your pocket. Don't be one of the five and a half-million suckers.

Even when her mirror shows that her legs are curved like a pair of ice tongs, you couldn't get a girl to admit that she is bowlegged.

THE HORN HONKER

It seems that one of the hardest things a car owner has to learn when he first starts in is what the horn is for. In fact, so many of them throughout the country never have learned that laws have had be passed to guide them. Observe the careful motorist and you will note that he seldom finds it necessary to resort to his horn. He doesn't glide easily up to a pedestrian crossing a street and then suddenly issue a loud blast on his born. Nor does he, in passing the car ahead of him rend the air with loud and unnecessarily long blasts. He uses the horn, as it was intended to be used, for the purpose of giving signals, and then only when they are absolutely needed. The horn is subject to more abuse than any other part of the auto, when in fact it should be the least part of it to be resorted to. There's a right and a wrong way to use it, the same as there is to use anything else. And it is hoped, for the nerves of the community, at least, that this year's crop of new drivers learn that early.

THEY COME BACK

No one ever outgrows his boyhood. If he was born and grew up in a rugged, hill country he will have traces of that country in his soul to the balance of his days. The man from Texas can never be like the man from Vermont—there are always boyhood ties they cannot sever. That's why residents are glad when those who were born and reared around here come back for a visit. That's why the hand of welcome is always extended them—we know that there is something worth while in a heart that always retains a respect and veneration for the place in which childhood's days were spent. Maybe we are not growing up as fast as the big cities in which they now make their homes; but that doesn't matter. The man or woman whose heart is right comes back to see the places and faces they first loved. Since it gladdens their hearts and gives them happiness then we are all glad, in a way, that the place of their birth hasn't changed so much.

HERE'S ANOTHER WAY

Using whitewash is still another way of killing two birds with one stone. You not only beautify and brighten whatever you apply the solution to, whether it be residence, garage, outbuilding or trees, but you at the same time lesson the danger of contagious diseases in the community. Lime has come to be recognized as the very best disinfectant that can be used around the house. Spread on the yard in proper amount it also feeds the soil and helps the grass to grow, though care should be taken when using it for this purpose to see that the quantity is not too generous. It furnishes protection from the weather for fences and buildings and insects that feed upon wood steer clear of lime when it is applied in the form of whitewash. And there's still another advantage, too, not to be overlooked—it costs so little. No other disinfectant, and of course no kind of paint, can be had for so little money. No other brings such a widespread return on the investment.

$4,000,000 SPENT DAILY AT SODA FOUNTAINS

Chicago—Chocolate is the all-American flavor favorite by a wide margin, with 100,000 galolns of the syrup consumed daily over soda fountains from coast to coast, a survey by The Liquid Carbonic Corporation revealed.

Palate preferences of the nation are related in results of the survey made by Liquid in connection with observance of the company's Golden Jubilee as the world's largest manufacturer of bereage equipment and soda fountain supplies.

Chocolate flavoring made its debut as a commercial product in 1888, the same year that Liquid began commercial manufacture of carbonic gas, which is the heart of the modern soda fountain.

Today, 70 per cent of all fountain specialties costing more than 5 cents are flavored with chocolate, according to the Liquid survey. And 93 per cent of all sodas meet the demand for "chocolate!" Sixty-three percent of all sundaes are the chocolate variety.

As for soft drinks, the Liquid survey shows that 30,000,000 seven-ounce bottles of carbonated beverages are consumed in the United States every 24 hours. The favorite standard flavor in this ocean of fizz is root beer, running neck and neck with ginger ale. Orange is second in demand; then come lemon, grape, cherry and strawberry.

Ten thousand bottling plants produce this vast quantity of soft drinks and 120,000 soda fountains do a daily business of $4,000,000 in catering to modern America's appetite.

Mix thoroughly with 2 tablespoons shortening, wet with milk or water until you have a soft dough; place over apples. Make three or four cuts in top to allow steam to escape and bake. Serve with molasses sauce, or with sugar and cream.

Lesson for May 22

SERVING THROUGH CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.—Mark 12:31.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Sermon on a Penny.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Sermon on a Penny.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Loyalty to God and Country.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Obligations of Christian Citizenship.

"For God and Country" is a rallying cry that well summarizes the spirit and duty of the Christian citizen. So clear and inspiring are the teachings of God's Word regarding the relationship of the Christian to his country that one marvels that national leaders who are seeking to stimulate civic loyalty do not promote a revival of the study of the Bible. Dr. Moore is right when he says, "No bad citizen is a good Christian and no good Christian is a bad citizen." The solution of our nation's problems would be a great evangelistic campaign from coast to coast. A man like Moody would then appear in his true position as a great patriot. The soul-winner would be more important than the vote-getter. Why not try it?

Our lesson presents our Lord on Tuesday of His passion week, when He me His adversaries in their cunning efforts to entrap Him in His wo is so that they might condemn m. The two incidents before us have broader application than to citizenship alone, but we may well consider them in that light, for they reveal that the citizen who is right with God will be right with the nation and with his own neighbors.

I. The Christian Citizen Loves His Country (vv. 13-17).

The Pharisees, who hated Rome for its domination of Palestine, and the Herodians, who supported Rome in its control of the land, were enemies, but they joined forces to tempt Christ. They knew that if He said "Yes" to their question the Jews would be angry, and if He said "No" He could be condemned as a traitor to Rome.

The trap was set, but it caught only the crafty hunters. Taking their own pocket money he declared that if they used Caesar's money they ought to pay taxes to Caesar. The coin stood for an orderly government, benefits of which they enjoyed and which they ought to support.

II. The Christian Citizen Loves God (vv. 20-30).

Although this point comes second in our lesson it comes first in experience. It is the man who renders unto God the love of the heart, soul, mind, and all of his strength (v. 30) who is ready really to love his country as he should.

The scribes loved to dispute about which was the greatest of the 613 commandments which they recognized. Jesus astonished them by referring to the passage of Scripture most familiar to the Jews (Deut. 6:4, 5), which declares the unity and absolute exclusiveness of the Lord our God. It may be well for us to stress this truth even in our time, for most folk regard the worship and service of God as optional.

III. The Christian Citizen Loves His Neighbor (vv. 31-34).

The scribe did not ask for the second commandment but Jesus presents it as an unavoidable corollary of the first. The man who really loves God will love his neighbor.

Every social injustice would be wiped out and every cause for strife removed if all men loved their fellow-man as they love themselves. Such a condition will never prevail, however, until men love God. It is too much for the flesh to put others before self. Only the grace of God is sufficient for that. Hence the real solution of the problems of capital and labor, the "haves" and the "have nots" is to win the men and women on both sides of the struggle to a true love for God through Jesus Christ our Lord. In other words, we come again to the inevitable conclusion that what our nation needs is a revival.

Social panaceas, revolution either by force or by law, dictatorships, all these are destined to failure. Men must learn to know and love God supremely and thus come to love their neighbors as themselves.

The crossroad Sunday school teacher, the missionary in the city slums, the preacher of the gospel, whether in the great city or on the the countryside, the faithful Christian living out the love of Christ daily in kindly word and deed—these are the real forces for social as well as spiritual good. Let us do all we can to prosper their ministry!

Sufficient Unto the Day

Do not look forward to what might happen tomorrow; the same everlasting Father who cares for you today will take care of you tomorrow, and every day.

Living Wisely

Let no one think that the way to gain the next world is to despise this one.

Little Courtesies

AN INSPIRATION

"Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding, for the merchandising of it is better than the merchandise of silver, and the gain thereof than fine gold."—Proverbs.

There's Good Reason for Visiting Cards

DEAR Mrs. Post: Visiting card formalities are something I never will understand. I've moved into a strange community and neighbors and friends of friends are calling and leaving their cards. Why do they leave cards when I'm in and receive them? I can understand why they would leave cards in my absence but not otherwise.

Answer: It is really essential that they leave cards so that you will know their full names and the spelling and possibly their house addresses. After all, you would have to have better than average hearing, not to say anything of memory, to remember the names announced to you. And later when you look for Mrs. Jimson in the telephone book, you may have no way of knowing whether she is Mrs. Alexander — or Mrs. John — or Mrs. George. Excepting on this first occasion, visitors are not apt to send in their cards unless they find you out.

The Wedding Breakfast

DEAR Mrs. Post: Will you suggest a good menu for a ten o'clock wedding breakfast? There will be only about two dozen guests.

Answer: At that hour I would make it really a breakfast. Something such as melon and chicken mince with hashed cream potatoes or scrambled eggs and sausage, buttered hot breads, breakfast coffee (meaning coffee in big cups with sugar and cream), and I think that is enough. Wedding cake and either champagne or fruit cup or whatever you are going to use to drink the bride's health are of course part of every wedding collation.

How You Do It

WHEN someone says "How do you do" is it correct to say "I am fine, thank you" or is "How do you do" to be taken only as a greeting?

Answer: "How do you do" is a punctilious greeting to which the customary response is also "How do you do."

THE FLOWER GROWER

Roses are often injured by too early removal of their winter protection. Wait until serious danger of frost is positively passed—at least until grass has taken on a fairly strong color. Then on a cloudy or a damp day remove the protectors. Thus, the stems will have a chance to harden before sun and wind strike them in a possibly damaging way.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

We give you another act in that great melodrama, "Politics" or who will be Senator, on the stage, Kentucky—The boy hero, A. B. Chandler, the sage politician Alben W. Barkley, are the heroes and the heroine is the coy Kentucky voter.

The prologue—Albert B. Chandler the boy hero, made great gains last week. He spoke in the center of the stage courting coy Miss Voter at commencement exercises, ball games, and from the platform. His stage personality was winning and his smile, charming. He said, his rival Senator Barkley was "America's coat tail rider No. 1." and after slamming the president's policy in his early appearance in the play, with a strategic bit of acting, he referred to himself as a friend of the president.

Senator Barkley, our other hero, and adent coute of coy Miss Voter was busy in Washington with affairs of the Senate—with the promise of presidential support he is either sure of election, too busy in the senate to campaign, or procrastinating. In any event Alben lost some ground last week. It was strengthened however, by his appointment of Judge Thomas from Bowling Green, as his finance chairman. Actor Barkley it seems does not realize that the plot of the play is the eternal triangle, and that although he may have he heroine's favor now that Albert is trying to cut him out of the damsel's favor—and that ardent wooing is necessary to win and hold a lady.

A special election will be called June 4th by Governor Chandler, to elect a Congressman in the eighth district to replace Federal Circuit Court Justice, Fred M. Vinson, of Ashland, Ky., who before his appointment, represented that district. Vinson, who resigned from Congress last week to accept the Judgeship, was a nationally recognized tax authority, and was largely responsible for the tax revision bill, which has been approved. He was a member of the powerful Ways and Means committee and was lauded for an hour and a half by his colleagues in congress before his resignation. Joseph Bates, of Greenup, has an inside track to succeed to Vinson's seat and will probably win in the special election set for June 4th.

This is not play on your emotions, but to appeal to your reason, and your sense of justice we are putting it here because you have some voice in the matter and your opposition may prevent destructive forces from sowing pestilence and death. A powerful lobby is now at work in Washington, lobbying for the sale of Helium gas to Germany. Helium is a non-inflammable, bouyant gas used for inflating Zeppelins. The United United States owns and controls the only supply of Helium. The Von Hindenberg, a german owned ship ,that made regular trips, with much freight and many passengers, was destroyed by fire, because it used hydrogen gas. The United States and other countries have endeavored to build large Zeppelins, but all have crashed, and in every case, the crash was caused, by Sabotage. The German government has taken Austria and is threatening Czechoslavokia and has built up a huge and pugnacious war machine. A Zeppelin in time of war can carry a hundred times as many bombs as the largest airplans. Wars of the future will be fought with propaganda and bombs, to break the morale of the people as when the Japanese bombed Chinese cities, but to create opposition of civilian Chinese to the armed resistance of the Japs. A Zeppelin could carry and scatter enough disease germs to spred pestilence in whole country. It could carry enough bombs to destroy every bridge across the Ohio River from its source to its mouth. Such a Zeppelin could be destroyed by airplanes in time of war, if it was inflated with hydrogen gas, but with Helium gas it would be almost impossible to destroy it. You wouldn't knowingly furnish an insane killer with a machine gun, or a child with a rattlesnake. Oppose the sale of Helium gas to Germany. Write Senator Barkley or Senator Logan in care of the Senate Building, Washington, D. C., and voice your opposition to this sale. This effort of yours may be the means of saving human life.

Random Shots—The Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation sent Senator Barkley a telegram expressing their gratitude for his effort in securing an additional $235,000 for Federal Tobacco grading for the 1937-38 marketing season. The telegram stated that this grading service would lay a foundation, upon which burley growers could build a permanent and improved marketing system.

Mamie Barnard

In early childhood she united with the Baptist church and was a faithful member throughout life.

She was one of five children, two brothers and two sisters, having preceded her to the great beyond.

On Dec. 29th 1909, she was united in holy matrimony to Lewis Barnard and to this union were born four children, Dorothy, Clarence, Evelyn and William, the latter preceded her in death.

Mrs. Barnard was a member of the Daughters of America. To this organization she was always faithful, and her cheery smile and kindly word will be missed by all. She was a good neighbor, always willing to lend a helping hand to all who needed her.

The last year was very trying and hard. Little Patsy, as everyone called her grandchild, died on Feb. 2. This was a great blow to her as she loved the child as her own. Three weeks ago her aged father passed. She bore the strain and care of him. Terrible heartaches, along with ill health were too much of a strain and on May 2nd she entered Christ Hospital hoping to regain her health and strength, but to no avail. On May 6th she peacefully passed away to the great loss and lasting regret of her many friends, neighbors and relatives.

And so, on Mother's Day, was buried a good mother, a faithful wife and a true friend. From the Great Beyond we think we can her her say:

"Since I can never see your face
And never shake you by the hand,
I send my soul through time and space,
To greet you, you will understand"

Funeral services were held at Fitch Bros. funeral home, Lawrenceburg, Ind., Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. J. Walker Martin. Burial was at the Bullittsburg cemetery, Bullittsburg, Ky.

ON IRONING DAY

On ironing days when you have a great number of woolen garments to press, instead of laboring over them with an iron, do this: Place each garment on a hanger by itself and then suspend it from a rod over a boiler full of steaming water on the range. Wrinkles disappear like magic, and all you have to do is press the pleats and creases. Half a dozen garments can be hung above the boiler at the same time.

KITCHEN KINKS

Left-over rice blends well with cooked meat and can be shaped into small cakes, browned in bacon fat and topped with tomato mushroom sauce . . . Grape juice sauce makes a pleasant change when served over baked, spiced or cottage pudding . . . Beet skins can be removed quickly if beets are put in very hot water for a minute or two. Drain off hot water and quickly place beets in cold water.

There is a modern pleasant way to get relief from Headache, Gas on Stomach, Colds, Heartburn, "Morning After" and Muscular Pains.

FOOT TEST

By N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist
at People's Foot Comfort, 9th and Madison, Covington

Now, friends, I am going to ask you to do something which I think will give you the answer to the trouble you are having with your feet.

No, you must do just as I say, so you will understand what is meant when I say . . . Most all weak feet roll inward. Now, friends take off both shoes right now. Please stand up, both feet side by side about six to eight inches apart with the same amount of weight on each foot. Now, this is important! Relax all muscles in your feet and legs. About 7 out of 10 of you will find that your feet roll inward. In other words, your feet go down on the inside, some of them all the way down to the floor. You probably have one of the four stages of weak feet . . . first degree, about ¼ of the way down: second degree ½ way down; third degree, ¾ of the way down; and fourth degree, all the way down or what is commonly known as flat foot.

But, here's the important thing for you to remember, two important things in fact; when your feet roll inward and go down, you are shutting off the nerve and blood supply going into the bottom of your feet. The result is poor circulation which often lets chemical deposits or waste matter form at the points of your feet and lower limbs.

Now, the second important thing is this, weak, inrolling feet also cramp nerves, then through nerve relaxes, some weaker part of the body is usually affected. Remember, when you cramp the nerves, in your feet, you cause reflexes to be sent to some other part of the body that is more sensitive and has less resistance. Then old mother nature comes right back at you with back aches, headaches or something worse.

Men of the Mounted

BATTLE AT McDONALD'S FARM

HOW four youthful Chicago criminals started out to give Canada a few thrills by staging a cross-country crime wage, and how these conceited young punks finished up as riddled corpses inside of two weeks, makes one of the best police stories in years. They had had such a long and uninterrupted career in their old home town that they thought that criminal freedom was plentiful everywhere else. Equipped with pistols and ammunition, several bottles of hair oil, a few shirts, and a fine big shiny automobile that had a powerful engine under its hood, the squad set out for the Dominion. Sneaking into Saskatchewan unobserved, the first act was to get the right sort of license plates. This done, and traveling mostly at night, they headed northward and were soon in the heart of the prairie country.

Here their projected crime wave was held up a bit, for they took in too much alkali water and were quite ill for several days. Two of them almost died, it was later learned. However, a day or so later they were in the west central part of the province and had "holed up" to get their bearings and to see what could be done thereabouts in the way of pulling a profitable job. They finally discovered something that looked promising and sat down to do a bit of planning.

Meanwhile, a lone member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was fighting his way along a slippery buffalo trail in an old crate of a car that happened to be one of the three in the whole region. And, as he side-slipped and lurched along, he saw the dim lights of oil lamps burning in the homestead cabins of the Smiths, the Joneses, and the Browns.

Further on a bit he would pass the MacDonald homestead in which was kept the only safe and strong box in all the vast prairie territory. Hector MacDonald, which isn't his real name, of course, was a polished, cultured gentleman in whom scores of outlying settlers placed full and complete trust to the extent that they deposited their valuables, without charge, in the great big old-fashioned safe. And, as the lone Man of the Mounted passed, he noticed the MacDonald home in total darkness and decided to investigate.

Moving cautiously over to the homesteader's cottage, he peeked into a window to discover four men hovering over and about the great big safe. Two were standing upright, holding flashlights, and the other two were busy with the knob and dial. As the Mounted Policeman backed away from the window, however, one of the two flashlight-holders spotted him and at once fired a bullet at his head. Being an old timer, he had a bag of tricks ready at hand, so he crumpled up, dropped to the ground, and lay still. Out came the safecrackers, and a moment later they were standing around the body of the dead Mountie. That is, three of them were, for their expert was still working on the safe.

"Y-e-a-h . . . We'll rub 'em out like dis as we go along," said another. "No we won't do nuttin' of der kind," spoke the third. "We'll do no killin' less'n we hev ter. They hang fer a killin' up here. 'Tain't like ol' Chi, an' there ain't no 'Snorky' up here ter help y'out of a jam." Meanwhile the lad inside worked feverishly but unsuccessfully on the safe, and the three began discussing ways and means of hiding the policeman's body. And then when the crooks were absolutely off guard the lone Man of the Mounted moved ever so carefully until his gun hand was in the clear. In that split-second, the crooks saw him moving, and pulled their guns. Two of them fired point blank, but the Man of the Mounted was faster, in spite of the fact that he was the last to draw. He fired three times, and hit each one of the three in the forehead. The safecracker inside, knowing that their plans had gone haywire, lit out through the east door and disappeared into the Saskatchewan gloom.

Leaving the dead where they lay, the lone Man of the Mounted set out after the fourth, and after hours of searching, finally gave it up. A few days later, the safe-cracker, cornered by another Man of the Mounted, tried to shoot his way out, and lost. The Man of the Mounted fired once, while the safe-cracker fired four times, and died. No one can say they didn't get a "break," for the Men of the Mounted draw their weapons only after the criminal has drawn his. At any rate, these poor, misguided lads had been on Canadian soil less than a fortnight and were now dead.

THE GARDEN

CULTIVATION

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

All that a gardner may do for the welfare of his vegetables, and provided he has prepared his ground properly and fertilized it, is to keep them clean of weeds.

Weeds are unsavory companions for vegetables, for several reasons. One is that they rob the crops of moisture. A plentiful supply of moisture is important because so much of quality in vegetables depends on their having been grown rapidly, and because all the vegetables consist so largely of water. Another reason weeds should be canned from a vegetable garden is that they attract the first insects and serve a places where they may multiply against the time their vegetable favorites are put in. Still another is that they serve as hosts for plant diseases, which bother them apparently not at all, but which play havoc with the vegetables, softened by "civilization."

Accordingly, keep the garden weed-free cannot be overemphasized, on many counts, but only one need be discussed, to wit, that of conserving moisture. This is important enough at any time, but it becomes more important as the season progresses and the rains fail and rising temperatures increase the evaporation of the dwindling moisture. Cultivation is the means to use.

This word "cultivation' is used instead of the older one, "working," because it is a more pleasing word, but also because it describes a procedure quite different. Whereas, by "working" is meant deep stirring of the soil, which, by the way, many of the weeds escape cultivation, both the word and the process, has been adopted to mean a mere skimming of the surface, just deep enough to upset the smaller weeds, and to cut off those whose roots lie deeper. It is obvious that the smaller the weeds are, the easier it is to destroy them. The smaller the weeds are, the easier it is to destroy them. The smaller the weeds, too, the less moisture has been taken from the vegetables.

A good tool to use is the hand hoe, the blade shaving the surface or penetrating it just shallowly. A better tool, and one much more speedy, is a garden plow fitted with side-hoes. These are blades so attached to the frame of the plow that when it is moved forward, the soil surface is skimmed or stirred to a depth no greater than one inch.

This sort of cultivation leaves the soil surface level; and this is as it should be. There should be no hills or ridges made about the plants, as being too much work, and harmful to the vegetables in several ways. Always hot, dry soil is drawn against the stems, and the deep moist soil from the "middles" is exposed to the sun to dry out. In borrowing soil to make the hills, sometimes roots are laid bare or left lying so close to the surface that moisture is insufficient. Besides, the increased area of the hills and ridges offers just that much more surface from which evaporation of moisture may take place.

To sum up: Cultivate the garden shallowly but completely enough to get all the weeds and often enough to have only small weeds to uproot, and keep the surface level.

ALL WAGE-EARNERS ENTITLED TO OLD-AGE INSURANCE

Wage-earners in the employ of a parent or a relative are entitled to the old-age insurance benefits of the Social Security Act and must not be excluded, Frank B. Decker, Jr., Acting Manager of the Covington Field Office of the Social Security Board, advises employers.

"Many persons erroneously suppose," he said," that family ties prevent the existence of the employer-employee relationship. Such persons may be confusing the provisions of old-age insurance with those of unemployment insurance.

"In the case of unemployment insurance many States exclude from unemployment benefits wage earners in the employ of a son, daughter or spouse, or wages earned by a child under 21 years of age, in the employ of his father or mother. This is true in Kentucky and Michigan but not true in Ohio.

"The old-age insurance provision, however ,allow no such exception."

Mr. Decker further stated that employees past the age of 65 should secure social security account numbers for use by their employers in the quarterly information returns required by the Kentucky Unemployment Compensation commission.

"Many employers have been submitting to this office the names and addresses of their employees past 65 who do not have account numbers," Mr. Decker said. "It is impossible for us to assign account number to those individuals from the lists. The employee should secure the number himself ,either by applying personally or by mailing an application to the Covington, Kentucky Field Office located at 414 Coppin Building.

"Kentucky will start paying unemployment compensation benefits the first of January of next year, and in order to apply for these benefits it will be necessary for a worker to have an account number."

PLAN SHORT COURSE FOR POULTRY RAISERS

Dates for the 14th annual poultry short course at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture have been set as June 20-24. The course is planned to afford busy poultryraisers and hatchery operators an opportunity to learn in as short a period as possible the essential principles of poultry production, hatchery operation and flock improvement. Those who attend will learn about managing poultry for profit, judging for standard and production qualities, identifying and controlling disease, and testing for pullorum disease.

If prices keep on ascending it won't be long until a beefsteak will be rare, no matter how you cook it.

SAYS ARMY WORMS MAY DAMAGE CROPS

The possibility of army worm damage to crops is anounced from the College of Agriculture at Lexington, following an examination of small grain by Prof. W. A. Price, state entomologist. Army worms were found feeding on the lower leaves at the base of wheat, rye and barley. They will continue to feed here for sometime, finally moving up the plant stripping the leaves and severing the head. At that time, the plant is no longer palatable to the worms and it is necessary for them to seek new pastures, which they do by marching in hordes. At this stage, they can be stopped and the uninfested fields protected by the use of a dust furrow and poisoned bran bait.

The dust furrow is a mechanical barrier. It is made by dragging a keg or log several times up and down a previously plowed furrow. This act makes a fine dust and establishes a steep sided furrow up which the worms cannot crawl. Such a barrier should be placed between the crawling worms and the fields to be protected.

In connection with the dust furrow, poisoned bait should be used. It is made by mixing thoroughly 25 pounds of bran and one pound of Paris green, to which is added 2 quarts of cheap molasses dissolved in 2½ gallons of water. This is broadcast among the worms at the rate of 10 to 12 pounds per acre.

Just now, the rank growing spots in wheat, rye and barley fields should be examined for army worms. If they are found in large numbers, the infested areas should be treated with the poisoned bait. This should be applied before the worms start migrating.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NEWS

Two hundred and fifty club members growing an acre of purebred corn each is the goal in Bell county. Ninety-two club members in seven communities are growing from 100 to 200 strawberry plants each, sponsored by the Pineville and Middlesboro Kiwanis clubs.

Training themselves on the subject, "Improved Tobacco Barn Ventilation," demonstrations given by teams of boys in Lincoln county brought about the building of five modern barns from plans furnished by the State College of Agriculture.

Eighty boys, representing every community in Perry county, are growing corn from seed furnished by the Peoples Bank of Hazard. Most of the boys will use a complete fertilizer, and give extra attention to the corn throughout the year.

Fifty girls enrolled in canning projects, is the goal in Madison county. Extra attention to gardening and fruit growing is being given by both club members and adults with large canning budgets planned on many farms.

Mason county club members are taking an active interest in promoting dairying. Central Kentucky herds have been visited in an effort to find breeding stock, and a tour made into Brown county, Ohio, in cooperation with the Carnation Milk Company.

A Junior soil improvement tour in Graves county attracted 300 boys and girls, including 4-H club members and vocational agriculture students. Forty-two boys attended a district terracing training school at Mayfield.

A toorist and a vacationist are two different things. A tourist is a man who fares forth to see the country without depending on a time-piece, a speedometer or a map.

PUBLIC TO INSPECT CROP IMPROVEMENT TESTS OVER STATE

The work of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station in improving crop yields on various kinds of soils over the state will be inspected by the public the fourth week in May. Meetings will be held at the outlying experimental fields as follows: Mayfield, May 23; Greenville, May 24; Campbellsville, May 25; Fariston, May 26, and Berea, May 27.

This spring marks the completion of the 25th year of the work at Mayfield, Greenville and Berea, the 22nd year at Fariston and the 19th year at Campbellsville. Prof. George Roberts, head of the agronomy department at the Experimer Station, will be present to discuss the results.

Those who attend the meetings this spring will see striking differences in wheat and clover growing on limed and fertilized land, compared with growth on untreated land. Of interest, also, will be the successful production of bluegrass sod at Mayfield, Greenville and Campbellsville. Other grasses are being tested at the various fields in an effort to find the kind that do best in the different sections of the state.

In addition to inspecting the growing crops, visitors will hear discussions of winter cover crops, hybrid corn and other subjects related to improved production.

SOIL NOT TO BLAME FOR ALFALFA TROUBLE

Poor soil conditions are not the direct cause of black stem a disease which has damaged alfalfa in Kentucky this springs, says Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. Samples of soil from alfalfa fields have been sent to the Experiment Station, in the belief that the soil may have something to do with the disease.

The disease, which was first discovered at the Kentucky Experiment Station in 1929, is caused by a fungus which attacks the new shoots as they develop, killing many of them and blacking the base of the stems of others. It only causes serious damage in long continued wet periods in the spring. Poor soil conditions are not the direct cause of the trouble, although alfalfa is often affected in some areas of a field worse than in others.

The black stem fungus overwinters on the dead stems of alfalfa, from which spores are washed directly on to the tender new shoots. Early pasturing of alfalfa with sheep beginning just as it commences growth in the spring will break down the overwintering shoots, remove the winter weed growth and result in a clean first cutting of alfalfa hay. The second cutting is rarely if ever affected by the disease.

WORM TREATMENT FOR SHEEP RECOMMENDED

Treating sheep for worms, beginning in May or June, and continuing through October or November, is recommended by the department of animal pathology at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Experiment Station. Also, where at all possible, pens and pastures should be used this year that were not used for sheep last year. This is especially important for lambs.

Sheep parasite eggs are distributed through the manure of the animals. Counts of parasite eggs in manure show that a sheep gives off a half of a billion to three-quarters of a billion worm eggs a year. If one sheep were confined to one acre there would be 10,000 to 15,000 worm eggs per square foot, and if worm eggs were as big as corn cobs they would be 10 feet deep by the end of the year.

POULTRY PAYS WELL IN HARLAN COUNTY

Good poultry flocks continue to pay in Harlan county, according to County Agent Gray H. Williams. Wiley Holmes reports a profit of $22.50 from 96 pullets in February; Clarence Wright, $27.10 from 101 pullets; C. G. Smith, $40.04 from 318 hens and pullets; John Huff, $18.01 from 101 pullets, and Mrs. J. E. Jones, $13.75 from 47 pullets. Several brooder houses have been built and many other placed for chicks, says Williams.

Divided Authority

"Who is really boss in your house?"

"Well, of course, Maggy assumes command of the children, the servants, the dog, the cat, and the canary. But I can say pretty much what I please to the goldfish."

PROPERLY INSTALLED LIGHTNING RODS O. K.

Kentucky farmers lose thousands of dollars every year from buildings struck by lightning. Much of this loss couldt be saved if lightning rods were used, says Prof. J. B. Kelley of the College of Agriculture.

Rods should be bought from a reliable firm that will install them properly. The conductor should not be within 10 feet of the wiring for electric lights and power, and lightning arrestors should be placed on the electric line outside the barn. Buildings equipped with rods have been struck and burned because other metal devices were too close to the rod, so that the charge jumped from one to the other.

Prof. Kelly warns that baled hay placed within six feet of the conductor may cause a fire ,as the hay is tied with wire. Insurance companies give lower rates on buildings that are properly rodded.

A Boston editor says "We owe a great deal to the Pilgrim Fathers." Yes, and the best part of it is we don't have to pay it.

A STYLE HINT

A bright navy blue that is variously named by the different style creators is looming up as a rival of the regulation navy shade. This is a clear tone similar to the skipper hue of several years ago and it looks especially flattering with white goods. Suits and printed frocks are being made up in the bright tone, many of them of the style to appeal to gray-haired persons.

TIRES DEALERS SPONSOR NATIONAL TIRE SAFETY WEEK

Striking out against the wave of automobile accidents which take the lives of more than 40,000 persons annually on public highways throughout the nation, the tire industry, by sponsoring a National Tire Safety Week, from May 14th to the 21st inclusive, is making a determine effort to reduce this appalling toll, it was announced by Arnold Brinker, partner in the Joseph A. Kuchle & Co., local U. S. Tire Dealer.

"Acting in concert with the Rubber Manufacturers Association, more than 50,000 tire distributors and dealers, and 41,500 gasoline filling stations where tires are sold have pledged themselves to replace an estimated 59 miillon tires now in use which are definitely dangerous," Mr. Arnold Brinker said.

"A point we should all realize is that although car and tire engineers are producing nearly perfect mechanical products today, these cars and tires do wear out eventually. That is why the tire manufacturers are sponsoring National Tire Safety Week. They want to make the car owner conscious of the fact that when his tires have worn smooth they have given him full value for his money and must be replaced for safe driving.

"The smooth tire is a worn-out tire— a fragile shell. And riding upon fragile shells is like skating on thin ice—you never know when it's going to collapse.

"When you say to yourself, 'I think I can get another thousand miles out of my tires,' take out a pencil and paper and estimate the amount of money you are saving by squeezing the extra mileage out of them at the possible risk of your life.

"Let us say that your tires cost $10 apiece," Mr. Brinker declared. "Modern automobile tires will provide 15 thousand safe miles or more. That means that safe driving costs you 66 2-3 cents per thousand miles. Therefore, when you attempt to stretch an additional thousand miles out of them, you are gambling your life and the lives of your loved ones against the saving of less than 75c per tire."

Today In Kentucky

By Henry Ward

Louisville, Ky.—The months-old campaign between U. S. Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley and Governor A. B. Chandler is being likened by many observers to the undeclared war in China, which is going on at a furious pace although Japan has not officially broken friendly relations with the Chinese government.

Everyone in Kentucky and most people in the United States, knows that Senator Barkley and Governor Chandler are contestants for the honor of representing Kentucky in the Senate for the next six years. Both have perfected organizations which are working busily. But the campaign has not opened, officially. Chandler declared his candidacy in a speech at Newport in February, and has been making speeches for himself over the state ever since, but insists that he has not made his "opening" speech. Barkley hasn't sounded his battle cry, either, though he has been returning to Kentucky almost every week-end for chats with his supporters. He's been too busy directing the course of legislation in the Senate to start his political speechmaking. Barkley may open his speaking campaign, officially, on June 4, but the definite date depends on how much longer the Congressional session will last. Even though Chandler has criticized him for not spending more time in this state, Barkley knows that his job is at Washington and that he should attend to it as long as Congress is in session.

Governor Chandler this week continued his series of roadside chats with any groups his sound truck could attract. Last week, Harry Ferguson, New York U. P. writer, reported that he rode with Chandler on one of the trips, and that "the speedometer crawled past 60 as the big car shot down the highway." The maximum automobile speed allowed on Kentucky highways under state law is 40 miles per hour.

Senator Barkley last week-end dedicated the first flood control project in eastern Kentucky at Middlesboro. Tentative plans for this week-end call for an address at Madisonville on Friday night, and a conference at Somerset on Saturday.

The promise of a road in a rural section is one of the oldest of campaign stand-bys. Governor Chandler is going it one better. At Glasgow, the Daily News reported that after a conference with Mayor Winn Davis, the Governor telephoned Bob Humphrey, road boss, and told him to arrange to blacktop several Glasgow streets. (Statistics reveal that Kentucky has been losing millions of dollars from the federal government for highway construction because the state funds are used for political campaign purposes).

Dr. A. Y. Lloyd, state old age pension division director, has joined the Chandler corps of speakers. He made a speech for the Governor last week at Morehead, but didn't mention the fact that under Chandler control a comparatively small number of Kentucky's aged needy get an average of only $9-a-month pension although Chandler promised $30 when he was running for Governor.

Frederick A. Wallis, commissioner of welfare, is working for the special session of the legislative, tentatively scheduled for May 23. He's started saying nice things about Chandler, too—in public. Speaking to Paris Rotarians, Wallis said the reclamation of the state penal and eleomosynary institutions is the "passion of my life." He abandoned plans to resign and support Barkley when Chandler promised to give attention to that "passion."

BELLEVIEW WINS OVER BOB & GENE

SUNDAY BY 9 TO 8 COUNT—SINGLE BY KIRKPATRICK AND HOMER BY SEBREE DECIDES GAME IN NINTH.

Sunday, May 22, the Belleview boys traveled to Crescent Springs ball park and handed the powerful Bob & Gene aggregation their first defeat of the season, thus leaving the Belleview boys still undefeated.

Manager Zip Ryle called on Henry Deck for the starting hurler but he was relieved by that artist of the "knuckler" Stewart Ryle, the one who sends all foes to the bench wondering if it can be another Dizzy Dean. Robert Eades called on four of his hurlers, Pettit, B. Bradburn, C. Stephens and Mahan before he could halt the Belleview lads.

Belleview went into the ninth inning trailing by one run. Kirkpatrick led off with a single and Albert Sebree hit one far over Shinkles head for a home run, giving Belleview a lead of one run.

Both teams showed good form, and baseball fans said it was the best game of the season.

Monday, May 30th, Decoration Day, Bob and Gene will visit the Belleview lads for a double header. The first game will be called at 10:30 a. m. and the second one at 2:30. This will be a battle to the finish, and all baseball lovers should see these games. Bob & Gene will make an effort to get revenge and Belleview will be trying to hold their lead.

The line-up for Bob & Gene follows: M. Moore, Jr., 2b; R. Bradburn, lf; J. Cahill, 3b; J. Graham 1b; B. Bradburn ss; F. Rogers, cf; B. Mahan, rf; Hall C.; Shinkle, Stephens or Pettit will be on the mound.

CITY IS FACING BUDGET WORRY

ERLANGER TUSTEES FIND THEY HAVE $23,718 EXPENSE AND $12,118 INCOME—EXPENSES AS LOW AS POSSIBLE.

Erlanger's Board of Trustees, in attempting to form a tentative budget for 1939, found that it had approximately $23,718 necessary annual expenses, including bond interest and retirement, and an income of but $12,118.89.

No action was taken at the last meeting, but councilmen indicated that the income would have to be raised. The expenses mentioned were set about as low as possible in the estimate, though council may be able to pare that figure slightly.

The budget was set up on an outline submitted by Clinton F. Gardner, certified public accountant, who recently completed an audit of the city books. Bond interest and retirement was the largest item mentioned in the necessary expense.

A Public Works Administration check for $7,061.74 was received by the council for work already completed on the city sanitary sewer system. Previously the trustees had asked release and payment of the money due, for the PWA in order to apply for Works Progress Administration aid in completing the system.

"Mannequin" Is Big Attraction

Joan Crawford, who has romanced on the screen with Clark Gable, Robert Taylor, Robert Montgomery, Gary Cooper, other famous film heroes, adds rugged, two-fisted Spencer Tracy to her long list in "Mannequin," which co-stars them for the first time. The new film opens at the Gayety Sunday for two nights.

Frank Borzage directed the swift moving story of modern young people against a background of New York's grimy tenements and multimillionaire's penthouses from the pen of Katharine Brush, author of "Young Man of Manhattan."

Miss Crawford as Jessie Cassidy has the role of a shop girl who seeks escape from poverty by marrying Eddie Miller, a cheap crook. Eddie is played by Alan Curtis, Hollywood's newest leading man discovery. When Eddie fails her, Jessie decides to live her own life. John L. Hennessey, a role which gives Tracy a powerful characterization as a man who worked his way up from the docks to become a wealthy steamship owner, refuses to let her.

Jessie marries Hennessey. She learns to love him when Eddie attempts to blackmail them. His plan fails because Hennessey goes broke. This gives Jessie the chance to prove her love in a surprising and dramatic climax.

Never more beautifully gowned, Miss Crawford has twenty-eight costume changes, designed by Adrian as an advance fashion preview of feminine styles for 1938.

In prominent featured roles are Ralph Morgan, Mary Phillips, Oscar O'Shea, Elizabeth Risdon and Leo Gorcey.

A highlight of the new picture is Miss Crawford's singing of "Always and Always," a haunting melody of the torch-song type, which was especially written for the star by Edward Ward, with lyrics by Bob Wright and Chet Forrest.

Actors in the Alpine comedy, "Paradise for Three' which will be shown at the Gayety Theater on Wednesday and Thursday, June 1st and 2nd, had a difficult time remembering their screen names. First, Frank Morgan was given a dual role, and then Reginald Owen.

Owen is seen as "Johnann," the butler, and also as "J. Kesselhut," manager of the Baltic Steamship Lines, while Morgan potrays "Rudolph Tobler," capitalist, and "Edward Schultze," pauper.

The story revolves around three men who go to the Alps and completely change their identity so as to discover how the other half lives.

206 Farmers Secure TVA Phosphate

Two hundred and six farmers the past two weeks have received 197.1 tons of 47 per cent TVA phosphate under the A. C. Program, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The phosphate will be used to improve grass and legume crops in the county and to carry out soil building practices under the AC Program.

Phosphate, the past year gave an average of 93 per cent increase in the growth, stand and yield of grass and legume crops in thirty demonstrations. Phosphate and lime used together gave approximately three times the increased yield as phosphate used alone.

The TVA this year is supplying phosphate under the ACP soil building allowances. The farmer pays a total handling charge of $5.78 per ton when delivered at Erlanger, $5.67 per ton delivered Walton and $5.56 per ton when delivered at Verona. Thirty-two dollars per ton is deducted from the 1938 ACP payment check while the farmer in turn receives $30 per ton credit when the phosphate is used on soil conserving crops. Farmers may receive up to 80 per cent of their allowances in phosphate.

This plan is unquestionably the cheapest means of securing high grade phosphate for soil improvement. Applications for phosphate are received at the county agent's office in Burlington. Farmers expecting to use phosphate this fall are urged to submit their orders now before the supply is exhausted.

ACP ALLOTMENTS MAILED GROWERS

MONDAY AND TUESDAY, THIS WEEK—SHOWS ACREAGE TO BE GROWN THIS YEAR—NO INFORMATION ON POUNDS.

The 1938 ACP tobacco acreage allotments were mailed growers on Mon., and Tues., of this week, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The notices include only one figure, the acreage to be grown this year. No information has been received as to the pounds allotments under the 1938 marketing quotas. These allotments are expected to be in line with acreage allotments.

Mr. H. E. White, president of the county ACP association, reports the county committee was greatly disappointed because not all farmers were alloted the acreages requested. The community committees recommended all major base adjustments. However, after the community committees had completed their adjustments the Washington office demanded a total county adjustment of 67.7 acres downward from the total 1937 bases.

New tobacco producers have not received 1938 acreage allotments to date. Special base allotments for growers of tobacco for the first time since 1933 are set up in the State office. The county office to date has received no definite information on these bases.

PAYING ITS WAY

The recent action of congress in appropriating $50,000,000 with which to operate the 1501 CCC camps throughout the U. S. for another year is one federal expenditure which, regardless of a man's political leaning is pretty apt to have his whole-hearted approval. As viewed by the average Boone County taxpayer, the kind of tax spending for which the whole country gets something in return is represented in the CCC. It's the kind of tax paying which makes for a better country in the future because it builds a better citizenship of the material now on hand.

Glance at these interesting figures, issued in connection with the CCC appropriation and you'll better understand why this is true. Started slightly less than five years ago as the nation's first recovery project, the CCC has given employment to more than 2,200,000 persons at various times. The program carried out has included the following: 1,255,262,000 forest trees planted; 64,231 miles of telephone lines erected; 41,133 bridges constructed; 44,475 major type buildings completed; 3,982,720 soil erosion dams built; 2,098,307 acres of forest land improved; 16,722,021 acres cleared of plant disease and insect pests; 120,310 miles of roads and trails built; 4,130,500 mandays spent in fighting forest fires. Of the $30 a month paid to each enrollee, $25 has gone to aid dependents at home, so it is estimated that more than 10,000,000 persons have been aided by the CCC Program.

Give the average taxpayer something to show for his money, and you will hear little protest from him. But give him something that makes a better man of his boy at the same time it is building a better country and you'll hear none at all.

THE HOPPERS ARE COMING

News forecasts regarding rural life conditions are always of interest, even though you've got to take the good along with the bad. So the forecasts just sent out from the "hopper belt" will be recorded by those citizens who read it as unwelcome news.

It is said that good egg-laying weather last fall, plust mild winter temperatures that failed to kill many of the eggs, give promise of a major grasshopper invasion this summer, federal and state experts in insect pest fighting predicting that a new high for crop damage is apt to be recorded in many sections. Grasshopper fighters who know all the signs say that unless unfavorable conditions intervene, heavy infestations will occur in 24 states from Michigan west and from Canada south. Last year's hopper damage in 24 states from Michigan west and from Canada south. Last year's hopper damage amounted to $60,000,000. With many control measures offered ,including everything from castor beans to hair snakes, poison bait, will be the major weapon used used against the hopper. Believing there is a shortage of bran in Texas needed for making poison bait, state college bug men are making efforts to locate sawdust (to use a substitute) at Texas lumber mills. Conditions are said to point to the worst year in Texas' hopper history.

To the millions who live out of the "belt" and who can do more than sit and fold their hands and sympathize, however, there is one consolation. The army of hopper fighters, better organized and equipped than ever before and with more funds on hand, is already on the battlefield and has already started in to wage the hardest fight it has ever carried on, and that this year it will be a fight to the finish.

THE MODERN GRANDMA

If you are one who remembers Grandma as a sweetly wrinkled old lady in lace cap who sat by the fire and knitted on winter evenings, and rocked and fanned herself on the porch in summer, then you are just another old-timer. The activities of a Grandmother'sClub recently organized in Chicago will give you an idea how vastly Grandma has changed. The club boasts a membership of 39 grandmothers. One of its members is a candidate for mayor; another employs 300 people in her candy factory; a third heads the B. & O. women's department; a fourth manages a $3,000,000 estate. a fifth (with 13 grandchildren) manages a gravel pit. Like younger folks, these grandmas play as well as work, listing as their favorite exercise swimming, horseback riding, bowling and gardening. Mister, you certainly don't know what you are talking about when you suggest pulling out the rocking chair for Grandma of this day and age.

A SPRING COMPLAINT

If your feet start aching and giving you trouble along about this time of year, don't get alarmed. It's just another ailment that comes with the first warm days of the spring and summer season, and probably half the people you meet are suffering from a touch of it. But it is not necessary for one to suffer from this condition at all, for it invariably comes as the indirect result of perspiration. Exaporation of perspiration becomes more speedy in warm weather and unless it is provided for through lighter hose and shoes and more frequent bathing of the feet, the trouble starts. The excess perspiration causes the feet to swell and turn red. But even that should not be the cause for alarm or fear that you are about to become the victim of some sort of new fangled disease. The prevention and the cure are simple. Merely dress the feet with lighter shoes and lighter hose and your troubles will be over about as quickly as they started.

LET THE KIDDIES HELP

We are wondering how many parents take their children into consideration when they start in making their annual garden. Somehow many of us forget, as we grow older, the things that gave us happiness in your younger years. Parents quickly lose sight of the thrill they used to get out of a few garden seed and a few feet of soil entrusted to their car. Yet, when reminded of it, they are as quick to realize that their own children would find the same privilege equally as thrilling. So why not, if you have not already done so, set aside a few packets of seed and a certain spot in the garden plot for the children. Let them feel that they, too, are doing something to share the responsibility of providing the dining table with life-sustaining food? It isn't expensive, it is far from being a waste of time and anyone who knows the thrill that comes to a child permitted to have a hand in garden-making knows its value to them in contentment and happiness. Take the children into consideration—let them have a garden, too.

IN THE GARDEN

Plan for a season of radishes. The first crop might seem the best because it precedes the other vegetables, but it is by no means the last. Follow up with sowing of 10-day intervals, then plant the long white varieties for summer. Fall radishes are even more important, because they come when salad materials are not over-abundant in the garden.

ON WASH DAY

Woolen garments will not srink if a teaspoonful of glycerine is added to the warm water in which they are washed and rinsed. This also softens the water and helps to preserve the fluffiness of the wool . To make your own carpet soap, stir an ounce of shredded soap into a pint of boiling water and add two tablespoonfuls of ammonia. Use with a soft scrubbing brush.

The fact that pigs would live longer if they didn't make hogs of themselves ought to be a warning to all little boys not to eat too much.

What good is a brand new radio if most of the jokes that come in over it were the ones you heard in boyhood days?

Lesson for May 29

MAINTAINING PERSONAL EFFICIENCY

LESSON TEXT—Dan. 1:8-16, 19, 20; I Cor. 9:24-27.

GOLDEN TEXT—Every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things. I Cor. 9:25.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How Daniel Pleased God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Ten Times Strong.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Liquor's Effect Upon Working Efficiency.

Personal efficiency is a subject which is receiving much attention in our day. There has never been so much accurate and usable information as we now have regarding diet, exercise, and medical care. The mind as well as the body has come in for attention and scores of books are available on the development and full use of the powers of personality. Some of these are trash, but others are helpful. Business is co-operating with the school and the home in giving boys and girls the opportunity to grow up to be useful and happy members of society. The church adds its important contribution, although we must confess that it is far from what it might be by the grace and power of God.

I. A Sound Mind in a Sound Body (Dan. 1:8-16, 19, 20).

Daniel and his three Hebrew companions had been brought to Babylon as captives, and were there chosen to enter the royal school for future service at the court. Every provision was made for the students chosen for that school. Their diet, however, included not only meat which was unclean to the Jew but wine, which Daniel knew to be undesirable. It took holy boldness to ask to be excused from that which the king had prescribed, but Daniel was excused not only with courage, but with tact and courtesy. A ten-day test of a simple diet and water proved so successful that the plan was continued. At the end of the three-year course the Hebrews were not only physically stronger but mentally and spiritually superior.

The experience of Daniel and his brethren is not just an incident eagerly grasped at by "blue-nosed reformers" to prevent their neighbors from "enjoying" intoxicating liquor. The testimony of science, of business, of experience in all ages, proves that the use of even an amount of alcohol so small that the user does not feel its presence materially "reduces endurance, accuracy, and rapidity of muscular action of all kinds" (Emerson). It so cuts down the ability to think clearly and to react promptly to danger that it is absolutely taboo with such responsible workers as railroad engineers. It is not a stimulant, but a narcotic, which dulls the nerve centers. Dr. Edward Rosenow says, "The use of alcohol as a beverage is never justified. There is no such thing as the right use of beverage alcohol."

Such information as the above is available in publications of temperance organizations, books by various writers, and even in publications by state liquor commissions. It is published in newspapers and magazines and circulated by safety organizations and insurance companies. Yet, unbelievable as it may seem, the use of liquor is on the increase.

II. Success in Life Calls for Self-Control (I Cor. 9:24-27).

Paul delighted in illustrations taken from the athletic field. He talked of running a race, of fighting a good fight. He knew the athlete's need of keeping his body under.

The one who serves his school or athletic association in physical competition gladly surrenders his personal liberty to the guidance of the coach. He eats carefully, sleeps full nights, exercises consistently, and above all does not use alcohol in any form. Listen to the words of great athletic coaches—Yost: "I would not waste my time trying to train or develop one who uses alcohol." Stagg: "Coaches and trainers are dead against the use of alcoholic liquors, even beer."

Paul rightly points out that all these sacrifices are made by men for what is but a transient earthly crown. How much more should we do for the sake of our souls. Temperance instruction may well stress the physical and mental degradation that follows the use of alcohol, but above all let us teach boys and girls that its use has sent countless souls to eternal punishment and separation from God. We should be deeply moved by the loss of personal efficiency, but what shall we say about the loss of a soul?

Faculty of Reason

Reason is a faculty of the mind by which it distinguishes truth from falsehood, and good from evil, and which enables the possessor to deduce inferences from facts, or from propositions.—Locke.

Sharing Our Joy

For there is no Man that imparteth his Joys to his Friend, but he joyeth the more; and no Man, that imparteth his Griefs to his Friend, but he grieveth the less.—Bacon.

Why it is that when the average engagement is announced a lot of people always say: "Well, it's about time."

KITCHEN KINKS

Maple syrup mixed with confectioner's sugar to which a little butter or cream is added makes a delicious frosting for cakes . . Unless bread boxes are aired regularly they become musty. A sunny spring day is a good time to wash the box and put it outside for a few hours to air. Never remove the hulls before washing strawberries. Put the berries in a colander and rinse them under slow-running cold water. Then remove the hulls.

IN MEMORY

Composed and dedicated to the memory of Paul Renaker:

I only hope my trailing pen can give,
A faithful sketch of him, who came to live
At Florence, when he was only yet a boy,
His youthful face so full of eager joy.

Of living and those happy days to to come
So brimming full of every boyhood fun,
Games and the swimming hole for summer rays,
With skates and sleighing left for winter days.

In our small town, he then to manhood grew
He gave that sunny smile to all he knew,
No ugly word did I ever know,
Of him to speak of either friend or foe.

Nor can I think of anyone within the land
More willing than he to lend a helping hand,
And seems to be it was but yesterday,
I watched him guide his father's feeble steps across the way.

And once I saw him life a child so sweet,
Whose baby steps had stumbled in the street;
No aged person ever was too old and gray
For him to cheerfully bid them time of day.

His faults like yours and mine, perhaps may be Great, but then his mother died you see
Just when he needed her so much to live
In that alone, we can so much forgive.

How often I have heard this young man say:
"Sure, it won't be very much out of my way;"
Perhaps 'twas thus to save a friend a step,
His tryst with death was so surely kept.

That he was loved by all, if there be any doubt,
I would that they too might have stood without,
And watched like I ,that ever steady flow,
Of sorrowing friends that past his bier did go.

Their hearts with pain had been so sorely rend,
And shocked by this, his most untimely end;
Now we must lay him there beneath the sod,
While Angels bear him safely home to god.

So like a flower we place him there today,
A sacred place within our memory bouquet:
Ah yes, I truly think he was beloved by all,
What greater tribute could we pay to Paul.

—A Friend.

A GORILLA VS. A HALF-PINT MOUNTIE

A MORE contemptible blackguard never lived than "Bully" R——. He was everything despicable and stood suspected of just about every crime in the Dominion calendar from murdering Indians on hinterland trails, to kicking a child out of his path. He stood about six foot even, and weighed about 250 pounds, all of it muscle, sinew, and unadulterated meanness. He was a big, strong, giant of a man, and he knew it, and he was always picking on someone half his size. He was a handsome devil, to boot, although he wasn't quite so handsome when, one fine morning in northern Ontario, he attacked the writer of this epistle and had an ax-handle wrapped around his head for his trouble.

Of all his tremendous stock of mean tricks and criminal pastimes, however, there were two that caused even the most hardened and capable wilderness men to gasp and keep out of "Bully" R's clutches. One of his pastimes was that of honing his two-pound hand-ax until it had an edge like a razor. Then he would throw it at the first dog that chanced to come within forty or fifty feet. Moreover, "Bully" R. seldom missed. With an axe, he was a marksman, and as his favorite two-pounder whizzed through the air, witnesses knew they were looking at a dead dog.

Another of his most despicable tricks was to pick a quarrel with some fire ranger, surveyor, timber-cruiser or lumberjack, or prospector who might stand about five foot eight or ten and weigh about one hundred and fifty or sixty pounds. He might start an argument over anything at all, and then, instead of using his fists and fighting like a man, he would close in on his victim, grab him by the collar and also by the belt, or seat of the pants, and then lift the struggling victim up at arm's length over his head. This was quite easy work for "Bully" R. for he had the build and strength of a grizzly bear.

At any rate, having raised his man above his head, he would let out a bellow and begin moving rapidly toward the nearest big tree, probably a hemlock with a diameter of about three feet. Then, when but a few feet away he would throw his victim at the tree, and he crippled a few men before others were wise enough to keep out of his clutches by any means possible. This writer used a nice maple ax-handle, and escaped injury, but a few others were not so fortunate. At any rate, "Bully" R. went on for some considerable time and he was just about due for assassination either by Indian or white, when he conceived the idea of heading to the Canadian Northwest to work during the harvest season there. Special harvester's excursions were running about every ten days or so, and finally "Bully" R. left the train at a flag-station in a district near Saskatoon, in Saskatchewan.

A dozen other harvesters alighted at this point, too, and they pitched camp alongside the railroad track, planning to camp until they hired out, which might be next day. At any rate, the first thing that caught "Bully" R's attention was a rather fine looking husky dog, evidently a sled dog. Not having his two-pound ax handy, "Bully" called and coaxed the more or less friendly dog to come to him, and just as the unsuspecting animal got close, "Bully's" right foot shot out like a piston rod and the dog went sailing through the air, to fall dead ten or twelve feet away. Just at that particular moment a Man of the Mounted appeared, seemingly from nowhere, but in time to witness "Bully's" fatal footwork. Not more than five foot six, and weighing less than 150 pounds, the Man of the Mounted walked right up to "Bully" R. and arrested him for killing a dog worth $50, and also cruelty to an animal that was absolutely friendly and had not attacked. "Bully" threw his shoulders back, took a deep breath, and in a flash he had grabbed the Man of the Mounted and was raising his load up high. In mid-air, the Man of the Mounted broke loose and came down astraddle the "Bully's" shoulders and back. Then something happened. The Mountie's hands were seen to be doing something to a spot somewhere behind "Bully's" left ear, and all of a sudden "Bully" R. went down in a limp heap. Before he could recover, the man of the Mounted had the handcuffs on him, and the "Bully" for the first time in his life was a prisoner, and helpless. Not a blow had been struck. Moreover, the Man of the Mounted didn't even muss his hair or lose his hat. It all happened just like that. Later, it was learned that the lightly built Man of the Mounted knew just about all there was to know about jiu-jitsu. Pressure on certain nerves in "Bully" R's gorilla-like neck had caused him to crumple. At any rate, quite a few of "Bully's" old crimes were dug up and the Canadians gave him several years to think things over.

Brute strength versus science. And science won hands down.

GREENE EMBRY OBSERVES 50TH ANNIVERSARY

This organization is one of the leading live stock commission houses on the Cincinnati market and have always provided convenient and honest marketing facilities for our farmers and producers. They are conveniently located at the Union Stock Yards in Cincinnati, telephone KIrby 3780.

We wonder just how many of our readers actually realize that Cincinnati is the best and most reliable live stock market in the entire country. This fact is conducive to the encouragement of more live stock raising and this profitable side line is receiving real attention from many farmers of our county. Firms such as the Greene Embry Co. are real factors in making this center a better livestock market and we are fortunate in having them at our service. You are always welcome at their offices and are always assured of a square deal and top market prices. The entire organization are real boosters for our farmers and certainly deserve the patronage and clientele which they enjoy in our county.

We must have such business firms in our larger cities who show an attitude of interest toward the farmer. Our farmers are strong boosters for this organization and fully realize the reliability and dependable service which has brought the Greene Embry Co. into its present leading position. We are glad to give commendable mention to this concern and recommend them to all readers. Their operations are so extensive that their business extends over all of our locality and many states of this country.

BERRY, LAMB AND WOOL PRICES OFF

With prices of lambs, wool and strawberries off, the income from Kentucky's three major spring crops may not equal returns for 1937, it is noted in a market review issued at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. E. A. Johnson of the department of markets and rural finance made the following statement about market conditions:

With 15 percent more spring lambs to be marketed this year and consumer demand lower than last year, it is not surprising that prices are down $3 from a year ago. It seems especially important this year that lambs be moved to market as soon as they reach the 75 to 80-pound class because the lamb movement is earlier than usual from most lamb producing areas.

Conditions in the wool market are quite the opposite from a year ago. Woolen mills, for the past five months, have used less than half as much wool as in those months a year previous, and so it is easy to understand why the market is slow at this time. Increased activity and higher prices are expected in the coming year and, therefore, some farmers are holding their wool for later sale. More farmers than usual are placing their wool with the Kentucky Wool Growers' Association where they can most conveniently get an advance payment through the Federal wool loan program.

The Kentucky strawberry crop was ready for market earlier than usual, in spite of the April freeze. Shipments started in a small way about the first of May with prices around $3 per crate. Increasing competition had lowered prices by the middle of May when the berry movement was at its height, but berry growers were still able to show a profit. Cool weather delayed the ripening of berries last week and thus helped to extend the picking season.

SHEEP FARMERS TO STUDY EWE TYPES

A series of "ewe fairs" to demonstrate the best types of breeding sheep for conditions in Kentucky are announced by the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky.

The first of these meetings will be held in Lexington June 14. Various types of ewes, together with their lambs, the rams that sired the lambs, and the wool clip will be exhibited and successful sheep raisers will tell how they handle their flocks.

Five other "fairs" are planned for eastern, southern and western Kentucky. One will be at Monticello June 16, for southeastern counties, and another at Paintsville June 18, for the Big Sandy region and northeastern counties. At Bardwell June 24, there will be a meeting for farmers of the Purchase region and adjoining counties. Other meetings are being considered.

Richard C. Miller, sheep specialist at the College of Agriculture, reports increased interest in sheep throughout Kentucky. Twenty eastern counties have launched programs to revive sheep breeding in the mountains, with 1,000 or more ewes going into each county. For the most part, plans iplclude the use of western ewes bred to Sputhdown rams, according to Miller.

LAWN AND GARDEN

An ice pick dipped in gasoline and thrust into the heart of a dandelion will kill the weed with little damage to surrounding grass.

Clay pots are unsatisfactory as they absorb too much water intended for the plant. For greater success with your plans either paint the inside of the pot or soak it in water over-night before filling with earth.

KITCHEN WISDOM

For preserving the fine edge of good knives, nothing is better than a knife rack made of wood. This rack may be attached above the kitchen table, sink or stove, wherever it is handiest, and beyond the reach of children. This rack prevents cut fingers from reaching into the knife drawer of the cabinet, in which the sharp blades are often upturned.

FOUR-H NEWS

The fifth meeting of the Girls' division, of the Burlington Blue Ribbon 4-H club was Spring Rally Day May 14 at Burlington school. Members present from the Blue Ribbon Club totaled 15 girls.

The meeting was called to order by Prof. D. H. Norris, president of the 4-H Council. The songs, "America," "Home on the Range," and "There's a Long, Long Trail," were sung. Each member was asked to stand, give his name, club, and project.

Other speakers on the program included Miss Mary Hood Gillaspie home agent, Miss Edith Lacy, field agent from the University of Kentucky; H. R. Forkner, county agent and James Dye, assistant county agent.

Lunch was served by the leaders and in the afternoon the style revue and demonstrations were held. Burlington participants in the style revue were Gladys Jean Congleton, Rosetta Snow, Ilene Craddock, Shirley Sullivan, Betty Forkner, Jewel Vice and Elaine Vice.

EVERY DECADE or so, some manufacturer produces a "natural"—a feature so good that all others adopt it, because the public just won't do without it. THE GARDEN

THE SECOND GARDEN

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Why to speculate on a "second" garden, some persons may wonder, whose spring garden is barely under way, but the fact remains that in all other years late May was the time to see about arranging for the winter vegetable supply, and 1938 will be no different. At least, the winter will come.

The second garden does not begin all at once, but is infiltrated into the one planted in the spring, so gradually that one is not aware just when the transition occurs. In fact, part of it began with the planting of parsnips and salsify, among the first vegetables to go into the garden. Just what persons in general think of these two does not matter; they are valuable to have, and those gardeners who have them may congratulate themselves.

Another vegetable that should have been started in the early spring is the carrot, for as the season progresses, it becomes more and more difficult to get full stands. However, if the carrot supply for the winter has been underestimated, there is still time in what remains of May to make good this oversight. The variety should be Chentenay, a broad-shouldered, stubby carrot whose flesh is brilliant orange and whose quality remains premier no matter how large it grows.

The rest of the vegetables that need attention at this time are beans, tomatoes and sweet corn.

Beans—The subject of beans may be dismissed with not much more than one sentence. It is this, that plantings from now on be double those made heretofore. For example, in the early plantings, made every two weeks, 10 feet of row per person was allowed. From now on, and continuing until the middle of July, the plantings per person should be 20 feet, each two-weeks' planting. Such an amount of means in an average garden should provide enough beans for them to be served daily, and a surplus for canning, to serve canned beans twice or thrice weekly throughout the winter months, and until beans come in again in the summer to follow.

In any discussion beans the matter of the control of the Mexican beetle arises. This insect many gardeners choose to outmaneuver by making their heavy plantings of beans early, before much breeding multiciplation has taken place. From these plantings, canning is done, so that in midsummer, when the Mexican beetles really become numerous, only table plantings need to be protected. This is all very well, if the canned supply need not be tapped to serve the summer table, but just this has been known to occur, and in the winter to follow, a corresponding lack. This is at least mild tragedy, and entirely unnecessary.

Much better, is to fight each generation of bean beetles as soon as the beans are invaded, beginning with the first. If this is done faithfully, the bettle menace will actually begin to abate on the plantings made in late May and in June and July, and fleshier, less watery beans for canning will be the result. It is possible, too, that August and September may be the more acceptable months in which to do canning.

LAMB SEASON AT HAND

BY THE NORRIS BROCK CO., CINCINNATI

The spring lamb season is at hand, in which all lamb raisers are interested. With a fairly moderate winter and early spring, we should have early lambs, although season; but with good sunshine from now, should overcome the rainy set-back. Our general information is, that there will be more lambs this year than last. We are sorry to say that financial conditions, are such, we do not expect as high prices as last year, with an average price of 10 cents per pound; we will be lucky to hold the price up to 9 cents average. Do not be disappointed in lower prices; our best advice is to get your lambs up to 70 to 80 pound weights as soon as you can, and market them; hold light lambs back if doing good. Our viewpoint of getting the most dollars for our customers, is to sell with us as little sort as possible. If any tails or skips sort out; but not to sort out a small percent of the tops to make a showing, making the bulk of the consignment seconds; the buyer does this to hold the average price down. That is why we contend so strongly for the sales agency to be on the selling side. Whenever a commission man is on both sides, he is a sales and buyer agency, have failed to see anyone represent both sides justly: it cannot be done. Did you ever see a buyer bid against himself at an auction sale? It is our business as a sales agency to represent the producer. We have proven this by taking off a dock of three pounds per head on truck lambs, which was 30 cents per head last year; multiply this by the number of lambs that came to the Cincinnati market, which amounted to $52,965.00 last year. It will be said no one docks lambs, they fail to tell who took it off. We play no favorites, we do not mark prices up and down, but sell all consignments on their merits; working for our customers first, last and all the time. If we merit your business, will be glad to handle it. Our lamb demand is greater than our receipts; if this continues we should have a good market right along.

Calves—Much is being said about our low calf prices, which can be remedied. If the sales agencies will stay on the selling side; not taking orders from the killers to buy for them; which would bring about real competition with the killers buying their calves, or giving someone a buying order job that needs employment, which is the slogan of the day, putting more people to work, which makes more business. The facts are a man that is a buyer is a bear on the market, to satisfy his buying customer; which helps to hold prices down against the shipper. We claim, that no salesman should bear the market, nor collect a double commission, the double commission man will tell you he pays the market price but cannot explain which side of the market he is on. If we were a shipper, would want to be represented by a seller, not a buyer. We expect to continue to be boosters and bulls on the market, selling for the highest possible dollar; not bears. Calves are too cheap compared with other live stock, it is up to the shipper to help remedy this by shipping to a strictly selling agency.

Cattle—We do not see much encouragement for cattle under present conditions, the facts are, if a woman has only 25 cents to buy a steak, she cannot buy a 50 cent steak: the same thing can be said of pork. Great many haven't the 25 cents, so they cannot buy steaks or pork chops, this will continue as long as we have so many unemployed. We expect good finished cattle to hold up fairly well, naturally grass cattle will sell cheaper as the grass season approaches.

Hogs—The sellers are having a hard fight to hold prices up. Light receipts is helping to hold the market up; we believe hogs will gradually sell lower as receipts increase. We think hogs will continue to pay well considering the prices of feed, especially on clover and grasses, which is the best time for cheap feed; finishing your hogs as fast as you can, send them to market, today's prices may look good later on.

We have always contended for more production of cattle, calves, hogs, sheep and lambs. That is the farmers' business, the people of this country and the world are short of the necessities of life.

The best way to help improve business, is for every one to push and pull, have faith instead of fear, talk business and conditions up instead of down, be thankful that you live in the best country and we have the best people in the world.

Remember, we have our sign out U R Welcome! with latch strings on the outside of our doors; come to see us. We will work for you first, last and all the time.

With best wishes and thanking everyone for all favors and good words.

Yours for service,
Norris, Brock Co.

PAINT AND SPRAYS FATAL TO ANIMALS

Spring and painting time are again bringing reports to the Kentucky College of Agriculture of fatal results to animals from eating paint or licking newly-painted buildings or fences. Care is urged to keep stock away from paint pails and from buildings or fences on which the paint has not dried.

Hogs, especially pigs, sometimes drink spray materials, and nearly always with fatal results. Reports also have been received of killing animals by giving them nitrate of soda instead of salt. Nitrate has the appearance of coarse salt, and can be mistaken for salt.

TOMATOES TO HELP IN TWO COUNTIES

Farmers in Breckinridge and Hancock counties in Kentucky hope to add at least $25,000 to their incomes this year by growing tomatoes for a cannery to be established at Cloverport. Farmers have signed to grow 400 acres of tomatoes.

Breckinridge county farmers also will increase the production of horses and mules, noted County Agent Will B. Ray. Several high-quality black Spanish jacks have been purchased, and jack clubs formed in communities. Plans include raising enough colts to replace worn-out horses and mules on farms, and also a supply to sell into other counties and states.

IN THE LAUNDRY

Egg stains on table linen should be soaked in cold water before being placed in the wash tub. The stain comes out quite easily if treated in this way. Hot water sets them and makes them doubly difficult to remove.

KENTUCKY PARTICIPATES IN HOUSING PROGRAM TO EXTENT OF $10,111,000

Washington, D. C.—Nathan Straus, Administrator of the United States Housing Authority, has set aside a total of $334,548,000 for housing projects in 80 communities in 23 States and the Territory of Hawaii, and has indicated that the entire $500,000,000 fund available for loans will be either earmarked or loaned out within a short time.

Up to the present, Kentucky is participating through loan contracts and earmarkings totaling $10,111,000 to be used in eliminating slums and constructing low-rent homes for small-income families. These sums are part of the $500,000,000 fund available for loans to local housing authorities provided for in the Wagner-Steagall Housing Act.

Louisville recently signed a contract with the USHA for a loan of $4,261,000 to be used in a slum-clearance and low-rent housing project for 814 white families. The USHA followed this up a few days later by earmarking $4,000,000 for a huge development for exclusive use of Negro families of the city's slums.

Covington has a $1,400,000 earmarking for a housing project, and Frankfort also has had $450,000 set aside.

Lexington, in the heart of Kentucky's famous blue grass country, has applied for a $1,800,000 earmarking, while Newport is mapping plans to apply for funds in the near future. Thus all five of Kentucky's local housing authorities are moving rapidly to put themselves in a position to share in the benefits of the nation-wide slum clearance and low-rent housing campaign.

Interest in slum-clearance is running so high throughout the State that eight cities have banded together to form the Kentucky Housing Association to co-operate with the United States Housing Authority. The Association includes the cities of Louisville, Covington, Lexington, Paducah, Ashland, Middlesboro, Frankfort and Bowling Green.

The project for which Louisville received a loan will cost about $4,734,000 and will provide 814 dwellings for low-income families. It will be erected on a 30.7-acre slum site where 991 dwelling units will be razed. The housing to be demolished is woefully substandard, a recent survey having disclosed that 92 per cent of the dwellings are without either bathtub or shower and 75 per cent do not have private indoor toilets.

Under the new USHA program, the United States Housing Authority lends to local housing authorities up to 90 per cent of development cost of a project, and makes annual contributions to assure that rents will remain within the reach of low-income families. The local community also contributes its share of an annual contribution.

The proven success of the Government's three low-cost housing projects in Kentucky, erected at a total cost of $3,812,000, is credited with having intensified interest in the long-range slum clearance drive under the Wagner-Steagall Act.

The Government's present housing projects in Kentucky are Blue Grass Park-Aspendale, a $1,704,000 development in Lexington: La Salle Place, which cost $1,350,000 in Louisville, and College Court, a $758,000 project, also in Louisville.

Blue Grass Park-Aspendale provides 286 dwellings for low-income families, who pay a base rent averaging $3.13 per room per month. All the dwellings have gas cooking ranges and electric refrigerators, and are heated from a central plant.

La Salle Place provides 210 dwelling units, in one and two-story group houses, at an average base rent of $4.70 per room per month. Including the cost of heat and hot water, electricity for lighting and gas for cooking and refrigeration, the average is $6.26.

College Court is of similar construction and contains 125 living units at base rents averaging $4.70 per room per month. Gross rentals, which include cost of heat and hot water and gas for cooking and refrigeration, average $6.03 per room. The buildings cover 23 per cent of a five-acre site.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

The Special Session Chandler-Wallis bill to revolutionize care of the mentally ill is being debated in the battle halls at Frankfort. The bill provides modern methods of treating mental diseases and initiates a system of mental hygiene, as a public health service. One of the most important features provides that the council of the Kentucky State Medical Association can protect the personnel and administratives officials, from political interference. The outstanding features of the bill provides, securing of qualified specialists in mental diseases for the state hospital staffs. The establishment of a system of mental hygiene, in cooperation with the public health service, making possible early treatment and cure of mental diseases. Professional qualifications are required for technical members of the staffs of the state hospitals. The director of the division of hospitals and mental hygiene, is to be appointed by the Commissioner of Welfare, from a list recommended by the Council of the State Medical Association. The director is to be in complete charge of the division and cannot be removed, except upon written charges sustained by a committee composed of the Governor, the Commissioner of Welfare, and a member named by the Council of the Medical Association.

Under the bill ,the staff of each State Hospital must include besides the superintendents, a business manager, clinical director, Occupational Therapy Director, Supervisor of Nurses, Field Liaison Officer, Dentist, Senior and Junior Physicians. The authorized personnel is one physician to every 150 patients with a minimum of one to every 300, and one attendant to every eight patients with a minimum of one to every twelve. The ratio of personnel to inmates in the Inistitution for Feeble-Minded Children is optional; but a Director of Education is provided.

The Director of the Division will have supervision of other institutions receiving aid from the State and give service to the prisons. He may utilize Public Health and Welfare Department Social Worker in the general field of mental hygiene.

The bill requires psychiatric examination of all persons indicted for a capital offense or habitual criminals.

An individual is permitted to have his mental illness treated without being convicted of insanity, as if it were a crime; but must bear the cost of this treatment except in the case of pauper patients.

An important feature of this bill takes the personnel of the institution out of the political patronage class and will allow a permanent staff of experienced and qualified specialists to treat and care for the mentally ill.

The bill contains humanitarian features that provide for systematic treatment and attempted cure of all mentally ill patients in State Institutions, not merely for confinement in state asylums. The division in cooperation with the State Department of Health will develope a state-wide mental hygiene program looking toward the prevention of mental disease.

Random Shots—The Special Session Chandler-Wallis Bill, threw in the limelight, Commissioner of Welfare, Frederick A. Wallis, as a shining candidate in the next Governor's Race.

DEFEAT SUFFERED BY BELLEVIEW

IN LAST THREE GAMES—BOB & GENE TAKE TWO FROM BELLEVIEW MONDAY BY CLOSE MARGINS.

The strong Belleview baseball team was turned back Monday, Memorial Day by the Bob & Gene nine in two games, which were hard fought from start to finish.

The morning game which was called at 10:30 a. m. was very thrilling with the count tied in the last of the ninth. The final score was 6 to 5 in favor of Bob & Gene.

Batteries for Bob and Gene in this game were Pruitt and Petty on the mound with Keamen under the bat, while the Deck brothers formed the battery for Belleview.

The winners collected ten hits and 6 runs while the losers tallied twelve hits and five runs.

The evening game was a pitching duel between "Hoots" Ryle and Bill Goodhue. Both pitchers had plenty of "stuff" on the ball and neither team chalked up very many hits. Bob & Gene collected seven hits and 3 runs, while Belleview collected nine hits and two runs.

Only three errors were made in the entire game, Bob & Gene one and Belleview two. This was a real treat to local baseball fans, and all followers were loud in their praise for the improvement shown over previous games.

These two games did not count in the regular standings, but next Sunday at the Belleview park the same two teams will lock horns in what promises to be the best game of the season, as both teams have lost only one game and tied for first place.

Belleview lost their Sunday game to Chisel Bridge by a count of 6 to 5, being the first game they have lost this season.

Farmers may grow their full acreages in the letters and are urged to grow as near the allotted acreage as possible. Reduction in benefit payments will be made if the allotted acreages are exceeded.

CHANDLER AIDES NAMED

JAMES W. HUEY OF UNION AND KENNETH JOHNSON OF WALTON CHOSEN AS CHAIRMEN OF BOONE COUNTY.

James W. Huey, Union, one of Boone County's most prominent farmers and democrats has been named chairman of the Chandler forces in this County in the forthcoming Senatorial race. No other Governor of the last three decades has to his credit the achievements that Governor Chandler has, and for this and many other reasons I know that our people will not turn him down."

He further stated, "There is every indication that we shall give him a much greater majority than was given him in his last gubernatorial race by our people."

Mr. Huey further stated, "Governor Chandler will appreciate the help and confidence of every voter in our County and our success in this campaign will be a credit both to our County and our State. In my endeavor as your campaign chairman, I solicit the assistance of every man, woman and child and all of the accomplishments shall be due to your loyalty and cooperation."

Mr. Huey was one of the first farmers to introduce purebred cattle into this county and much of the county's progress in this endeavor has been due to his persistent and able leadership.

BURIAL INSURANCE RULING IS GIVEN

Assistant Attorney General Rules That Beneficiaries May Select Their Own Funeral Director

Assistant Attorney General Owen W. Keller has ruled that beneficiaries of burial association insurance contracts could not be compelled to accept services from a limited group of undertakers specified by the association. Keller's ruling also states that contracts must be paid in cash should the beneficiaries desire. The opinion was given the State Insurance Department, who had requested an interpretation of the new law affecting burial associations.

Benefits must be paid in money if the beneficiaries request and there can be no compulsion exercised by the insurors in the direction of the undertaker from whom services and supplies must be purchased.

In the case of the Kenton and Campbell County Benevolent Burial Association, held, the personal representative of the deceased policy holder is not required to contract with one of the official undertakers listed in the association's policies unless he so desires.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hensley were Miss Marjorie Hensley, of Ft. Thomas, Mr. Robert Hensley, of Frankfort and Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Mills, of Erlanger.

CONFERENCE IS SCHEDULED

THIS WEEK WITH REFERENCE TO EFFECTIVE DATE OF HOSPITAL BILL—MEASURE PASSED LAST FRIDAY.

Frankfort, Ky.—A conference will be held this week with reference to the effective date of the welfare reorganization bill, Gov. Chandler Chandler disclosed after signing the bill.

The bill was passed by the General Assembly Friday and signed Saturday by the governor.

Gov. Chandler said he will confer with Frederick A. Wallis, welfare commissioner, and Dr. J. G. Wilson, state hospital head about the date of effect. The governor may place the law into effect any time prior to July 1.

On that date the law becomes effective unless the governor makes it operative before then by executive order.

Dr. Wilson, formerly attached to the U. S. Public Health Service, is the governor's choice as director of the Division of Hospital and Mental Hygiene established by the act.

The new division will have charge of state hospitals and mental institutions and will be responsible for the care and treatment of asylum patients.

Advice Given Administrators And Executors

Administrators and executors of estates were advised by the Social Security Board today to ascertain in each instance whether the estate is entitled to a lump-sum payment from the Federal Government in accordance with the old-age insurance provisions of the Social Security Act.

"A large number of death claims are being filed," declared Frank B. Decker, Jr., Acting Manager of the Covington, Kentucky Field Office of the Social Security Board, "long after the estates have been closed, because some administrators and executors of the estates of deceased wage-earners are unaware of the accrued benefits due, and therefore, neglect to file applications during the process of administration. It is extremely difficult to pay these claims after the administration has been closed without reopening the estate, and this incurs additional cost to the persons entitled to the benefit."

The Social Security Board certifies to the United States Treasury the payment of 3½ per cent of wages earned by a deceased wage-earner to his nearest kin or estate. The wages must be earned in covered employment since January 1, 1937. Lump-sum payments in the same percentage are also being paid to wage-earners who reach the age of 65.

To date, according to Mr. Decker, more than half of the lump-sum payments have been the result of death claims, the actual number up to May 1 throughout the United States being 72,000 death claims and 62,000 "live" claims.

Gay Gotham Scene Of New West Comedy

Mae West returns to a role similar to the one in which she won international fame in "Every Day's a Holiday," the new comedy which will be shown at the Gayety Theater Sunday and Monday, June 5th and 6th. La West is a buxom belle of the nineties with an accent on the wisecracks—the same dame she was in "She Done Him Wrong."

In "Every Day's a Holiday" Miss West is a hard-boiled lass who is torn between a desire on the part of Walter Catlett to star her in a new revue and the insistence of Edmund Lowe, a captain of detectives, that she get out of New York because of an alleged deal in which she sold the Brooklyn Bridge to a would-be-millionaire.

The story is laid in Little Old New York at the turn of the century and takes in its stride a New Year's celebration at Rector's famous restaurant, a mayoralty campaign—into which La West injects some showmanship—the New York theatrical scene in the days of "Diamond Jim" Brady, and the introduction of the automobile to the big city. The story is an original by Miss West.

The big cast of supporting players includes Charles Butterworth as a butler who is not averse to using his master's home and automobile to further his own social ambitions; Charles Winninger, the master, who is not averse to tempering a crusade for social reform with a little love making; Lloyd Noland, a bad politician but a good judge of women; Herman Bing, Chester Conklin and many others.

Starring Will Rogers in the title role, 20th Century-Fox's screen adaptation of George Ade's unforgettable humorous classic, "The County Chairman," will be shown at the Gayety on Wednesday and Thursday, June 8 and 9th. Kent Taylor, Evelyn Venable, Mickey Rooney, Louise Dresser, Berton Churchill and Stepin Fetchit are featured.

TRAINING FARM YOUTH

Some of the most valuable work done by the leading agricultural cooperative marketing organizations lies in the field of training farm youth.

These farmers of tomorrow are instructed in the science of farming, and show how to achieve maximum production at the lowest cost. They are acquainted with new methods and techniques. They are shown the need for loyal organization and cooperation, to the end that profitable markets be developed and held.

The fruits of this fine work will appear in the years to come. The next generation of farmers will be better prepared for successful careers in agriculture than their forefathers ever were. That will make for a more prosperous and progressive agricultural economy, along independent, instead of politically subsidized lines.

New Fish and Game Laws Explained

In order to put on a more extensive restocking program and give greater protection to the game and fish in the state of Kentucky, the Division of Game and Fish and the sportsman throughout the state sponsored a new Game and Fish bill which was passed by the Kentucky General Assembly at its last regular session.

This bill did not contain an emergency clause—which would have made it effective immediately upon being signed by the Governor—and therefore did not become law until ninety days after its passage by both houses of the Legislature. As a result of that section of the law, the bill did not become effective until midnight May 30th.

The new law differs from the old in that it does not permit the sale of squirrels at any time and places a bag limit of six in any one day of hunting. The season has also been changed from Aug. 1 to Nov. 30, up to open July 1 and end Oct. 1. There had been no limit protection on the rabbit heretofore, but the new law states that eight rabbits in one day is the limit. The open season on rabbits dates from Nov. 15 to January 9. This open season is the same as in the past.

Added protection was given birds and waterfowl by requiring all automatic and repeating shotguns to be plugged with a solid wooden or metal plug in such a way that the gun will hold not more than three cartridges.

Jack salmon or wall-eyed pike and striped bass now come under the protection of the Division of Game and Fish as the new law places a bag limit of fifteen in one day or not over 30 in possession at any time. These game fish have had no protection whatsoever in the past.

The fur-bearing animals and the trapper were also affected by the new law. The old law permitted trapping from Nov. 15 to Dec. 31. The new law extends the trapping period fifteen days, dating from Nov. 1 through December 31.

After January 1, 1939, the hunter and fisherman will be required to wear a button or badge on the outside of his or her clothing. This will be a part of the license and will clearly identify any one to the warden. It is believed the wearing of this badge will lessen violations and be conducive to pride and better sportsmanship.

The penalties for violations of the game and fish laws have been raised and most convictions carry a fine from $15 to $100 and in some cases even more.

THE SEWING ROOM

Most sweaters wear through at the elbows first. Here is a hint that will increase the wear of sweaters and save you money. Remove the sleeves from the shoulders and put the right sleeve in the left armhole, and visa versa. When finished, the worn, or torn, elbow will be on the inside of the arm where the mended place will be noticed.

PARAGRAPHS

Every time the average man has a half-hour to spare he uses it up bothering another man who hasn't any spare time.

The average man is mean enough to regret the things he hasn't done more than he regrets the things he has done.

Another thing about Lindbergh, he never has revealed what brand of cigarettes it was that enabled him to fly across the Atlantic.

A true optimist is a man who suffers in a dental chair to preserve his teeth for another four or five years.

We can't work up much sympathy for the motorist who gets hurts while driving like he was going after the doctor when he wasn't.

HERRINGTON IN FINE SHAPE FOR OPENING DAY

Herrington Lake, one of the best fishing spots in this part of the country, and the other lakes and streams of the state were in fine shape Wednesday to take care of the thousands of sportsmen who begun their various modes of fishing the first day of June.

Powell Bosworth, superintendent of Wardens for the Division of Game and Fish has announced that the wardens have been ordered to the fishing streams to assist the fishermen in any way possible and to also check all persons for their fishing license. Mr. Bosworth has asked that all anglers have their license with them in order to avoid any misunderstanding or confusion. Eleven wardens were stationed at Herrington Lake and a close tab was taken of all fishing licenses, bag limits and size of fish taken.

The anglers are being treated courteously by all wardens who helped and guided the fishermen to the various spots where the finny tribe are most likely to be found.

The Division of Game and Fish asks the full cooperation of the sportsmen in the enforcement of the game and fish laws, and in this manner the Division can carry on its work to the fullest extent and the hunter and fisherman will also profit in having more game and fish in the fields and streams when they go out to enjoy their favorite sport.

An act preventing the sale of jack slamon or wall-eyed pike, which was passed by the Kentucky Legislature at its last regular session, does not prevent the importation for sale from other states of such fish.

This is the opinion of Guy H. Herdman, Assistant Attorney General, as handed down to Major James Brown, head of the Division of Game and Fish.

This act does not prevent the catching in public waters of the state of jack slamon or wall-eyed pike, but does place a bag limit on these species.

An article on this subject which was printed in several newspapers stated that it was not unlawful to catch these fish in this state, but that is not true. The act forbids the sale of these two specie of the fish family if they are caught in the streams of this state, but places a limit on the number which may be possessed at any one time.

General Herdman, in his opinion states: "that the intention of the Legislature was to prohibit the sale of fish which were taken or caught in the public waters of Kentucky and not extend to fish that were imported into the state from other places and sold."

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

To prevent steaks or chops from sticking to the broiler pln, heat the pan sizzling hot before placing the meat in it . . . When the tablecloth wears thin in the center, cut up the outside into 12 or 16 squares and hemstitch them. These make nice napkins that will wear for sometime . . . To clean paint and varnish brushes, cover with vinegar and slowly bring to the boiling point. Let simmer 15 minutes. Remove and wash out with hot soap suds and rinse well in hot water.

ON WASH DAY

The temperature of the rinse water can make all the difference in the world between clothes that are bright and clean and those which have a dirty, grayish cast. A cold rinse defeats its purpise. It hardens the soap in the meshes of the fabric and makes its removal difficult. The hot rinse is desirable with white cottons and linens. With colored clothes, a tepid water is much safer.

When a girl listens to the fellow who is courting her she doesn't realize that she is listening to the same line of hot air father used when he was courting mother.

Men of the Mounted

by Captain G. Elliott-Nightingale
Copyright, WNU

THEY DON'T "ALWAYS" GET THEIR MAN

CONTRARY to general opinion, the Men of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police do not always get their man. Sometimes their assignments order them to go out and get a baby, for more than one northern settler was brought into the world by a Royal Mounted Policeman. Doctors and nurses were as scarce in the writer's early days in the northland, and both settlers and police were often called upon to deliver a baby, or amputate a badly shattered arm or leg. Furthermore, many a Man of the Mounted has been a lifelong friend of some Indian he had separated from an aching tooth, or for whom he had performed some worthwhile medical or first-aid services.

Sometimes, too, the lads who wear the scarlet and gold are called upon to conduct funeral services, and even to assist at weddings and christenings. The force, right from its inception, has been just as active and interested in crime prevention, as in criminal detection, therefore their association with Indians and settlers on other matters than police work gave them an opportunity to do quite a bit of missionary work along the lines of crime prevention. One old timer this writer knew had the habit of spotting youngsters inclined to be a bit wayward and more or less troublesome to parents and neighbors. Biding his time, this constable would soon have the headstrong youngster off on a little jaunt during which he would tell pointed stories showing how criminals and crooks finish up. He did not preach a doctrine of fear of the law, but rather respect for the law and the personal satisfaction one gets by behaving oneself. That lone constable steered many a youngster onto the right path.

Believe it or not, but there is not on this American continent a more versatile, resourceful, talented and accomplished body of men than the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Many of them could trot out more degrees and sheepskins than the same number of men in civil life, to say nothing of the years of worldwide practical experience these Men of the Mounted had known in some field of endeavor before joining the Force. You might find the navigator or naturalist, or the electrical expert tidying up a horse's hoof or dolling up saddle and accoutrements, and you must keep in mind the fact that these well-informed smooth-mannered chaps are wearing scarlet and gold because they hate the sight of the marts of trade and commerce.

The writer has lived and associated with Men of the Mounted who tucked themselves into their bedrolls with a well-spoken verse from a Grecian lullaby, and awoke quoting some timely bit from Cicero's orations. Yet, in action these scholars and worldly wise chaps are well mannered, courteous, and sympathetic when necessary, but hard, firm and severe when their gentlemanly conduct does not go over very well with some miscreant or lawbreaker who somehow had the idea that the Men of the Mounted don't like to get their nice coats soiled, or their hands dirty. Many a blowhard and insolent troublemaker has learned, to his lifelong regret, that although the Men of the Mounted respect, and take care of their uniforms, they don't let that interfere with the enforcement of the law. On the other hand, these Men of the Mounted can be as broadminded as the wide world when they chance to meet some energetic and conscientious settler who has helped himself to some game out of season.

One time in Saskatchewan, the writer and two other surveyors ran short of meat, so we helped ourselves to game out of season. We had the birds all cooked to a queen's taste when our cabin door opened and in walked a Redcoat. We were caught, redhanded, and we knew it. Nevertheless, we asked the Man of the Mounted to sit in and have a bite with us. The meal finished, the Man of the Mounted rose to his feet with the assertion that he had just partaken of the finest rabbit pie he had had since he left England. He knew he had eaten forbidden game, but he also knew we were law-abiding citizens and that we had to have meat once in a while. They're a fine body of men, able to preach a sermon or deliver a baby, and they don't always get their man unless it happens to be the very man they're looking for, and then, they get him, and that's that. Their job is to "Maintain the Right" and they do just that. That motto is engraved on their buttons and badges, and also on their hearts.

United States Uses Much Cocoa

United States uses about 40 per cent of the world's cocoa, gets most of it from Africa, where cocoa-raising is carried on by the most primitive methods. Natives still carry two 60-pound "headloads" of cocoa beans for a day's trek from plantations to trading post.

Another thing the city man can not understand is how a farmer gets grass to grow without sprinkling it.

SMALL PERCENT OF CHILDREN RECEIVE PROPER TREATMENT FOR TEETH IN EARLY LIFE

Only seven per cent of pre-school children in the average large American city receive adequate treatment of teeth necessary for dental health in later life, according to figures revealed by Rollo H. Britton, senior statistician for the United States Public Health Service, in the May issue of the Journal of the American Dental Association.

The figures as reported in Britten's article are based on a survey in that city, conducted as a project of the Works' Progress Administration.

The canvass, most recent American survey, was made in the winter of 1935-36 and covered a period of about five months. A cross-section of the Detroit population was covered, representing some 20,000 families and a total of 70,554 persons, excluding those under three years of age.

Two questions were asked—when the persons canvassed had last seen a dentist, apart from visits for cleaning of teeth only; and what kind of dental care was received during the period of one year; that is, extraction, filling, replacement or treatment of gums.

The answers show that only seven per cent of Detroit's pre-school children had visited a dentist during the year, whereas 31 per cent of the young adults had received dental treatment during the same period.

Sixty-five per cent of the Detroiters covered by the survey had been to the dentist during the past five years, but nineteen per cent had never seen the inside of a dentist's office in their lives.

The proportion of those who had never seen a dentist, Britton's figures show, varied mainly according to age groups. Eighty-five per cent of Detroit's pre-school children had never been to a dentist. But only eight per cent of those between 25 and 34 years of age had failed to receive dental care.

These figures, accordin gto Dr. Lon W. Morrey, director of educational service for the American Dental Association, substantiate the Association's oft-made assertion regarding the widespread apathy of parents towards preventive dentistry.

"The fact that 85 per cent of the pre-school group do not receive preventive care," Dr. Morey explained, "coupled with the fact that untreated dental disease grows progressively worse, naturally results in what the statistics of the survey reveal. That is, that 92 per cent of the adult group are forced to the dentist by pain and infection."

In order to solve America's dental problems, Dr. Morrey added, these figures must be reversed. "When 85 per cent, yes, 100 per cent of our pre-school children receive proper, inexpensive preventive dental care, less than 25 per cent of our adult population will need costly corrective dental services," Dr. Morrey said.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS IN LOUISVILLE

An all day meeting of the Executive committee of the Kentucky Sunday School Association was held in Louisville on May 11th for the purpose of discussing the Association's general program of activities and to consider plans for a State Convention. By unanimous vote it was decided to hold a state convention in Louisville, around the middle of October, this year, the final date to be left to the administrative committee of the association. It will be a two-day convention and the whole program will deal with present day issues and ways of meeting them. At least three forums on methods, with a source leader for each, will be held, and if present plans carry some of the outstanding religious leaders of the country will participate in the program.

Information was to the effect that the promotion of Go to Sunday School Day, this year, resulted in a fine increase in attendance throughout the state. Observance of the day for 1939 was approved and it was voted to ask the Sunday Schools, for Go To Sunday School Day in 1939, to strive for a minimum goal of 20 per cent increased attendance over this year.

The committee endorsed the actions of the Central or ad interim committee for the past year, these including the engagement of Rev. J. P. Barnes, of Bardstown, Ky., to assist in the field work for the summer; and the acceptance of a goal of 100 delegates from Kentucky to the International Convention on Christian Education to be held in Columbus, Ohio, June 28 through July 3rd.

Mr. Henry M. Johnson, president of the Association, was elected Chairman of the Executive Committee. He succeeds Mr. A. C. Hunter, of Versailles. Rev. R. M. Hopkins, Jr., Louisville, was elected secretary of the Executive Committee.

ADVOCATES RANGE RAISING PULLETS

All things considered, it is difficult to find a better system of raising pullets than putting them on range, provided the range meets certain requirements. That is the advice of Stanley Caton of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. These requirements he adds, will determine largely the value of the range and will help to determine the value of the pullets housed in the fall.

A good range should supply an abundance of green feed, provided shade, and should not have been used for poultry the previous two years. This, of course, is the ideal. Some conditions, such as shade, can be modified by artificial shelters.

The last mentioned requirement, that of clean ground, should be carefully considered. In most cases pullets are free of parasites before they get on the ground, and clean range helps them to keep that way. Feed and water containers should be moved at frequent intervals; the move need not be great, 10 or 15 feet being sufficient but move them every two or three days.

Keep a good mash before the flock. This mash should contain a source of protein such as meat scrap, or dried milk or a combination of meat scrap, dried milk and soybean oil meal. In addition hopper feed grain to the growing pullets to insure good body weight in the fall of the year.

Warm wet weather is often followed by outbreaks of coccidosis. Close watch should be kept to discover the outbreak as quickly as possible. The symptoms most usually recognized are loss of appetite, paleness in shank and beak, dropping wings and foten bloody dropping wings and often bloody curs confine the pullets to the brooder house and clean the floor thoroughly every day at the same time for a period of 5 to 7 days. Keep the house dry.

POULTRY DOES WELL FOR ALLEN FARMERS

Allen county farmers made a tour of poultry raisers who are able to do exceptionally well because of careful attention to details of good management, reports County Agent C. S. Bell. W. R. Oliphant put 428 chicks in a brooder January 30, sold 215 broilers at the end of 11 weeks, and had left a flock of 193 pullets and 20 cockerels that had cost him only $8.22. J. E. Stovall started with 205 chicks, and at the end of five weeks all were living and had cost him but $31.60.

THE GARDEN

THE SECOND GARDEN, II

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Last week, the need was stressed for following up spring-planted vegetables with later ones, to continue as long as there is season enough left to mature them. Thus the table could be supplied and a surplus for winter use is assured. Several vegetables already have been discussed; there remain tomatoes, sweet corn and late cabbage.

As for tomatoes ,it may appear that the number of plants now set is large enough to fill a complete tomato program, but if they are all of the sage age, or of the same variety, they will all reach peak together, and that may be long before the season should close and the gardener must be content with reduced supplies of inferior fruit. Rather than have this occur, it would be wise to start June 1, a packet of seed of Bonny Best or Chalk's Jewel, or, if the wilt disease is suspected, Break O'Day. These plants will be ready to set in the garden in 4 to 6 weeks and should begin to bear in early September, about the time that the early-set plants begin to wane. The fruit will be of top quality and will make an excellent canned product. Those tomatoes that are not ripe when frost comes, may be picked and ripened on the kitchen windowsill or in a garden frame or on the plants pulled whole and hung in the house cellar or some other place safe from freezing.

These plants will take almost no extra space in the garden, for they may be set in gaps in the rows of early cabbage.

The case of sweet corn is somewhat the same; a planting or two is made early, possibly with the intention to make more on a schedule to maintain a continuous supply, but plans go a-wry making dependence necessary on immature corn from the field. Young field corn is inferior to the sweet sorts at anytime, and stays in usable condition so short a time as to make the tablecorn supply extremely undependable and unsatisfactory, to say nothing of the canning supply situation. The way to get 'round these difficulties is systematically to continue corn plantings through June and at least to the middle of July, using really sweet sorts, Golden Cross Bantam, Aunt Mary's and Stowell's Evergreen, 15 hills per person, every two weeks.

Late cabbage is not as easy to grow as early cabbage, for almost always some dry weather may be expected. Also, the green worm may become more numerous as the season progresses, at least, to midsummer. To circumvent the drouth, the lowest portions of the garden should be chosen to set set late cabbage, for there the most moisture will be. The soil, furthermore ,should be prepared against dry times by spading into it large amounts of well-rotted manure. The green worms can be controlled by insecticidal dust, but because the other vegetables in the garden, in harvest condition, may be covered too, poisonous dusts should not be used, but Rotenone, for though deadly to all insect life, is harmless to humans.

If month-old plants of Late Flat Duch of Louisville Drumhead are available, they should be set now, but if no plants can be got, seed may be sown in place, in 3-seed groups, the variety Copenhagen or Charleston.

FEET AND THE LAW OF TISSUE

By N. Tulch at People's Foot Comfort Shoe Store, Covington, Ky.

There is a natural law constantly at work in the tissues of the human body. We must understand that bone, muscle and nerve consist of millions of ever changing tiny bodies called cells. These cells are held together with the tissue fluids and substances of the body.

Therefore bone, muscle and ligament respectively share the influence of this law ,that constant tension causes wasting especially in the feet in the body weight which they carry about and support is not evenly distributed and balanced throughout the twelve major bones of the foot framework.

If ligaments are stretched, due to long and careless standing especially those which bind the weight—suporting and key bones together, these ligaments finally yield in about the fifth or sixth year to strain and abuse, and pull away from the bone attachments.

The rest which the night affords is not enough to counteract continuous strain during the day.

This same law holds true of the muscles and tendon attachments of the feet which lift the body weight on the metatarsal heads or pivots. On the other hand, constant pressure causes wasting of tissue.

If the muscles do not hold the weight bearing joints of the feet in proper devetailing and interlocking action, these joints become deranged, misshaped and deformed because of the pressure of the body weight upon their point surfaces.

When we consider that we drive hundreds of tons of aggregate weight into the twelve major bones of each foot every day that we live, it is easily understood why feet degenerate.

GAME, FISH EXHIBIT AT 18TH JUNIOR WEEK

An exhibit by the Game and Fish division of the Kentucky State Department of Conservation will be one of the features of the 18th annual Junior Week at the University of Kentucky June 6-11. There also will be extensive forestry displays from the Robinson Experiment Substation at Quicksand, and county 4-H clubs will exhibit articles made from wood.

Approximately 700 boys and girls from 110 counties will attend Junior Week this year, according to advance registration. Use of electricity and wide application of farm machinery will be featured in the instruction. Boys studying crop production will see first hand the extensive experimental work at the Agricultural Experiment Station.

Twelve district teams will give demonstrations in home economics sponsored by the Stewart Dry Goods Company, and a like number of teams will demonstrate improved farm practices under the sponsorship of the Kosmos Portland Cement Company. Winner in a style revue, expected to attract 75 girls from as many counties, will receive from The Courier-Journal a trip to a Chicago style show.

Governor A. B. Chandler and other prominent men have been invited to address the 4-H club members at their morning assemblies, and Lexington pastor will conduct evening vespers. The Robertson County 4-H club and the University of Kentucky 4-H club will give plays two evenings.

MEDALS FOR BEST IN TON-LITTER CONTEST

The Cincinnati Union Stock Yards Company has donated $100 worth of medals for winners in the Kentucky ton-litter contest, it is announced by Grady Sellards of the Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The contest is conducted to encourage farmers to do a better job of raising hogs, including the use of better-bred stock and more attention to feeding. Awards will go on litters made ready for market when 5½ months old. This means good, strong, healthy litters, pushed from birth to sale condition. The method prescribed by Sellards includes the use of good pasture, which reduces cost of production and increases profits.

Last year's winner Earl R. Glenn of Grayson county, made a litter of 13 pigs weigh 2,595 pounds when 165 days old.

MASTER FARMER CARES FOR SOIL

G. D. Hieronymous, 75-year-old Master Farmer of Lee county, Kentucky, is spreading 100 tons of limestone and 10,000 pounds of triple superphosphate this spring. In the hills of Eastern Kentucky, Master Farmer Hieronymous has carved one of the best farms in the state. Most of his 1,000 acres are in grass, hay and trees. However, he grows a large corn agreage, and mantains a good herd of cattle and a flock of sheep practically all on home-grown feeds. As much as eight tons of limestone to the acre are used to produce big yields of alfalfa and clover hay. Last winter, during the Farm and Home Convention at the University of Kentucky, Mr. Hieronymous was named a Master Farmer, which is the state's highest award in agriculture.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS TO SHOW 400 LAMBS

Four-H club members in the central counties of Kentucky are planning to exhibit about 400 lambs at a Bluegrass district show to be held at Lexington on June 4. Lambs from about 15 counties will be contributed by club members and sold at auction following the show. The premium list includes $250 in cash. Boys and girls in 4-H clubs in 60 counties in Kentucky are raising lambs this year.

The Lexington show also will have divisions for Future Farmers of America and for regular farmer-producers. Several thousand lambs have been entered for the show and sale.

What man ever expected to see the time when a pair of high-heeled shoes and cotton stockings would be classed among the antiques.

Could you refer to a man who has three pairs of shoes as being well heeled?

Just because a girl has a ringing laugh is no reason to suppose that she is the belle of the village.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

By David Porter

The Special Session is over and a new era is starting for the mentally ill in Kentucky.

The bill as reported last week in this column, was passed with but few minor changes. The cost for the rest of this year will be $300,000.00, and for each year thereafter $500,000.00. The bill was passed unanimously by both the house and the Senate, with little debate and no opposition.

The inmates of State Institutions have in years past been pawns in the game of politics, suffering from the treatment of political appointees, who were usually given their jobs for the number of votes they could swing, and in some cases were uninformed and inefficient. The inmates were confined and did not receive the skilled teihniral treatment that the new law provides. The State will save millions of dollars in years to come, because a large number of mental patients will be cured and discharged.

A new floor leader, Senator Moore, was elected for the Special Session, which lasted six days—Senator Gilbert lost this place, because of his announced intention to support Senator Alben W. Barkley.

A decision of the Supreme Court last week will pave the way for the taxation of the incomes of the Federal and State employes. This will add a new source of income which will mean millions to the State and Federal Treasure, as the huge army of office holders will now have to pay tax. At present Federal salaries are exempt from state tax, and visa versa. A law passed by Congress will now allow this tax assessment, which is just and should be done. It is estimated that this law will affect more than 15,000,000 job holders who are paid out of the taxpayers' money but have paid no income tax themselves.

The Kentucky Senatorial campaign created much dissention in Washington last week, when a number of Congressmen and Senators were mailed copies of a letter sent to President Roosevelt by Judge Brady Stewart, Chandler Campaign manager. The latter made twelve charges, that the Federal agencies dispensing relief, were carrying on political cativities, for Senator Barkley. Both Harry Hopkins, W. P. A. Administrator and George H. Goodman, W. P. A. Administrator for Kentucky, denied the charges and said they were absolutely without foundation. Mr. Goodman said, "There is not a semblance of truth in the charge" and stated, quote. "I'm not in a position to pass judgment upon the old age pension program, which is supported by Federal Funds, and which is under Supervision of the Old Age Division of the State Department of Welfare.

Random Shots

Chairman James W. Martin of the Alcohol Control Board said today the new liquor control law's provision requiring the property line of licensed dispensaries to be at least 200 yards from a church, school or hospital applies only if the latter institutions are located on the same street. The 200-yard provision does not apply he said, if the licensee "faces another street intersecting or paralleling that on which the church, school or hospital is situated."

John L. Lewis, head of te C. I. O. and Chairman of Labor's National Non-Partisan League, indorsed Senator Barkley, in his Senate race last week. The current registration of a voter governs his primary election affiliation. Guy Herdman, Assistant Attorney General stated last week in an opinion to Perry Meloan. "To permit the filing of affidavits promiscuously by voters on primary election day that they had supported the candidates of another party at the last election would destroy the beneficient effects of permanent registration and the integrity of party primaries, he said. Mr. Herdman cited Appelate Court opinions showing who is eligible to participate in party primaries. To vote in the coming Democratic primary a voter—other than a new one—must have registered Democratic prior to last November, he said."

State officials and employes attended the funeral of Fletcher Davis, last week at Frankfort. Davis, 42 years old, negro World War Veteran had been porter for the State Library for 15 years, and knew more about the location of the numerous volumes than most any other person. Governor Chandler stated last week that his Washington trip announcing his candidacy for Senator made more W. P. A. jobs than Senator Barkley has in his term of office. . . . Tobacco growers received more cash for their golden weed last year, than they have since 1919. They received a cash income of $318,563,000, as compared to 1919—when they received $499,885,000. The income from burley last year was $78,790,000, fire cured and cigar leaf, 20,603.000. Kentucky received a large percentage of this money.

Still another reason for quite a bit of the domestic discord you you hear is that no house is big enough for two cases of swelled-head.

BLUE MOLD SPREADS IN BURLEY TOBACCO

Blue mold of tobacco has appeared in occasional plant beds over the greater part of the burley growing areas in Kentucky, according to Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. At present it is limited to a few beds, but if damp weather continues, he says it is likely to become more prevalent. Dr. Valleau issued the following statement:

"In dry weather the disease causes comparatively little damage to plants almost large enough to set, but in moist periods when the plants are tender it may cause extensive injury in a very short time.

"It is recommended that tobacco be removed in order to dry the plants early in the day and harden them. The disease spreads more slowly in plants exposed to the sun than those under cotton. Where the plants are large enough, set the healthy plants as rapidly as possible. The affected ones will gradually recover and will be ready to set about 10 days later than if they had not been affected. Recovered plants are entirely satisfactory for use as the disease will not affect plants after they are set.

"Where plants are already affected it is recommended that they be nitrated, using 5 gallons of a solution of 10 pounds of nitrate of soda in 50 gallons of water to each 200 square feet of bed. The solution should be put on with a sprinkling can and should be followed with an equal amount of clear water to prevent injury to plants."

SLAUGHTER AFTER DARK

What motorist hasn't watched from a speeding car the frantic course of a rabbit along the highway at night, until the cottontail is annihilated under the bright lights that began his flight? The secretary of the game conservation department of the state of Pennsylvania estimates more than a million rabbits are killed on the highways of his state alone every year.

Automobiles are apparently killing half as many rabbits as the hunters of the country shoot, which is costly business in states where as much as a dollar per rabbit has been spent in restocking the fields, often 60,000 in a single season. Additional thousands of dollars from hunters' license fees have also been spent on game farms and breeding areas. Rabbits are the most popular of small game in almost every state in the union, now that quail cannot be shot in many states and only for a very limited shooting season in others. Throughout the midwestern states there has been a marked decrease in their numbers in recent years, and only one midwestern state now permits the rabbit to be trapped and shipped outside the border. Their fast-growing scarcity can be traced to but one source—their slaughter by automobiles after dark.

The rabbit is a stupid beast, incapable of learning from experience, but we prefer his society to that of the type of driver who kills dogs, cats, chickens and small game animals as callously as he would run over a caterpillar. They can be avoided usually if the driver chooses, and the man who does not choose is the type of driver that other men ,as well as rabbits, should avoid.

RURAL HOUSEWIVES

According to a report, recently issued by Uncle Sam's Bureau of Home Economics, the lady of the house on the farm, works on an average of sixty-two hours a week, which is practically nine hours a day. Assuming that she gets eight hours for sleep there remains seven hours unaccounted for. Presumably she is spending this time resting to carry on for the sixty-two hours of toil. But even during the meal, which might be rest time she usually serves the others —so where go the rest periods? She occasionally sits on the porch during the afternoon and chats with a visiting neighbor, but during this interval she is no doubt darning socks or turning collars or some of the other necessary tasks of a thrifty housewife. How many citizens ever saw an orderly mistress of the country household sitting doing nothing? This is one class of worker who is never juzzled over how to occupy her leisure time. She has not much time for politics or the agitation of economic questions. She scarcely gives thought to Communist and Fascist arguments, and has no time to carry a banner in a parade. She is busy saving the sound social fabric of the country that so many others are seeking to enjoy. She forms the foundation stone of the real American home.

AUTO THIEVES

Wonder how many motorists have noticed that many fields woods and farms along the highways are gradually becoming enclosed by fences so that those who would car to stop in a shady grove for a picnic lunch, frequently look long before finding an opening? The motorists themselves are to blame for this situation. Farmers are fencing in much of their property at considerable expense to themselves for their protection against the motorist who has made it a practice to rob fields, groves, gardens and orchards. They proceed to take vegetables, flowers, fruit and nuts and the like, from these private grounds with no conscience for theft. What if the farmer came to the city dwelling and walked away with the doorknob? A motorist may pretend there is "no harm" in helping himself to the field supplies but would he do so in the presence of the owner of the land? In the meantime the desirable camp and picnic grounds are being fenced off at a rapid rate. No such fences have had to be built along the railroad, but who wants to eat potato salad on a railroad tie?

PENCILS AND CHECKS

If is difficult to belevie that there isn't one level-headed, responsible citizen who would think of handing his pocketbook to a stranger and letting him walk away with it, but that there are a number of these same responsible citizens who actually trust an unknown to draw all of their money out of the bank and think nothing of it! It is true that this very thing occurs several times daily, almost every day in the year, not only here but in practically every community in which banks do business and checks are written.

Despite the fact that bankers have for years cautioned their depositors not to issue checks written with a lead pencil, the practice still prevails to a larger extent than the average citizen would imagine. That more people are not victimized and robbed of their hard-earned dollars as a result of it, is probably due wholly to the good luck and kindness of fate. Certainly it is not due to the good judgment or careful business methods of those who have not learned the danger that lurks back of the pencil-written check.

Check-raising has long been a fine art in this country, so much so that science and invention have been called upon, with the result of the production of so-called "safety paper," check-writing and perforating machines. Even these inventions have failed to discourage the check-raiser. He continues to claim his millions in profit every year. If such modern inventions make the check drawn in pen and ink no longer proof against the skilled check worker, think what an easy mark he will find the man who writes a check that requires only a penny pencil and eraser to alter at will, and with little if any danger of detection until it has passed through the bank, and then the damage has been done. Don't trust your bank account to a stranger into whose hands your pencil written check may fall. Write it in pen and ink or let it go unwritten!

A BEAUTY HINT

If your chief facial trouble is a too olly skin, guard against eating an excess of sweets, fats, fried foots, rich desserts, and oils. More fruits and vegetables offer one sensible way to bring victory in your fight against oily skin. And whatever may be your skin troubles, remember that plenty of sleep, eight glasses of water each day and a sensible diet are sure helps toward skin beauty.

Lesson for June 5

SERVING BY PERSONAL DEVOTION TO CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:3-11, 27-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—She hath done what she could. Mark 14:8.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Mary's Present to Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Mary's Love Gift.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Showing Our Love to Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Heart of Christian Service.

"The love of Christ constraineth us" (II Cor. 5:14) was the all-sufficient moving force back of the greatest life of service rendered by any man. It is this personal devotion to the One whom we love "because he first loved us" (I John 4:19), which makes Christianity "different from all other religions. Christianity alone acts through this natural and deep hunger of mankind with a personalized religion which can be a satisfying joy and pleasure. Yet at this point Christians fail the most and make difficult the work of serving Jesus. They see religion as a job to be done, a form to be observed, a duty to be fulfilled" (W. R. King).

We need to renew that devotion to Christ which expresses itself in true worship. Prayer is too often asking for things; praise, thanking for things (unless we become so engrossed with them that we forget to return thanks); and worship, which is a coming to God in adoration and thanksgiving for what He is rather than what He can give, is forgotten. Our Heavenly father wants us to show love toward Him. The act of Mary was pure personal devotion and worship, and its fragrance lives to this day.

I. Wasted—But Eternally Saved (vv. 3-9).

The dark hours of betrayal and death were before our Lord. All around Him was hostility. Even in the inner circle of the disciples there was misunderstanding and bickering. Mary (to be distinguished from the sinful woman of Luke 7) with the quick intuition of an understanding woman's heart knew what He was passing through, and with a magnificent act of love stood by Him in the fellowship of His sufferings. Dr. Morgan points out that it was "an impulsive act . . . born of the prodigality of love daring not to calculate." In the words of verse 9, Jesus declared that the gospel and that which this woman had done were to "stand side by side with each other forever. That keen intuition of love, that uncalculating outpouring of love, was Godlike, and an act in fellowship with the act of God by which a world is redeemed."

Judas, who was a thief, said she had wasted money that should be used for the poor (John 12:6). The other disciples thought well of his argument and murmured against her. But Jesus commended her. To be thrifty and frugal is commendable, but there are times when the heart should speak without being silenced by the drawing of purse strings.

II. Saved — But Eternally Lost (vv. 10, 11).

Judas betrayed Jesus for thirty pieces of silver. He "made" some money. The fact that he did it by betraying the Son of God may be worse in degree but is not worse in kind than the betrayal of the youth of our land by those who make merchandise of their eternal souls. A recent news item from England declared that church organizations were making money out of properties publicly known as centers of prostitution. The leaders deplored the situation, but said they could not prevent it without losing the income of the property. Why not lose every cent rather than be party to the betrayal of any man or woman?

III. Bold Words—But Weak Actions (vv. 27-31).

Verses 12-26 tell of the gathering of the Lord and His disciples for their last passover and for the establishment of the Lord's supper. As they left the sacred meeting and went out into the Mount of Olives Jesus foretold His betrayal and His coming denial by the disciples.

Peter, quick with his tongue, and bold in spirit, spake swelling words of devotion and assurance. Sadly the Lord foretold his threefold denial of that very night. Again Peter and all the disciples declared their willingness to die with Him. They undoubtedly meant what they said, but reckoning without the weakness of the flesh they failed Him.

The lesson that is written large in this story for you and for me is, "Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall" (I Cor. 10:12).

Complaining

We have no more right to put our discordant states of mind into the lives of those around us and rob them of their sunshine and brightness than we have to enter their houses and steal their silverware.—Julia Seton.

Fortitude and Duty

True fortitude I take to be the quiet possession of a man's self, and an undisturbed doing his duty, whatever evil besets or danger lies in his way.—Locke.

AN INSPIRATION

"A soft answer turneth away wrath; but grievous words stir up anger. The tongue of the wise useth knowledge aright; but the mouth of fools poureth out foolishness."—Proverbs.

HUNTING PUBLICITY

A woman drives a car for eighty hours without stopping for sleep, in order to establish an endurance record. A boy erects a pole in his back yard and remains perched on top of it for days, to break a record. Still another woman claims the record for continuous rocking in a porch rocking chair. So the range for doing curious things goes merrily on, just to "set a record." The one purpose behind it all is undoubtedly to secure publicity as the ones trying for endurance records seem far more interested in seeing their names in the papers than interest in the stunt itself. Just why a sane person should want such publicity is more than most of us can understand, but they continue to dust our pages with their various accomplishments, and probably will continue to act until the newspapers quit printing anything about the stunts. This will put a stop to them for they thrive on the publicity in connection with them.

GILBERTSVILLE DAM CONSTRUCTION

Wasington, D. C.—When the President signed the Independent Offices Bill today, there was made available funds for the beginning of construction of the one hundred and twelve million dollar Gilbertsville (Kentucky) Dam, as provided in the amendment introduced by Senator Barkley. The completion of this Dam will provide flood control over a great area of territory which in the past has been inundated and destroyed by recurring floods. It brings assurance of safety to thousands of farmers and city dwellers in the Tennessee, Ohio and Mississippi Valleys. The power derived from the Dam will provide electricity for many Kentucky homes at a minimum rate. The Barkley amendment securing the funds for the construction of the Dam will provide safety, comfort and employment to a vast number of Kentuckians.

SPRAY TO CONTROL PESTS OF ELM TREE

Spraying with arsenate of lead to control cankerworms and leaf beetles, pests of elm and hackberry trees this spring, is recommended by Prof. W. A. Price, state entomologist at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. Two pounds of the poison to 50 gallons of water will control cankerworms. For elm leaf beetles, use three pounds of arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water and add a pint of fish oil. One thorough application covering particularly the under sides of the leaves will curb the beetle, Prof. Price said.

"FIRES" BERRIES AND MAKES $200

Maintaining fires around his strawberry patch on a frosty night made $200 for J. T. Warner, a McCracken county farmer, according to County Agent Joe Hurt. With two acres of Blakemore berries in full bloom and the temperature dropping, he built fires along the windward side of the patch. While unprotected patches in the neighborhood yielded 10 to 15 crates to the acre, Warner picked 175 crates from his two acres.

WOODFORD FARMERS PLAN BETTER STOCK

Following a survey of stock breeding, made by County Agent John R. Collins, plans are being made to increase the use of pure-bred siresin Woodford county. The survey, which covered 564 of the 675 farms, including farmers owning 90 percent of the land, revealed 886 purebred rams and 187 grade rams; 146 purebred bulls and 48 grade bulls; 61 purebred boars and 45 grade boars.

URGES ATTENTION TO WORKSTOCK BREEDING

Dr. W. W. Dimock, Kentucky College of Agriculture

In a recent announcement of the College of Agriculture, it was pointed out that the United States census places a valuation of $53,691,000 on the sheep, cattle and hogs in Kentucky, and $52,034,000 on horses and mules in the state, figured at farm workstock prices.

In that horses and mules have a valuation nearly equal to the three other kinds of livestock, it would seem that more attention should be given to the problems associated with the production of horses and mules. Kentucky should produce each year a sufficient number of foals for replacement, and in addition some for sale to other states. It is important that those raised for replacement within the state be of good size and quality, and that the surplus be of quality that makes them readily saleable and in general as good as horses and mules produced in any part of the country.

In the production of horses and mules there are always a considerable number of mares that fail to produce foals. An examination of approximately 3,000 barren mares in Kentucky revealed that over 25 percent did not conceive because they were suffering with some diseased condition of the reproductive organs. Of the mares that do conceive a considerable number lost their foals from abortion and an equal number from navel ill and joint ill. It is possible thru proper management, an examination of the mare before she is bred, care of the mare after foaling and the application and practices of equine breeding hygiene to increase the percentage of pregnancies of the mares and to reduce abortion and the loss of foals from infections of the new-born. The causes of these losses are now well known and many of them have rather effective preventive measures. In those cases where the foal is healthy at birth and lives to weaning time, then it becomes exceedingly important that the weanling, and through its yearling and second-year period, be kept free from parasites and given feed of a quality and quantity that assures complete supply of essential food elements, if the animal is to grow into a well-developed saleable individual.

The Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station has for the last 20 years been making a study of breeding problems in horses, including the causes of sterility, abortion and diseases of the newborn, the injurious effects of parasites and methods of control and treatment. Livestock owners who are familiar with the sheep industry know how important it is and how generally is followed the prevention and treatment of stomach worms in sheep. Those familiar with the swine industry know how effective has been the so-called McLain county system of raising pigs free of parasites. It seems to be true, however, that few who engage in the production of horses and mules give much thought to the question of parasites. It is probably true that parasites are just as serious to the well-being of the horse or colt as are stomach worms in sheep or round worms in swine, and as the unit of value is much greater in the case of the horse it would seem to be good economics to make sure that the colts are free of parasites and are fed in a way that will keep them in good condition and making a normal growth.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

If one has to eat hominy, then "hominy a la goldenrod" probably is the best way to do it, husbands in Rockcastle county said after their wives had learned to make it at homemakers' meetings. It is a streamlined dish now, they affirmed stoutly.

A hen that lays 27 eggs in 30 day — that is the kind of a hen to have, in the opinion of J. R. McDowell of Caldwell county. With a record like this his flock last month was one of the best demonstration flocks in the State. Three of the 10 best flocks were in Caldwell county.

Ormsby Village in Jefferson county has 4,000 chicks, all in a healthy condition. Expecting to make a profit on the birds, they have installed modern brooding and laying house equipment and plan to appeal to out-of-season buyers.

Plans of sheep owners in Union county for the month of May include the sale of 75 registered rams and an equal number of ewes at Evansville, and a field day and barbecue May 31. The Golden Hoof club is sponsoring the cooperative marketing of wool through the Kentucky Wool Pool.

More money for eggs by wise marketing—Monroe county farmers have attained this goal. By shipping eggs to Georgia, to the Atlanta Blue Ribbon hatchery with which they have a working agreement, a good premium over local prices for No. 1 eggs is received.

Dogs constitute a distinct sheep menace, but poor quality is a greater danger, believe Carroll county sheep owners. Along with regulations for insurance and enforcing the dog tax law, they are rapidly buying a higher quality sheep to replace run down animals.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE BENEFITTING WORKERS TO LARGE EXTENT

With almost $105,000,000 in unemployment benefits paid to insued jobless workers in 25 States during the first four months of 1938, R. Gordon Wagenet, Director of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation of the Social Security Board, stated today that "unemployment insurance is accomplishing exactly what the proponents of the Social Security Act intended."

"The unemployment insurance funds," Mr. Wagenet said, "are flowing back into the local communities and are being spent for food, rent, clothing, and services. They sustain to an appreciable extent the purchasing power of workers whose normal means of livelihood have been temporarily cut off, and thereby act as a brake on the downward trend of business and employment. Moreover, unemployment insurance means earned benefits to the workers, not a handout; a fact which has a very great effect on morale."

State unemployment compensation administrators report that the effect of unemployment insurance on workers' purchasing power and business conditions has been particularly noticeable in certain small and one-industry communities where lack of work meant that a large segment of the wage-earning population was deprived of its regular source of income. In such communities, payment of benefits to unemployed workers, the large majority of whom would not have been eligible for employment on Federal works projects or for local relief, has prevented serious losses to retail business and the service industries and, as a result, has tended to maintain employment levels in those occupations.

More than 10,500,000 benefit checks were issued by the 25 benefit paying States from January 1 through May 4, each check representing a week's compensation for a totally or partially unemployed worker. The remainder of the States will begin paying benefits later this year or next so that by July 1939, all States will have entered the benefit paying stage.

Regional Director G. R. Parke of the Social Security Board say that Michigan will begin paying benefits in July, while Ohio and Kentucky will begin next January. He releases the following table showing the balance in the unemployment Trust Fund credited to Michigan, Ohio and Kentucky up to the end of March:

Michigan	$52,251,192
Ohio	62,225,615
Kentucky	10,933,768

Greece is increasing its shipments of olive oil to other countries.

NEW FACTORY BEING BUILT

IN BURLINGTON BY F. O. R. T MITCHELL MAN — BUILDING TO BE 32x100 FEET ACCORDING TO PRESENT PLANS.

Last week Frank S. Milburn, Ft. Mitchell, purchased a lot from Elmer Kirkpatrick in Burlington, on which he plans to build a factory. The lot contains eight acres and is located in the new subdivision, just west of the local school building.

Mr. Milburn stated Tuesday night that he had not thoroughly decided on the exact size of the plant. His first plans were to construction the building 32x100 feet, but may increase the size to 32-200 feet.

Milburn stated that he had not thoroughly decided as to what kind of articles would be manufactured here, although he did say that he was a manufacturer of lathes, dies and other metal articles, and that the type of work in the Burlington factory would depend on the kind of labor he would be able to obtain.

Work was started on the new building Monday morning, and material is expected to be on the grounds by the latter part of this week, and work would be pushed until the building is completed.

There is only one other factory in the county, that being the Walton Canning Factory, Walton. This factory will no doubt be an asset to our community, and the county as a whole, and if successful will probably lead to other factories coming to our county.

Cooking School Held In Burlington Is Well Attended

Miss Mary Ruth Clark, graduate Home Economist, of the Community Public Service Co., conducted a cooking school at Burlington, Wednesday of last week, in the Peoples Deposit Bank hall.

The school was well attended by Boone County ladies and the demonstration was enthusiastically received by all present, and much favorable comment was heard after the close of the school, both for Miss Clark's skill and for the picture and talk given by the Westinghouse representative, Mr. Royster.

Miss Clark demonstrated electric ranges, both Westinghouse and Hot Point, using an electric mixer and refrigerator to show the adtanages of a completely electrified kitchen.

WHEAT BASES ARE ADJUSTED

BY ACP COMMITTEES IN BURLINGTON TUESDAY — LARGE INCREASE SHOWN IN LAST FIVE YEARS.

The Boone County ACP Committee met Tuesday of this week to adjust the 1938 wheat bases under the new farm program. Reports show that there has been a large increase in the wheat acreage sown and harvested in the county during the past five years. The wheat crop for the nation as a whole is reported the largest in the history of the country.

Wheat bases will be set up on all farms that normally sell on the market 100 or more bushels of wheat per year. Most Boone County farms producing more than 100 bushels, feed the crop on the farm and do not sell the grain on the market. Benefit payments will be made for acreage reductions on all farms for which wheat bases are set.

The committees will immediately begin work on the general soil depleting crop bases following work on the wheatbases. Every farmer has been requested to submit a report on the 1938 acreage of general soil depleting crops so that the committees may recommend more equitable bases for individual farms.

There is no benefit payment for reduction in general soil depleting crops but there are deductions in other payments if the general bases are exceeded. The committees hope to be able to recommend general bases to take care of the actual needs of all farms this year and especially for those farms on which the acreages grown is in line with bases of previous years.

COPPIN'S OPEN NEW DOWNSTAIRS STORE

The John R. Coppin Company, Seventh and Madison, Covington, announces the formal opening of its completely remodeled downstairs store. New fixtures, modernized cases, and fresh summer stocks tell only half the story of Coppin's downstairs store, where a new merchandising policy has been put into effect.

According to William Macklin, this is the new merchandising plan: Items sold will be reported daily to Coppin's New York office; new stocks will arrive daily at Coppin's, sent by the New York office to replace merchandise sold; only a very small profit will be taken to insure quick turnover.

In this way, Mr. Macklin explains, Coppin's downstairs store promises its customers adequate stock and selections at all times . . . at the lowest possible prices.

BRIDGE PLANS ARE STUDIED

BY FISCAL COURT MONDAY—WILLIAM CROUSE, RURAL ROAD ENGINEER PRESENT AT MEETING.

Plans were discussed at the regular session of the Boone fiscal court held Monday, concerning the building of a bridge over Adkins Riffle, Gunpowder, and plans are now being prepared for this project.

Wm. Crouse, Rural Road Engineer was present at the meeting and gave many helpful suggestions concerning the building of this bridge.

The bridge will allow traffic to pass through this section even during excess rainfall, which was not possible heretofore, as the crossing and much of the road was under water when a very large amount of rain fell.

Other routine business was disposed of by the fiscal court and they adjourned early Monday afternoon. No county road engineer was chosen at this meeting.

DeMille, Down In Depths, Seeks Sunken Shipping

Down went DeMille to the bottom of the sea!

Davey Jones' locker became an open secret to Cecil B. DeMille, who during the filming of The Bucaneer put on his diving suit and walked around on the floor of the Gulf of Mexico in search of sunken pirate ships.

This new DeMille epic, to be at the Gayety Theater Sunday and Monday stars Fredric March in the role of Lafitte, the nineteenth century pirate who helped Andy Jackson win the Battle of New Orleans and end the War of 1812. DeMille, who has long been a diving enthusiast, hoped to raise some old hulks from the Gulf in order to learn more about the ships of the period.

As king of the Louisiana pirates, March is supported by an all-star cast which includes Franciska Gaal, Akim Tamiroff, Margot Grahame, Walter Brennan and Ian Keith.

Five Million Alloted Kentucky For Road Building

Washington, June 4—Kentucky is to receive $5,377,000 in federal road funds authorized by Congress during the fiscal year of 1940-41.

Sen. Hayden's figures showed Kentucky's allocation for regular federal aid highways in 1940 would be $1,830,000 for secondary or feeder roads $274,000 and for grade crossings $358,000.

During the 1941 fiscal year the state would receive $2,104,000 for regular federal aid highways; $274,000 for secondary or feeder roads and $537,000 for grade crossings.

AURORA GETS TWO MILLION

TO FIGHT FLOODS—MAYOR KERR INFORMED OF U. S. ALLOTMENT—RIVER WALL IS BEING STUDIED.

Aurora, Ind., June 4—Mayor Walter Kerr, Aurora, has announced he has been advised by Congressman Eugene B. Crowe that more than $2,000,000 has been allotted to Aurora under the recent flood control bill passed by Congress.

Kerr said $1,630,000 was to be for construction here, and $397,000 for lands and damages, making a total of $2,027,000. It is believed the city will be required to obtain the right-of-way for the wall.

Kerr said a government engineer conferred with him several months ago regarding the possibilities of a flood wall to protect Aurora, Wilfred Ullrich, president of Aurora Commercial Club has appointed a committee, John Giffin, Sol Vigran and Arthur Schulz, to confer with Mayor Kerr regarding this project and to investigate the advisability of building a flood wall at Aurora.

Should a flood wall be built, it is thought construction costs would be large, as Aurora stands at the mouth of Hogan creek, which branches into North and South Hogan within the city limits. These creeks would require walls to keep cakwater from covering large sections of the town. Along the Ohio river a huge wall would have to be built extending the full length of the town. It is estimated that more than four miles of flood wall would be required for highways and railroad traffic.

STATE FACING LOSS, OIL MEN ARE TOLD

The state of Kentucky faces a loss of one-third of its federal aid money ($2,819,179) if highway tax funds are diverted from the highway treasury to other treasuries.

So Boone, Kenton and Campbell County oil men were told Monday night at a tri-county meeting at the Covington Chamber of Commerce. The danger of the loss was pointed out by Herbert L. Clay, state secretary of the Kentucky Petroleum Industries Committee.

He pointed out that the 3 per cent vehicle usage tax and the $1 annual drivers' license fees go into the general fund. This, he said, is diversion of highway taxes into other than highway funds.

To forestall the possibility of the $2,000,000 loss, he urged the repeal of existing laws or the earmarking of money collected. He also urged an amendment to the constitution to put a halt forever to the practice.

Mr. Clay said that under the Hyden-Cartwright federal Aid Act, the secretary of agriculture has the right to withhold federal aid money if a diversion is detected.

H. P. Day, Kenton county, was chairman of the meeting.

POULTRYMEN ARE VISITED

IN ALL-DAY TOUR HELD WEDNESDAY, JUNE 1ST—BETTER PRACTICES DEMONSTRATED BY LEADING POULTRYMEN.

Ten leading poultrymen were visited in the all-day tour held in Boone County last Wednesday, June 1st. Certain approved poultry practices were seen at each farm visited.

The important points seen at each stop on the tour were as follows:

Grant Maddox, Florence, the largest poultry raiser in the county. He raised this year 2700 young birds under the latest and most approved poultry husbandry practices. Two series of brooder houses under the four year rotation, clean ground system, theft proof protection, commercial hatchery and other important poultry features were seen.

Mrs. J. W. Dixon—500 young birds under approved brooder house and clean ground conditions.

Albert Parker, Walton—successful brooding practices.

Mrs. S. B. Sleet, Beaver—good brooder and poultry laying houses for farm flocks.

O. R. Russ, Limaburg—good brooder house, chickens brooded with natural gas.

C. B. Turner—300 chicks brooded with wire cloth sun porch. 10 weeks old and have never been on the ground. Birds weigh around 2½ pounds. Splendid example of growing chicks where old ground is used.

Cecil Conner, Commercial hatchery.

Lucy Lee Grant, Bullittsville—brooding 500 chickens; good houses; farm flock; good production.

Mrs. Cad Sullivan—home-made brick brooder; good poultry raiser.

Mrs. Bert Loomis—largest turkey raiser in the county. Uses clean ground, good brooder houses and brooder stoves to raise poults. Her methods of turkey raising are to be recommended.

There are many other good poultry raisers in the county that folks taking part in the tour were unable to visit. The stops made in the tour show marked improvement has been made both in production and management of poultry. Today it is nothing unusual for poultrymen to raise a brood of from 250 to 300 chicks with less than 5 per cent loss. The greatest loss in the poultry business in former years was in chicks from one day old to 12 weeks of age.

The loss in growing chicks to date has been greatly overcome. The greatest loss to date is in the mature birds.

—o—

The nation's critical transportation problem can be solved only by the prompt adoption of a public policy which will give each form of transportation a fair chance to do the work for which it is best fitted and which it can do at the lowest true cost.

That is the opinion of J. J. Pelley, President of the Association of American Railroads. He also said: "To relieve the railroad crisis is beyond the power of railroads themselves, because its causes are beyond their reach. It is a job for public policy, for economic statesmanship, for fair dealing. It is a job which cannot be done unless we all are willing to renounce the idea of getting something for nothing in the way of transportation at the expense of that vague unidentified 'other fellow'—the taxpayer—who, most disconcertingly, turns out to be all of us."

The fundamental difficulties faced by the railroads are very largely due to conditions established by public policy, under a system of regulation which has failed to fulfill its basic premise—that is, to protect the public interest in transportation, and at the same time to allow all carriers a fair return on their investment. Some carriers are directly subsidized by government. Some are indirectly subsidized. Some are unregulated. Some are half regulated. Of them all, only the railroads are regulated in every phase of operation, are unsubsidized, are very heavily taxed and are, as a result of this inequitable policy perilously close to ruin.

Certainly the policy Mr. Pelley asks for its not difficult to establish. Certainly it is not impossible to make our regulatory system conform to the conditions of today instead of yesterday. Certainly no public good can come of refusing carriers a "living wage." Today there is no more vital problem than the railroad problem—and the public interest demands that it be met. It is squarely up to our lawmakers to decide whether this great industry, with its army of workers and its billions of invested saving, is to be preserved.

HANDCUFF THE JOB KILLER

—o—

The Senate's opposition to dangerous tax policies has at last produced some result. The undistributed profits tax and the capital gains tax, which were kept practically intact in the House tax bill, are to be modified to a considerable extent.

This will help business some and is a step in the right direction. But it is only half a victory. Modification is not enough—repeal is the only solution to a problem that has grown constantly more grave. These two taxes are job killers. They penalize the man who takes a chance and invests his money in new ventures that will open up opportunities and provide employment. They penalize going industries which want to expand—particularly the larger industries of the country, which are the chief source of jobs and income. They build a dam in the road of progress.

The new tax bill is far better than its predecessor. The next essential step is the complete elimination of those taxes which are so largely responsible for depression.

THE JUNE MILK CAMPAIGN

The month from June 10th to July 10th will be a happy period for the nation's milk producers, judging by an announcement made by the Limited Price Variety Stores Association.

Sixteen of the leading variety stires of the country will conduct an aggressive promotional campaign during that time in order to increase their milk sales, and to help dairy farmers meet what present forecasts hold will be a substantial seasonal milk surplus. These chains carried on a similar milk "drive" last year and, as farm organizations afterwards testified, the results were extremely gratifying.

Thus, the variety chains are also coming to the aid of agriculture—even as the food chains are, with their periodic producer-consumer campaigns. Starting about two years ago as an experiment, these campaigns have become an established phase of the chain store business. The experimental period is definitely over—the soundness of the campaigns, and their beneficial effects on farmers, consumers, and the stores themselves, have been proven. Following the lead of the chains, progressive independent store groups are also cooperating with agriculture to move surpluses, and expand and stabilize markets.

So, when you see colorful displays featuring milk in local store windows during June and early July, you will know the motive behind them, namely, to increase the sale of milk, help the dairy farmers in a sound way, and show the consumer the great value of that basic health food, milk and its products.

GRADUATES

Following a custom they've carried out for many years, at this time of year, your editors in all sections of the country, are paying their respects to the graduate. They refer to the responsibilities that come with manhood and maturity, the foundations that are to be laid for a future in a world upset by economic and social problems, and the conquering of independence and maintenance. The youngster of today is the man of tomorrow but a man who will need a helping hand.

The present day graduate looks on the event with intelligence and good, common sense despite the fact that there is much facing him to discourage him and make him afraid. Todays' graduate knows that getting a diploma is one thing and getting a job another. And it seems that each new crop of graduates finds the task more difficult each year. You will find that most young folks are looking on life more seriously and planning for the future more carefully than is usual with youth. Todays' graduate knows the conditions awaiting him are not to be easily solved but he is willing to tackle the problem. Many graduates have been led to believe there are no longer opportunities for pleasant, profitable and helpful service, but they will find there is always an opportunity to serve.

Of these many young people who are soon starting in to find employment, most of them being willing to take any kind of honest labor, are paying the way, in part, for the general support of their families, and in some cases they will be able to lighten the load on our relief rolls. They are deserving of all the aid and co-operation our local citizens can extend them.

Do not let any boy remain idle who has a desire to work, if you can help him in any way. The wish to work instead of loaf is a characteristic which deserves the encouragement of the older generation in every possible way.

TIME TO TUNE UP

—o—

There are many motorists who think that so long as the car runs when he starts it and keeps running as long as he presses his foot on the accelerator it is in good shape and all is well with it. They don't stop to consider that there are different grades of oil for different temperatures, and that failure to change at the proper time can easily ruin a motor, or that after running through the hardest motoring months of the year batteries lose much of their power and pep and need refilling, or that bolts or screws that hold vital parts of its mechanism together have worked loose and rendered the car unsafe until readjustments are made. Just because it will run doesn't mean that it will safely, and no man should risk his life or the lives of his family because it does so. Heavy repair bills later on—maybe a fatal accident—rests upon the entire car being in perfect shape for summer driving. Tune it up now and be on the safe side.

Lesson for June 12

FACING THE SUPREME TEST OF SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:32-36.
GOLDEN TEXT—Not what I will, but what thou wilt. Mark 14:36.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus in the Garden.
JUNIOR TOPIC—In Gethsemane
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Courage in the Face of Danger.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Challenge of God's Will.

No man has ever faced such a crisis as Jesus met in the Garden of Gethsemane, for He was the Son of God incarnate in order to bear the sins of the world. No one can ever fully understand the agony of soul involved when God "made him to be sin for us, who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in him" (II Cor. 5:21). It is, therefore, true that we may never say that we have gone "through Gethsemane." But there is a very real sense in which our Lord's experience is shared by His disciples, in a lesser degree and as ordinary human beings.

Our lesson brings before us the closing scene of Thursday before the crucifixion. The day has been crowded with important events, among them the eating of the Passover, the revelation that there was a traitor among the twelve, the institution of the Lord's supper, the precious words of the upper room, the intercessory prayer in the garden.

I. Exceeding Sorrowful (vv. 32-36).

The text uses many words to convey the depth of His soul's agony, as though it were impossible to express it in the faulty medium of speech. So it is, for our Lord here experienced something far more serious than a dread of physical death. He was not a coward. He was not afraid to die. His soul was about to have put upon its spotless sinlessness the stain and dishonor of the world's sins. Little wonder that He was "sorrowful even unto death" (v. 34).

Since this was the road the Master trod, should not His servants tread it still?

II. Alone with God (vv. 37-41).

Jesus took with Him into the secluded place in the Garden the three who were closest to Him in the circle of disciples. He counted on their fellowship and sympathy in His hour of anguish. Merely to have them near Him, to know that they were there to watch and pray even though they could not share His holy burden, was to be a comfort to Him. We try to do as much for one another in hours of bereavement and disappointment, but how much greater was the opportunity of these three, and how ignominiously they failed. The spirit was willing (v. 38), but the flesh took the upper hand, and they slept! He was alone with His Father, when He prayed that if it were possible the hour might pass from Him, but in true and beautiful submission said, "not what I will, but what thou wilt."

The follower of Jesus will know this experience, too. While he will ever find it to be true that there is nothing more precious than the friends God gives him, he should prepare himself to expect the arm of flesh to fail him. There is no more bitter experience in human relationships than to count on those who should stand by, come what may, and to find that they have slept through our hour of soul-struggle.

III. Betrayed by a Kiss (vv. 42-46).

To betray the one who had done nothing but good, who had loved him and served him even in the washing of his feet, this would have been far more than one could have expected of even the sin-blackened heart of a Judas. But he fills the measure of his ignominy to overflowing by betraying his Lord with the sign of affection—a kiss.

We know full well that we may not stand on the same ground as our Lord even here, for, whereas He had done nothing to merit betrayal, we at our best are not able to stand forth without fault. Nevertheless, great is the hurt when we face the betrayals of life. It may be one whom we have befriended, who has been the object of our loving thought and care, and who in the hour when he thinks to gain himself some advantage or avenge some fancied wrong strikes us in the back, even as he smilingly professes to be a friend. Shall we be embittered in soul and give like for like? God forbid! Let us rather say as Jesus did to Judas, "Friend, wherefore art thou come?" (Matt. 26:50.)

If We Knew All

The righteous perisheth, and no man layeth it to heart: and merciful men are taken away, none considering that the righteous is taken away from the evil to come. He shall enter into peace.—Isa. 57:1, 2.

Secret of Holiness

They ask me for secrets of holiness. For myself I know no secret than to love God with all my heart and my neighbor (who is all mankind) as myself.

Little did old-timers ever expect that a day would come when a steering wheel would represent the family circle.

Since they know more abo t raising them, why didn't natu e give the other people all the chi dren?

ON WASH DAY

Chlorinated bleaches are invaluable for removing stains and bleaching household linens during the summer season. Except fir wool and silk materials, such a bleach may be used on any stains found on white goods. Grass, fruit and other stain, which always begin to appear at this season of the year will yield quickly to such treatment. Do not, however, use the bleach on colored clothes.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Canned pear halves, rolled in flour and browned in fat, are tasty served with roast or chops . . . Water drained from canned or fresh vegetables may be used for its mineral value and flavor in creamed soups. . . . Grape juice sauce makes a pleasant change when served over baked, spiced or cottage puddings.

About the only thing the average wife knows about the perfect husband is that her's is a long, long way from being one.

The greatest relief that this country will ever feel will come when there isn't any more relief.

FARMERS SEE RESULTS AT EXPERIMENT FIELDS

Nearly 1,500 farmers who attended this spring's meetings at the five outlying soil experiment fields of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station saw striking results from the use of lime and phosphate fertilizers and farm manure in the production of crops. At all of the fields, crops growing on land that had received regular applications of lime and phosphate materials were in excellent condition, compared with crops on untreated land of the same type.

The visitors, who came from more than half of the counties in the state, and from other states, showed special interest in clover, alfalfa and other legumes and in grasses growing luxuriantly following the use of lime and phosphate in crop rotations. Good bluegrass sod is being grown at the fields outside the Bluegrass region, which indicates that it is possible to have bluegrass anywhere in the state, if mineral elements are restored to the soil.

The meetings marked the 25th anniversary of the establishment of the experimental fields at Mayfield, Greenville and Berea. The other meetings were at Campbellsville and Fariston.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Oldham county farmers sowed 1,200 acres of alfalfa in April. Most of it went on land that had been limed, and practically all farmers applied 200 to 400 pounds of 20 percent superphosphate or 150 to 200 pounds of TVA triple superphosphate to the acre.

Breathitt county members of homemakers' clubs have been studying "back savers in the kitchen." One woman reported that she had relieved a case of chronic backache by raising the working surface of her kitchen table 7 inches.

Porter Hunt and Ellis Crabtree, former 4-H club members, recently purchased the first purebred Jersey cows to be taken into McLean county in several years. Carl Johnson has purchased a registered Percheron stallion, and several purebred sows have been added to the herds in the county.

Planks in the platform of the Carroll County Sheep Raisers' Association: Insurance for all sheep; aid for county officials in the enforcement of the dog law; control of diseases and parasites; improvement of flocks through use of purebred rams.

Mixtures of orchard grass, timothy and redtop, in connection with the seeding of lespedeza, sweet clover and other clovers, was advocated as the basis of abundant pasturage and forage, at seven community meetings in Union county.

As a result of demonstrations last year, Harlan county farmers are making their first purchases of commercial superphosphate. Pearl Bassham applied 10 tons to 40 acres of grass, and L. G. Morris used 9,000 pounds on 10 acres of meadow, and many farmers used smaller amounts.

URGE GREATER USE OF EGGS AT HOME

Kentucky's plentiful production of eggs adds substantially to the farm income. and furnishes a rich source of proteins and most of the vitamins that homemakers should be quick to utilize.

Greater use of eggs at home is recommended by the home economics department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. One to three eggs a day are not too many for the normal person, and will help keep children healthy and growing. Children who get plenty of milk and eggs are not in much danger of having rickets, say the home economists.

Eggs are rich in phosphorus and in iron, and have some calcium. It is pointed out that eggs and milk have long been used in the diets of persons who have been ill and for those having digestive disturbances. Usually they are completely and easily digested.

The home economics department declares that eggs that are hard-cooked and then finely mashed probably are most easily digested, followed by soft-cooked eggs and last by raw eggs. Raw eggs are not more easily digested than cooked eggs.

MINERAL OIL FOR BLOAT

A pint to a quart of mineral oil, depending on the size of the cow, has given good results in controlling bloat in the dairy herd at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. It is a good plan to have a bridle handy with a bit made of a piece of broomstick or pitchfork handle that can be placed in the cow's mouth as a means of aiding the escape of gas from the stomach. Stick a cow for bloat only as the last resort.

HOME CONSUMPTION OF LAMB ADVOCATED

The lamb produced in Kentucky annually would fill a solid train of refrigerator cars 81 miles long, says a statement from the College of Agriculture at Lexington announcing a series of meetings during the day of May 16 to encourage home consumption of lamb. Nearly half of the lamb is shipped out of the state.

Meat dealers, women's clubs, homemakers' clubs, county and home demonstration agents, the National Live Stock and Meat Board and the College of Agriculture are cooperating in the meetings, which will be demonstrations in dividing the lamb carcass into attractive cuts, and ways of preparing lamb for eating.

Meetings will be held at Lexington May 16; Richmond and Danville, May 17; Paris and Maysville, May 18; Louisville, May 19; Shelbyville and Frankfort, May 20, and Winchester, May 21.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

Here is the inside information on the "Welfare Bill" that was to be known as the "Chandler-Wallis" Bill, passed by the House and Senate last month. Commissioner of Welfare, Frederick A. Wallis, with the help of Barry Bingham and others, had planned this bill for a number of months. Commissioner Wallis had made every effort to get the bill enacted and enforce its provisions.

The Bill probably would never have become a law, if it had not been for the Senatorial race.

Each candidate wanted the support of Wallis, who is the best fund raiser for campaigns the State has seen in a long time. Wallis, who had been endeavoring to get some action on Welfare Legislation for months, seized this opportunity to get results. The law which was not liked by politicians because it required politics be taken out, and merit and experience be the qualifications of employes of State Welfare Institutions was passed at the Special Session.

The Special Session to enact the legislation was called by Governor Chandler because Wallis demanded it and told him that if this was not done immediately, he would accept the finance chairmanship for Barkley's Senatorial Campaign.

Wallis cited a case to the editor of this column, where a Superintendent of one of the State Hospitals complained to him that one of his employes had been caught asleep three times on the job and was guilty of rank insubordination. The Superintendent told the man he was discharged one afternoon. The employe told him he couldn't fire him, and the next morning reported for work, saying that he had been to Frankfort and seen "Dan" and was to still have his job. The provisions of the new Welfare Bill will eliminate this practice.

Through the carelessness of an enrolling clerk, Bill BI which was to be known as the Chandler Wallis Bill has no name. The paragraph contained, quote: "This act shall be known and cited as the Chandler-Wallis Act," was left out of the Bill signed by the Governor.

There is much talk, here in Frankfort of the Highway Department's plan to buy two bridges across the Ohio at Covington for $7,500,000. It is claimed that there is no need for haste in buying the bridges. That each year that passes will enable them to buy the bridges for less, as the time draws closer for the two State-owned bridges on each side to become free of tolls. That the State paid only $1,800,000 for the C. & O. Bridge which is a better bridge than the 90 year old suspension bridge the Highway Department plans to purchase for $5,000,000.

A new angle was given to this column on the Labor Board Trial at London. It is rumored that if the Federal prosecution is too thorough, the coal operators, who swing a lot of votes, will be for Chandler—if not, they will be for Barkley.

FLASH—The Model Registration Law, which was aimed primarily at machine controlled vote in Louisville and Jefferson County will not be inforced in the August primary. This is an unfortunate blow to Governor Chandler's chances, and has caused legal twist, which will cost him some votes. The reason it will not be enforced is the Jefferson Circuit Court declared it invalid and when the Court of Appeals rules on it, thirty days is permited to file a petition for rehearing. The Court of Appeals adjourns June 24, until September. The thirty-day period will be up some time after June 24, and unless the Court files a mandate decision, the law will not be effective for the Senatorial primary.

Random Shots

A lot of people's feet will burn, but their thumbs will rest. The reason—the new motor law, passed by the General Assembly and effective the first of this month for bids, pedestrians from soliciting rides on the highways. The hitch-hiker will no more roam the highways of Kentucky.

In black and crimson letters Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis, proclaims a Democratic meeting in honor of Governor Albert Benjamin Chandler, to be held at Hopkinsville, Saturday, June 25th. The unique feature of the placard is contained in a block which states, "Every individual sealed box will contain—Ham Sandwich, Cheese Sandwich, Cake, Doughnuts (all wrapped in Cellophane), potato chips, oranges, apples, bananas, ice cream in individual cartons, soft drinks on ice, 100 barrels Ice Water located thruout grounds."

The Commissioner, who does things in a big way, invites you in red letters to bring your family, shake hands with your governor and expects 20,000 people to be there from the first and second districts.

A GOOD QUARTET

An authority on life insurance once observed that when we want counsel regarding financial and business matters we usually look to members of three professions—the lawyer, the banker and the accountant. He then added that this trio should be made a quartet, by adding the life underwriter.

That is a sound suggestion. For the modern life underwriter has gone through a ringorous training that has amply fitted him to advise us on one of life's most difficult and persistent problems—how to protect ourselves and our dependents against the financial contingencies of the future.

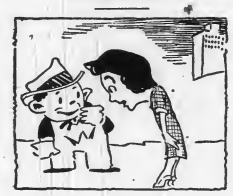
The lawyer, the banker ,the accountant and the life underwriter —they sing th e"Safety Song."

Out of the profits of its State-controlled football pool company Sweden spent $1,190,000 last year in encouraging sports, athletics and physical training.

ALL FOR NAUGHT

Percy—Miss Franke, it would seem that I'm about the only chap you're acquainted with.

Miss Franke—Yes; I might say my acquaintance amounts to nothing.



SO, WHAT TO DO?

Jane—I don't like the birthday gifts I got.

Jess—And I don't get the birthday gifts I like.

STILL GOING

Mrs. Nagg—What of it? Suppose woman did come after man?

Mr. Nagg—Well, she's been after him ever since.

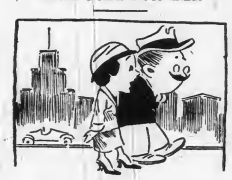
AN EXPLANATION

"What excuse did he give for getting married?"

"Introduced me to his wife."

"Well, what is she like?"

"The thinnest excuse I ever saw."



CACKLE, CACKLE

"Mrs, Jones called me a old hen."

"I'd lay for her, if I were you!"

THAT JOLT FOR HER

Wife (angrily)—Have you ever kept a promise?

Hubby—Yes, once; and I've been sorry ever since.

MAYBE

"I think Jack is wonderfully clever."

"You should be happy together —you agree so well."

BRUTALITY

"You say your brother was very much stuck up at the time of his death?"

"Yes, he died on fly-paper."

Cuba has decreed that no "scrap cast iron" may be shipped to other countries.

England has a movement for abolishing dog licenses and taxing bicycles instead.

PARAGRAPHS

The average man is familiar with the picture of Gen. Grant but he didn't acquire that familiarity from seeing it on Uncle Sam's $10,000 bills.

In days of old every school child in the nation had a slate. Now only the politicians use them.

It isn't the people who want something for nothing that's causing al lthe trouble, it's the ones that have succeeded in getting it.

European nations would get along better if they would try as hard to balance their budgets as they try to balance chips on their shoulders.

When a woman begins to pick ravelings off of her husband's coat it's a sure sign she wants some money and is afraid to ask for it.

What has become of the old-fashioned politician who spent the public's money as reluctantly as he did his own?

Uncle Sam is finding it a tough job to induce people to own their own homes. All most of them want is a new automobile.

The average man may take pride in a new pair of shoes but he still gets most enjoyment out of an old pair of house slippers.

Whatever became of the old-fashioned war that was waged without the help of a flock of press agents?

When you hear a man bragging that he never changes his mind you don't have to wonder what kind of a mind he has.

Laws have been passed to prevent people from making fools of themselves, but not all of them are enforced.

There seems to be a limit to most everything in the United States except raising money for the heathens abroad.

Isn't it disgusting how your neighbors brag about themselves when they could just as easily be bragging about you?

WHEN LIFE DEPENDS ON TIRE SAFETY
On May 30, Floyd Roberts shattered all track records for the 500-mile Indianapolis Race, averaging 117.2 miles an hour using Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.
IT'S ALWAYS Firestone
FOR 19 CONSECUTIVE YEARS THE WINNERS OF THE INDIANAPOLIS 500-MILE RACE HAVE PROTECTED THEIR LIVES WITH FIRESTONE GUM-DIPPED TIRES

THEY said it couldn't be done — that tires could not withstand the torture of the new high speeds. Yet Floyd Roberts set a new record, at this year's Indianapolis Race, averaging 117.2 miles an hour for the 500 miles on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

With the sun-baked brick of the straight-away and the granite-hard surface of the turns pulling and grinding at their tires, 33 daring drivers, every one on Firestone Tires, waged a thrilling battle for gold and glory. Never before have tires been called upon to take such punishment. Never in all the history of the motor car has tire safety been put to such a gruelling test. Yet not one tire failed — not one single cord loosened — because Gum-Dipping, that famous Firestone patented process saturates and coats every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply with liquid rubber counteracting the tire-destroying internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Why risk your life and the lives of others on unsafe tires? Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with Firestone Triple-Safe Tires — the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedways for your protection on the highways.

A STYLE HINT

The feminine fashion pendulum has swung back to hat-pins. Many of the 1938 variety of hat-pins, which are somewhat shorter than those your grandmother wore, have bright, jewel-studded heads, for their first purpose is to decorate the hat and the second to anchor the head gear.

ADVENTURES OF A HERO AND A LUNATIC

ALL the outfit he had was the clothes he wore. In his right hand, held high, he carried a Bible. Just where he came from no one knew, for he very suddenly appeared on the Saskatchewan plains calling upon all to "Repent, and seek Eternal Life." Now and then he changed his text and warned us that the Day of Judgment was at hand. After we staked him to some food, and a warmer coat donated by the most notorious blasphemer in the group, he was on his way again shouting his warnings.

The poor chap was obviously a "bit cracked," but as long as he kept to the prairie he was not in much danger. But, the poor misguided prophet kept heading due northwest, and just when the terrific man-killing sub-Arctic winter took a good grip on the Athabaska lake country, he came to grief. He was found badly frozen, and dying of starvation, on a trail that might see a human being once during the winter. In spite of his serious physical condition he was still shouting texts and singing hymns, but the half-breed who found him knew but few words of English anyway, so the warnings and texts fell on deaf ears. At any rate, the "breed" soon had the demented white preacher in a warm bunk, and warm food inside of him. As the days passed, though, the roving missionary developed into a raving maniac, and the half-breed benefactor left for safer surroundings. He did not actually desert the unfortunate white, but he did get a report to the Fort Chippewyan post of the Mounted Police.

When Constable Pedley, certainly one of the most courageous trailers and trackers ever to wear the scarlet and gold, arrived at the tiny log hut he found an extremely violent lunatic in charge. Moreover, in spite of frostbite and emaciation, the lunatic possessed prodigious strength and the six-foot constable had a tough time to get the prisoner under control. Wise in the tricks and wrinkles of the northern trails, Pedley wrapped the lunatic in two great big sleeping bags. Then he tied him onto the sled, and shoved off on a 500-mile mush to the nearest hospital, at Fort Saskatchewan.

Even to this day all the details of that nerve-wracking trip have never been told. The big, strapping constable had his hands more than full while the mercury stuck at 40 and 50 below all the time. It was out of the question, of course, for the constable to keep the lunatic strapped up and tied down all the time, so every time he released the prisoner he had to get into a free-for-all fight whether he wanted to or not. Apart from this, there was great trouble feeding the crazy man. The constable took extreme measures in this, however, for he realized that his patient would soon die of exposure and starvation unless he was fed. Mile after frozen mile they mushed, day after day, with the lunatic centering his hatred and vituperation on the constable, and the latter centering his atention on the trail and the dogs and doing all possible to get the patient to shelter and warmth and medical attention. To add to all this terrific mental and physical punishment, Constable Pedley's dog-train was often beset by packs of flat-bellied, starving timber wolves. Pedley's integrity is beyond reproach, and he stated that he didn't stop to light fires until it was absolutely inevitable that the wolf pack would jump the train in another minute or so, so ravenous were these flat-bellied wolves.

Finally Constable Pedley and his tragic load mushed into Fort Saskatchewan, and the demented preacher was soon in good hands. After a few days of rest for himself and dogs, Pedley started off on the 500-mile return trip to his post on Lake Athabaska. All alone, mushing through that ever-lonesome land, God only knows what thoughts were Pedley's as he moved across the snowy wastes thinking over the events of the past weeks. At any rate, halfway down the Athabaska river his own mind snapped, and he wandered for days in the bitter cold until found by some Cree Indians who, strange to relate, tied him to a dog sled and mushed him back to Fort Saskatchewan, where lay the demented preacher.

The preacher was as right as rain, mentally and physically, inside of two months, but almost a year passed before Constable Pedley came back to the world to which he belonged. The force gave him a fairly decent job at headquarters. As the war left its mark on those who saw real front-line service, so did that trip through the Arctic wastes, with a lunatic for company, leave its mark on Mounted Constable Pedley, a real hero if there ever was one.

MEETINGS TO SHOW GOOD SHEEP TYPES

Continued interest in improved types of breeding ewes for replacement purposes in Kentucky and for the building of flocks in sections where sheep are not now numerous, has caused the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky to arrange a series of meetings and ewe fairs for the period of June 14-24.

Various types of western ewes suitable to Kentucky conditions, together with their lambs and the rams that sired the lambs, and also representative fleeces, will be exhibited. Farmers and sheepmen, Richard C. Miller and others from the College of Agriculture, and R. F. Cox, head of the sheep department at the Kansas Agricultural College, will discuss sheep raising and the production of hay, pasture and other crops for sheep.

Plans are being made to accommodate at least 4,000 farmers at the meetings, including visitors from Tennessee and other states. The meetings will be at Lexington, June 14; Monticello June 16; Paintsville, June 18; Leitchfield, June 21; Elkton, June 23, and Bardwell, June 24. All meetings will begin at 10 o'clock.

CULTIVATION GOOD FOR YOUNG TREES

To get best results with young fruit trees, cultivate the orchard in summer and sow rye and vetch as winter cover crops. So says a report of tests being made at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

Young peach and apple trees grew better and produced more fruit when cultivated during the summer than did trees on similar land sowed to sweet clover or lespedeza. Apple trees on summer cultivated land produced 4.6 bus. per tree; those in the sweet clover plot 3 1-3 bushels, and where lespedeza was grown only a little more than 3 bushels.

Where sweet clover or lespedeza was sowed in a young orchard the trees became stunted, whereas cultivation during summer tended to stimulate growth as well as yield. For mature trees, cultivation until about June 1 and then seeding to korean lespedeza gave satisfactory results.

"Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets." —Matthew 7.

THE GARDEN

BORDEAUX MIXTURE
By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

As they get older, garden vegetable plants become more and more subject to the old-age diseases rust and "blight," the term used collectively for the leaf-spots and anthracnoses, likely to beset almost any vegetable in the garden. At the same time, the season becomes sustainedly warm, interspersed with sudden showers followed by steamy, muggy periods, ideal conditions under which the rusts and the blights spread.

These are spore diseases, the spores wafted about on even faint breezes which alighting on the vegetable leaves, literally "bore" their way in. Once inside the leaf, in the moist condition they find there, they multiply rapidly, killing tissue in "spots" which grow until the entire leaves are involved and drop off. Loss of leaves is important to all the vegetables for they are prevented from, or at least hampered in making starches and sugars, the food components for which the vegetables are grown.

Once the spores have gained foot-hold as it were, nothing can be done to stop these diseases, but control must be begun before.

Accidentally, it was found that grapes sprayed with a mixture of which bluestone was part, to make them unsavory to marauding boys, were freed from grape black-rot, a sport disease. Subsequently, pathologists determined that the bluestone, a copper compound, was responsible, that the spores were prevented from entering the leaf surface, and so perished. Thus, the use of Bordeaux mixture to "copper plate" plant tissue to discourage disease spores was born.

It is obvious that, in order to be effective, the Bordeaux spray must cover the whole leaf. To do it, the spray must be broken into fine mist, and delivered with some force. A sprayer is essential to use. Also, the spray must be properly made; the burning power of the bluestone must be properly neutrallzied so that no harm may come to tender foliage. The neutralizer is lime, and the proportions usually used in Bordeaux for vegetables is expressed by the formula: 4-4-50. This means 4 pounds of bluestone, 4 of lime, and 50 gallons of water.

Bordeaux may be purchased ready-mixed, needing only to have water added after the directions on the package. But, it may be made at home of the original ingredients, as follows:

1. In a Glass or Crockery container, dissolve 1 pound of bluestone, by hanging the bluestone in a sack in the upper inch of the water. This is "bluestone stock."

2. Into a sprayer tank, preferably brass, pour 9 quarts of water, then one quart of bluestone stock and then put in ¼ pound of screened hydrated lime. Close the sprayer, and shake endwise, 10 times, to make 2½ gallons of 4-4-50 Bordeaux.

Spraying should begin as soon as any rusting or spotting is seen on the lowest leaves, and all the leaves should be covered, both top and bottom sides. In 10 days, in moist seasons, or 2 weeks, when growth is not so rapid, spraying should be repeated, and in 2 weeks again. A fourth spraying may pay, depending on the value of the vegetable to be protected, but a program of 3 sprayings is quite adequate to saving many vegetables now lost to the diseases rust and blight.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

This is a jittery year for congressmen. Next November every member of the House and about a third of the members of the Senate must go again before the voters for reelection. As a result, the lawmakers are keeping their ears to the ground and seeking to mend their political fences—some of which are badly broken down. That is a hard job in an ordinary election year. Today, with a major depression confronting them, with a large number of great, unsettled issues raging about their heads, with the cleavage between the friends and apponents of the Roosevelt Administration growing sharper, it is much harder than usual. And that goes a long way toward explaining some of Congress' recent remarkable actions.

The Wage and Hours bill is a case in point. Administration leaders frankly gave up all hope for passage of this measure some time ago—it was strongly opposed by the influential Southern bloc of the Democratic party, which wish to keep the existing wage differential between Northern and Southern labor. The White House pressed on behalf of the bill, but its chances of success seemed slight. Then came the Florida senatorial primary—long awaited as a test of New Deal strength. The issues in this primary were fairly clear-cut—Senator Pepper, an ardent Roosevelt backer, who has voted for pratically every White House sponsored measure, was opposed by ex-Representative Wilcox an anti-New Deal Democrat who had opposed the Supreme Court and government reorganization measures. Senator Pepper won an overwhelming victory. And a day or two later when a Wage and Hours bill petition was offered in the House, there was almost a riot as members fought to get their names signed to it. Then the House Rules Committee voted to give the bill precedence.

Whether the Wage and Hours law will go through is still a matter of question—the chances are now in its favor, however, and lately it has received some unlooked-for backing from conservative sources, such as the New England shoe industry. The main point is that the President's strength in Congress has been measurably increased by the Pepper win. Talk is even being heard of reviving the once-defeated Reorganization Bill. And it is almost a certainty that the Administration's new spending program will go through practically in its original form.

In brief, the President isn't as influential in Congress as he was in the honeymoon days of 1932 and 1933—but he seems stronger than he was a few months ago. This doesn't mean that White House "must" orders will be obeyed without question—it does mean that a large number of congressmen will be obeyed without question—it does mean that a large number of congressmen who kicked over the traces, have returned to the reservation. And the current outlook indicates that the president will issue fewer "musts" in the future—he and his aides are dealing rather gingerly with Congress, are using persuasion rather than hard mandates. No president wants any more political turmoil than is necessary in an election year.

Coming primaries will provide more evidence as to the status of the New Deal in public esteem. The Pepper victory, while it was significant, is not regarded by most observers as being final—other issues than Federal policy played a part, and the Senator is a campaigner of unusual ability. Not until tests have been had in other states, will the burning question of just how strong the president is with the rank and file of voters, be settled. Most forecasters think he has lost some support, but that he still commands a good majority in his favor. Furthermore, the New Deal faces little opposition outside of effectual assault against the New Deal citadel. All the authorities think that the GOP will make some gains in the House this fall but that they will be small.

The prospects for world recovery are moderately good. Governmental efforts to "prime the pump" are largely futile. That is the gist of the speech made recently at the annual general meeting of the Bank for International Settlements at Basle, Switzerland, by J. W. Beyen, its president.

Beyen gave considerable attention to the "experiments" undertaken in this country during the depression. While he condemned no specific action, he took the attitude that they had failed. He expressly deplored currency devaluation.

Of more tangible importance, the Bis' President's reports observed that 1937 experience proved that abundant gold reserves and cheap money do not necessarily keep prices from falling, and that economic nationalism, with its chaotic monetary policies, has contributed to world disorder. And he observed that the "main incentive to recovery is still the expectation of a sufficient margin of profit over a sufficiently long time," according to the Wall Street Journal's Paris correspondent.

CONGRATULATIONS TO MEMPHIS, TENN.

Memphis, Tennessee, deserves the nation's congratulations. It has been declared winner in the National Safety Council's Sixth Annual Traffic Safety Contest. Six other cities also won prizes in their population groups: Milwaukee; Hartford; Beaumont, Texas; Everett, Washington and Des Plaines Illinois. The grand prize for states went to Massachusetts.

Memphis won the major prize for cities by carrying out a comprehensive, continuous safety program. There was outstanding activity in the field of traffic enforcement and the Commissioner of Public Safety offers $100 to anyone who can prove that a traffic ticket was "fixed." Many street improvements were made, in order to correct danger points. Many miles of pavement were clearly marked, in order to keep vehicles in their proper lanes. A city law requires each motor vehicle in Memphis to be inspected three times a year.

Equally important, the city pursues steady, effective educational work, to acquaint local residents with traffic dangers and how to eliminate them. The result of all this was a substantial reduction in the city's accident, death and injury rates.

What Memphis and the other winning cities did, any community can do. In smaller towns the safety program will naturally be less complicated and expensive, but similar results can be achieved. Sad experience has proven that sporadic safety drives, no matter how enthusiastic or sincere their sponsors, are next to worthless—continuity of effort is absolutely vital. Public education, plus the correction of accident-prone locations, plus rigorous, non-fixable law enforcement, are the great essentials of any accident reduction campaign that gets results.

WARNING—THE FIRE SEASON IS COMING

Fire is always dangerous. It's doubly dangerous in summer.

We are close to that menacing "fire season" now. Vacant lots and fields, if left uncut, are ready to burst into flame at the touch of a match. Woodlands are drying out—and when this dehydrating process reaches a certain stage, trees will literally explode when attacked by fire, and start conflagrations that may extend over many acres. Crown fires, running with hurricane speed and force along the top of great trees will extinguish all life, human or animal, in the area they cover.

These holocausts can be prevented—and easily prevented—if only we'll all help. Keep fire in mind. and act accordingly. If you own property, see to it that it is kept clean and unlittered, and free from dry grass. When traveling about, never throw matches outdoors, never build fires near trees or other inflammables—and never leave a fire until it has been thoroughly extinguished, preferably with both water and dirt. Obey the fire laws—they were made for your protection, not to annoy you.

As a matter of fact, the greatest tragedy of fire is that it is almost always unnecessary. Every year we burn up resources and property valued at hundreds of millions of dollars. We destroy thousands of lives. The indirect fire loss runs into the billions, and is reflected in unemployment, less business, reduced spending power. This toll is the result of carelessness, ignorance or just plain laziness. It may be that the unpreventable fire exists—but it is a very rare exception indeed. Human failure underlies at least nine fires out of ten.

A little care and thought on your part may save your home or someone else's from destruction. It may save a life. Don't forget that.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

The family doctor says wise parents early make it a rule to kiss the baby only on the back of the neck, but this is hard to enforce with relatives and friends. Babies have not the resistance and immunity to infection that the older children and adults have acquired with the year. Measles, scarlet fever, modified forms of these diseases, mumps, tuberculosis and the common cold, all highly communicable, are often transmitted to the infant through kisses.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Twenty-two carloads of seed potatoes were planed in Pike county, 50,000 pounds of mixed grasses and legumes sown, and seven carloads of limestone ordered cooperatively by farmers. Seventeen purebred bulls have been taken into the county this year.

Improved methods of canning, including the use of pressure cookers, are stimulating interest in larger gardens and more home fruit production in Oldham county. Farm women also are raising more chickens, with a view to canning meat.

A survey of seed dealers indicates that at least 60,000 pounds of korean lespedeza seed were sold in Elliott county this spring. Large amounts of grass seed and seed mixtures also were sold, with thousands of acres going into conservation crops.

Fourteen Graves county farmers cooperating in the use of triple superphosphate on small grain report favorable results. In some instances heat grew three to five times faster. Applications of limestone improved the stand but did not affect the growth.

Six young men specializing in dairying, to be graduated from the Kentucky College of Agriculture this spring, have been interviewed by representatives of nationally known dairy concerns looking for trained field agents. Thirty-two undergraduates majoring in dairying have been employed for the summer.

USES LESPEDEZA TO REBUILD LAND

How he uses Korean lespedeza to build fertility was related by Chas. M. Meacham, Jr., of Union county, at the annual Farm and Home Convention at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Where lespedeza is grown in the rotation corn yields are increased as much as 35 percent.

Mr. Meacham runs a three-year rotation which gives him five crops in three years. The first year is corn; the second year small grains such as wheat, oats or barley seeded with lespedeza. The grain is harvested and then the lespedeza seed or hay crop. The land then is seeded to barley.

ROOSEVELT TO VISIT KENTUCKY

EXPECTED TO GIVE ADDRESS IN COVINGTON JULY 8TH—CAPACITY CROWD ANTICIPATED.

President Roosevelt's projected address in Covington July 8, took top rank in public interest in Northern Kentucky over the weekend.

Interest was shown by private citizens as well as by the political minded who expected the President's visit to affect the Barkley-Chandler race for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator from Kentucky.

A capacity crowd is assured when he appears in Covington, the first Chief Executive of the United States to make such appearance when in office since President Grant walked across the Suspension Bridge from the Burnet House in Cincinnati during his second term to buy the "boys" a few drinks in a cafe on the site of the present post office, then visit with his father, Jesse Grant, who was Postmaster of Covington.

The Barkley forces are elated that the President would speak in Covington, while the Chandler forces frowned a bit on the idea.

Both sides expect President Roosevelt to say a few words in behalf of Senator Barkley. However details plans for the President's appearance in Covington have not been worked out and word from Washington is that he may make a rear platform speech from his train.

ONE THOUSAND AT JUNIOR WEEK

HELD IN LEXINGTON—TWELVE FROM BOONE COUNTY ATTEND MEETING—SEVEN GIRLS AND FIVE BOYS TAKE PART.

A thousand boys and girls from all over Kentucky attended Junior Week and twelve of them were from Boone County. This week was not only great fun but very educational, for each day there were classes directed by state leaders. The theme of Junior Week was "Abundant Rural Living" and the purpose was to train the boys and girls to become better leaders of their club and community. One class that was very good was "Enjoy Living With Your Family" and another "Meeting our friends, the plants" but what we really enjoyed most of all was the singing led by our old friend, George Campbell.

The girls so fortunate to attend Junior Week were Nancy Huey, Petersburg; Dorothy Judge, New Haven; Elaine Vice, Burlington; Alva Mae Tupman, Florence; Shirley Berry, Taylorsport; and Virginia Reimer and Glenrose Williams, of Hebron. The boys were Wallace Ryle, Hamilton; Leon Pennington, Walton; Dick Stevens, Florence; Charles Joe Stephens, Grant and Hume Black, New Haven.

Alva Mae, representing Boone County in the Style Dress Revue, was placed in the red ribbon group. She made a very nice showing since there were sixty-five other girls to compete against. Her costume was a smart two-pieced sport dress of aqua-marine with a little jacket of a different design to match.

The demonstration team, composed of Glencoe Williams and Vriginia Reimer, were also placed in the red ribbon group. They showed how to make peasant style hats from just square pieces of material.

FOR FATHER'S DAY

We have honored Mother's Day, paid our respects to the June brides, congratulated the June graduate, and now how about handing a big bouquet of spring flowers to the husband of the mother and the father of the June bride and graduate? A tribute to the fellow who pays the grocer, the baker, the landlord, the doctor and so on. Our hat is off to that fellow you go to for help—and get it. To the chap who did a bit of prancing when you were first making our entrance into his home and county, and who has been kept busy prancing ever since seeing to shoes and soap, food and fancies. At times he has been stern and strong, but again he has been sad and soft, this father of yours. It is the same young man who had to get his girl home at eleven—or else, who didn't have a car, an never heard a crooner, but managed a hayride now and then. He thought a "Big Apple" grew on a tree but knew the Virginia Reel wasn't a movie made in the south. Rather imagine he wore a high stiff collar with a narrow tie, a blue serge suit and patent leather shoes when he dressed up in his Sunday best. No doubt the serge was somewhat shiny as serge had a way of doing then. He took the grease spots out with benzine with the result of an awful smell surrounding him for hours. Saturday was still the week's big night when the band played and the stores stayed open and the girls walked arm in arm past the boys bunched together, laughing silly-like and self-consciously. That was before ou came in the picture and changed his order of behavior. Sure, that's the same lad, only he is a bit older now. That was his day then. His day today sees a world of turmoil with national questions needing sane heads for the right answer. War is there, recession here, and unrest and discontent are all about us. But with it all impressed on our minds and in our thoughts, thank heaven we still have time for the father in our hearts!

TRAVELING LIBRARIES

In one of the New England states there has been inaugurated a library on wheels which brings to the rural sections books to their very doors. It was officially cnistened the "Bookmobile" and started on its first trip to the small villages and neighborhoods in the county. This is a modern convenience and pleasure that only those who enjoy reading can fully appreciate. To those districts where library facilities are not available this plan of distributing reading matter is indeed a blessing. People today want to read and to know and ask why! With the radio and the press they are in the midst of local and national affairs and consequently keep abreast of current events. In rural surroundings you can find as active minds and as intelligent readers as the city-bred man. The various organizations found in every village deal with up-to-date questions and answers. Gone are the days of merely crop talk and chore discourse. The tiller of the soil and the planter of the seed meets the cosmopiitan on an equal footing in their knowledge of political and social issues. Good luck, Bookmobile!

NO CELLARS HERE

Americans returning from abroad say that everywhere in London and in many sections of Paris, workmen are delving underground. But it is not in building subways, sewer and cable systems, such as people are accustomed to seeing when they visit our big cities. Over there they are spending billions of dollars in building huge underground shelters, or tunnels, or cellars, where the population may take shelter from bombing raids in case of war. Many centuries have passed into history since prehistoric man crawled out of his cave and sought the light of day. Now he is preparing to crawl back into it again. Our boasted civilization is driving us back into our holes for protection from others like ourselves. Thank heaven, we in America have so far escaped this blight of destruction. It has been our privilege to build a mighty nation oceans removed from Old World civilization and Oriental barbarism. In some parts of this country we may have to duck underground occasionally. But this is because of Nature's playfulness, and not because of man's inhumanity to man.

A CENSOR NEEDED

But a few years have elapsed, as all citizens given to reading new books and new magazines recall, since Uncle Sam had to go through his mail bags and clear out tons of filthy reading matter that was being sent through the mails under the title of "confession magazines" and suggestive booklets and novels. He did a good job and put many of them out of business. Others, however, turned to express instead of mail facilities and are still being issued. Now it looks like the same thing will be necessary in the case of the all-picture magazines, new ones of which are springing up almost weekly. One got a little bold, and got by with it, and then another got a little bolder, still another more daring followed it until the limit now seems to have been reached. No one will be anything out of pocket expect the publishers if they are wiped out, and most of them will escape loss since they always figure that in the first few issues—before the public becomes thoroughly disgusted. And one wonders in what form the next brand of filth will be marketed.

BUY AND BUILD

A real estate expert of New Jersey says realtors should forget the stock market, calamity howlers and politics and go ahead using the property and the market at hand. Real estate today is in an unusually favorable position, he maintains. "We have never lived a period when the vacancy ratio was so low, interest rates on mortgages so low, money so plentiful and terms so favorable to the buyer," he says. The situation is certainly tempting for investment from that point of view. People hesitate to buy in spite of the wonderful bargains and the easy credit, because they're doubtful about the future. Those who have money are inclined to sit on it until things clear up and they can bank on a sure thing. By that time, experts say, they'll be sorry. Prices will be up ad terms will be tougher.

IT'S HERE NOW

If you are wondering when fly season starts, the answer is—it's here right now. It is an almost hopeless pob to keep the house free of these pests if the doors and windows are not screened before they get in and settle in hidden nooks and corners. A few flies in any home now will multiply to many millions before the summer season is over if they are not eradicated. Swatting them and screening against them is one of the surest ways to prevent disease in the neighborhood. Being born and reared in filth, it is easy to see why this is one of the dirtiest of all insect pests. Their bodies and feet are fitted to carry filth and germs, scientists having declared that as high as 6,000,000 germs having been found in the body of a single fly. You can profit by early screening. Let no home in the community go unprotected during the summer season. Clean up every rubbish pile, every spot where flies can breed. And don't put off for another day the important matter of screening the windows and doors.

Lesson for June 19

THE SUFFERING SERVANT

LESSON TEXT—Mark 15:22-39.

GOLDEN TEXT—For even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many. Mark 10:45.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Wonderful Love.

JUNIOR TOPIC—On Calvary.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Love's Supreme Sacrifice.

"A Christianity without a dying Christ is a dying Christianity. History shows us that the expansiveness and elevating power of the Gospel depend upon the prominence given to the sacrifice of the Cross. An old fable says that the only thing that melts adamant is the blood of a lamb. The Gospel reveals the precious blood of Jesus Christ, his death for us as a ransom, as the one power that subdues hostility and binds hearts to Him" (Alexander Maclaren).

We consider today that darkest of all days in the history of the world—when wicked men with cruel hearts and hands crucified the loving Son of God. But, thanks be to God, it was also the day when bright hope shone forth for sinful humanity, for in His death Christ bore our sins upon the tree, the veil was rent, the old sacrifices were set aside, and the "new and living way" was opened into the "holiest by the blood of Jesus" (Heb. 10:20).

I. Crucified—That We Might Live (vv. 22-28).

The details of and circumstances surrounding the crucifixion are of deep interest to every Christian. We stand with Luther and weep as we see Christ's unspeakable agony, not only of body but of spirit, and we cry as did Luther, "For me, for me!" How can any believer contemplate the cross and withhold self, substance, or service from Christ?

Equally earnest and heart-searching is the message of the cross to the unbeliever. He knows he is a sinner (Rom. 3:23), he knows that "the wages of sin is death" (Rom. 6:23), and he knows that "neither is there salvation in any other, for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved" (Acts 4:12). Here at the cross he meets that one "who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness: by whose stripes ye were healed (I Pet. 2: 24). There were two malefactors who were crucified with Him, and one railed at Him. The other said, "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom"; and Jesus said to him, "Today thou shalt be with me in Paradise" (Luke 23:39-43). Unbeliever, who reads these lines, will you not just now take the eternal life which Jesus died to make possible for you?

II. Forsaken—That We Might Be Accepted (vv. 29-36).

The railing, head wagging, and other abuse that men heaped upon Jesus as He hung on the cross, must have been a grevious thing for His tender loving heart to bear. But it was as nothing compared with that hour when, covered with all the sin and curse of the world, He who knew no sin "was made sin for us" (II Cor. 5:21), and God turned away from Him.

We cannot fathom the full meaning of that hour, we dare not attempt to explain it, we can only accept it and thank God that because He did become sin for us we may be "made the righteousness of God in him" (II Cor. 5:21).

III. A Veil Rent—That We Might Enter (vv. 37-39).

The death of Jesus was not the pitiful weakening of a human martyr. Here was the Son of God, crying with a loud voice (v. 37), giving up His spirit to the Father (Luke 27:46), declaring that the work of redemption was "finished."

As a visible indication of that part—and as a declaration that the old dispensation of law had given place to the dispensation of grace, God tore the temple veil in twain. Only He could have done it. No man could have torn this sixty-foot long, twenty-foot wide, and inch-thick curtain from top to bottom. It had hung in the temple to keep all but the High Priest out of the Holy of Holies, and he entered with fear and trembling but once a year as the representative of the people. Now all this is changed. We have now, "brethren, boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus, by a new and living way, which he hath consecrated for us, through the veil." Therefore, let us draw near with a true heart and full assurance of faith" (Heb. 10:19-22).

Homely Simile

Lofty Companionship

Peter said unto Jesus, Master, it is good for us to be here, and let us make three tabernacles.—Luke 9:33.

Power of Faith

I can do all things through Christ which strengthened me.—Phil. 4:13.

Lincoln Said:—
"When My Feet Hurt, I Can't Think."

by N. TULCH
AT PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
(SHOE STORE)

No truer words were ever spoken than these—"When your feet hurt, you hurt all over."

And no wonder! When nerve centers in the feet are subjected to pressure through the improper make and fit of shoes, every part of our body is affected.

The average person takes twenty thousand steps each day, just multiply that by your weight and you see that you impose hundreds and hundreds of tons of weight onto your feet each day. The foot must have support under the vital arches.

Without the correct type of support for the arches of your feet, your entire body mechanism—520 muscles, 206 bones, 600 nerves—is thrown into confusion. Fatigue backache, muscle cramps and strain, nervousness and general debility likely to follow. We are justly proud of the fact that we have successfully eliminated much of the needless pain, sleepless nights and suffering, caused by incorrect shoes.

Certainly it is worth the time it will take to have a thorough analysis made by our foot comfort specialists. It may be the beginning of a bright new world for you.

ONLY FEW HUNDRED APPLICATIONS FOR BEER LICENSES IN KY.

Frankfort, Ky.—C. M. C. Porter, Malt Beverage Administrator of the Department of Revenue, reported today that only a few hundred applications for beer licenses have been received.

Porter said there were nearly 7,000 beer retailers in the State. Each of those is required to secure a new license from the Department of Revenue to do business July 1. No applicant for beer license is entitled to credit for any fee which he may have paid to the county or city for license to sell beer at retail. Applications for licenses must be received by June 15, Porter said, if licenses are to be issued by the date required. County court clerks cannot issue beer licenses as heretofore.

Porter said that it would be illegal for any retailer to buy, sell, or possess beer without a license after July 1, and that the license of any distributor might be revoked for selling to a retailer who was not properly licensed.

TWO VACANCIES FOR C. M. T. CAMP AT FT. BENJAMIN HARRISON

Mr. Roy C. Lutes, CMTC Chairman for Boone County announced today that 1 young man of his quota of 3 reservations to attend the C. M. T. Camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana this August had been definitely accepted by General Daniel Van Voorhies, Commanding General Kentucky Military Area, and would be ordered to camp. Mr. Lutes stated that other applications were on file in Louisville and that those youths, if they qualified without delay would probably be accepted. The remaining reservations which are being held for Boone County must be filled in the immediate future, Mr. Lutes continued, or the quota will be transferred to another county.

Mr. Lutes explained the C. M. T. C. movement as being one in which the Government accepted young men between the ages of 17 and 24 and gave them a month's training designed to develop them into better citizens and improve them physically. The camp will last thirty days and Uncle Sam provides food, uniforms and even transportation to and from camp. Attendance entails no obligation for future military service. Mornings are devoted to interesting military drills while afternoons are taken up with athletics. Ample time for recreation is available and the youths at all times are under the most wholesome influence.

Last year, Mr. Lutes stated, over 800 Kentucky youths took advantage of this opportunity to benefit themselves. Of this number, 613 have applied for camp this August. These figures establish definitely the attitude of young Americans to the movement when they come back for more. A total of 1672 applications have been filed at CMTC Headquarters at Louisville to fill a camp quota alloted to Kentucky of only 736. This indicates the popularity of the camps, Mr. Lutes continued, and illustrates the necessity of Boone County youths acting promptly if they desire to spend a month which will be so beneficial both physically and mentally.

Application and full information on how to enroll may be obtained at Florence, Ky.

FRED ALLEN STILL GETS 'FIRST' FEVER

If Fred Allen, radio's leading comedian, lives to be a hundred, he'll always get rattled on a first night of a show—or the first day in a picture.

Fred, who currently has a big role in "Sally, Irene and Mary" the new Darryl F. Zanuck musical riot, says:

"The first day on the set leaves me jumpy. I get so completely mixed up between my movie lines and my radio scripts that I go around studying everything I read—just as a matter of habit.

"The other day at lunch I had half the menu memorized before I realized I didn't have to play it."

"Sally, Irene and Mary," 20th Century-Fox hit will be shown at the Gayety Theatre Sunday and Monday. Alice Faye and Tony Martin are the stars.

Song Gives Team Writing Record

"An Old Straw Hat," a catchy novelty song written for Shirley temple to sing in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" at 20th Century-Fox, hangs up a song-writing record for Mack Gordon and Harry Revel.

"An Old Straw Hat" gives these famous tunesters an average of one song a week for the past three years—one successful song a week.

"We didn't believe it ourselves until we started to look through our files," said Gordon, modestly. "It is incredible, isn't it?"

Other stars will be Jack Haley, Gloria Stuart, Phyllis Brooks, Helen Westley, Slim Summerville, The Raymond Scott Quintet, Alan Dinehart and J. Edward Bromberg.

NOTICE TO WHEAT GROWERS

From all reports, we are to have a bumper wheat crop, and with the large carry-over from last year, we may expect a very low market on wheat. In order to realize the most we can, we should utilize as much as possible, in the home and on the farm, by Baking—we save a lot and have better bread—and by having your wheat Processed for Feeding.

To make this convenient for you, you may deposit your wheat with us. We will issue you coupons for wheat thus deposited, at the exchange rate of eight twenty-four-pound sacks of flour for each six bushels of wheat deposited.

These coupons are redeemable at your nearest grocery store; you do not have to come to the mill for flour. Take your coupons, and 5 cents with each coupon, to the nearest grocer and exchange them for Rainbow Flour. Figure the saving out for yourself.

Example—With wheat selling for 80c per bu., flour would retail for 75c a 24-lb. bag. At the above exchange rate you get 8 24-lb. bags of flour for 6 bushels of wheat, and 8 X 75c—$6.00 for 6 bushels of wheat, or $1.00 per bushel, whereas, if you sold your wheat you would realize only $4.80.

Master Barbers Endorse Chandler

Louisville, Ky.—Tht Associated Master Barbers of Kentucky affiliated with the Associated Master Barbers of America, have given their endorsement, "without reservation or equivacation" to Governor A. B. Chandler's candidacy for the United States Senate.

The endorsement was given in a reslution adopted by the barbers of the State in recognition of Governor Chandler's part in "elevating and improving the barber profession" of the State.

The resolution also terms Governor Chandler's administration as "one of the most aggressive and constructive in Kentucky's history."

Governor Chandler was lieutenant-governor and presiding officer of the Senate when the first Barber-Beautician Law was passed in 1932, and when he became Governor he approved the rewriting, recodification and improvement of the law.

Following is the text of the resolution:

"Resolution adopted by the Kentucky Association of Associated Master Barbers of America:

"Whereas, the Associated Master Barbers of America is an organization pledged by its constituents to bring about better living conditions for the barbers of America. and

"Whereas, the Kentucky Barber Law has done much toward elevating and improving the barber profession in this State and,

"Whereas, Governor A. B. Chandler was lieutenant-governor and presiding officer of the State Senate when the first Barber-Beautician Law was passed in 1932 and amended in 1934 and,

"Whereas, during Chandler's administration the law has been rewritten, improved and recodified and,

"Whereas, Governor Chandler's entire administration has been one of the most aggressive and constructive in Kentucky's history.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved, that the Associated Master Barbers Association of Kentucky hereby endorses the aforesaid unexpired administration under the able leadership of Governor, and,

"That the Kentucky Association subscribers to and endorses without reservation or equivacation the candidacy of Governor Chandler for the United States Senate."

The resolution was "authorized to be transmitted to Governor Chandler, Judge Brady Stewart and the public press."

BLUE MOLD DISEASE IN MANY PLANT BEDS

With blue mold in many plant beds in Kentucky this spring, Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington, believes tobacco growers may have to live with the disease in the future. A survey made in central counties, and reports received from other counties, indicate that the disease spread into most of the state.

The disease arrived rather late, and as a result many plants were large enough to suffer little injury. Many plants that were small, however, were destroyed or rendered unfit to set. Unless plants were almost rotted, Dr. Valleau said they could be set with assurance of normal growth in the field. The disease caused a general yellowing of plants, with some rust, which growers confused with rust or angular leaf spot.

Dr. Valleau believes the disease will not reduce the acreage this year. Concerning what may be done in the future, he offered the following suggestions:

The disease can over-winter in plant beds used the previous year; therefore, a new plant bed site should be used by every tobacco grower in Kentucky every year. The disease appears first in parts of beds which are shaded in the morning. It spreads from these shaded parts to the rest of the bed. In the future, it will be advisable to put plant beds in the open where they can get no shade. The disease develops more rapidly on tender plants under cotton than on plants from which the cotton is removed early in the morning and left off until the plants dry. It is best to leave the cotton off from the time the disease first appears in the neighborhood, in order to toughen the plants and make them more resistant.

COOKING KINKS

When peeling apples preparatory to making pies, drop each apple when peeled into a pan of cold water to which a few drops of lemon juice have been added. They will not then turn brown . . . Beet skins may be removed quickly if beets are put in very hot water for a brief time. Drain off the hot water and quickly place beets in cold water.

SHORT COURSE FOR POULTRY RAISERS

Common problems of raising chickens, including hatching, brooding, egg production and the marketing of poultry products, will be considered at the 14th annual poultry short course at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture June 20-24. The course will be free to all farmers, commercial poultry raisers, hatchery operators, dealers and others interested in chickens.

In giving the course, members of the faculty of the college will be assisted by poultry raisers and by Dr. Hubert Bunyea of the pathological division of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington. Dr. Bunyea is an authority on diseases and will lecture on the identification, prevention and cure of diseases.

Practical handling of chickens will be a part of the course, those attending being taught to identify diseases and apply remedies, including testing for pullorum disease. At the end of the course an examination will be given to persons who desire permits to approve flocks and to test chickens for pullorum disease, under provisions of the national poultry improvement plan. Practical work will be given in poultry judging and in the selection of breeding stock.

Time will be available during the week for personal conferences with members of the college's poultry section for the consideration of special problems in individual flocks.

WESTERN KENTUCKY LAND IS RESTORED

A 20-acre field at the Western Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Substation produced 40 bushels of corn to the acre last year, compared to an average yield of 5 to 10 bushels when it became a part of the experimental farm in 1926. It was treated with limestone and superphosphate in 1927 and seeded to a mixture of clovers and grasses in 1928. Since that time this field had been used as a general pasture, until plowed for the corn crop of last year.

"He who receives a benefit should never forget it; he who bestows should never remember it."
—Charron.

LESS-COSTLY CUTS OF MEAT STRESSED

Greater use of less-expensive cuts of meat was stressed at nine meetings held by the Kentucky College of Agriculture and the National Livestock and Meat Board. These cheaper cuts, it was brought out, have the same food value as the more costly parts of the carcass.

Modern ways of cutting the animal carcass, the cooking and preparation of all kinds of meats, food values of the various parts of the animal, and other subjects relating to meat consumption were discussed by Grady Sellards of the College of Agriculture and R. G. Plager of the National Livestock and Meat Board of Chicago.

A total of 528 persons attended the meetings, including town and country people and members of homemakers' clubs. County and home agents assisted in making the arrangements for the meetings.

Maybe the reason there are not more old maids in the world is because most girls get tired waiting for the right man to come along and grab the first thing in sight.

RESTOCKING PROGRAM BEING CARRIED OUT BY FISH AND GAME COM.

By James J. Gilpin

Frankfort, Ky.—There can be little doubt that the balanced stocking program now being carried out by the Division of Game and Fish is designed to benefit, to the greatest possible extent, every class of fishermen in the Commonwealth. If a census could be taken as to the number of our anglers who enjoy fishing for the different species of fish in Kentucky, the number who enjoy still fishing, with a worm on a hook, for the catfish, bream, carp, perch and sunfish, would prove amazing. These fishes in Kentucky are occupying an increasingly important role in our drive to generally improve the angling sport.

Let us review stocking of these species during 1937, to give a better idea as to the aid that is being given to not one group of fishermen, but to every group. Last year the Division of Game and Fish distributed 110,850 catfish to the streams and ponds throughout the state; 13,682 bream; 823 perch; 1,200 carp, and 1,000 shiners. The carp were placed in private ponds at the request of the owners. Stocking of these species in sizable numbers is certain to furnish a great deal of sport for thousands of men, women and children on our waterways.

About the only thing necessary to convince those skeptical as to the importance of these species on our intensively fished waters is to go, some day in early summer, to a popular fishing stream or lake. While you will probably see fly fishermen and bait casters in action here and there, and live bait fishermen who are trying for the bass, and other game fish in fair numbers, the people enjoying still fishing with many different kinds of tackle for just plain bream, perch and catfish will prove astounding. True, there is not the delicacy required in placing fly or plug, or properly working live bait for a strike, in evidence with this group, but the contentment evident almost without exception among these shore fishermen makes on realize just how vital to the welfare of the angling sport is this phase of angling.

The general fishing picture in Kentucky has been vastly improved through stocking of the catfish, perch, and bream in our heavily fished waters.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of our beloved husband and father, James Kenneth Tanner, who passed away Dec. 18, 1937:

Just six months ago since you left us,
Home we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.

GAME WARDENS BUSY THROUGHOUT KENTUCKY

Frankfort, Ky.—The Game Wardens throughout Kentucky saw many busy and fruitful days as evidenced by the reports turned in by them at the main offices of the Division of Game and Fish in the Capitol City.

There were 56 arrests made which were followed by prosecutions totaling $710 in fines. Out of this total, $165 was paid by serving jail terms. This left a total of $545 which was placed as follows: 40 percent to the Commonwealth Attorney; 40 percent to the County Attorney; 10 percent to the arresting officer, and the remaining 10 percent to the Division of Game and Fish.

Six persons were arrested for dynamiting fish; 8 for fishing out of season; 12 for hunting out of season; 3 for gigging; 13 for fishing without license, and six for seining.

The following was seized by the game wardens throughout the state: 25 hoop nets, 17 wing nets, 2 dip nets, 2 fish boxes, 3 fish traps, 3 rifles, 5 giggs. a number of poles and lines, a large number of trot lines and one gill net measuring 90 feet in length. Several dams were also destroyed by the wardens. These dams being constructed for illegal purposes of taking fish.

The sportsmen and all others interested in hunting and fishing, can see what a fight the wardens, through the Division of Game and Fish, are putting up to protect the game and fish throughout the state and to enforce the laws which have been set up for their protection.

SEASONAL FOOD POISONING

On a warm sunshiny morning in April, last a bakery salesman set out from Louisville with a truck loaded with various pastries and pies, including butterscotch and cocoanut custard, as well as other bakery goods. The truck stopped at Finchville, where a cocoanut custard pie was sold to a groceryman who, in turn, sold it immediately to a customer. Two cases of severe illness followed the eating of this pie at lunch. Continuing on his way, the salesman sold butterscotch and cocoanut custard pies to stores in Frankfort. During the evening and the next day seven cases of poisoning developed in Frankfort.

These custard pies had been made in a clean, well kept bakery, but the method of preparation did not include sterilization of the custard before using or refrigeration of the pies after baking. The logical assumption is that bacteria present on the hands and in the throats of the bakery employees, got into the pies during the preparation. The long ride in the sun and exposure in the stores, both without refrigeration, provided incubation for the bacteria, which then multiplied to an extent sufficient to cause severe illness in those partaking of the pies.

A few days later, three persons in Louisville, suffered from food poisoning, were taken to the City Hospital for treatment. Again, a cream filled pastry was implicated as the cause. As a result, the City Department of Health of Louisville and the Jefferson County Board of Health adopted rulings prohibiting, within their respective jurisdictions, the sale of cream or custard type pastries until November 1 and prepared regulations governing methods under which such products may be sold after that date.

These cases are illustrative of the ease with which cream custard products, such as cream pies, cream custards and other products filled with cream custard, may become contaminated, unless proper and adequate safeguards are employed, particularly in the summer months, in their manufacture, handling and storing. Similar cases in large numbers, occur each year in practically every section of the country.

Food poisoning from this source is not caused by decomposition of the product. The ingredients, singly or in combination, are not in themselves responsible. Neither is the poisoning due to metallic compounds in the utensils in which they are prepared. It is due, rather, to contamination by bacterial organisms which have, in some way, found their way into the food products. These bacterial organisms may be of various types, such as the staphylococcus, streptococcus or enteritidis. Contamination, likewise, may occur in any one of the many different ways.

Cream custard is an ideal medium for the growth of many bacteria and rapid multiplication occurs unless the custard is kept under proper and adequate refrigeration. Where conditions conducive to warmth and moisture exist food products in which bacteria are present rapidly become potential sources of extremely severe illness.

Most cases of food poisoning are acute and have their onset from four to twelve hours after eating the infected product. The symptoms are those of gastro-intestinal irritation, with dizziness, nausea, vomiting, cramps, and diarrhea.

The importance of maintaining a high standard of sanitation in the manufacture of custard filled bakery products is too obvious to require stressing. But sanitary methods in the preparation of such products are not in themselves sufficient. Constant refrigeration is also essential. Sterilization is, likewise, recommended. This applies to the housewife who makes such products in the home, for home consumption, as well as to the manufacturer who turns out such products for sale to the consuming public.

Cream custard products, when free from contamination, constitute an altogether wholesome food and, if kept under proper temperatures, there is little possibility of contracting food poisoning thru their consumption. It is never safe, however, to permit any such product to stand, without refrigeration, for any considerable length of time before it is eaten. Constituted authority can protect the consuming public against manufacturers in this regard; protection against such products made in the home, for home consumption, can only come through the observance of proper precautions by the housewife.

FIRST LADY DISCUSSES SOLUTION TO WORKING PROBLEMS OF MEN OVER 45

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt discussed the growing tendency in industry to discharge workers over forty-five and' suggests several solutions to the problem on her question and answer page in the June issue of The Democratic Digest, National Committee publication.

"I think the answer to this problem of shortened working years will come in a number of ways," she writes. "Old age pensions will take a great number of the very much older people out of the working field. As business increases, I hope very much that it will organize itself so that people with experience will be able to obtain jobs for which they are fitted. Then they will automatically vacate jobs which require the particular attributes of youth—greater speed, greater strength, and greater adaptibility."

Mrs. Roosevelt feels, however that nobody can say that this problem, brought on my the machine age, is satisfactorily solved as yet.

The question, which was asked by Mrs. T. D. Williams, of Charlotte, North Carolina, read: "What can be done about the growing tendency to shorten working years for men and women and to discharge workers over forty-five?"

The accomplishments of the Social Security Act have thoroughly justified the increased taxes under the act, the First Lady holds in answer to a question posed by Mrs. Virginia Silver, Toledo, Ohio.

"I think anyone studying the results which have been accomplished in the various states since the Social Security Act has begun to really function will realize that never before has a program brought us returns so quickly," Mrs. Roosevelt writes.

"From my point of view, these returns amply justify the increase in taxation. I cannot, of course, give you statistics as yet, but I am sure that you will find this so in your own state as time goes on."

THE GARDEN

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

At this writing, there is good prospect of heavy crops of early potatoes, and many families will have enough potatoes for the year. Early potatoes, particularly of the Irish Cobbler and Bliss Triumph varieties are not good potatoes to store for the winter because they begin sprouting, certainly by Christmas and likely before, and decline in quality, even though they may remain usable. Good practice is to make another planting, of a late variety, and to dispose of enough of the early potatoes to pay for the seed and the fertilizer used in producting potatoes that will stay in prime condition until next year's spring crop comes.

Late potatoes are of several varieties, chief among which are Green Mountain and McCormick, Pearl and Peachblow, the latter three collectively called "July Potatoes." There is, besides, a late potato crop, produced from cold storage kept seed of the variety Irish Cobbler. The culture of all late potatoes is essentially the same, the only difference in detail being that in time of planting. The various sorts will be discussed with this in mind.

Produced during July through September, as they are, late potatoes usually must run the gauntlet of a hot and sometimes dry season, quite unfriendly to this crop, for potatoes are best adapted to cool conditions and should have plenty of moisture to make satisfactory yields. Although it may appear extravagant to say anything can be done about these handicaps, much can be.

Discussing moisture first, late potato ground should be prepared long before planting is to take place, and in this wise. The land should be broken early, before the last of the spring rains have fallen. It should then be disked deeply, the furrow slices cut fine, then dragged to make the surface powdery or dusty. Before long, a crop of weeds will start; these should be killed by disking and dragging again, this to be repeated 2, 3 or even 4 times depending on how rapidly the weeds grow, but they should not be permitted to make much development, the thought being to destroy them before they have drawn heavily on the moisture supply the growers seeks to conserve for his potatoes. This periodic removal of weeds serves the additional purpose of saving cultivation later, as the potatoes are growing. The breaking should be as deep as possible, to make the moisture reservoir as large as possible.

With the soil deeply broken and deeply prepared, deep planting can be done. Thus the seed, and later the roots of the potato find conditions comparatively cool, and at least part of the hot season hazard is evaded.

Further to help as to both moisture-holding ability and friendly soil temperature, for the two go together, a generous amount of vegetable matter should be turned under. This may be stable manure in which straw predominates and of which horse manure is only a small part or entirely lacking, or it may be "green manure," a coast of clover or grass or even of weeds.

Not every young man can leave footprints on the sands of time now, but most of them can leave tire tracks.

Now they've invented a typewriter that composes music. The next step will be to invent some way of getting people to listen to it.

We've noticed this about people who wear wrist watches. Every time they look at one they ask what time it is.

You don't have to tell the average school teacher anything about "whispering campaigns."

The biggest handicap about the modern political campaign is that you can't broadcast an old-fashioned torch-light procession over the radio.

When Mussolini says the press of Italy is the freest to be found in all the world, he probably is thinking of all the free advertising they have been afraid not to give him.

More than one citizen has earned a reputation for wisdom just by keeping quiet and saying nothing.

The biggest business before this generation is to nail down peace before we forget what the last war cost us.

If you really want to know all about your next-door neighbor's past life, just get him to run for office.

When you hear a boy arguing that love is greater than law, look out. He's getting ready to bear his neck to the axe.

Maybe the reason the average young man wants to work in a bank is because he knows there's money in it.

What the country really needs most is an auto that you can fold up and lean against a tree when you get down town.

ESTABLISHED 1875

JOHN WINGATE BEING HELD

IN BOONE COUNTY JAIL ON FORGERY CHARGE—CHECKS AMOUNTING TO $53.00 GIVEN IN COUNTY.

John Wingate, age 23, formerly of Belleview was arrested last Thursday night by Sheriff F. M. Walton at Martin Bros. Garage, Florence, as he attempted to cash the fifth of a series of forged checks under the assumed name of Donald Grant.

The youth was forging the name of O. R. Russ, Limaburg, and saying that he was employed by Mr. Russ, and that the checks to be cashed was in payment of his week's work. He usually purchased a small item, and then requested the balance in change. The merchants who cashed the checks were Anten's Food Markets, Florence; John Hampton, Florence; Morris Dept. Store, Erlanger and the Farmer's Liquor Store, Covington. The total of the five checks amounted to approximately $53.00.

Mr. Russ was informed that someone was using his name illegally and paid a visit to the business houses of Florence and vicinity, informing them to notify him if anyone tried to cash a check in his name. Thursday night the youth appeared at Martin Bros. Garage and produced a check bearing the name of Donald Grant Mr. Martin took the check and immediately telephoned Mr. Russ to come to Florence. The youth was held until Sheriff Walton arrived and was then removed to Burlington where he will be held for action of the August grand jury.

The youth is a son of Less Wingate and a former resident of Belleview. He is wanted by Indiana auothorities on similar charges, having given checks in Aurora which amounted to $175.00.

After a short trip through Kentucky they returned to the home of the groom at Walton.

STONE IS URGED TO ENTER RACE

FOR SENATE IN KENTUCKY PRIMARY ON REPUBLICAN TICKET—WAS MEMBER OF HOOVER'S FARM BOARD.

Lexington, Ky., June 17—James Stone, noted Lexington tobacco man and formerly a member of President Hoover's Farm Board, is being offered the support of powerful Republican leaders if he will become a candidate for the Republican nomination for United State Senator.

Stone would not have major opposition if he consented to make the race, informed political quarters said.

Meeting earlier in the week in Louisville to canvass the senatorial situation, various members of the Republican State Central Committee decided, as individuals, to urge Stone to make the race, it became known here today. Members emphasized they had not acted as a committee and that the Republican state organization would not sponsor formally a candidate.

Actually, such support would be equivalent to the support of the state organization and would almost automatically mean the nomination.

Various committeemen are to report back to the State Committee at Louisville at another meeting, June 23.

Support of various Republican factions will be united behind Stone or any other candidate who may run in his place, Republican leaders said. Representatives of the Galvin-Perkins alignment, the Sampson-Robinson group, the Harrison faction in Louisville and its rival, the Ryans faction, all agreed to present a united front, Republican leaders here said.

Constance-Sand Run Road Bids To Be Let July 15th

Sealed bids will be received by the Department of Highways, Frankfort, Ky., on July 15th, for the construction of the Constance-Sand Run school road, beginning near Constance and extending to the Sand Run school, a distance of approximately 8.533 miles.

The type of work on this road will be grade, drain and low type surfacing construction.

Tobacco Diseases Affect Many Crops

Tobacco diseases are found affecting many crops in the fields, according to a reports of the county agent's office. Many calls were received at the office the past week. Blue mold, root rot, mole and insect injury are among the chief troubles being encountered by growers.

Despite these troubles the Boone county crop is earlier than usual and most farmers at the present ime have splendid prospects for a good crop.

Root rot probably will be the most lasting of the diseases affecting crops at the present time. Root rot can only be controlled through using root rot resisting seeds, the best variety of which is probably Experiment Station No. 16. Growers would profit by a series of educational meetings in tobacco fields later in the season to study the effects and methods of control of the various diseases affecting tobacco.

Limestone Pays Local Farmers Big Returns

Agricultural limestone is paying big returns on Boone County farms according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

Last year 150 farmers used limestone. Reports come to the county office daily of the splendid stands of grass and legume crops secured on the lime and phosphate fields.

Farmers this year have already secured 246.9 tons of 47 percent TVA phosphate for use on grass and legume crops. They have however, used far short of the amount of limestone that should be used.

The ACP program this year is paying $1.50 per ton on the soil building allowance for limestone used. The following agricultural limestone dealers will deliver a splendid grade of crushed stone in six or more ton lots direct to the field on the farm for $2.00 to 2.25 per ton: R. W. Auton, Demossville, Ky.; Orville Y. Kelly, Burlington, Ky., Stanley Graves, Hebron, Ky.; Charles Kraft, Ludlow, Ky., R. 2; and Dance Bros., Crittenden, Ky.

This is by far, the cheapest delivered crushed stone ever offered Boone County farmers. When the rushed season comes this fall there will be a shortage of agricultural limestone. Farmers are urged to order their stone immediately and have it ready on their farm.

Walter Huston As Pioneer Preacher In Stirring Film

Placed in the stirring days of Lincoln, and in America's pioneer settlements in Ohio, "Of Human Hearts," the human drama of a circuit-riding preached and his family, brings Walter Huston to the screen for the first time since his triumps in "Dodsworth." The new picture, in which James Stewart and Beulah Bondi are teamed with Huston as his son and wife, will be shown at the Gayety Theater Wednesday and Thursday, June 29th and 30th.

"Of Human Hearts" is based on the story, "Benefits Forgot," by Honore Morrow, and deals with the struggle of beliefs between father and son, and the everlasting love of a mother who worships her boy and also blindly adores the father.

Dramatic highlights include the bitter quarrel between father and son, the dramatic moment in which Lincoln sets the boy's erring feet on the right path, the reunion of mother and son after the Civil War, and other dramatic moments interspersed with human interest and comedy.

Announcer: The new W. C. Fields picture everybody's talking about, "The Big Broadcast of 1938," will be on the screen Sunday and Monday at the Gayety Theater, with some of the biggest names in pictures. Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, Ben Blue, Bob Hope are a few of them. It's the musical comedy hit of the year! See it!

Monday of this week W. L. McBee, proprietor of the Boone County Service Station, installed two new electric gasoline pumps. Les stated that he is now able to do a more efficient job with this new equipment and invites his patrons to stop and see these new pumps.

BOTH SIDES OF SENATE RACE TO BE GIVEN READERS

In this week's issue of The Recorder we are giving our readers both sides of the Senate race, between Senator Alben W. Barkley, and A. B. Chandler.

On another page of this issue will be found a column for each candidate. The material used in these columns are sent us from each respective campaign headquarters.

We expect to carry these columns each week, provided enough material is sent in by the campaign managers to fill this space.

We feel that our readers will be interested in this campaign and will be glad to read both columns.

The Recorder has never taken sides in a Democratic primary, and we do not plan to take any part in this one, but will support the nominee in the general election this fall.

Eight Prisoners Resting In Bastile

The local bastile is housing the largest number for several years, according to Elmer Kirkpatrick, jailer. He stated that there were eight being held, all on felony charges for action of the Boone County grand jury which will be in session next August.

Those being held are John Upton, Vinten Lipscomb, Elmer Lacally, Jack Gardner, Jeff Mills, Harold Coleman, John Wingate, and Oscar Young, colored.

C. M. Emral, of Walton, R. 2, was a pleasant caller at this office last Friday. While here Mr. Emral had his name placed on our mailing list. We are very happy to have him as one of our new subscribers.

INTEREST RATES ARE EXTENDED

FOR TWO YEARS AT THREE AND ONE-HALF PERCENT, ACCORDING TO A. B. RENAKER, BURLINGTON.

The reduced interest rates on Federal land bank and Commissioner loans have been extended by Federal legislation for a period of two years, according to word received today from The Federal Land Bank of Louisville by A. B. Renaker, Secretary-Treasurer of the Boone County National Farm Loan Association.

On Federal land bank loans through the local association the temporarily reduced rates of 3½ percent per annum will be continued for all interest installments payable prior to July 1, 1940, under the provisions of this recent legislation, and the temoparily reduced rate of 4 percent on Land Bank Commissioner loans is also continued until July 1, 1940.

"The temporary interest reduction does not change the contract interest rate, that is, the rate written in the mortgage at the time a loan was made," Mr. Renaker stated. "At present the contract rate on new land bank loans through the Boone County National Farm Loan Association is 4 per cent. The contract rate of all Commissioner loans made through the land bank is 5 percent. Under the law as now amended, both land bank and Commissioner borrowers will resume interest payments at their respective contract rates on July 1, 1940.

"Boone County farmers who now obtain new loans through our association at the 4 percent contract rate," Mr. Renaker continued, "will get the benefit of the 3½ percent rate for all interest installments payable prior to July 1, 1940, and after that will not have to pay more than the 4 percent contract rate for the balance of the term of the loan, which may be for as long as 20 to 30-odd years."

Farmers of this community at present have 169 first mortgage loans from The Federal Land Bank of Louisville, made through the Boone County National Farm Loan Association and endorsed by it in the amount of $648,400.00. In addition, the association services 128 Land Bank Commissioner loans amounting to $264,700, or in all 297 loans totaling $913,100.00. The national farm loans association, however, does not endorse Commissioner loans, and is not liable for losses on them should they occur.

SHEEPMEN JOIN ASSOCIATION

SEVERAL HUNDRED ALREADY SIGNED UP—MUTUAL PLAN FORMED BY ASSOCIATION—MUCH INTEREST SHOWN.

Sheepmen are showing much interest in plans for a Boone County Sheep Protective Association, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Several hundred sheep have already been signed up and turned in to O. K. Powers, Verona, temporary treasurer.

Growers met at Burlington on May court day and adopted a constitution and by-laws for a non profit protective association combining a mutual insurance plan whereby sheepmen would receive up to $8.00 per head for adult sheep and $6.00 per head for lambs killed by dogs during the year. The payments are made through premium paid in by growers of 10 cents per head for adult sheep and a $1.00 initial fee. Lambs are insured free up to January 1st. Registered sheep may be insured at double the rate by paying 20 cents per head. Three thousand sheep must be signed up or all money paid in is refunded and the association is not operative for any one year.

The association forms a mutual plan that should interest every grower. Membership agreements may be secured at the county agent's office in Burlington or from any one of the membership committeemen listed below:

Premium checks should be made payable to the Boone County Sheep Growers Association.

These lump sum benefit payments now due under Social Security are averaging more than $42 throughout the nation, Mr. Decker stated.

Information relative to filing such claims may be obtained from the Social Security Field office located at 414 Coppin Building, Covington, Kentucky, Mr. Decker said.

Mr. Jim Huey, of Union, County Chairman for A. B. "Happy" Chandler in the coming election, was a brief caller at this office Tuesday. Mr. Huey stated that things are looking good here and that Governor Chandler will carry Boone County by a large majority.

THE OLD HOME TEAM

Whether it is defeating every team it tackles or loses to every nine that has so far seen fit to play ball with it—stand up for the old home team. With the very best support it is possible for you to give, no one team can be sure of winning all their games. Only half of the teams in any of the big leagues can break better than even when it comes to getting out of second place. There is no team, little or big, that gets all the breaks, even though there are some that seem to sit in the lap of old Lady Luck throughout the baseball season. If the team itself is willing to fight for a victory then you ought to be a good enough sport to lay aside the hammer, pick up the horn and help put the home team across. Is it more interesting to see a team win merely for the sake of a high score or to see a game that may be lost but with a display of good baseball tactics?

WORTHY OF PRAISE

Of all camps and recreational outdoor activities that have been devised in modern years to interest and instruct the youth of the land, none are more worthy of public and parental endorsement than the National 4-H Club of boys and girls. None are doing a finer work for the future of the country than the camps now conducted during the summer months in all sections of the U. S. by the members of these clubs. Directed by men and women individually noted for their clean, high moral dignities, these young people from the highest type of farm families to be found in all the land, not only are combining the enjoyable forms of social contact to be secured in no other way, but they are at the same time and with equal enthusiasm getting the rudiments of agricultural life in all its phases. They enjoy the elements of social mingling that will be so necessary to them in after years regardless of what pathway in life they may proceed. It may be a sacrifice to many parents to make a camp session possible for their boys and girls, but it is a sacrifice so bountiful later on that it is one no wise parent hesitates to make. This is one activity of the kind to which every citizen can lend his moral support as well as his time and money whenever he may be called upon. Give three cheers for the 4-H Club camps at every opportunity.

TRY HIS WAY

They've called in experts and brain-trusters from far and near in their efforts to solve the nation's puzzling, nerve-wrecking problems of finance, industry, trade and employment. But seemingly every time a solution to one problem appears another of equal importance and just as vexing breaks out in a new spot. "They've tried everybody else's plan" writes the editor of a Georgia weekly paper in a serious-minded way, "now why don't they turn to the old-fashioned methods of those who up to a few generations ago turned when all these failed—why don't they try God's plan of working out some of their problems?"

To the average citizen this may not be accepted as a workable solution. But look at the fate of Rome, and scores of other nations when they junked His plan and went pretty much as we are running it now, on an "every fellow for himself" basis. Look what happened to those nations that turned their backs on the Golden Rule. They crumbled and perished. And history stil lhave a way of repeating itself.

When men lose sight of the welfare of their country in a selfish grab for political power; when men lay aside the Golden Rule and adopt instead the $ as a yardstick for measuring the way to human betterment, then the suggestion of the Georgia editor becomes not only worth thinking about but worthy of a trial. Get men back to the old-time methods of dealing honestly with their fellowmen and many of the problems now besetting the land will solve themselves. Most of them originate from a spirit of greed, anyhow. Most of them were unknown until men began losing their faith in the Golden Rule and putting a price-mark on it. Now why not turn back to rules that did work. Why not try His way?

A FARM WOMAN'S WOES

The arrival of the warm season, summer with its sunshine, flowers and vacations of carefree days, may mean a lot to some people, but to the average farm wife it only means a lot of additional woe that no other season of the year brings her.

The farm wife can't reckon her time in so many straight hours of labor, with Saturday afternoons and Sundays off. Nor can she, and here is where greatest woe comes in, even count on Sunday as a day of rest with her family, a day of peace and quietude about the house, with maybe a few hours to read and a few hours to spend in social conversation with neighbors from nearby farms who come in for a little while along in the afternoon. No. So far as the farm woman is concerned all of that is "out." Pass most rural residences nowadays on a Sunday and you'll quickly see why. Lolling about in the yard and playing all over the barnyard you'll see from a half-dozen to a score or more men, women and children, and the two or three—often a half-dozen autos parked in the driveway, noisy evidence as to why "the good old summer time" isn't so good for the farm wife who is the victim of "city cousins" who have spent a big part of the week figuring out where they could drive to on Sunday for a chicken dinner. Maybe she hasn't laid eyes on them during the fall and winter months, but just as soon as summer approaches she knows her so-called day of rest, and often a big part of her Saturday in addition, is going to be spent in a red-hot kitchen cooking up a big dinner for a lot of people whose friendship always seems to take on a warmer glow as chicken dinner days draw on.

While they're moving heaven and earth at Washington to do something for the unemployed they ought to do something for the one who too much employed—they ought to try to find some sort of relief for the farm woman whose woes begin when the "city cousins" start their season of chicken dinner chasing.

NEW TREE PROGRAM

The nation at large hasn't heard much about organized tree planting since the failure of the ill-conceived shelter-belt or two or three years ago, quickly abandoned by the government when it proved to be a clossal waste of money Nevertheless, the U. S. Forestry Service, acting in cooperation with the farmers of the plains states, has been increasing its activities year by year. So far this year more than 20,000,000 trees have been planted in Middle-Western states under agreements whereby farmers take the responsibility of fencing, cultivating and caring for the young shoots. Experience proves that with such care more than 80 percent of tree plantings survive, whereas scarcely less than 30 percent of shelter-belt plantings have escaped the drouths and hot winds of that section. The result is that many farmers are establishing their own wood lots worth money to them in years to come, and at the same time the government is embarking on a serious forestry program in a part of the country that needs it.

PARAGRAPHS

Henry Ford says men above 50 are the salt of the earth, but it takes those under 30 to put the pepper into it.

Traffic in the good old days revealed plenty of horse sense, and in a great number of cases the horse had the most of it.

Not until a Vermont man flagged a train with a burlap sack and saved all on board did some Vermonters discover that burlap had succeeded red flannel.

The difference between a tornado and a political stump speaker is there are no damages to report after the stump speaker gets through.

No one is less entertaining than the man who thinks he has all the trouble and the other fellow all the luck.

Still another thing to be thankful for is that the fellows who write our popular music haven't yet taken up the "farm relief blues."

Lesson for June 26

SHARING SERVICE WITH THE LIVING CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Mark 16:1-8, 14-16, 19, 20.
GOLDEN TEXT—And they went forth, and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them. Mark 16:20.
PRIMARY TOPIC—At Work With Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Our Living Lord.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making a New World With Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Making a New World With Christ.

Easter again? No, the calendar does not say so, nor have we forgotten that we observed Easter ten weeks ago, but quite properly we study the resurrection story again today. Not only does it come in the sequence of our lessons as our final study in the Gospel of Mark, but the fact is that every Sunday is a reminder of Easter. The reason why we worship on the first day of the week is that it is the resurrection day. What life it would put into our Sunday worship if the glory of the risen Lord would shine forth (as it should) each Lord's Day in all of our service and worship.

It is difficult to think or write about the living Christ without using superlatives. Our lesson for today brings before us the most important truth that the world has ever heard—"He is risen"; it speaks of the worst thing in the world—"unbelief"; and it presents the world's greatest commission—"Go . . . and preach."

I. The Transcendent Truth (vv. 1-8).

"Ye seek Jesus, the Nazarene, who hath been crucified; He is risen, He is not here" (v. 6).

The world anxiously awaits news, and, hoping almost against hope, it longs for good news. This is the good news—the Gospel—the all-important tidings that the Son of God who had taken upon Himself not only the form of man, but the sins of mankind as well, who had tasted the bitter death of Calvary's cross, could not be holden of death, but breaking its bands asunder had risen from the dead.

This truth becomes the chief burden of the messages of the disciples as they soon went everywhere proclaiming the Gospel. See the sermons recorded in the Book of Acts (2:24, 32; 3:14, 15; 4:10, 23; 10:40; 13:30). It was such preaching that was at the foundation of the Christian church. It may be that we should emphasize it more.

II. The Impassable Barrier (v. 14).

"He upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not." Many are the sins that men commit, but at the root of them all we find the heart of all sin—unbelief.

The tragic consequence of unbelief is that it shuts the door, throws up a barrier to God's blessing that is virtually impassable until God himself gives grace to believe. The astonishing thing is that the hardness of heart and lack of faith here were on the part of those who had been the disciples of Jesus, to whom He had made known the fact that He was to die and to arise on the third day, and to whom there had now come the word of eye-witnesses that they had seen the Lord.

While we marvel at their short-sighted unbelief, shall we not ask ourselves what hindrances we have placed in God's way in our own lives?

III. The Supreme Commission (vv. 15, 16, 19, 20).

"Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to the whole creation" (v. 15). "And they went . . . and preached, the Lord working with them and confirming the word" (v. 20).

The great commission of Christ is still the "marching orders of the church," but how slowly we have marched. The writer of these notes was recently startled by statistics revealing anew the fact that "Christian" America is rapidly returning to the status of a mission field. It is said that last year 60,000 churches in America had no converts, and 9,000 churches were closed during the year. There are 10,000 villages reported to be without church services, and 30,000 communities without a resident pastor.

The command of Christ is that we should go to these pagan communities in our own land with the gospel, and surely it is our double shame that there are still lands where Christ has never been preached, yes, tribes that do not even have a word in their language for the blessed name—Jesus!

If we will go He will indeed work with us (v. 20) and accompany the message and ministry with divine authority and power. Who will go?

Select Good Company

When a man lingers in the neighborhood of sinners he may expect to be tempted. Our company has not a little to do with our conduct.

Try Again

The diligent searcher after truth will not be deterred by many disappointments. His hope may fail, but he will try again.

Key to Success

There is only one key to success, and that is perseverance.

The Lincoln county sheep breeders' association had a balance of $260 after paying for all sheep killed by dogs.

"BARKLEY FOR SENATOR NOTES"

Sponsored by BARKLEY CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

Comments by Henry Ward

Louisville, Ky.—At Lexington, they are saying that the greatest crowd ever to attend a political gathering in the heart of the Bluegrass will be on hand Saturday, June 18, for the official opening of Senator Alben W. Barkley's campaign for re-election.

The rally will be held at the Kentucky Horse Breeders Association trotting track in Lexington, and voters will come from far and near to hear Senator Barkley trot out the planks in his campaign platform. It will be the ifrst political speech he has made in his own behalf in six years. He probably will start talking around 2 p. m.

Senator Barkley plans to begin a speaking tour of the state immediately after his Lexington opening, and keep up a hot pace until the August 6 primary. A sign sponsored by Governor Chandler's campaign headquarters at Louisville said: "When Senator Barkley travels over the state this summer, it will be the first time he has done that in six years." The last time Senator Barkley really went out on a speaking tour of the state was in 1935, when he stumped Kentucky for Governor Chandler and other Democratic nominees for state offices.

Senator Barkley will speak Saturday, June 11, at a huge rally of miners at Hazard, but it will not be a political address. The occasion will be the celebration of the fifth anniversary of the organization of the United Mine Workers of America in that district. Thirty thousand are expected to attend.

Governor Chandler has scheduled his "official" opening in his campaign for the U. S. Senatorial nomination for June 25 at Hopkinsville. He has been making speeches in behalf of his candidacy since last January, but according to his notion they were not "official."

The same stunts that Frederick A. Wallis used as a candidate for Governor in 1935 to draw crowds when he was to speak will be employed to get a big crowd to Hopkinsville for Chandler. Wallis has charge of the arrangements, and has announced that free box lunches, ice cream and cold drinks will be served to all who come. A great effort will be made to get a large gathering there.

A few weeks ago it was rumored that Governor Chandler had issued orders that thousands of names be added to the old age pension rolls in July so that the newcomers might receive a pension check before the August 6 primary election. That plan is no longer a rumor. At Louisville, F. J. Baumgardner, old age pension supervisor for Jefferson county, issued a notice calling on all persons entitled to old age pensions to come to his office and leave their names and addresses. He said that funds sufficient to meet the needs of all applicants for pensions would be available so that checks can be issued in July.

Last fall, Governor Chandler ordered the names of 7,000 persons cut from the pension lists because funds were threatened with being exhausted. They had been placed on the lists during his efforts to elect members of the state legislature last summer. Now he plans to add 20,000 to the rolls. There will not be any more money for old age pensions next year than there was this year, which means that after August the rolls will be reduced again, probably by far more than 20,000.

There is a bit of irony in the situation, in view of the position Senator Barkley holds in the federal government. Half the cost of the old age pensions is paid by the federal government, and even half the cost of administration is paid by Uncle Sam. The U. S. merely matched whatever amount is set up each month by the state for pensions. In other words, if Chandler wants to spend all the money the state will have for pensions during the entire fiscal year of 1938-39 in the first month of the year—July—in order to take votes away from Senator Barkley, the federal government will have to put up its funds to match the state contribution.

Governor Chandler began his campaign for Senator by criticizing the spending program of President Roosevelt. He said spending ought to be stopped. Last Saturday at Frankfort, he issued a statement in which he declared himself in favor of a new $2,500,000,000 appropriation by the federal government to be apportioned among the states for road building. At the rate he has been making promises, he will need that much to build roads in Kentucky.

Senator Barkley last week piloted the new relief and public works appropriation bill to an overwhelming victory in the Senate. He personally secured adoption of an amendment to provide $125,000,000 for direct relief. Some of this direct relief was needed at his home town of Paducah, where the WPA came to the aid of 240 families facing foodless days because the county government, of which Brady M. Stewart, Chandler state campaign manager, is head failed to provide for them.

Comments by J. L. Trotter

Whenever there is a big job to be done you can always find a man in our state big enough to handle it. We are proud of our statesmen, and we have a right to be; they are proud that they are Kentuckians, and they have a right to be, for to be born and bred in "Old Kentucky" is a heritage second to none.

We are well-known for our fast horses, good whiskey, and pretty women, but also we are noted for our big men.

I have traveled around quite a lot, and I have yet to find another spot on the map so well populated with big men. In fact, to my knowledge there are only two minds of peanut calibre within these boundaries; one of course is mine and the other one belongs to a fellow by the name of Chandler.

Now, under such circumstances I think the least we two mental midgets can do is to accept the situation openly and without rancor. There's no use trying to kid ourselves into believing we are on a plane with the rest of the boys. But getting down to a specific point, I consider myself too small a man to sing praise, for instance, to Senator Barkley. And it follows too that Mr. Chandler is entirely too small to run him down.

I have accepted my lowely position for what it is, and although the happy Governor has held the more strategic position I feel even as I flounder with these words and phrases and become more inarticulate by the line that I hold a disciplinary advantage. Gooper Trotter, at least has no pipe dreams of the White House, nor back door schemes for the U. S. Senate. Both feet on the ground for Trotter even if they are mired down.

Blow your horn Governor but don't try to bust the darn thing.

Primary elections throughout the states indicate that the 1936 mandiate is here to stay. Hestitant incumbents are finding that an aroused John Q. Public stands ready to put the heat on all anti-New Deal candidates, and as the Capitol's humidity is anything but soothing to a statesman's flayed nerves, we may look for early enactment of wage and hour legislation and adjournment.

While to some legislators early adjournment will mean relief from the incessant fire on the congressional floors, others will have to face the electorate with either an alibi or with the smile and handclasp of one who has fought a good fight, win or lose. Alben Barkley will wear that smile, and the Barkley smile is not only infectious, it's contagious . . . I hear that even outsiders up in Washington who have been exposed to the Barkley smile are trying to take out Kentucky citizenship.

Some time ago Mr. Chandler charged Senator Barkley with having lost interest in Kentucky.—I have learned to expect almost anything from "Happy." It would not surprise me a bit if he charged our doughboys with forgetting the dear old U. S. A. while storming Verdun. You can't keep the home fires burning and go out to fight at the same time. Furthermore, it is one thing to keep the home fires buring and quite another to just sit and quibble with the budget.

Budget balancing is a worthy undertaking; but by all means such action should be accompanied by cooperating with the Administration in stamping out unemployment and stimulating business. This problem has darkened the door of the Governor's mansion for three years now, and I ask you, what has the done about it? Mr. Chandler has had the greatest opportunity to serve mankind ever offered a Governor of this State, but what has he done about it? He has had a willing and cooperative legislature, but where has he led them? The only conference Chandler has had with our President that I can remember, was about whose job and in whose interest.

Mr. Chandler is not the only Governor in these United States who has just sat and dribbled the State budget during the New Deal recovery drive.

What brought on the depression? Was it because the Government was spending more money than it was taking in and that we were over-governed—or was it because of a business slump, unemployment and maybe not enough governmental regulation?

When a serious illness has settled its cloud upon a loved one, you would not expect to find the father counting his pennies. And when the welfare of the people is at stake, you can't keep the home fires burning if budget balancing is your sole objective.

ON WASH DAY

If your washing machine doesn't take care of moving the clothes about in the rinse water you will have to do it yourself. The water passing through the meshes with force removes the soil loosened in washing and the traces of soap. A practice to be strictly avoided is draining the rinse-water out when there are clothes in the tub. If this is done the fabric serves as an efficient sieve and retains the loosened dirt and soap. This is especially true when washing blankets or quilts.

ON IRONING DAY

Pressing heavy materials is usually a trying job because the ironing cloth wrinkles or gets out of place. A simple pressing frame can be made as follows: Selecting light, thin pieces of wood to make an oblong frame about 11x12 ins., larger or small to fit the ironing board. Place an ironing cloth over the frams and fasten down with thumb tacks very tightly. Then turn the tacked side down on the material, sprinkle the cloth with water to dampen and press.

W. N. U. SEEKS TO ENJOIN NEWSPAPER COMPETITOR

New York, June 15—Counsel for Industrial Associates, Inc., which owns stock in Western Newspaper Union today obtained a Federal court order restraining the directors of W. N. U. from turning over assets or control to the American Press Association, a competitor in the small town newspaper field of plates, matrices and ready print service. The suit charges a conspiracy to strip Western Newspaper Union of its holdings. The court directed the Western Newspaper Unions's directors to show cause on Friday why a temporary injunction should not be issued.

MRS. GEORGE BAKER ENTERTAINED FRIDAY

An avenue of maple trees guarding the winding road that leads to the colonial homestead of the George Bakers at Beaver Lick, was the first sight that greeted the membership of the New Haven Homemakers on Friday, last, when they met for the day. It was a typical before and after picture, what has been accomplished by correct architecture and color selections. The center hall with period stairway has been thrown in with the living room. Restful paper of light grey with a bit of color added is used in this room and continues in the dining room as well. The master bedroom is done in blue, the curtains being of fine dotted net. Some of Mrs. Baker's choicest pieces of antique furnishings are found in this room.

The house being thoroughly inspected, the members settled down to the lesson of the day, and did their bit helping the leaders, Mrs. Walter Pennington and Mrs. R. M. Baldwin prepared the dinner. The main course was the meat, this consisting of three kinds of meat ground together, made into balls then placed on apple slices and wrapped in sliced bacon. After baking for the required minutes they were served with whole wheat, yeast rolls. Fresh string beans from the host's garden were served together with other seasonal vegetables.

Miss Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent was introduced by Mrs. Sam Sleet, president, they both giving reports of Advisory Council meeting and plans for the summer lessons.

The honor guest list was of much interest. Mrs. Clinton Blankenbeker, an aunt of the hostess, Mrs. Belle Hutsell, who is the guest of the John Taylors and Mrs. Garfield Slater, who is with the Bakers for a stay comprised this group.

The members present to enjoy this day, this home and the hospitality were: Mesdames Ruth Ross, Ruth Green, Sally Belle Garrison, Lyman Lewis Rice, Clarice Snow, Harv Vest, Jane Sleet, Kitty Taylor, Katherine Baker, Merritt Jack, John Conley, Jake Cleek, Shirley Ferguson, the leaders, the guests and the hostess.

NOTICE TO WHEAT GROWERS

From all reports, we are to have a bumper wheat crop, and with the large carry-over from last year, we may expect a very low market on wheat. In order to realize the most we can, we should utilize as much as possible, in the home and on the farm, by Baking—we save a lot and have better bread—and by having your wheat Processed for Feeding.

To make this convenient for you, you may deposit your wheat with us. We will issue you coupons for wheat thus deposited, at the exchange rate of eight twenty-four-pound sacks of flour for each six bushels of wheat deposited.

These coupons are redeemable at your nearest grocery store; you do not have to come to the mill for flour. Take your coupons, and 5 cents with each coupon, to the nearest grocer and exchange them for Rainbow Flour. Figure the saving out for yourself.

Example—With wheat selling for 80c per bu., flour would retail for 75c a 24-lb. bag. At the above exchange rate you get 8 24-lb. bags of flour for 6 bushels of wheat, and 8 X 75c—$6.00 for 6 bushels of wheat, or $1.00 per bushel, whereas, if you sold your wheat you would realize only $4.80.

A Letter

Desiring at all times to be fair and hoping to be able to present to Boone County people and unbiased opinion as to the merit of the two candidates for United States Senator I desire to correct a statement that appeared in the June 16 issue of The Recorder, I quote: "The Barkley forces are elated that the President would speak in Covington, while the Chandler forces frowned a bit on the idea." The above statement is not in line with the facts, and has a tendency to create the impression that Governor Chandler is not in accord with our President.

There can be no doubt but that Governor Chandler has been, and is, a staunch supporter of President Roosevelt.

It was Governor Chandler who seconded the nomination for Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Presidency in 1932 with a speech.

And it was this same Governor who left Kentucky traveled thousands of miles and spoke in seventeen states supporting his candidacy, he volunteered this help and gave of his time and talent freely.

I have not heard one word of criticism regarding the proposed visit of our President to the State of Kentucky from a single person in charge of the Governor's campaign in Boone County. We will welcome him to Kentucky and listen eagerly to what he has to say, being content to base our campaign on the record of the two candidates for the Senate and let the voters decide the issue. I am,

Respectfully,

JAS. W. HUEY,
Chandler Campaign Chairman,
For Boone Co.

Growers Attend Sheep Meeting

Six Boone County farmers attended the state sheep meeting held at the Experiment Station last Tuesday, June 14th. They were H. E. White, Howard Kelley, Ben Northcutt, J. C. Bedinger, Joel Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ryle and H. R. Forkner, county agent.

Leading sheep authorities speaking on the program gave reports on market lamb improvement being secured withpurebred Southdown and Hampshire rams crossed on crossbred Idaho and Montana western ewes. The western ewes are more hearty than native ewes, give more milk, lamb closer together, shear around 8 pounds of wool per head and produce uniform lambs that top the market at an early age. A year old western ewe can usually be bought for what a good early lamb will bring on the market.

Those attending the meeting reported the meeting both interesting and worthwile. Plans have been made by a large number of Boone County farmers to conduct demonstrations this coming year with western crossbred ewes in comparison with native ewes for the production of a higher quality market lamb.

Three portable limestone crushers and two stationary crushers have been operating in Hart county.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

Senator Barkley opened his campaign in Lexington last week at the "Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders Association" track, in a driving rain that cut the attendance, but did not dampen the ardor his audience, who greeted his numerous references to President Roosevelt with much applause. His speech of more than an hour, took up the phases of Agriculture, Industry, Home Mortgages, bank failures, labor and business, and and the New Deal's treatment of their ailments. He spoke of the Social Security program and its benefits to the aged. He told of the time he over rode the President's veto and voted for the Adjusted Compensation Law for war veterans. He stated that in the last five years, the policies of the New Deal had doubled the income of Agriculture and has added twenty billion a year to the net income of the American People. He announced that he had guided the New Deal program thru the Senate for the last twelve months and that if the people approved of its program, to vote for his return to the Senate in the August primary.

This column is still your reserve seat to the platform battles of the two candidates and next week we will bring you a blow by blow account of Chandler's opening at Hopkinsville.

The Registration and Purgation Law will be enforced in Louisville and Jefferson County.—One hour after the Court of Appeals had departed from the code of practice and issued a mandate, making operative the 1938 law. The law, it is claimed, was aimed primarily at the machine controlled vote in Louisville and Jefferson County, and when it seemed that through technicalities reported in a previous column, that this law would not be effective in Jefferson County for the coming primary, Governor Chandler made a state wide radio address to the voters and threatened to call another Special Session of the Legislature to make the bill effective. The Court of Appeals mandate made this action unnecessary.

A friendly suit was filed last week to see if it was legal to group the various bridge debts into one fund, and pay for them out of one fund secured by combining the revenue from all state toll bridges. The Highway Department, it seems, is still planning on buying the two toll bridges in northern Kentucky at an exorbitant price.

Governor A. B. Chandler, declared last week, he would join the President's train when it came to Kentucky. It is claimed the President's trip is planned to aid the reelection of Senator Barkley. Regardless of this, the Governor chose the wisest course of action. As Governor of Kentucky, he met the President before and accompanied him to Hodgenville. If he failed to meet him this time the people of Kentucky might resent his action, and on the other hand his presence on the train may prevent the President from making speeches for Barkley in the primary race.

Random Shots—John Y. Brown, in introducing Senator Barkley, last week at the Trotting Horse Breedgrs' track at Lexington, stated the race as between a stake horse and a selling plater. We believe it's between two spirited thoroughbreds and will be as exciting to watch as any match race yet run.

Kentucky has its Congressional delegation up for reelection. The House members planning early campaign openings are, Gregory, and Vincent serving their first terms, Creal and O'Neal who have served two terms, May and Spence four terms and Chapman who has served seven and Robison, a Republican who has served eight.

A reporter last week at the Barkley speaking, who has been covering the political speakings in this campaign, summed up the situation very concisely, we think, when he said the only difference between a Barkley speaking and a Chandler speaking was three 000 That Chandler spoke in millions and Barkley in billions.

David M. Porter.

PASTURE CHANGE GOOD FOR STOCK

Possibilities in promoting the health of livestock by frequent change of pasture, is set out in a statement of the department of animal pathology of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. The continuous use of pastures, lots or ranges for the same species of animal causes the land to become heavily contaminated with various kinds of germs and parasites. Fortunately few of the diseases and parasites of animals pass from one species to another. This fact makes it possible to use animal rotation as an aid in controlling diseases and parasites.

Most species of animal parasites will not live in the open for more than two years. It is not practical or necessary to attempt to destroy germs or parasites on pastures, lots or ranges with disinfectants. Sunlight and cultivation or the use of the land for some other species of animal will give the desired results. Pastures that cannot be cultivated should be used for a different species of animal every two years, or used for the production of hay for two years.

The greatest effort should be made to have a clean pasture for young animals. Mares, sows and ewes should be treated for parasites in the fall. As soon as the foals, pigs or lambs are born, the young and their mothers should be placed in fields that have not been used by the same species of animal for the past two years.

FARMERS CAN HELP REDUCE FIRE LOSS

Destruction in rural fires is said to average $400 a minute, a loss which proper precautions might materially reduce, suggests Prof. J. B. Kelley of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. While the farmer must be his own fireman and building inspector, doing a good job might reduce the annual farm fire loss of about $225,000,000.

Suggestions include making roofs of large buildings out of tin or other fire-resistant material. Chimneys need to be kept free of soot. Furnaces, stoves and stovepipes properly installed and inspected regularly reduce a common cause of fires. Old, cracked chimneys often leak sparks. Many fires start in fireplaces poorly constructed or in poor condition.

A system of properly grounded conductors gives protection against lightning. Carelessness in handling lamps and laterns, in disposing of ashes, in storing and handling gasoline and kerosene, and in allowing rubbish to accumulate where it becomes a fire hazard accounts for many farm fires.

In building, closing all open spaces in hollow walls at each floor line of the home keeps a fire from spreading quickly from one story to another. All electrical wiring systems should be installed according to the national code and be carefully inspected as insurance against fire.

The simple matter of keeping ladders handy, buckets to carry water, and fire extinguishers, could avert losses in many farm fires.

Three more things that depend almost wholly on faith are love, political statements and hash.

To hear a woman talk about washing her hair she makes a bigger job out of it than building another Norris dam.

That old saying that you'll always find trouble if you hunt for it also applies to a used automobile.

Maybe the reason so many of the girls have abandoned the bobbed hair mode is that long hair does offer a little more protection when you go through a windshield.

A BEAUTY HINT

Nightly brushing is the best known treatment for hair which is dull, lifeless, too dry or too oily. The girl who uses her hairbrush every day won't know anything about scalp and hair problems. Remember that water is plentiful, and soap is cheap.

The road to heaven is straight enough, but you'll notice a lot of people wobbling along the way.

CHANDLER WILL OPEN CAMPAIGN AT HOPKINSVILLE

Louisville, Ky., June 21—A sweeping four-day drive through the first and second congressional districts will reach a climax Saturday when Governor A. B. Chandler formally opens his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate in Hopkinsville.

Plans for a political rally in the Christian county seat which is expected to attract thousands of the Governor's supporters from every section of the State, but particularly from the first and second districts, are already complete.

Governor Chandler in his Hopkinsville address is expected to lay down the issues along which he intends to wage his campaign.

A State-wide radio hookup to broadcast the Governor's speech has been arranged. Six stations have arranged to carry the Governor's address to every section of the State. The stations which will carry the Governor's address are WHAS, Louisville; WLW, Cincinnati; WSM, Nashville; WNOX, Knoxville; WPAD, Paducah and WGBF, Evarsville. The radio time of the speech will be from 1:30 o'clock to 2:30 o'clock Central Standard Time.

Motorcades and special trains will carry Chandler supporters to the Hopkinsville party. More than 100 counties are expected to be represented on the grounds when the speaking begins. Frederick A. Wallis, Commissioner of Public Welfare will preside at the meeting and introduce the Governor.

Central Kentucky supporters of the Governor will ride a special train which will originate in Lexington and Frankfort. A second train will originate in Covington. and another in Louisville, to transport those of Northern Kentucky, while a third special will operate out of Paducah to benefit the first congressional district.

Preparations to accomodate a crowd of 10,000 persons have been made, and a lunch, ice cream and soft drinks will be served on the grounds by the Christian County Democrats who are promoting the affair in honor of Governor Chandler. With his formal opening speed behind him, Governor Chandler is expected to begin an extensive campaign throughout the State, which will require him to make three and four speeches daily. —Pol. Adv.

Junior Week Is Huge Success

Junior Week, which was held at the University of Kentucky, was probably the best Junior Week ever held for 4-H club boys and girls, according to Wallace Ryle. Everyone enrolled Monday and special tours were made by those who wished. Monday night at the Memorial Building all were welcomed to the University campus by T. C. Ecton and Frank L. McVey. Singing was led by Mr. Geo. Campbell morning and evening all week.

Tuesday morning the boys were divided into four groups which were led by different county agents from day to day. The girls were divided the same way being led by the home demonstration agents. Tuesday morning we were taught a few things about electricity on the farm by P. B. Hess. Later in the morning we took a tour of the orchards on which W. W. MacGill told us quite a few interesting pointers about orcharding. In the afternoon we were taught the main points in grading tobacco by Mr. Frazee Hart. Night vesper services were conducted by Rev. George O'Bryan.

Wednesday morning we judged sheep and beef cattle. The beef cattle judging was under the supervision of Professor Good and Dr. Garrigus. We were taught a few things about handling sheep, especialy catching and setting the sheep up. We were taught under the supervision of R. C. Miller. sheep specialist. Wednesday night a large garden party as held on the college campus which was put on under the fine work of Dr. Statie Erikson and staff.

Thursday morning we met at the memorial building and we were expecting Gov. A. B. Chandler, but due to a business meeting he was unable to be there. He sent Lieut. Governor Keen Johnson, who gave us a fine address. Later in the morning we were given a lecture by Dr. Clark about "Books every 4-H member should read." The talk was probably the best heard on the campus. Mr. Clark is the author of several books. In the afternoon we judged pigs and dairy cows. The pig judging was under the supervision of Professor Ely. We saw a Holstein cow weighing about 1500 pounds and giving approximately ten gallons of milk a day. We also saw a Jersey bull weighing about 1400 pounds. The Jersey cows were smooth and beautiful, most of them being offspring of this big bull. In the evening we were entertained in Memorial Hall by the Robertson County 4-H clubs. They put on a three- act comedy, entitled "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer."

Friday morning we took a tour of the library and museum under the supervision of Mr. Young and Mrs. King, respectively. In the afternoon each county group took a tour where ever they chose. The Boone County group took a tour through several stock farms and through the narcotic farm under the supervision of Jack Dye and Mary Hood Gillaspie.

Saturday morning everybody set off for home having had a wonderful trip which taught us more in one week than we could have learned at home in two months.

Wallace Sutton Ryle,
prdes. of Hamilton 4-H Club

BICYCLES TO BE GIVEN AWAY BY DALTON STORE

Dalton's, 620 Madison Avenue, Covington, announces that two De Luxe Bicycles will be given away. Each person who purchases any sportswear or beachwear item will be given a coupon. Further particulars will gladly be given by any of Dalton's clerks.

"Shopping in Dalton's sportswear department pays double dividends," is the very apt way the popular manager, Dave Liebschutz, puts it. The bicycles are now in Dalton's show windows.

Shoppers find Dalton's a pleasant retreat from the heat, as the store has a modern air-conditioning plant.

Why shouldn't a women be allowed to go through her husband's pockets when a congressman is permitted to do the same thing?

You can always tell a professional politician. When his foot slips and he gets in hot water he always blames the newspapers for misquoting him.

THE MAN WHO KEPT HIS PROMISE TO THE PEOPLE in the annals of Kentucky politics for a public official to make good ALL his campaign promises—but that's what our present Governor, Happy Chandler, has done.

IT'S UNIQUE

IT'S UNBELIEVEABLE

that Kentucky has risen, in two brief years, from the bottom of the Sisterhood of States to the top, in the matter of caring for her unfortunates—but that's what Happy Chandler has brought about.

IT'S IMPOSSIBLE to question truth of the statement that more has been done toward giving Kentucky a real State Highway program in the last two years than in all the history of the State before Happy Chandler took hold at Frankfort.

IT'S AMAZING

what can be accomplished in public office by a courageous, honest, right-minded young man who has the welfare of the whole people at heart, who works day and night to accomplish his purpose—but the record in Kentucky during the last two years speaks aloud to the world.

IT'S OBVIOUS

that Kentucky and the nation need such a man in the United States Senate.

Send Happy Chandler There

CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED

BY CHANDLER AT HOPKINSVILLE SATURDAY; GOVERNOR SCORES BARKLEY'S RECORD IN OPENING SPEECH.

Gov. A. B. Chandler launched his senatorial campaign at Hopkinsville Saturday with a vigorous attack on his opponent, incumbent Alben W. Barkley, and a pledge to bring greater benefits to Kentuckians if he is elected.

The governor declared himself as a strong supporter of President Roosevelt as Senator Barkley, pitted his record against his opponent's, and declared "the real issue is which of us will render the best service for all of the people of Kentucky as United States Senator."

Welfare Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis, referring in his introductory address to the governor as in line for the Presidency, estimated the crowd at 35,000. Police and city officials' estimates ranged from 18,000 up.

Chandler avowed that since he became governor the state debt of "approximately $28,000,000" has been reduced to approximately $6-500,000 and will be completely paid by Nov. 1, 1939.

He said the debt reduction had been effected by "complete and effective reorganization of the state government and by strict economy."

The governor held to his prepared address mainly, omitting a part toward the end because his allotted radio time was expiring. His address was carried over several broadcasting stations.

NEW LICENSE LAW EFFECTIVE JULY 1

NEW SAFETY MEASURE TECHNICALLY IN EFFECT NOW—OLD LICENSE EXPIRES AUGUST 1.

The new system of licensing Kentucky automobile drivers, set up by the legislature this year, will be put into operation about July 1, the Department of Revenue announced today. The new safety measure is technically in effect now, spokesmen for the Department explained, since the law took effect June 1st, but as far as the public is concerned, operation will start with the renewal of old licenses.

All 1937-'38 drivers' licenses expire August 1. Those operators who now hold them, and who apply for new ones before August 1, will go through a much simpler routine than in previous years, officials of the Department said. They will merely go to the Circuit Court Clerk, sign a simple statement that the information given in the original application made a year ago still holds good, pay the fee of a dollar, and exchange the old license for a new one. Circuit Court clerks should be ready to receive renewal application by July 1.

Drivers who put off getting new licenses now, will be handled like new drivers. The Circuit Court Clerks will lask them to fill out a complete application form and, upon payment of the fee, they will be given a temporary receipt. Their application will be sent to the Department at Frankfort for checking, the receipt entitling them to drive in the meantime. Licenses then will go directly to the applicant by mail.

As part of the modernization of the licensing procedure, the Department announced it will assign a permanent identifying license number to each driver. This will appear on the new permit cards and will be the same as that on the 1937-'38 license for drivers who renew. Members of the Department explained this will enable them to check more closely upon the driving career of each licensee in addition to cutting down the cost of handling records. Another part of the new system is a change of color each year. The 1938-'39 renewals and new licenses will be blue.

According to the Department's announcement, the changes in Kentucky's license act bring it into closer conformance with the type recommended by the National Safety Council and other leading agencies. Among bordering states which have similar laws, are Indiana, Virginia and Tennessee.

57,255 POUNDS WOOL SOLD

THROUGH BOONE COUNTY WOOL ASSOCIATION—$13,546.62 PAID GROWERS—SABLE AND SONS PURCHASE CLIP.

Boone County wool growers the past week sold 57,255 pounds of wool through the county wool pool for a total of $13,547.62. The clear wool, consisting of 54,026 pounds, netted growers 24 cents per pound, while 3,229 pounds of rejection wool brought growers 18 cents per pound.

M. Sable and Sons, of Louisville were the successful buyers of the county pool. The clip was delivered by growers at three convenient points as follows: 24,053 pounds at Walton on Tuesday, 21,599 pounds at Burlington on Wednesday and 11,603 pounds at Petersburg on Thursday.

Harve L. McGlasson, of Burlington, R. 1, was reported the largest producer selling through the pool this year. He sold 639 pounds of wool. Among other large producers at Burlington and Petersburg were R. B. Huey with 588 pounds and B. C. Gaines with 528 pounds. Records on producers delivering at Walton were not available in the county office at this time.

The wool crop this year weighed light, according to H. E. White, president and Lillard Scott, secretary of the county pool. The quality of the wool was reported by the buyer to be extra good with a few exceptions. More growers each year are hiring their sheep shearing done by men using clipping machines. In a number of instances these men had not taken the care in tagging and handling the wool as used in former years. The pool strongly recommends greater care be used in order that all growers may receive a higher pice for better quality.

Don't miss this big dance, as it will be one of the best this year. Admission 50c per person.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Cook and family, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ryle and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cook spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Withers, of Paris, Ky. Miss Marie Withers returned home with them to spend the week.

23,000 ACRES ALLOTED

1417 FARMS IN BOONE COUNTY BY ACP COMMITTEES—WORK COMPLETED MONDAY, ACCORDING TO COUNTY AGENT.

The Boone County ACP Committees completed on Monday of this week the adjustment of general soil depleting bases on 1417 farms, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The county base on these crops is 23,800 acres which is divided among the various farms in proportion to past and intended production for 1938.

There is no payment for reduction in general soil depleting crops including corn, wheat, oats, rye, barley, etc., when cut for grain or hay. There is a deduction of $4.00 per acre when the base set for the farm is exceeded. The committees attempted to adjust bases as near as possible on intended 1938 production based on past acreage production history for the farm. Tobacco comes under a special base and is not included in the general soil depleting crop base.

Twenty-Five Attend Coke Demonstration

Twenty-five farmers attended a demonstration on burning Petroleum coke given by Myers G. Lowman at Burlington last Monday, June 27th. Mr. Lowman successfully demonstrated that Petroleum coke can be burned in ground pits three feet long, one foot wide and one foot deep. No stoves or extra equipment were required.

Coke heat, to regulate the cure of high quality tobacco, is a point of much interest among tobacco growers in the county, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The two great hold backs to the wide adoption of the new coke curing process has been lack of knowledge on practical use and the expense of coke stoves. Mr. Lowman's demonstration showed that no extra equipment was needed and reported that most farmers had been able to get a satisfactory cure with 500 pounds of Petroleum coke per acre which costs at the present time $8.00 per ton at the Latonia Oil Refinery.

The greatest problem for farmers will be to secure this type of coke when they need it this fall. Petroleum Coke is a by-product of oils and only a limited supply is available. All farmers expecting to use this type of coke are urged to secure their supply immediately from the Latonia Oil Refinery, the only local source for Petroleum Coke. The limited supply is being rapidly sold to farmers and dealers in Central Kentucky.

E. G. STEPHENSON IS APPOINTED

AS MANAGER OF NEW TELEPHONE SYSTEM — CONSOLIDATED COMPANY TAKES OVER IRVINE LINE.

E. G. Stephenson, manager of the Boone County Telephone system for the past several years, left last week for Irvine, Ky., to take up his duties there as manager of another telephone system which was recently taken over by the Consolidated Telephone Company of Boone County.

Mr. Stephenson will move to Irvine to make his home, just as soon as he is able to dispose of his property here. He is at present making his headquarters at the Broadway Hotel at Irvine, and his wife is living here.

Due to the good record that Mr. Stephenson has made here, as telephone manager, is one of the major reasons for his appointment as manager of the new branch, company officials stated. Boone County patrons are not only receiving the best service in years, but the entire system has been put on an efficient and up-to-date working scale.

Mr. Stephenson will continue his duties as manager of the Boone County branch, and will probably be here one day each week until the new line is put in A-1 condition. After that his time will be divided equally between the two places.

During Mr. Stephenson's absence Lee Wilson, Walton, has been placed in charge of the Boone County lines, and Fannie Utz will be in charge of the county operators.

YOUR COUNTRY AND MINE

One hundred and fifty-two years ago our learned forefathers saw the need of establishing this nation under the banner of democracy and for the love of liberty and justice, not for one but the privileges of all men blessed by the rights of American citizens. Sometimes we fail to consider the significance of the day in our more natural desire to consider how and where to spend it. As isolated as some folks may be in regard to habitation they cannot be unaware of the strife and distress in the majority of nations due to fights for liberty and civil rights. Many of our own people at one time called these nations their home.

We live in the shadow of a tri-colored flag beset with stars and realize the meaning of democracy. We have the privilege of developing our intelligence and our business. We pray to keep our homes, our churches and schools, public welfare institutions, and our God-given right—the ballot-box, all of these going to make up our measure of freedom. The Fourth of July, the birthday of the greatest nation in the world! History shows us that there is a constant struggle on the part of millions of men and women merely for a right to earn a decent living. Of course we have national problems and there are discrepencies in government we may criticise, but that always holds true in matters of state. There are certain rights we maintain through the Declaration of Independence that are unquestionable and will be supported by all of us who call this nation home. People in Boone County pledge again their support of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." This government of free people has grown in wealth and power since the signing of our independence and will continue to do so. It was John Adams who said, "We shall make this a glorious, an immortal day. When we are in our graves, our children will honor it. They will celebrate it with thanksgiving, with festivity, with bonfires and illuminations. On its annual return they will shead tears, copious gushing tears; not of subjection and slavery, not of agony and distress, but of exultation, of gratitude and of joy."

THIEVING GYPSIES

It hasn't been much more than a quarter of a century ago when roving bands of old-world Latins spent their time wandering over this country, telling fortunes by the palm of the hand. They traveled in small bands of from six to fifty and in wagons so much along the same type as the auto trailers of today that many of the old patterns are being copied. Their trade was that of swapping and buying and selling horses, though often after they had passed on a tell-tale pile of chicken feathers, roasting-ear hulls, or the polished bons of young porkers, showed they had made the neighboring farms the victim of their main art—thievery.

Changing method of transportation from the gypsy wagon to the auto did not halt the wandering. They merely dug deeper into purses, when money was necessary and bought the best makes of autos and continued their explorations and depredations. It's hard to believe their stories so bold has become their theiving into every section. The men apply themselves to auto trade and parts racket, while the women, and many families can attest, march on a town and its stores, though farm houses are their easiest victims. It is a different story than the gypsies of a half-century ago, gypsies who were gypsies and not thieves.

AN UNSAFE SPOT

Several deaths reported from lightning in neighboring counties this spring, and always the fear to be found in the average man's eyes in a storm that he may be next, recalls a bit of expert advice along that line received many years ago. It was never to seek the protection of a shade tree off alone by itself in a rainstorm accompanied by heavy lighting. Today high-current wires cross the country at far more frequent intervals than ever before, so more are bound to fall. Always make it a fast rule to warn the children of the dangers and locations of this type of wire and give all new neighbors and hired men in the neighborhood the same advice. Keep a careful watch for sagging or broken wires along highways, especially little by-ways, on a dark rainy night that is accompanied by an electrical storm. This information and suggestions, can be easily remembered. But they are too valuable to forget or overlook, so make good use of them.

THE FISH HOG

Now that their brothers have retired to fall and winter quarters, the fish hog is left on the scene by the absence of the road hog and the game hog to grab all the glory. Unless it might be the roadhog, and no power on earth can rid the human race of him. When the fish hog, who slaugthers just to see how many he can catch, or refuses to throw back those of illegal size, will retire from the scene, no one can tell fishing is probably the most popular of all outdoor sports, and is entitled to greater protection than it ever had. As the conservation forces must now operate they will continue to be imposed upon. About the chief hope right now, we are told, is that a few sparks of sporting decency find their way to the hearts of the fish hogs and that they return to the days of good old honest sport, and fish clean. And even that seems too much to hope for.

THE NEWSY SEASON, TOO

Not only is this period of the year a busy one in all sections of the country, but it is due to become even more so, since the farther along the summer gets the more running around the people will do, with the peak of their activities yet several weeks away. And while we are on the subject here is a good place for us to stick in our oar. We are going, we hope, to continue just as busy as anyone else, but in our business we can always find time to step over to the edge of the sidewalk and hear what it is you want to tell us about having some visitors or a party or family reunion at your house, and also where it is members of the family are visiting. The few moments we rest while thus engaged is good for both of us, and the whole community will be glad to get the news you imparted. Start tomorrow at the latest, and make it a practice to halt us and give us the little social items that are new to you, about your visitors, your family and your friends. It's also good to have a word now and then of how some ailing neighbor is getting along. Easy? Easy as falling off a log—and never a better time than tomorrow to start it into practice.

PARAGRAPHS

Love is said to make the world go round—but for that matter so does a bum grade of liquor.

Some people want the roads made safer for drivers, but accidents causes would most often lead to the belief that it's the drivers who need to be made safer for the roads.

A woman spends a great deal of attention powdering her nose, but about the only time a man's nose gets special attention is when some other fellow hits it.

This day in time few girls ever seek to extinguish the spark of love as long as the fellow they are in love with has money to burn.

About the only way the man who talks about himself can get an attentive audience is to do his talking to himself.

It is astonishing how ready a man is even to pay a debt when he finds that a portion of it is owing to himself.

The auto has been with us for about 30 years now, and yet a lot of people still buy one before they discover that they can't afford it.

Our advice to the housewife starting out to buy a chicken is to bear in mind that the good die young.

Lesson for July 3

A CHOICE OF LOYALTIES

LESSON TEXT—Joshua 1:2-6; 24:14-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord. Joshua 24:15.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Choosing Sides.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Loyal Leader.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Choice of Loyalties.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Man's Highest Allegiance.

"Lives of great men all remind us," according to the poet, that we too may make our lives sublime, and thus leave our footprints in the shifting sands of time. The study of biography is interesting, instructive, and often challenging. When we enter the field of Bible biography we bring into consideration an additional and fundamental factor, namely, the power and grace of God working in and through a surrendered life. All strength of character and ability is a gift of God, but its glory is largely veiled and its usefulness definitely limited, if not actually perverted, because there is no recognition of the foundation of true greatness, which is faith in and loyalty to God.

During the next three months we are to share in the study of the life stories of great men and women which will not only stimulate ambitions, but which also reveal what God can do through those who are ready to follow Him.

Moses, God's great leader for Israel, having brought them out of the land of bondage and through the terrible wilderness, is about to leave them. God's workman is about to die, but His work is to go on. God is not taken by surprise.

I. A Prepared Man Takes Command (1:3-6).

"Moses is dead; now therefore arise." Life is like that. "The king is dead; long live the king," is the cry of those who live under monarchies, as one ruler dies and his successor takes over the throne. Until that day when there shall be "time no longer," men must put away their sorrow and go on. Three words characterize the commission.

1. Promise (vv. 2-4). God gave the land to Israel. Every place that Joshua planted his foot upon was to be his possession, even as God has promised Moses. A river lay between; there were walled and armed cities to be taken; there were even giants in the land, but God promised it to Joshua; and he took it by faith.

God has given us many promises, too. If we are fearful, poverty-stricken, powerless Christians, it is because we do not believe God.

2. Power (v. 5). No man is able to stand against God's servant who is doing God's will, in God's way, in God's time. It was true of Joshua; it is true today. Men set up their opposition to God's plan and program with the assumed belief that because they have position, power, or money, they can readily crush the poor little band of Christian workers. Russia tried it. They even "abolished" God. But religion thrives in Russia, secretly perhaps, but none the less sincerely and successfully.

3. Courage (v. 6). To serve God means to be assured of His help. Faith lays hold of that fact and the whole man becomes courageous.

II. An Experienced Man Gives Counsel (24:14-21).

More than two decades have passed since the appointment of Joshua to lead Israel. God has fulfilled every promise. Israel is in the Promised Land. Before the aged leader dies he calls the leaders of his people together to urge them to continue in the way of faith and loyalty to God. This he does by:

1. Example (v. 15). "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." No man can honestly and effectively call others to devotion to the Lord unless he sets them an example.

2. Instruction (vv. 16-19). Remembering God's dealings with them, the people declare their determination to serve the Lord. They spoke rather glibly. Joshua instructs them. God is not interested in lip service. He does not need them so much as they need Him. He does not look upon their confession of Him, if they continue to live in sin.

3. Warning (v. 20). God will visit His judgment on His people if they forsake Him and turn away—such is Joshua's warning. We who look back to the history of Israel know that they did forsake Him, and that the judgment of God is still upon them. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap" (Gal. 6:7) is God's warning through Paul to the Christian.

Be a Torch-Bearer

The poorest can be God's torch-bearer as well as the richest. The little candle may do more good in the world than the flaming beacon.

Giving Up Faults

Most people do not mind their faults being spread out before them. But they become impatient if called upon to give them up.—Goethe.

Living

He lives long that lives well, and time misspent is not lived, but lost.

"BARKLEY FOR SENATOR NOTES"

Sponsored by BARKLEY CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

Acceptance by Dr. B. F. Wright, of Seco, Letcher county, of the state chairmanship of the speaker's bureau for Senator Alben W. Barkley's campaign for re-election was announced June 22 by Shackelford Miller, Jr., state campaign chairman.

A statement by Dr. Wright, who was a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor in 1935, explained that he is supporting Senator Barkley because his re-election is important for the welfare of the nation, the state and the Democratic party also was released by Mr. Miller. In addition, he made public a list of speaking engagements which have been scheduled for Senator Barkley.

This week Senator Barkley is in Washington, winding up details of his duties there and making arrangements for President Roosevelt's visit to Kentucky on July 8, when he will impress upon Kentuckians his interest in Senator Barkley's re-election. Barkley will return here Saturday morning. He is scheduled to make 3 speeches that day: at Elizabethtown at 2 p. m.; 4 p. m. at Upton, in Larue county; and at 7:30 p. m. at Munfordville, in Hart county. Former Congressman John Young Brown, of Lexington, will deliver two addresses for Senator Barkley on Saturday: at 1:30 p. m. at Monticello, Wayne county, and at 7:30 p. m. at Somerset, Pulaski county.

Dr. Wright's statement follows: "I have accepted the chairmanship of the speakers' bureau for Senator Barkley's campaign because I believe that it is the duty of every Kentuckian interested in the promotion of good government and in continuing the advancements made in the state and the nation under the administration of President Roosevelt to assist in returning this great Kentuckian to the U. S. Senate.

"I was an ardent supporter of Governor A. B. Chandler when he made the race for Governor in 1935. In fact, although I was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant-Governor at the same time. I devoted as much time talking for Chandler as I did for myself. I made four radio addresses in his behalf. He had my complete support in the primary in August, 1935, in the run-off primary in September, in which he was opposed by Thomas S. Rhea, and in the final election in November. I supported Chandler because I believed him when he pledged the people that he would seek to operate the state government economically and efficiently, and would abolish machine politics and its evils in the state government. I am sorry to say that he has not kept those campaign promises. In fact, the very campaign tactics which he criticized and attacked so harshly in 1935 are now being used by him and his campaign organization more flagrantly and viciously than ever before in the history of Kentucky. He is making a campaign based on promises which he knows he cannot carry out, and is angling for the support of Republicans and enemies of President Roosevelt, while at the same time attempting to deceive friends of the President into believing that he is his friend.

"One of the reasons I am supporting Senator Barkley is because his qualifications and experience fit him admirably for the position of United States Senator. I also am for him because of his support of the administration of President Roosevelt and the further fact that he is a Democrat without question, and has always been loyal to the party. If, by any chance, Senator Barkley is defeated, the economic royalists of the East will seize upon the defeat as an indication that the people of Kentucky are against President Roosevelt. The Democrats of Kentucky should not permit that to happen."

Dr. Wright was a member of the House of the Kentucky General Assembly at the 1932 and 1933 sessions, as Representative from Letcher and Perry counties.

A speaking schedule for Senator Barkley has been arranged through July 11, with from two to four speeches scheduled for each day. The schedule follows:

Thursday, June 30, Scottsville, 1:30 p. m., Franklin 7:30 p. m.; Friday July 1, Dixon 10 a. m., Providence 4:30 p. m., Madisonville 7:30 p. m.; Saturday, July 2, St. Charles (Carlisle county) 10:30 a. m., Backusburg (Calloway county) 1:00 p. m. Mayfield 2:30 p. m.; Monday, July 4, Sturgis 10 a. m., Central City 1 p. m., Owensboro 3 p. m., Louisville 8 p. m.; Tuesday, July 5, Shepherdsville 1 p. m., Taylorsville 3 p. m.; Thursday, July 7, New Castle 1 p. m., Bedford 3 p. m., Carrollton 7:30 p. m.; Friday, July 8, with President on special train; Monday, July 11, Hindman 10:30 a. m., Jackson 1:30 p. m., Campton 4 p. m., Irvine 7:30 p. m.

LADIES, KEEP YOUR SHOES ON OR SEE A DOCTOR

By N. TULCH
AT PEOPLES' FOOT COMFORT (SHOE STORE)

If a man had a "Worms-Eye View" under the theatre seats he might see a forest of limbs with a surprising number of women's shoes in various positions half or completely off the feet. They have been shed noiselessly because with practice they can be nudged off and wriggled into again without using the hands. Foot doctors agree this is worse than bad manners—It's a sign of bad health.

Science finds there are 73 ailments of the feet and 22 of them come mostly from badly shaped shoes . . . "Kidney Feet" are aptly named, and there are even "drunkard's feet."

When a diabetic patient says: "My feet are killing me," he, or mostly like she, because the majority of foot sufferers are women, may be telling the unexagerated truth. Many diabetics are actually killed by their feet. The reason is that the diabetics' circulation is poor and the feet being the furtherest from the heart as well as the lowest and therefore hardest to pump back from, are the poorest served of any part of the body.

The average person walks 65,000 miles from the cradle to the grave, or the equvalent to about two and one-half times around the world.

Don't take chances with your health and happiness. Since our feet are so important go where schooled men can definitely help you, and assure you absolute foot comfort.

We've never been able to understand why women as pretty as those in the washing machine ads can't marry men who are able to hire the washing done.

"CHANDLER FOR SENATOR NOTES"

Sponsored By CHANDLER CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

Louisville, Ky—With the speech formally opening his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate at Hopkinsville, Saturday, behind him, Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler began to kindle the "Home Fires" in his own district.

For the week, beginning Monday, June 27, John Kirtley, Chairman of the Chandler Campaign Committee's Speakers Bureau, has billed the Governor for eighteen engagements in 6 days, nine of them to be made in the sixth, his home district. The remaining nine speeches will be made in the eighth, fourth and ninth districts.

NEW LICENSES MUST BE OBTAINED BY FRIDAY, JULY 1ST

Frankfort, Ky., June 28—Department of Revenue officials announced today that 413 retail liquor licenses and approximately 2,000 retail beer licenses had been issued for the fiscal year beginning July 1. It was indicated by the Department of Revenue that several hundred applicants for liquor licenses had been unable to comply with the 1938 Alchoholic Beverage Control Law.

All persons allowed to buy, sell, transport, or otherwise traffic in alcoholic beverages must have a new 1938-39 license posted in their place of business July 1, Mr. Martin announced.

The law provides that any person buying or selling spirits, wine, or beer without a license may be subject to a maximum fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for 5 years. In addition, the license of any distiller, brewer, or wholesaler may be revoked for selling spirits, wine, or beer to an unlicensed wholesaler or retailer, as the case may be.

The law makes it the duty of sheriff,s constables, policemen, and other peace officers to enforce on and after July 1 the provision of the law forbidding unlicensed liquor and beer dispensaries to display or sell any alcoholic beverages.

ACCOUNT NUMBERS REQUIRED

Students who will work in commerce or industry during the summer vacation should obtain Social Security numbers before seeking employment. This announcement is made by Frank B. Decker, Jr., Manager of the Social Security Field Office in Covington, Kentucky, serving the counties of Boone, Bracken, Pendleton, Campbell, Grant, Gallatin, and Kenton. Temporary and part time work in commerce and industry is covered by Social Security, Mr. Decker said. He added that many employers now refuse to hire workers until the latter are able to produce a Social Security Account Number Card.

Mr. Decker also advised that persons who have lost their Social Security Account Cards should apply at once for duplicates. The same form that is used in obtaining the original account number cards is used when duplicates are sought. The only difference is that in applying for a duplicate the applicant should state that the original card has been lost or destroyed and should give the name of the place where the original application was filed, and the number originally assigned if it is known, Mr. Decker said.

This day in time a few men are good for goodness sake, but most of them because they are married and have to be.

GIVES HISTORY OF TOBACCO MARKETING

The fiftieth annual report of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station says that beginning in 1785, tobacco produced in Kentucky was prized into hogsheads on the farm and shipped by boat to New Orleans for sale. While markets were established in Kentucky as early as 1825, New Orleans continued to be the most important market for Kentucky tobacco until about 1860.

Selling methods gradually changed until about 1900, when farmers sold their tobacco loose in the barn to dealers who prized and shipped it to central markets. Early in the twentieth century, large buying interests began making purchases directly from farmers rather than from local dealers. Circumstances attending this change, along with a decline in tobacco prices, stimulated a movement among farmers for organized selling which continued from 1903 to 1914.

Organizations of this period were largely overhead selling agencies for collective bargaining in which marketing function such as financing and the physical handling of products were performed by private agencies. The cooperative organization supervised sales and bargained for rates to be changed in financing, insuring, storing and handling the crop. Laws governing cooperative associations and membership contracts were not well developed. Consequently, a simple one-year contract with no penalty provisions was employed.

Tobacco was not commingled and title remained with the grower rather than passing to the organization. Settlement was made between the buyer and the grower with the association supervising the transaction. The outbreak of the World War and the widespread adoption of looseleaf auction selling brought this period of cooperative marketing to a close.

THE SEWING ROOM

A woman reader unusually handy with her needle tells how she made slip covers of burlap. "I needed a new day-bed covering," she says, "which is in use every day. Cretonne covering wears out so quickly, so I decided to try something else. I had on hand a collection of burlap sacks, so I decided to sew them together and dye them. You'd be surprised the story—and attractive—slip covers I have produced in this manner."

KITCHEN KINKS

Wash wooden utensils in slightly soapy warm water, rinse well and dry immediately. Letting them soak a long time discolors them . . . To prevent eggs cracking in boiling water dip them first in cold water . . . No jelly needs to be boiled longer than five minutes after sugar is added. Long cooking darkens any kind of jelly.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

We present another act in the play "Politics" on the stage Kentucky—Actors Barkley and Chandler have started their duel and they slashed and hacked with verbal swords before large audiences, last week, who cheered them on.

Governor A. B. Chandler, who has been campaigning over the State for many weeks, had his formal opening at Hopkinsville last Saturday, before an estimated crowd of 30,000 people. The theme of his opening address was to refute Barkley's campaign address of the week before when Barkley intimated that a vote for him was a vote for the New Deal and a vote against him showed disapproval of the New Deal and its policies.

Governor Chandler said the issues of the campaign should be based on the records of the two candidates and that no person should build their campaign on the records of the President or the Democratic Party. Chandler said he was not opposing the President but Senator Barkley and that, although he had been criticized for advocating a reduction of Federal expenditures, reorganization of the Federal Government and balancing of the Federal budget, that this could not be held against him or taken as criticism of the President, as the President had repeatedly advocated each of those things.

Governor Chandler stated that his criticism of the wages of the W. P. A. workers in Kentucky would bring them an increase in pay. He censored Senator Barkley for voting to give a moratorium on war debts foreign nations owe us. He pledged himself to insist upon the United States requiring each nation to pay their debts and to apply those payments on the National debt.

Chandler called attention to his record as Governor and asked the people to vote for him on this record.

On the same day at Elizabethtown Senator Barkley returned to his old form and started the fireworks. Over half his speech was devoted to a verbal lashing of his opponent. He said the issues of the campaign are not whether I have been in Europe, while someone else (Govrnor Chandler) has been sailing in the Caribbean Sea, in Louisiana, or is it likely the outcome will turn on the fact I have sojourning in Mexico, or visiting drawn my salary while I have been in Congress.

He further stated, I can remember a campaign for Governor not so long ago, when a candidate went up and down the State, promising that if he were elected no road employes would be assessed to run his political campaigns.

Senator commented on the size of the old age pension checks and a little later in his speech imitating the voice and delivery of Commissioner Frederick Wallis, he said I understand that a distinguished Kentuckian is feeding the multitude down at Hopkinsville today, with sandwiches put up at the Hospital for the insane.

Random Shots—Sixty two thousand W. P. A. workers will receive approximately $700,000, more a month in wages as a result of an order given by President Roosevelt. Governor Chandler had criticised Kentucky's W. P. A. wage classification and his criticism may have brought this about. It will put undue hardships on the farmers of Kentucky who will have to compete with this wage scale in securing farm labor. The plan of the Highway Department to purchase two bridges at Cincinnati died a painful death last week from a decision of the Court of Appeals that ruled it was not legal to group all the bridges under one bond issue. This decision will save the taxpayers of Kentucky some millions od dollars as related in a previous issue of this column . . . Walking Munn Wilson issued an invitation to Senator Barkley and Governor Chandler to attend a coffee and doughnut breakfast of his, the morning of the day Wallis gave a luncheon for Chandler and Barkley was guest at a dinner that night.

"Walking Munn" said if they ran against each other there would be a lot of mud slinging and in any event it would be bad for the Democratic Party. He said at their conference over the coffee and doughnuts at his breakfast they might iron out their differences and it would be best for all concerned. Munn may have been right.

GAYETY THEATER NEWS

Saturday, "Crashing Hollywood"
Sunday and Monday, "Everybody Sing"
Wednesday and Thursday, July 6 and 7th, "Tarzan's Revenge."

"Everybody Sing" is a riotous farce dealing with the life and household of a temperamental playwright, his equally temperamental wife and their stage-struck daughters, chef and maid. The youngest daughter, Judy Garland, expelled from school for obstinately "swing" classical music, arrives home to find her mother and father wranging over a new play and the attention her mother, Billie Burke, is showing the leading man, Reginald Gardiner. She conspires with the singing chef, Allan Jones, and the stage-struck maid, Fannie Brice, to put on a show. Her sister, Lynne Carver, in love with Jones, is in on the plot. The parents' show fails to open and Judy's show saves the family fortunes.

No "doubles" were needed for Glenn Morris and Eleanor Holm, world-famous athletes, in "Tarzan's Revenge," Twentieth Century Fox release of the Edgar Rice Burroughs jungle drama which will be shown at the Gayety Wednesday and Thursday, July 6th and 7, in which the co-stars are the center of a constant succession of thrilling adventures. Both act as their own stunt-men for many daring scenes.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Hot Potato Salad: Left-over potatoes can be saved for hot German potato salad. If desired, bits of left-over ham or hard-cooked egg can also be added for additional flavor in the dish. For 6 persons 6 potatoes are needed. Pan broil four slices of bacon. Chop one onion and saute in the hot bacon fat. Heat ¼ cup of water, ¼ cup of vinegar, 1 teaspoon of sugar, ½ teaspoon of salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Add to the onion mixture. Add the minced bacon and combine with the potatoes. Heat and serve hot.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

If sheets are hung on the line dripping wet the weight of the water pulls them down and removes most of the wrinkles . . . . Flour and sugar are very sensitive to moisture. They should be kept in covered containers and always kept in a dry place . . . When making iron or pot holders, put a layer of leather from an old glove through the center, and the holder will never cause burned fingers.

State Gives Up Idea Of Buying Two Bridges

The state has abandoned the idea of buying the Covington-Cincinnati Suspension bridge and the Newport-Cincinnati Central Bridge Highway Commission Robert Humphries announced last week.

Immediate consummation of the deal, involving payment of $5,000,000 for the Suspension bridge and $2,500,000 for the Central bridge, was prevented by the Court of Appeals on Thursday.

The court temporarily restrained the state from grouping the suspension and Central spans with two it already owns in a single bond issue to finance the transaction.

The commissioner, in a written statement, contended it was "absolutely false that the bridges have been offered cheaper in the past."

Glenn Moore of Covington, petitioning Franklin Circuit Court Thursday to enjoin the purchase, asserted the Suspension bridge was not worth more than $3,000,000 at most.

OCCUPATIONAL LICENSES DUE FRIDAY, JULY 1

According to James W. Martin, Commisioner of Revenue, all occupational licenses are due July 1 and if not paid by that time a penalty is now imposed by statute upon any person now in business who fails to pay his license tax before July 1.

The occupational license taxes payable to the county court clerks are those on wholesalers and jobbers of cigarettes ($50.00); retail dealers in cigarettes ($10.00); Restaurants ,$10.00); retail dealers in somt drinks and or ice cream ($5.00 for each, or $10.00 for both); theaters (20 cents per seat); and bowling alleys and billiard parlors ($30.00 for the first table or alley, and $5.00 for each additional one).

IT'S FAIR

to state that Kentucky has drawn the attention of the nation these last two years because of the unparalleled achievements of her young Governor in effecting great economies.

IT'S REASONABLE

to believe that what Happy Chandler had done at Frankfort, he can help do at Washington, thus pulling the nation out of the doldrums of depression, recessions and general debility.

IT'S A CINCH

that the nation needs DOERS at Washington, in the Senate, to grapple with conditions which require vision, courage and determination—as well as ability to grasp the meaning of emergencies as they develop and the will to cope with them.

IT'S GOOD BUSINESS

for Kentucky to pick a man who has demonstrated, even to his severest critics, that he will keep his word to the whole people, make good his campaign pledges, bring about sane, economical administration of public affairs.

LATE POTATOES

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Last week, the preliminaries to satisfactory late potato production were discussed, among them, preparation of the land. Besides the benefits from proper land preparation named then, there is one other, namely, there will be less scab. But, to make more sure, the seed potatoes should be treated to kill the scab organisms that are carried on their skins and in the soil that adheres to them. The treatment consists of dipping the potatoes in a solution of corrosive sublimate and water. This treatment is fully described in Kentucky Extension Circular No. 307, a copy of which will be sent free to any person who will address such request to the College of Agriculture, Lexington.

After treatment, the seed should be cut into pieces weighing about 1½ ounces and allowed to "heal over" for about 72 hours.

Next comes planting, and the dates for the several varieties are as follows: for Green Mountain, June 15-30; for all "July potatoes," about July 1, and perhaps to July 10; and for cold-storage Cobblers, July 15 to 25.

Thirty-six-inch furrows should be laid off 5 inches deep, then 3-8-6 or 5-10-5 fertilizer sown in them at the rate of 1 lb. to 25 feet of row, and worked into the soil, but kep in the furrow bottom.

The seed should be dropped, one piece at a place, 15 to 18 inches apart, for the Green Mountains and the "July" potatoes, and 13 inches, for the Cobblers. Then the furrows should be filled, level, or, if there is a ridge, it should e leveled.

When the potatoes come up, and if any weeds have started, too, cultivation should begin, but this is to consist merely of scraping the soil surface or stirring it just enough to break any crust. Deep stirring should be absolutely avoided, and no soil should ever be thrown to the row, except enough to close any cracks the bulging tubers may perhaps make. The number of times to cultivate is governed by whether there are any weeds or not. If the preliminary land preparation was properly done, there will be few.

There may be a few Colorado beetles. These should be dealt with promptly, so as to save all possible foliage to the plants. This is more important to the late crop than to potatoes growing in the spring while there is a wealth of moisture to speed leaf growth.

The black flea bettle may be present in serious numbers; to control this insect, spray with Bordeaux mixture, to which add an arsenical to kill any Colorado beetles, too.

A sometimes serious late potato pest is the leaf-hopper. This is a sucking insect, and neither Bordeaux nor poison affects it, but it must be killed by a contact spray, as for example, tobacco extract. If hoppers are present when the other two are, a combination of Bordeaux, arsenical and Black Leaf 40 will control all three.

The tops of late potatoes usually remain green until frost comes, and the tubers are exceedingly tender. A week should be allowed before digging, so that the skins may "tighten' 'and the tubers should be handled gently. Even though somewhat muddy, they should not be let lie in the sun to dry out but should be gathered immediately, then stored so that neither light nor moving air strikes them. This will reduce the "strong flavor," of which the July potatoes are so much accused.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT THE WEATHER

From both personal observation and from complaint letters that have been reaching the department, a word concerning the weather seems timely. Much of what will be said will be in the nature of a post mortem with the patient not dead, perhaps, but in a bad way ,sometimes.

In most of Kentucky there has been more rain than was needed. Except for just a few days, there has been no hot weather and the nights have been definitely uncomfortably cool. As a result, and because of rain-soaked soil, soil temperatures have stayed low and the "warm" crops, tomatoes, sweetpotatoes, peppers and egg plants have been delayed, though the potatoes, salads and greens have been helped.

Many gardeners complain quite bitterly about their soils having "run together," because of heavy downpours of rain and because they were prevented from going into their gardens to keep them cultivated. This run-together condition aggravates the other handicap, that of the weather, and taking them together, not much comfort is left the gardener, for his "warm" crops may continue backward all summer.

Now, to suggest that something may be done to change the weather would be fool-hardy, were it not for the fact that by removing the run-together soil difficulty, much of the effect of an unfriendly season may be removed , too. That this is so may be proved by observing the condition of beans and other tender crops in many gardens throughout the state, where pains were taken to insure soils workable and loose, by incorporating in them adequate amounts of humus.

Obviously, it is too late now to make good a humus shortage, but with the lesson plain, 'effort should be begun now so that the same trouble will not befall again in, 1939. In fact, all through the summer, humus materials offer, as lawn clippings, garden debris, and in the autumn, tree leaves. Turned under during the winter, these help. But, better, would be to sow in the fall, rye or barley or even greens to turn under early in the following spring, to make humus of the best possible kind.

The point usually made for humus is that because it makes soil loose and fluffy, capable of holding moisture, it serves in the capacity of insurance against drouth. But, in loose and fluffy soil excess moisture sinks readily below the vegetable root zone; thus humus is wet weather insurance as well. Again, because of the open nature of soil well supplied with humus, sun heat can penetrate, and this heat is held, enabling such soil to warm up earlier and stay warmer than compacted soil. And, the effects of "weather" are mitigated.

In gardens where there is enough humus, cultivation is made easy, for merely light skimming of the surface is needed, the gardener secure in the knowledge that the lower soil is in proper condition for vegetable roots easily to penetrate throughout it. With the soil compacted, however, deep working must be attempted to improve matters. Perhaps, slight improvement is made, but always at a tremendous cost in labor, and generally at the expense of the crops in whose behalf the effort is made. At very best, the improvement is not permanent, but the next rain causes the soil to run together again, and when rains become in frequent, drouth and catastrophe set in.

But, "humus" is the answer to so many garden questions, even the one as to "what to do about the weather."

President To Visit Covington Friday

WILL DELIVER SPEECH AT LATONIA RACE TRACK

Three Speeches Planned in State By Franklin D. Roosevelt—Chandler Will Meet President Friday

President Franklin D. Roosevelt will make three speeches in the state Friday, according to information received here Tuesday. He will speak at the Latonia track, Covington at 2:20 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time), at Union station in Louisville at 6:20 p. m. (Central Standard Time), and at Bowling Green at 8:50 p. m.(Central Standard Time).

This will be the second time that a president of the United States has ever made a speech in Covington, the first being President Grant when he walked across the Suspension bridge and gave a short talk in Covington.

A crowd of 100,000 is expected to hear the president at Latonia Friday, which probably will be the largest crowd to ever assemble in this section of the state.

Northern Kentucky set to work in earnest yesterday to prepare a welcome for President Roosevelt when he visits Covington Friday afternoon to speak at Latonia Race Track.

Erection of a speaker's stand for the President was started Wednesday morning in front of the judges' stand at the race track, said Carl C. Kiger, Kenton County campaign manager for Senator Alben W. Barkley, in support of whose candidacy President Roosevelt will speak. Work of decorating the track was also started yesterday.

Every detail must be completed by Friday morning, Kiger said, in order to accommodate early arrivals at the track.

Word from Washington Tuesday night was that President Roosevelt would arrive at Covington from Marietta, Ohio, early Friday afternoon, crossing the river from Ohio to Kentucky at Cincinnati.

The President, according to the Washington announcement, i s scheduled to begin speaking at Covington at 2:20 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time. His address will last at least 45 minutes.

Present plans call for the President's special trains to be moved directly from Cincinnati to the race track. Whether doors of the train will be opened at Cincinnati has not been announced.

When the train reaches the race track the President will enter an automobile and be driven immediately to the speaker's stand. There will be no official greeting as the President leaves the train, Kiger said. President Roosevelt, Senator Barkley and Kiger will ride together in an automobile the short drive from the train to the speaker's stand.

Although no official welcome is planned for the President at the train, there may be a dramatic meeting when he arrives. Governor A. B. Chandler, who is opposing Barkley for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, announced Tuesday night at Frankfort that he will meet Mr. Roosevelt at Covington to welcome him to the state. If present plans are carried out the only places at which Governor Chandler can meet President Roosevelt are at the train where he arrives and at the speaker's stand at the race track. Senator Barkley is certain to be at both places.

The Roosevelt address will be broadcast by Radio station WCKY, which will feed it to other National Broadcasting Company stations, and by Station WHAS, Louisville.

Governor Chandler said he would meet the train at Covington and welcome the President to the state.

He told western Kentucky leaders that he would be accompanied to Covington Friday to meet President Roosevelt by Att.-Gen. Hubert Meredith, Secretary of State Charles Arnett, John Kirtley, Speaker of the House; State Highway Commissioner Robert Humphreys, Charles O'Connell, clerk of the Court of Appeals; Lieut.-Gov. Keen Johnson, Commissioner of Finance Dan Talbott and Adj. Gen. Lee McClain.

He was wanted by Boone and Kenton authorities for several weeks, but was found and arrested by Sheriffs F. M. Walton and Jake Williams. After the youth was located, Harry Klaine, Deputy Kenton sheriff was called in, and the arrest was made on bench warrants from both Boone and Kenton counties.

Stickrod was lodged in Covington jail Tuesday night, but was sent to Boone County Wednesday morning by Kenton officials to be tried in the August term of court.

Name Omitted From List Of Free Show Sponsors

In last week's issue we carried a story concerning the free picture shows which will be given each Thursday night during the summer, and a list of the merchants who were sponsoring this entertainment. Through a typographical error the name of Smith's Grocery was omitted.

This error was purely accidental and we desire to state that Mr. Smith was one of the first to sign a contract to support the entertainment.

AND BETTER HEALTH

When the motoring vacation season reached the point a few years ago where it took its place as a billion-dollar industry, no one of the citizens in Boone County cared to offer an argument about it. Instead, they viewed it in the light of modern automotive progress and were not surprised.

There is no longer any "auto season." Practically every other industry in the world is touched by it and almost every phase of finance and trade feels its influence sometime in the course of a year. But it cannot overlook the many millions of dollars which pour from it to find their way into the educational, social and good health benefits accruing from it. Today, with a demand for millions of summer cottages, roadside cabins, hotel rooms and meals, along with more pretentious taverns and inns, therewise is a vaster insistence for more perfect sanitation. Today, the motoring vacation industry can boast a greater amount invested along this line by all the hotels in any one city in the world—and yet the demand is far short of being met in most every part of the nation.

Even though this billion-dollar vacation season is based on a program of pleasure, its health slant is not and must not be lost sight of. It is a vital energizer in that it carries the sick and distressed to all the health resorts and recreation spots known to the American people. It is vital to the well man intent upon keeping well, by providing him with those places concerned with mineral springs fresh from Mother Earth. But, springing up like a mushroom, this health phase is only now catching up with the other automotive features. It is vital in its transportation of the sick and afflicted to these resorts which provide rest and play as well as nursing pain and recuperating from illness. Its health note is now being sounded far and wide at this season of the year. Nothing must be permitted to check it and every effort made to improve it.

COMFORT FOR COWS

Quite a few of us have never taken much stock in the old assertion about there being nothing new under the sun, and we have been content to let it pass for what other people thought it was worth. We are but recently finding out that no doubt it is entirely too sweeping a statement when we learned that the latest modern dairy equipment is to provide springing rubber mattresses for cows! Wonder if history can parallel that?

This news of up-to-the-minute equipment is going to cause many a housewife to recall that she has been trying to get a new mattress for her bed for years, but to remark that the comfort of the cow must come first. Despite the humor in the idea this method has proven a very satisfactory arrangement in bedding cattle instead of resorting to the older-fashioned straw. It is found these mattresses help in preventing udder trouble, and being cemented to the floor are non-skid as the hoofs sink into the rubber mat. They are about one-inch thick and are moisture and cold proof.

This matter of consideration for our bovine friend, along with the packing of six jumbo potatoes for a larger sale and a more ready one, in our big cities; plus the discovery that by planting Lima beans with the eyes down gives an increased yield, ought to give every family something to ponder over so far as domestic history of a novel type is concerned.

RADIO TROUBLE

It must be obvious to owners of radio sets in Boone County and in every nook and corner of this nation for that matter, that radio is going to come in for a period of investigation and probable inquiry every so often. There is too prominent a position occupied by radio in its effect on public opinion for it to be disregarded, and the fact is there have already been numerous instances of examinations of this nature. But radio seems to be bringing on its own trouble. A great many programs too stupid to be appreciated by the average intelligent listener. There is too much advertising and far too much of it is misleading and harmful. The majority of complaints are reported to come from distraught persons, largely parents, who have been pestered to death to buy certain brands of breakfast foods by their children who listen to blood and thunder programs appealing to the young. Radio has too many good things to offer the public to allow itself to cause a disturbance and invoke censure for its too ordinary types of entertainment.

COURTING WITH CANDY

Most any wife will tell you that when she was a girl almost every boy who called to court her carried a little sack of candy—boxes were not too numerous to be noticeable, but too expensive to have the call. Yet, with as much sugar in candy then as now, the total demand has climbed from a few million of dollars to a total of close to 1,600,000,000 pounds last year and about twenty percent of that amount not for courting but inside-the-family use. Changes in our eating habits have brought a demand for candy to the point undreamed of in the average man's boyhood days. Today housewives often use it in making desserts, and men who once spurned it as a childish luxury now treat themselves to it most lavishly, while some carry it in preference to the all-essential plug of tobacco. The modern miss must get her sweets from the family bon-bon dish on the sideboard but we wonder if, after all, it tastes as sweet as it did when Dad used to carry it home to her mother in the sack, (some of them were striped sacks, remember). Somehow it strikes us that the average young man is missing a good trick when he doesn't go on a courting excursion armed with candy as his ammunition, just to see if it has any advantages over other courting methods.

UP TO "ROAD HOGS"

There's a report circulating thru some of the automobile organizations of the country to the effect that the legislatures of a number of states, unable to reduce auto fatalities in any other way, are contemplating laws forcing manufacturers to place gadgets on cars limiting their speed to a certain mile per hour. Beyond that they would not be able to travel. Sounded out with a view to placing the blame for even a discussion of such drastic legislation, numerous safety experts declare that it is all traced directly to the "road hogs." Refusal to abide by speed laws when it is humanly possible for them to violate them and escape punishment, speed devices mean nothing of them. Regardless of the safety of others, the "road hog" has usurped highways that do not belong to him. The time is here to make him return them.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Stuffed Onions—Peel medium-sibed onions and cut a slice from the top of each one. Parboil in salted water until almost tender. Drain. Remove centers carefully, leaving outside shells. Fill with a well seasoned bread stuffing to which a little chopped ham has been added. Dot tops with bits of butter. Put in a baking dish with a little hot water in the bottom, cover and bake in a moderate oven until tender. Put a sauteed mushroom on top of each onion and serve with roast beef or lamb.

PICNIC IDEAS

A vacuum jar may be filled at home with a piping hot stew, a meat and vegetable soup or baked beans to keep warm. Plan your picnic menu around the main dish in your vacuum and then consider something crisp, something juicy, a simple sweet and a beverage.

WASHING HINT

When you use any bleaching agent it is necessary to read the label carefully. If using a bleach wisely it helps to restore the whiteness of cottons, but if used too strongly it will weaken the cloth. Difference brands will vary in the amount of chloride they contain. Clorine is the bleaching quality.

FOR A PARTY

A good way to match for patrners at a grown-up party is for the hostess to ask each guest to bring a childhood picture of himself. Have it a picture at the age of ten years or under. Each male guest is given a photo of a female guest and vice versa. They must guess the name of their picture-partner and so pair off for dinner or games. If you can borrow a magic lantern show the photos afterwards as a form of amusement and your party will be a howling success.

No matter how careful some men are, they always seem to be running into some kind of mistake.

CALEB: LIFE-TIME DEVOTION

LESSON TEXT—Joshua 14:6-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let us go up at once, and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it.—Numbers 13:30.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Brave Caleb.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Caleb the Brave.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Hero's Reward.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Courage for Difficult Tasks.

"We need to know more about good men who are occasionally great, and less about great men who are occasionally good," says the Lesson Commentary, in pointing out that Caleb is one of the characters about whom the Bible does not say much, but in every case the word is one revealing high and noble character. Consider such passages as Numbers 13:6, 30; 14:7-9, 24, 30; 26: 65, as well as our lesson for today.

The background for our study of today, and in fact an integral part of the lesson itself, is the story of Caleb's courageous stand with Joshua when the spies returned from their visit to Canaan, which is related in Numbers 13. He was then a comparatively young man, but demonstrated by his every word and deed that he had from his youth learned to know and obey God.

Note first of all Caleb's

I. Perfect Obedience (vv. 6-8).

"I wholly followed the Lord my God." Such a testimony from a man like Caleb is no idle boast, no effort to parade his faith and piety before others. In saying it he was repeating what God and Moses had both said about him. In his heart he knew it to be true.

It is God's will for each of His children that they should come to such a place of simple trust and complete obedience that in every circumstance of life they need know only one thing—God's will, and then in faith to go and do it. It is a life beautiful in its transparent simplicity and powerful in the strength of God Himself.

II. Promised Inheritance (v. 9).

"Surely the land whereon thy feet have trodden shall be thine inheritance." Such was the promise of God through Moses. Forty-five long years had elapsed, but down through this period of wilderness wanderings and the conflict in subduing Canaan the promise had lived in Caleb's heart. He knew it would be fulfilled, and he waited serenely for God's time.

Such also are the promises of God which keep the heart singing in our hours of trial and sorrow, which light up the dark ways, which strengthen the heart of His children. Learn God's promises, cherish them in your heart, expect God to fulfill them.

III. Preserved Strength (vv. 10, 11).

"The Lord hath kept me alive . . . and I am . . . strong." Here was a man kept of God, in full vigor in his eighty-fifth year, "like a rock in a changeful sea, like a snow-capped peak in a change of cloud and storm and sun" (Meyer). No doubt there was what our forefathers liked to call "the longevity of the antedeluvians," but even apart from that let us recognize that life and strength come from God, and that those who walk with God in holy living may count on Him for the renewed strength of Psalm 103:5.

An incidental, but extremely important, lesson, we should learn is that God has no age deadline. The church has frequently sinned against Him and against His faithful servants by "shelving them" for younger men, when they would have brought blessing to themselves and to the church by encouraging and using them. The writer of these lines is a young man, but he would speak here a word of loving admonition regarding his honored brethren who have gone on before to bear the brunt of the battle.

IV. Powerful Assurance (vv. 12-15).

"If . . . the Lord will be with me, then I shall be able." Caleb asked for no easy task. He was ready to go up against the giants of Hebron. Read Deuteronomy 3:11, and you will find that there were men in those days who needed thirteen-foot beds. But Caleb was not afraid. He counted not on his own strength, but on the power of God. It is significant that while the other sections of Canaan were only partially conquered Caleb brought his formidable adversaries entirely under control, so that "the land had rest from war" (v.15).

The spiritual application to our day is evident and appropriate. There are giants in the land in this year of our Lord 1938. Corruption—social and political—raises its brazen head. Drunkenness and vice leer at us with the impudent suggestion that we cannot control them. There are giants "within us—greed, selfishness, love of ease, lust, passion, cruelty" (Blaikie). Are we to do nothing about them? If we are to meet them in the strength of the flesh we might almost as well do nothing. But in the power of God, we are like Caleb—able. In His name we may take up a slogan of today, "Let's do something about it!" and really do it, for His glory.

Another thing every rising young citizen will do well to remember as he plods on through life is that you don't have to be worth a million to be worth while.

The relative value of health and wealth depends upon which one you have lost.

"BARKLEY FOR SENATOR NOTES"

Sponsored by BARKLEY CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

By Henry Ward

Now that both Senator Alben W. Barkley and Governor Albert Benjamin Chandler have formally opened their champaigns for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, most everyone today in Kentucky is settling down for six weeks of political bombardments.

Although Chandler's address at Hopkinsville was billed as his "opening," it was the same speech he has been making since he started talking about Barkley at Newport last February. He continued to snipe at small flaws which he insisted should assume the proportion of major crimes. On the same day, at Elizabethtown, Senator Barkley satisfied the minds of any persons who have been wondering whether he would ignore Chandler or fly into him with the type of stump tactics that made Barkley one of the nation's foremost campaigners. He devoted half of his speech to ripping into Chandler's record and his breach of 1935 campaign promises.

That interest in the Senatorial contest is keen was demonstrated at the Louisville Bar Association's "gridiron dinner" at which a fantasy entitled "The Senatorial Nomination and the Seven Dwarfs" was presented. Much fun was poked at both the candidates. One of the actors, cleverly made up as "Happy" Chandler, with his wide, toothpaste-ad grin, wearing a red sweater (Chandler likes to brag that when he went to college all he had was a red sweater and a five dollar bill), and flourishing a ukelele, sang this ditty: (to the tune of "Ivan Skavinsky Skavar):

"I was born in Kentucky
A very young man
With a sweater—a five dollar note
A smile on my face,
And for you I will trace
My technique for catching the vote!

"A patriot I, without fear of the foe,
So I joined the S. A. T. C.
And defended the flag
'Til my shoulders did sag
With the weight of my ukelele!

"After thirty-eight days
Hostilities ceased
So I joined the political mill,
With a smile on my face
And my sweater in place—
And my hand on my five dollar bill!

"As Governor I never knew any woe
As I sat on Capitol Hill;
For I balanced the budget
With Uncle Sam's dough—
Retaining my five dollar bill!

"My ambition to sit
In the Senate is great,
And lots of folks think that I will.
For there's a smile on my face,
And my sweater's in place—
And here is my five dollar bill!"

The reference to Chandler's service in the World War was prompted by the fact that he enlisted in the Students Army Training Corps on October 5, 1918, while he was a student at Transylvania college, Lexington, and never left the collgee campus. He was 20 years and two and a half months old at the time. Thirty-eight days later the Armistice was declared. (Chandler now likes to boast that he is a veteran of the World War. While men younger than he were fighting in the trenches in France he was singing songs about them and having a good time as a college cut-up.)

Governor Chandler now will say that he obtained an increase in pay for WPA workers in Kentucky. When President Roosevelt's new relief program was approved by Congress, providing for additional jobs for the unemployed in Kentucky, Chandler claimed that the fact that he had become a candidate against Senator Barkley, Roosevelt's leader in Congress, prompted Roosevelt to take that step.

For months Barkley and Kentucky WPA officials have been working to get a wage scale increase. Final approval has been given a $10 a month raise at Washington. It comes at a time when Chandler will claim that the political campaign prompted it. The truth of the matter is that rising cost of living brought about the increase.

Chandler has been critical of the WPA wage scale because it is not as high as that paid in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. Last week highway officials of those states complied with a request for data to show what wage scale is paid common labor on their state road projects. Their information revealed that common labor in the three states is paid 50 cents per hour by the state road departments. The rate for the same type of labor in the Kentucky highway department is 30 to 35 cents per hour.

In his campaign speeches, Governor Chandler has been saying that Kentucky pays higher old age pensions than some states. Another way of putting it is that Kentucky is tied for third place from the bottom. The average old age pension in Kentucky last month amounted to $9.37. The lowest monthly average pension among the states was $4.57, paid in Mississippi. Next lowest is $9.14 in Arkansas, and tied with Kentucky at third from the bottom is North Carolina.

Illinois pays an average old age pension of $17.19 a month; Indiana $16.12; Ohio $23.04; West Virginia $13.99; Tennessee $13.35; Missouri $14.17. The highest average pension in the nation is $32.91 a month in California. Colorado is second highest with $31.63.

SANITATION IS BEST COCCIDIOSIS CONTROL

During the summer considerable money is spent for so-called remedies for coccidiosis, one of the most wide-spread diseases of young chickens. Moist, warm weather seems especially favorable to this disease, which causes considerable loss among chickens up to two months of age.

While many treatments have been tried for coccidiosis, Dr. J. Holmes Martin of the Kentucky College of Agriculture is of the opinion that none of them is effective. The best way to combat this disease, he declares is to keep the brooder house dry and practice sanitation. This means frequent cleaning of all feeding and brooding equipment, and the daily changing of the litter during the outbreak.

A well-balanced ration, supplemented with plenty of green feed, is important in building up the young bird's resistance to the disease, points out Dr. Martin. Feeding a mash containing 40 percent dried skimmilk or buttermilk for several days has been advocated generally as effective in checking an outbreak of coccidiosis in young chicks. However, milk will not cure the disease.

Coccidiosis is recognized by such symptoms as ruffled feathers, pallor, rapid emaciation and bloody droppings. The disease is spread by contamination of feed, water and soil with droppings of fowls which harbor the parasites. The parasite may be carried down stream by running water, or by shoes, grain sacks or other objects. It is also spread by birds or insects which fly from one yard to another. Rats and mice also may serve as carriers of the organism.

Many a man who thinks his wife couldn't get along without him probably would be surprised if he knew that she endures him just for the children's sake.

The reason men have to have pockets is they can't stick things down their necks the way the women do.

"CHANDLER FOR SENATOR NOTES"

Sponsored By CHANDLER CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

The following is a condensation or "highlights," of Governor Chandler's speech which he delivered recently:

"This race is a contest between two native Kentucklans and the contest will be determined by the votes of Kentucky Democrats," Governor A. B. Chandler told his audience here.

The Governor spoke in the interest of his campaign for the United States Senate in which he is opposing incumbent Senator Alben W. Barkley.

"I ask your endorsement and support upon the basis of my record," Governor Chandler told his listeners, "and upon the basis of the principles for which I stand."

"Is it not further significant," the Governor pointed out, "that Federal legislation during Senator Barkley's tenure of office in the Congress of the United States has, without exception, discriminated against Kentucky in favor of other states?"

"His (Senator Barkley's) only hope of winning this race is that the voters of Kentucky may be deceived concerning his own record and the real issues of the campaign, and that he can ride into office on President Roosevelt's coat tail.

"I have kept my campaign pledges and have given to the State new faces, not only in Frankfort, but in the leadership of the Democratic party in Kentucky.

"The only time Senator Barkley has been interested in economy in government has been at the expense of the veterans."

Emphasizing his charges that Barkley's record revealed him as indifferent to Kentucky's needs and rights, Governor Chandler declared that " by Senator Barkley's own statement, inserted by him in the Congressional Record of April 13, 1938, only one State out of the forty-eight has received less money per capita from the Federal Government than has Kentucky, and that State is North Carolina.

Declaring Barkley "does not merit the support of the Kentucky farmers," Governor Chandler asserted Federal payments "to Kentucky farmers for five years are only approximately the amount collected by the Federal Government from tobacco taxes in Kentucky in one year . . . "

Chandler also charged Senator Barkley with failure to obtain large enough allotments for Kentucky tobacco farmers and declared that while Barkley advocated and voted for a government moratorium of war debts and urged the Federal Government to declare such loans dead and lost, he voted against a measure to continue an original low interest rate on loans to farmers made by the Federal Land Bank.

The Governor pointed out that he had seconded President Roosevelt's nomination in 1936 and had personally campaigned for him in 17 States and said "without exception I have supported President Roosevelt and the Democratic national platforms of 1932 and 1936."

He reviewed measures passed by the State Administration to "cooperate" with President Roosevelt.

He charged Barkley was being backed by a "bi-partisan coterie" and "bolters" of the Democratic Party.

Governor Chandler stated that since he became Governor the State debt of "approximately $28,000,000" has been reduced to "approximately $6,500,00 and will be completely paid by November 1, 1939."

He explained that the debt reduction had been effected by "complete and effective reorganization of the State Government and by strict economy."

RIPLEY, OKLA., REPORTER WINS RURAL NEWS AWARD

New York—Mrs. Edna Eaton Wilson, a farmer's wife of Ripley, Okla., has been judged the best country newspaper correspondent of 1938, it was announced by Wheeler McMillen, editorial director of the Country Home Magazine, which sponsors the annual award to cross-roads writers.

Mrs. Wilson, who writes a column of farm and community news for the weekly Gazette in nearby Stillwater, helps her husband operate their 270 acre dairy farm, together with their four sons. She is described by Otis Wile, editor of the Gazette, as the pride of his staff. And what correspondent isn't he says, "whose copy doesn't have to be penciled and who always finds something of human interest in the farm community."

As the naitonal winner Mrs. Wilson will receive $500 in cash, and a free trip to New York, Washington and White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where she will be guest at the convention of the National Editorial Association. She also will be interviewed over a coast-to-coast NBC network by James W. Barrett, director of the Press-Radio Bureau.

Mrs. Wilson sums up her journalistic creed briefly:

"I am interested in writing the good things about my neighbors and have not written of their scandals. The duty of the country correspondent, I think, is to sell her neighborhood and not to sell it short."

Mrs. Wilson was born in what used to be the old Creek Indian nation in 1901, her parents having been '89ers who went to Oklahoma as homesteaders in that year. She went to Oklahoma A. and M. College in Stillwater for two years and then taught school in Lone Jack district of Pawnee County. She has been corresponding for the Gazette since 1925.

She was naturally elated when informed that she had won the national country correspondence award, but said "the folks were not so much surprised as they were that time my raisin bread won the blue ribbon at the Payne County Fair."

The winning correspondence was chosen from several thousand clippings submitted by country newspaper editors as the writing of their best rural reporters. The judging, in addition to Mr. McMillen, included Miss Gertrude B. Lane, editor of the Woman's Home Companion, William L. Chenery, editor of Collier's, and Sumner Blossom, editor of The American Magazine.

The award was inaugurated several years ago by the Country Home Magazine, a national farm publication, in an effort to give recognition to what the editors regard as an important phase of American journalism.

The second largest award, of $200, goes to Mrs. Blanche Pease, who writes for the Atkinson, Neb., Graphic. Other cash prize winners are Clara Mack, Wayland, N. Y., Register; Anthony Grebnec, Cook, Minn., Herald News! Mrs. E. W. Colgrove, Mott, N. D., Pioneer Press, and Mrs. Ferris Braucht, Osceola, Ia., Tribune.

In addition, Certificates of Merit will be awarded to the best entry from each state, in co-operation with the National Editorial Association.

Excerpts from the writings of Mrs. Wilson, the national winner, follow:

"G. E. Shaw is the first one we knew to be happy about the April snow, the first grown-up anyhow. Gib had a sick cow and called Dr. Frank Knotts from Stillwater. Doc got stuck in a snowdrift and couldn't make the trip. The cow got well."

"Mr. and Mrs. Mocker have returned again to the pink rambler rosebush, have built a new apartment and already have four lovely speckled eggs in the boudoir. Mr. and Mrs. Bluebird have cleaned house and are nicely settled in the same old corner post in the orchard that they have used for the last several summers."

Claud Todd is the proud owner of a new colt, foaled by his black pony, Bess, Monday. The colt, which is half Percherson, measured 36½ inches to the top of the withers, and is strong and healthy.

"Somewhere we read that it should no longer be necessary or advisable to have a long vacation from school, since even on farms most of the labor is done by machinery. But we for one family are glad that the long vacation is still in order. Green fields and meadows are made for the bare feet of children. Boys in school have little time to enjoy the battle of teaching a young calf to drink, or to acquaint a colt with halter and lead rope. Lessons learned hoeing corn or weeding the onion row cannot be acquired in the school room. Nor do you become acquainted with the amazing repertoire of the mocking bird unless you are where you can hear him all day."

"Leonard Linsenmeyer was brave enough to plant oats before the February blizzard and now has a perfect stand of young oat plants."

"A lone wild gander came over the other evening as we were setting out some berry vines. He flew so low and his high pitched plaint sounded so wistful and lost and uncertain that we had to stop work until he was gone from sight and hearing."

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Todd spent the week-end in Jennings at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Perkins. The Todds returned Sunday evening and brought hens to lay eggs, seed potatoes to plant and young berry plants to trade for something. The Todds were married but a few months ago and are just now getting set up for themselves."

"Five-year-old Bobby Lozier called at the H. C. Wilson home Monday when the dairy cleaning work was in progress. 'Now,' said Bobby 'Hubert ought to rig up a thing for the cows to wipe their feet on as they come in the door of this nice barn, and make them learn to use it. It would sure save a lot of work.'"

Mrs. M. J. Clary, Fleming county managed her flocks so that she had 129 pullets raised at a cost of only $11.

CLIPPING SILKS CHECK EAR WORM

Clipping the silk after they began to turn brown reduced the number of wormy ears in sweet corn grown in the past few years at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. Where pruning shears were used to remove the tip ends, the number of infested ears was less than 20 percent, while corn that was not clipped contained about 90 percent or wormy ears.

The clipping was done after most of the eggs that develop into worms had been laid in the silks and before the worms entered the ears. Repeated tests showed that the best time was four to six days after the first sign of browning of the silks, indicating that pollination had been completed. Ears clipped at this stage of growth healed and did not become unsightly, whereas clipping later resulted in discoloration and rotting at the end. When clipping was done at the right time there was little damage by birds or by rotting.

It is pointed out by the experimenters that cutting back much of the cob was found undesirable. Taking off the husks and silks back to about a fourth of an inch of the cob probably is the best procedure.

The clippings should be taken from the field and destroyed. One man was able to clip more than an acre of corn in a day.

Gayety Theater News

Saturday—"Bordertown". Sun. and Mon.—"Merrily We Live" Wednesday and Thursday, July 13 and 14—"Girl of the Golden West"

Because Tom Brown forgot to turn a switch, "Merrily We Live," which will be shown at the Gayety Theater Sunday and Monday, became a football picture for one day.

Director Norman Z. McLeod was amazed to find a partial description of a Los Angeles football game on the sound track of a day's "rushes" on the picture.

Interspersed with the dialogue of "Merrily We Live" was an announcer's running account of end runs, forward passes and smashing tackles.

In the scene that was being made, Brown was driving a car. While lights and camera were being lined up, the actor was listening to the football game over the radio in the automobile.

Engrossed in the contest, Brown forgot to turn off the radio when the scene was shot. Hence the mixture of screen dialogue and a football broadcast.

California in all its romantic glory of the gold rush and mission days is brought to the screen in "The Girl of the Golden West" co-starring Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, and coming to the Gayety Theater, Wednesday and Thursday July 13th and 14th.

A lavish musical, the new picture introduces several original musical numbers by Sigmund Romberg and Gus Kahn and a spectacular early California festival, "The Mariachie."

Adapted from the David Belasco play, "The Girl of the Golden West' is the story of the girl owner of the Polka saloon and dance hall, loved by the sheriff, Jack Rance, but who falls in love with the bandit Ramerez. When the bandit is captured, the girl promises to marry Rance if he will free Ramerez, but Rance eventually realizes that the two love each other and he vanishes from the proposed wedding, leacing the lovers in each other's arms.

The supporting cast includes Walter Pidgeon, Leo Carrillo, Buddy Ebsen, Leonard Penn, Priscilla Lawson, Bob Murphy, Olin Howard and Cliff Edwards.

Friends and relatives surprised Mrs. Raymond L. Smith Sunday with a beautiful birthday dinner. Early Sunday morning Mr. Smith, being aware of the plans took his wife to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith, where they were planning to spend the day. Mrs. Bert Smith was packing some food away in boxes which Mrs. Raymond Smith thought was very queer. At about 11:30 Raymond said to his wife, "You and I and mother and dad are going to take a drive over to Rabbit Hash," When they arrived at Rabbit Hash Jennings Craig said to Mrs. Raymond Smith, "Did you know that you had company at your house?" They started for home, where they found fifteen cars parked around and about seventy-five guests, with the dining room table loaded with everything to eat, and in the center a huge Angel Food cake with 26 candles.

Those present to enjoy the occasion were John Feldhaus and two daughters, Sarah and Thelma, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shinkle and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Howard, Harold Hodges, Charles and Melvin Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. August Trapp and four children, Mr. and Mrs. I. ORGANIZATION FORMED SAT.

BY BOONE COUNTY SHEEPMEN —FORTY-FIVE MEMBERS ARE SIGNED UP, ACCORDING TO. COUNTY AGENT.

Boone County sheepmen voted to proceed with the organization of Boone County Sheep Growers Association in a meeting held at Burlington, Saturday afternoon, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Forty-five growers signed up 1920 sheep and those present were confident that between 4000 and 5000 sheep would be listed before September 1st.

Growers present were enthusiastic about plans for the association. The dog menace is considered one of the greatest hold backs to the expansion of profitable sheep production. It is believed that the association will build more confidence in the sheep business. Members pay $1.00 initial fee and 10 cents per head annually for insurance which pays up to $8.00 per head for losses. Payments are independent of the county dog fund. Dog losses in 1934 were .85%, 1935 were 1.4 per cent; 1936 were 1.6 per cent and in 1937 were 2.7 per cent.

The following officers were elected to preside for the year beginning September 1st: H. E. White, Burlington, was elected president; J. G. Pennington, Walton, vice president and J. W. Conley, Beaver secretary-treasurer for the 1938-39 year. Six directors, one from each of the conservation association districts, were elected. They are Lamar G. Congleton, Burlington-Florence District; Clint Riddell, Hebron-Constance district; Chas. W. White, Petersburg-Grant district; Frank Allan, Hamilton-Carlton district; Russell Sparks, Beaver-Union district and Walter Johnson, Walton-Verona district.

The next meeting of the organization will be held at the court house on Saturday, August 27th at 1:30 p. m. All sheep growers who have not already listed their flocks should do so immediately by contacting one of the officers or sign-up committemen or contacting the county office in Burlington.

The following are charter members of the organization: B. E. Northcutt, Chas. W. Riley, Chas. Beall, G. H. Moore, Chester L. Tanner, Mills and Fooks, Nora G. Layne, Mrs. Hubert Beemon, Chas. W. FIRESTONE cuts the cost of Tire Safety just at the time when you need a new set of tires. At this time of the year you should replace tires that are worn and smooth for greatest safety during the summer driving season. Tires may look alike on the outside — but inside they are different. The name FIRESTONE on a tire is your assurance of extra safety and long mileage because only Firestone Tires are built with these patented and exclusive construction features:

Gum-Dipping, the Firestone patented process by which every fiber of every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber, counteracts tire-destroying internal friction and heat which ordinarily cause blowouts. Nine extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord.

Two Extra Layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread, another patented Firestone construction feature, protect against punctures.

Now that Firestone gives you all of these safety and economy features at these low prices, you cannot afford to take chances with unsafe tires this summer. Come in today and join the Firestone Save-A-Life Campaign by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Convoy Tires — the safest tires that money can buy at these low prices.

Digest of House Bill No. 372

The Operators License Law as appears on the Statute Books of Kentucky has been sub-standard. The majority of the people have looked upon the law with disfavor, because it lacked such features as would give the motoring public any assurance that they could operate a motor vehicle on the highways of the State with any degree of safety.

The new law is an adoption of the Standard Drivers' License Law recommended by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety and is now effective in thirty-seven States in the Union.

Safety provisions of the law will be administered by the State Highway Patrol under the direction of the chief officer of said Patrol.

The Department of Revenue will be responsible for the administration of the financial provisions.

The standard law requires new drivers to pass simple, practical examinations demonstrating both their knowledge of traffic laws and their ability to handle a car. People who have driven for a year or more with a reasonable safety record are not required to take these tests. Applicants who fail the first time are told to study and practice and come back later for a second examination.

When applicants are given a second chance they are impressed with the necessity for knowing traffic laws and how to drive. The standard drivers' license law is not intended to cut drastically the number of people driving motor vehicles. Instead, it aims to make good drivers. Only a small percentage ultimately fails to pass the license tests.

The examination is simple and brief—a quiz on law, and a practical driving test, generally taking about twenty minutes.

Immediate revocation will be mandatory on the conviction of the licensee of any of the following offenses:

1. Manslaughter resulting from the operation of an automobile.

2. Assault and battery resulting from the operation of an automobile.

3. Driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor or drugs.

4. Perjury or the making of a false affidavit under any of the State Automobile Laws.

5. Any crime punishable as a felony under the State motor vehicle laws or any felony in the commission of which an automobile is used.

6. Conviction or forfeiture of bail on three charges of reckless driving within the preceding twelve months.

7. Conviction of an automobile driver for failing to stop and disclose his identity at the scene of an accident in which he was involved.

8. The bill will make no change in the present fee of $1.00 a year for driver's permit, or in their issuance by Circuit Court Clerks. No license can be issued to a person under 16, or to a new driver who has not passed the required examination.

The Department of Revenue or a Circuit Court having jurisdiction over the defendant may immediately suspend the license of any person with or without hearing and with or without receiving a record of conviction of such person of crime whenever The Department of Revenue or a Circuit Court having jurisdiction over the defendant has reason to believe:

(1) That such person has committed any offenses for the conviction of which mandatory revocation of license is provided in this Act.

(2) That such person is incompetent to drive a motor vehicle or is afflicted with mental or physical infirmities or disabilities rendering it unsafe for such person to drive upon the highways.

(4) That such person is an habitual reckless or negligent driver of a motor vehicle or has committed a serious violation of the motor vehicle laws of this State.

STRAWBERRY CROP ADDS MILLION TO KENTUCKY INCOME

A half-million crates of strawberries added a million dollars to the income of Kentucky farmers this year, according to a survey made by the College of Agriculture at Lexington. Most of the big shipments went to large cities in the north and east, but hundreds of truckloads moved to smaller cities in neighboring states. Ten cooperative associations sold nearly all of the berries. Several of them this year used an inspection service furnished cooperatively by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station and the United States Department of Agriculture.

Cooperative marketing of wool increased materially in Kentucky this year, with the Kentucky Wool Growers' Association handling 50 percent more wool than in any previous season. Advance payments averaged slightly more than 21½ cents a pound, all grades considered. About 85 percent of the Kentucky wool graded quarter to three-eighths staple or clothing, and is used largely for knitted garments.

Farmers and business men in several Kentucky communities have successfully developed a cooperative tomato industry which is increasing the income of farmers and at the same time giving employment in canneries. Farmers are increasing their acreages of tomatoes as they become more profitable and many local people are finding part-time work in canneries.

PROF. ROBERTS SEES NEED OF CONTINUED FIGHT ON EROSION

In an interview after his return from an 850-mile trip through the state, attending farmers' meetings at the five soil experiment fields at Mayfield, Greenville, Campbellsville, Fariston and Berea, Prof. George Roberts head of the agronomy department at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, said he saw everywhere the need of continued struggle against erosion. There had been, or were during the trip, rains along practically the entire route. This gave him an excellent opportunity to observe the effects of erosion.

"One highly encouraging observation was the impression of a much larger acreage of grass and legumes than I have ever observed before," he said. "Where the land was thus covered, the control of erosion was practically perfect, even on quite steep land. Livestock in Kentucky should be maintained more on pasture and hay and less on corn.

"A discouraging observation was the failure of so many farmers to use simple and inexpensive tillage practices to control erosion. Many fields were seen that had been dragged very smooth in preparation for planting, but heavy rains had come before planting was done. Erosion was very severe where there was any appreciable slope. On many fields the rows of corn and tobacco had been planted with the slope. Here again erosion was severe. On other fields in the same locality the rows had been planted across the slopes, and on these fields the erosion was much less. On a few fields where the rows were run across the slope it appeared that the field had been cultivated very soon after planting, leaving the land rough. The ridges and furrows made by cultivation appeared to be quite effective in checking erosion.

"These observations were very convincing evidence that on sloping land contour planting and cultivation are very effective in checking erosion. It was also evident that land smoothed by dragging should be planted before succeeding rains, if possible.

"It is quite likely that on sloping land it would be a good practice, after planting on the contour, to cultivate the land immediately to roughen it to check erosion.

"It was observed that a great many natural drainage outlets were plowed up where they should have been left in sod. These draws should always be kept in sod."

THE TOURIST VISITOR

This month officially opens the motoring season and for the next four months people will have occasion to extend the glad hand to tourist visitors in, we hope, larger number than during any previous season.

It may be your town cannot boast of many historical attractions as some other has to offer. Perhaps, from a noisy, hilarious night-life standpoint, your town doesn't meet the competition set up by another in its appeal for tourist business. But it should be remembered that there are thousands travelling over the country by auto who are seeking to dodge such entertainment. Today, what is meat for one motorist may be poison for another. Taken as a whole, there are more people seeking comfort and quiet, fresh air and sunshine, simple but healthgiving exercise that can be found outdoors, than there are those hunting exhilirating pleasures and dissipation.

No matter what the tourist who stops in this community is seeking, give him the glad hand of fellowship and welcome. Tell of the advantages he will find here for a quiet, restful vacation. He will move on if this does not appeal, but whether he stays or not, the sort of welcome he receives on arrival will govern his conversation as he drives on to other towns. Make him feel that his presence here is appreciated and that his stay will be equally so. If he chooses to remain your welcome will have added just one more reason why he will want to return next year.

There is a natural law constantly at work in the issues of the human body. We must understand that bone, muscle and nerve consist of millions of ever changing tiny bodies called cells. These cells are held together with the tissue fluids and substances of the body.

Therefore bone, muscle and ligament respectively share the influence of this law, that constant tension causes wasting especially in the feet when the body weight which they carry about and support is not evenly distributed and balanced throughout the twelve major bones of the foot framework.

If ligaments are stretched, due to long and careless standing especially those which bind the weight—supporting and key bones together, these ligaments finally yield in about the fifth or sixth year to strain and abuse, and pull away from the bone attachments.

The rest which the night affords is not enough to counteract continuous strain during the day.

This same law holds true of the muscles and tendon attachments of the feet which lift the body weight on the metatarsal heads or pivots. On the other hand, constant pressure causes wasting of tissue.

If the muscles do not hold the weight bearing joints of feet in proper dovetailing and interlocking action, these joints become deranged, misshaped and deformed because of the pressure of the body weight upon their point surfaces.

When we consider that we drive hundreds of tons of aggregate weight into the twelve major bones of each foot every day that we live it is easily understood why feet degenerate.

Can you be well with unhappy feet? Those headaches, those backaches, those leg pains may be caused by the shoes you are wearing.

The Garden

A NUMBER OF THINGS

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

The Mexican Bean Beetle—Concerning this pest, reports are mixed. In some parts of Kentucky, none is found. In this happy circumstances, never-the-less vigilance should prevail and preparation should be maintained. Where a full quota abounds, or a super-quota, as some report, the fight must obviously be continued. Always, the schedule should be observed, to spray or dust for the first time when egg-clusters are seen, and again, 10 days later; no more, no less. Perhaps, a third spraying, 10 days later, may be needed, but two properly given usually are adequate. The control materials must be put on the under side of the leaves, where the larvae always, and only, feed.

Bordeaux Mixture—As all gardeners know, this is the spray to use to stop "blight" on tomatoes, eggplants and salsify, and many are so protecting their crops. As a result of the wet weather and cool nights, mildew has appeared on these crops and on beans. The control usually recommended is spraying with lime-sulfur or with copper oxide spray, but Boreadux may be used instead, for Bordeaux is easy to make or everywhere easy to obtain in prepared form, whereas the others may not be. 4-4-50 is the proper strength. On beans, the regular bean beetle schedule will serve, the customary arsenical added to the Bordeaux, to control both troubles. On tomatoes, the first Bordeaux spraying should be given as soon as any "blue mold" is observed, and a second should follow in 10 days. These two sprayings will serve also to check the tomato "blight" to come later. Thus a double purpose is accomplished.

Late Cabbage—July 1 is the accepted date to set late cabbage plants, of the varieties Late Flat Ducth or Louisville Drumhead. If none can be had, seed may be sown in groups of three or four where te cabbage is to stand, the seedlings thinned to one at a place. The varieties should be medium early as Copenhagen Market, Succession or All-Seasons. If "yellows" is suspected in the soil, Wisconsin No. 8 should be used instead or the standard late sorts, and Wisconsin All-Seasons instead of the medium early sorts just named.

Winter Beets—It should not be overlooked, now, to make a sowing of beets for winter storing or for late canning. Detroit Dark Red is the best variety.

Cultivation—At the risk of being considered tiresome, the reminder is given to shave or "scalp" the soil surface, rather than to "work" is deeply, and to make no hills or ridges about the plants or along the rows. This is dry weather "insurance," and dry weather may come. At the very least, labor has been saved the gardener, and this is something.

CLAIMS CLIMBING IN COVINGTON OFFICE

Claims which are now being certified for payment in the district served by the Covington, Kentucky field office of the Social Security Board have now climbed to the highest individual and collective total since that office was opened on September 8, 1937.

This statement was made today by Frank B. Decker, Jr., Manager of the Social Security office in the Coppin Building. His survey of lump sum payments covered the counties of Boone, Kenton, Campbell, Gallatin, Grant, Pendleton and Bracken, which are served by the Covington, Ky., field office.

"Since April 1 of this year we have received notice that a total of 77 claims submitted through our office have been certified for payment," Mr. Decker said. These payments have been increasing steadily in average amount paid to individuals. The average payment for May was $48.09 the high point of our experience.

"The increase in the individual lump sum payment is shown by the fact that in 1937, the first full year of operation of the Social Security Act, these payments averaged $24.00. Of the 77 claims certified to our office since April 1 of this year, a total of 37 were filed by persons who had reached the age of 65 years after working in occupations covered by the Social Security Act. In addition 40 claims certified during the same period were filed by the legal heirs of persons who had died after having been similarly employed.

"Claims paid to workers who reached the age of 65 averaged $51.51 for May, while those paid to heirs of persons who had died averaged $44.67. Of the persons whose claims were certified during the month 17 were men and 17 were women," Mr. Decker concluded.

SUGGESTS SANITATION TO PREVENT DISEASES

Sanitation is the employment of measures designed to promote health and prevent disease. It has to do with measures which destroy or make harmless the germs of disease and break the life cycle of parasites. Sanitation is not the use of a large amount of disinfectants, points out the department of animal pathology at the University of Kenturky College of Agriculture. It is the employment of measures designed to prevent the contamination of feed or water with manure, urine or other body secretions of animals or man. Pure air, clean water, wholesome feed, clean barns, sheds and houses, clean yards, ranges and pastures, ample exercise and protection from exposure to disease are essential points in a sanitary program.

Disease germs can be partially or wholly destroyed by the use of disinfectants or germicides. These substances are not cures for disease but tend to prevent its spread by acting against the causative agent. The worth of a germicide depends entirely upon its power to destroy germs, which property is not indicated by the odor, color, or other physical characteristics. The physical disinfectants, such as sunlight, fresh air, heat and cold, are valuable.

In the process of disinfection thoroughness is all important. The first step is to remove all dirt, manure and other filth. Dampen all surfaces before sweeping or scraping to avoid scattering germs in the dust. Apply a disinfectant to all material removed, then thoroughly soak all exposed surfaces with a disinfecting solution, and keep animals out for a period.

Breeding Ewes Of Interest To Sheepmen

Improved type breeding ewes will be studied by approximately twenty-five farmers this year, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The type of ewe that has proven most successful in Central Kentucky is the Montana and Idaho cross bred range ewe. These ewes shear from 8 to 10 pounds of wool, lamb early and uniformly close together, are good mothers and produce a high quality market lamb when crossed with native purebred rams.

Farmers, in a meeting held at Burlington courthouse Saturday afternoon, voted to cooperatively purchase from one to two car loads of these ewes to compare with the native ewes in present flocks. A county committee composed of J. G. Pennington, Walter Johnson, Lillard Scott, S. B. Sleet and J. C. Bedinger were appointed by the growers to help locate suitable breeding stock and to notify those farmers interested.

Corn Breeders Attend School

Three Boone County hybrid corn breeders, John E. Crigler, William Moore and Lloyd Siekman, with Jack Dye, assistant county agent, attended the hybrid corn breeders' school held at the College of Agriculture at Lexington last Friday, July 1st.

The following local breeders are raising double crossed hybrid corn seed for sale this year—William Moore, B. C. Stephens, John Crigler, Wilton Stephens and Lloyd Siekman.

This seed will be certified under the supervision of the Kentucky Seed Improvement Association and the seed should be well adapted to local conditions.

Approximately seventy-five farmers have used hybrid corn seed this year. Reports from those who selected adapted varieties indicate the hybrid so far this year has given more uniform stands and has made more uniform rapid growth in comparison.

FISH MUST BE HUNGRY IN SOUTH LICKING RIVER

Wesley Stephens, Thomas Stephens, Johnnie McCauley and Matthew Campbell put a trot line in the South Fork of Licking river at Robertson Station in Harrison County last Saturday night.

The hooks and weights were placed on the line and the men went back across the stream to bait up. There were five fish on the line and one—a white perch—weighed 8 pounds. The fish certainly are hungry in that stream, when they bite at an empty hook.

From "Holland's" The Magazine of The South . . . .

"Kentucky out of the Red. No wonder that other states are studying Kentucky's tax laws, her reorganization act and the many features of a great program of accomplishment." Kentuckians need no longer speak of past glories and departed statesmen, but can say:

'This is the day I long have sought
And wept because I found it not."

From The "World-Telegram" A New York Daily Newspaper . . . .

"There is a hot Senatorial race in old Kentucky. However, if Governor 'Happy' Chandler comes to Washington, He'll be a social outcast, as he is the only politician that ever kept his pormises."

A Candidate for Governor of a southern state is quoted as saying from every platform:

"Nominate and elect me Governor of this state and I'll give you the same kind of government they now enjoy in Kentucky, which is at present the best governed state in the Union."

All the above statements are exceedingly complimentary to Gov. A. B. Chandler who, the indications are, will be the next U. S. Senator from Kentucky.

NEW BILL TO BE INTRODUCED

WITH PRESIDENT'S O K E H, BRENT SPENCE SAYS—CONGRESSMAN REPORTS DISCUSSION OF STREAM POLLUTION

The bill providing for purification of waters of the Ohio River, which was killed by President Roosevelt's veto, will be resubmitted at the next session of Congress, with the approval of the President, after it has been worked over so it will comply with certain budget requirements, Congressman Brent Spence disclosed Tuesday.

President Roosevelt is strongly in favor of purification of the Ohio watershed and will ask that the measure be resubmitted with a view to having it passed as quickly as possible, Congressman Spence said. Spence discussed the measure at length with the President, Friday, when riding on the President's train from Covington to Worthville, Ky., "with the express purpose," he said, of discussing the pollution measure with the Chief Executive.

"I am strongly in favor of the stream purification measure and I vetoed the Barkley-Vinson bill only because I objected to the method of ignoring the budgetary system as set out in the provisions of the legislation," Spence said the President told him.

Congressman Spence was sponsor of the only stream purification legislation now on the books. He introduced the bill that became a section of the River and Harbors Act, which sets up the Ohio Valley as the research laboratory under the United States Army Engineers. Its provisions include a survey of stream pollution and its causes.

"We are going to remedy the defects in the bill which caused the President to pocket veto that measure, and I am going to introduce a new bill. We must purify the waters and get rid of pollution," Spence said Tuesday.

Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler spoke to a crowd in Burlington Tuesday night, estimated at 2,500. The Governor was introduced here by James Huey, of Unión, his Boone County campaign manager, after the meeting was opened by Robert Hensley, Burlington. As usual, an invocation was first on the program. After the speech the Governor remained a time to shake hands as the crowd filed past.

The speaking had been scheduled to take place at the courthouse however, the speaking stand was erected on the schoolhouse grounds, just out of town.

Climaxing a day of Fifth District campaigning here, Chandler complimented "you, Ted Lee, and all the rest of my buddies in the Legion for what you did for the President when he was her."

YACHT EXPLODES NEAR GASBURG

ONE MAN DIES FROM SHOCK, AND TWO OTHERS SEVERELY BURNED — AURORA WOMAN SAVES PARTY.

Ray S. Tulle, 40, Indianapolis, Ind., died from a heart attack caused by shock; Miss Margaret Gibson Shanklin, 36, Indianapolis, was critically burned and Mrs. Charles McGaughey, Aurora, also was burned when they, with Charles McGaughey, were blown into the Ohio River near the south Corporation line of Aurora, when the $4000 32-foot cruiser owned by Tulle exploded 25 feet from the Indiana shore and burned Saturday night.

Mrs. McGaughey, although burned severely on the legs, swam to shore, got a skiff and rowed out to the scene of the accident. She brought Miss Shanklin to shore and then returned to aid her husband, who was holding Tulle up in the water, and returned them to shore.

The boat drifted downstream and was totally destroyed by the flames.

Both Aurora fire companies responded to an alarm turned in from the Guarantee Oil Co. plant on shore at this point. Five Aurora physicians and ambulances of both undertakers hurried to the scene. Firemen gave first aid to all the injured.

A pullmotor owned by Stier and Williams was used for 30 minutes as doctors worked to revive Tulle, who never regained consciousness. Miss Shanklin, who received second and third degree burns over almost her entire body, was taken to St. Vincent Hospital, Indianapolis, in an ambulance.

More than 1500 persons gathered on the Aurora side, causing the worst traffic jam ever experienced there. A large number also gathered on the Kentucky side of the river.

Tulle was the owner of the Guarantee Oil Co. McGaughey was manager of the company's bulk plant and river terminal at Aurora. The party had just started out in the boat when engine trouble developed. The explosion came as they turned to return to shore.

THERE MUST BE SOMETHING WRONG

In conversation, with one of our prominent citizens this week, he stated that a young man entered one of the Burlington grocery stores and stated: "Anyone who bets on Barkley is foolish." A gentleman in the store asked him why he made such a statement. He replied: "I was down to the stock yards in Cincinnati today, and they tell me that Chandler will get all the votes down there."

There must be something wrong somewhere.

Boone County's Wool Sale Is Mentioned

Each week, we received from S. M. Saufley, manager of Better Business Bureau, a report of all business transactions for the previous month in the state of Kentucky, and a comparison made from one month to another.

Among one of the first to be mentioned in this month's report was Boone County's sale of 57,255 pounds of wool for a total of $13,547.62.

BERKSHIRE FARM TO SELL JULY 21

FIVE HUNDRED ACRES TO BE DIVIDED INTO FOUR TRACTS —SAID TO BE LARGEST SALE EVER HELD IN COUNTY.

The 500 acre Prospect Hill Farm of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Berkshire at Petersburg will be sold at auction next Thursday, July 21, at 10 a. m., Eastern Standard Time, by the R. G. Kinman Realty Auction Co., 408 Coppin Building, Covington. This is said to be one of the largest sales of farm property ever held in Boone County.

The 500 acres will be divided into four tracts. Tract No. 1 will consist of 310 acres and includes a beautiful 11-room frame residence, garage, stock barn, two tobacco barns, five-room tenant house, and many other outbuildings.

Tract No. 2 will have 125 acres, including 100 acres of Ohio River bottom land and a practically new tobacco barn, costing $3,300.

Tract No. 3 has 41 acres of Ohio River bottom land, and a small barn.

Tract No. 4 consists of 40 acres of bottom land, said to be capable of producing 80 bushels of corn per acre.

The farm has eight acres of tobacco, 40 acres of corn, an acre in potatoes, and 10 acres in melons and fruit, of which the purchaser will share one-half. The sale also includes farm implements, live stock and some household goods.

The unusual beauty of Prospect Hill Farm is well known to residents of Boone County, it having been one of the county's show places for years. Col. R. G. Kinman has arranged to have music for the occasion. Lunch will be served by the ladies of the Petersburg Christian Church. Fifty dollars will be given free. Further details of this big sale will be found in a page advertisement in this issue of The Recorder.

Brent Spence Makes Formal Announcement

Brent Spence made his official announcement for reelection to Congress from the Fifth Congressional District in this issue of the Recorder.

Mr. Spence needs no introduction to the people of Boone County and is known by practically everyone in the entire county.

Mr. Spence has served his district well, and is opposed by only one man, John J. Thobe, of Covington, who has had his name on the ballot many times in northern Kentucky.

Although Mr. Spence made no statement as to when he would be in Boone County, he no doubt will be mingling with the voters of this section in the next few days.

Mrs. Ray Garnett and Mrs. B. E. Aylor visited the Ludlow Inspection E. S. O. Saturday night.

HUGE CROWD HEARS PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Twenty-five Thousand Hear President at Latonia Race Track Friday—Governor Chandler Meets President.

President Roosevelt spoke to a crowd estimated at 25,000 in Covington Friday afternoon at the Latonia Race track.

Governor Chandler was seated on the speakers stand between the president and Senator Barkley, listened to the president with solemn expression, but at the close of the President's address Chandler shook hands with the President and flashed his usual smile.

After the Covington address the President and Barkley boarded the train which left immediately for Louisville, where the President gave a brief talk Friday night. The train made a few stops at stations along the route to Louisville, where large and cheering crowds greeted the President and his party.

The following paragraphs are taken from the President's speech:

In the early part of President's Roosevelt's speech he said, "I want to make it definite and clear to you that I am not interfering in any shape, manner or form in the primary in Kentucky. I do not reside in this state—you do. You have the absolute right to vote for any candidate in accordance with the dictates of your conscience. No outside source ought to dragoon you.

"Nevertheless, I have a clear right to tell you certain facts relating to the national government and national problems which I believe to be true. The people of Kentucky have a vital part and stake in these facts and problems. As one of the great states of the union, Kentucky is interested in national affairs and is therefore entitled to know every angle of national affairs.

"At this stage of world and domestic issues, leadership is important to the people of the whole country as well as to the people of each state.

"We, in this country, operate principally through what we call the party system because we believe that party responsibility eliminates a large part of the confusion which would result from a complete lack of party leadership. That leadership is necessary not only in the executive branch of the federal government but in the two houses of the Congress of the federal government.

"In the upper house, the Senate, the leadership of the majority party has been entrusted to Sen. Barkley, the senior senator from Kentucky. I do not need to tell you of his long experience in all of our national problems. By virtue of that experience and of ability and seniority, he serves on major committees, which deal with major legislation, and in addition to this, speaks with the voice of the majority leader.

"His outlook on affairs of government is a liberal outlook. He has taken a major part in shaping not only the legislation but the actual policies of these past six years.

"I have no doubt that Gov. Chandler would make a good senator from Kentucky—but I think he would be the first to acknowledge that as a very junior member of the Senate, it would take him many, many years to match the national knowledge, the experience and the acknowledged leadership in the affairs of our nation of that son of Kentucky, of whom the whole nation is proud, Alben Barkley.

"One word more. You have heard charges and counter-charges of the use of political influence exerted on primary voters. Charges have been handled back and that employes of the federal government and workers on relief are being directed how to vote. You have heard charges that state employes—people on the state payroll—and their friends are being directed how to vote.

"Let me assure you that it is contrary to direct and forceful orders from Washington for any federal government employe to tell those under them how to vote and I trust that the same rule applies to those who work for or under the state of Kentucky.

"Personally, I am not greatly disturbed by these stories, because I have an old-fashioned idea that the voters of Kentucky, no matter whom they employ or by whom they are employed, are going to vote their own personal convictions on primary day. That is as it should be."

APPLICANTS MUST BRING OLD LICENSES TO BE TURNED OVER TO CIRCUIT COURT CLERK.

The 1938-39 operator's license were received Tuesday afternoon, according to A. D. Yelton, Clerk, and all persons may obtain their license at the clerk's office.

Persons now holding a 1937-38 license must bring this license to the clerk when applying for their new license, as the new license will bear the same number as the old one. If a person should not have their license with them or if they have lost same, a duplicate wil lhave to be issued to them and this turned in to the clerk. A duplicate will cost 25c.

If they want license before August 1, 1938, they must purchase one of the 1937-38 license for the remainder of the month at the regular price of $1 and surrender them to the clerk and pay the fee of $1.00 for the 1938-39 license, and receive the license as though they were under the class of an old operator.

After August 1st all new applications will be handled differently. The license will be issued, but restricted, subject to examination. The clerk suggests that every one who can, obtain their license before the last of the month. July 31st is the last day, as far as is known at this time.

MAKING VACATIONS PAY

At this season of the year we skip the political and war talk to discuss with our neighbor our vacation plans; where and when we go and how long we expect to be away. Peoples ideas differ as widely in regard to vacations as in other matters of moment. And their ideas differ as widely as to where they will spend these vacations. There are always some of us who can't get away for a long stay but there are always most of us who manage a short auto trip to break up the monotony of summer heat. However brief our journey, be the excursion an expensive one or a less costly week-end jaunt, we can profit by observation with no additional cost. It doesn't have to be an expensive event to make it an enjoyable and instructive one. There are ways of depriving yourself of they real foundations of a beneficial vacation by previously wearing yourself out physically in preparation for [illegible] Those "where did you put this" and "where did you pack that" followed by "last year I had it" and "this year I used it," all tends to weaken our morale before the journey actually begins. If American practice of laying something aside for a rainy day, for old-age, or for the care of the family upon the death of the bread-winner.

If this new social order reduces the number and amounts of our insurance policies, or if it results in a decrease in our savings accounts, then there is danger that we are sacrificing the virtues of old-fashioned American thrift for the fleshpots of today, only. And such a development would be a distinct loss to our strength as a nation.

BACK IN THE FOLD

Thousands of flower-lovers will learn with interest that the geranium is coming back, thus adding, declares the editor of the Dayton, O., Journal, another familiar touch to the window-sills that millions of people will delight in seeing there. "Pelargorium" we are told to call it, rather than geranium. But that is the name we learned to call them in our childhood, and that is the name it will doubtless remain.

There on the window-sill, the Ohio editor points out, as well as nearer the stove in chilly climatures, they bloomed in radiance under the light of the white-shaded kerosene lamps. Memories blend in the bloomsoms of the geraniums with the rose which spilled over the pale gray Brussels carpet and bordered the rug with the running stag woven upon it—a rug which lay before the grate (we did not call it a fireplace then).

Many of those articles have disappeared with the advent of the more modern furniture, but the flower has come back in newer and more pleasing colors. The landscape gardener is using it more for decoration than in many years. One of the prettiest sights in a stream-lined kitchen of today is the touch of a pot of geraniums on the window-sill. A very well-dressed society matron appeared in evening clothes with corsage of, guess what—geraniums! Both cheered and blessed is the gardener who can boast of grandmother's favorite flower.

CAMP THIEVES

Started probably by interests anxious to do harm to the fast growing popularity of trailer camps becoming more numerous throughout the country, comes a story that strikes at the trailer camp from a moral standpoint. A report is being circulated about that small, but well-organized group of crooks, capable of quickly and effectively stripping their fellow campers and then moving on to other camps, are stories reported from several widely-scattered localities. It seems the main idea of the plan is to provide profession crooks with shelter and protection while they practice their thieving and then easily and quickly by means of the car used to pull the trailer they will pull out for other camps. In so many words the rumor is intended to leave the impression with the vacationist that if he decides to buy a trailer he is apt to be tied in, a little later on, with a bunch of undesirable neighbors who are adept in everything from pocket-picking to hold up a railroad train. The trailer has too solid a foothold to be undermined by such weak and silly rumors and if the subject ever reaches the betting point you find just about every dollar put on the trailerite.

IT PAYS TO PAY

In a ton the size of Burlington, business may be ever so good, as far as retail advertising is concerned, and the community still may suffer from what is known as "poor collections." A merchant buys stock in the expectation of enlarging it when those goods are disposed of and he gets the money for them. The wholesaler he bought from, and the factories from whom they bought make their base production figures and estimate their future profits on the strength of what the retailer is going to do in the matter of prompt payment. So it goes in a circle; when everybody pays everybody can buy. During the summer when your general overhead should be lower than at any other time of the year, try going on the cash down principle as far as you can. If you feel you must resort to credit then figure in advance the earliest possible date on which you can pay the bill—then pay it if the heavens fall! You'll find yourself better off for your credit is strengthened, your community benefits and money is circulating to make it easier to get back your proportionate share of it.

KNOW YOUR BIRTHSTONE

The months have birthstonces. they are: January, garnet; February, amethyst; Marc, aquamarine or bloodstone; April, diamond; May, emereald; June, moonstone or pearl; July, ruby; August strdonyx; September, sappshire; October, opal or tourmaline; November, topaz; December, turquoise.

THE FLOWER GROWER

As the flower buls begin to appear at the end of dahlia stems, laterals will start to grow from the axils of the leaves. All of these except the basal pair should be rubbed out as they appear. In this way large, long-stemmed flowers will be obtained and a sequence of bloom will be assured. Throughout the summer, cultivation should be regular in order to destroy the weeds.

DEBORAH: EMERGENCY LEADERSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Judges 4:1-9, 12-14.
GOLDEN TEXT—Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?—Esther 4:14.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Why Deborah Sang.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Why Deborah Sang.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Ready for Emergencies.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Emergency Leadership.

"Every man did that which was right in his own eyes." Such is the divine summary of what was wrong in Israel during the period of the judges (Judges 21:25). "There was no king in Israel," no competent and inspiring leadership. The people lived according to the whims of the day, and, as always, humanity left to itself drifted to lower and lower levels. This was true morally and spiritually and ultimately politically, for they came repeatedly into bondage to other nations and were only delivered as God raised up judges to lead them to repentance and victory, as well as to rule over them.

I. A People in Disorder (vv. 1-3).

Any people that forgets God and begins to live after the dictates of the flesh will at length come to the place where some strong man with "chariots of iron" will rule over them. We, in America, look at the other nations of the world, viewing their plight with sympathy but ever assuring ourselves that "it can't happen here." We ought to arouse ourselves and face the facts lest our own land, happy in its possession of God's great blessings of "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," abuse those privileges, neglect the worship of God, spurn the leadership He gives us, and become "lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof" (II Tim. 3:4, 5). If we do not awake and repent the Lord may have to "sell" us, as He did Israel, into the hands of the oppressor.

II. A Leader Called of God (vv. 4-9).

God always has His man ready for the hour of need—only in this case His man was a woman. Glorious indeed is the record of faithful and capable womanhood in annals of God's work on earth. Deborah was a woman of unique gifts—a poetess, a prophetess, and withal "the wife of Lapidoth," evidently a woman who cared well for her own household.

Brains and natural ability are much needed, especially in a time such as ours when few there are who even care to think for themselves and few who have any desire to develop native ability except for the purpose of "making money." But true leadership calls for more than talent and intelligence; it calls for a burning in the soul, a divine zeal, the urge of God in the heart.

Deborah had this fiery touch upon her life. Barak, while undoubtedly a man of ability, evidently did not have it. Many excuses have been offered for the weakness indicated in verse eight. It has been said that he was cautious, or that he wanted to give the place of honor to Deborah as the leader of her people. These suggestions may be true, but somehow one has the feeling that what he really lacked was the "flaming heart." May God give it to us, that in our much doing of His work the divine fire may warm and inspire us!

III. A Divine Victory (vv. 12-14).

God gave Deborah and Barak a great victory, but note that it was God and not man who brought about the defeat of Jabin (Judges 4:15, 23). It was a complete victory and the enemies of Israel troubled them no more for many a day.

Dr. Wilbur M. Smith aptly points out that we should look "upon these conflicts in the book of Judges as certainly symbols of the great conflict that every Christian knows as he wrestles, not with flesh and blood, but against principalities and powers, against the world-rulers of darkness and spiritual wickedness in heavenly places. Victory is certain only when the Lord is with us and only when we walk in His will and contend against evil in His power. We are more than conquerors, but only through the Lord Jesus Christ" (Peloubet's Select Notes).

In closing this lesson the writer of these notes wishes to recognize the blessing of God in enabling him to complete two years of this service to Him and to His people. He also wishes to thank those readers in every state of the Union and in a number of foreign countries who have written to him words of appreciation, encouragement and counsel.

Value of Meditation

It is not he that reads most, but he that meditates most on Divine truth, that will prove the choicest, wisest, strongest Christian.—Bishop Hall.

Attaining Perfection

The warm loves and fears, that swept over us as clouds, must lose their finite character and blend with God, to attain their own perfection.—Emerson.

"BARKLEY FOR SENATOR NOTES"

Sponsored by BARKLEY CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

July 6, 1938

Today I submitted by resignation as a member of Governor Chandler's official family to Governor Chandler, and I desire in this statement to explain to the Young Democrats of Kentucky and to the Older Democrats in Kentucky the reasons that prompted me in supporting the Hondrable Alben W. Barkley in his race for reelection to the Senate of the United States.

Senator Alben W. Barqley today is the majority leader of the United Stotes Senate. A position of leadership that he attained after years of service to the people of this Commonwealth in the Congress of the United States. The leadership of the majority party is in many respects a more important position than the presidency of the United States, and his failure to be returned, by the people of Kentucky, to the Senate of the United States would be a great loss to the prestige of Kentucky as well as a great loss to the Democratic Party in this Nation and our great President Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose humanitarian program has meant so much to our State and Nation.

My conscience would not permit me to vote for any man to replace Senator Barkley when to do so would be to vote against our great leader and President Franklin D. Roosevelt. President Roosevelt with Senator Barkley at his side has changed the whole life trend of the American people. A new liberalism fighting for the people has replaced supine conservation in this Nation. Senator Barkley is the outstanding exponent of liberalism as understood and fought for by our President in these trying times. Governor Chandler represents in this race the old line conservatism, that if successful would destroy with one stroke the achieaements and gains that have been made in behalf of the whole people by President Roosevelt and is leader in the United States Senate, the senior Senator from Kentucky, Alben W. Barkley.

The election of Governor Chandler would serve no purpose other than to send a message singing across the Nation "that Kentucky Democracy has repudiated our great leader and his policies that have meant so much to the people of Kentucky, to the people of America and the Democratic Party which he leads."

The Democratic Party in this State and Nation is a majority party today, for the reason that it is the only party that justifies the faith of millions who had faith. It will continue to be a majority party as long as it keeps faith with the American people. The leadership of the Democratic Party is in the hands of President Roosevelt wo has demonstrated time and again that he is determined to keep faith with the American people. President Roosevelt relies on Senator Aloen W. Barkley in his leadership of the United States Senate to help him keep this faith. The achievements of these two great leaders are writtne, with indelaole ink, into every laborer's salary check, into every farmer's home and every mother's brain in Kentucky and in America.

Kentuckians, I am sure, are proud and honored by the recognition that has come to one of their native sons. The Democracy of Kentucky through the Young Democrats and through the Older Members of the Party will join hands in this election and say to that great humanitarian in the White House, that we here in Kentucky will keep faith with you and the Democratic Party as you have kept faith with us, that we here in Kentucky will not be te first to turn this Government of ours back to the industrial despots and Wall Street racketeers. We desire and we will send to the United States Senate the man whom our President wants, the man who through training an dexperience and the position he holds will be able to help President Roosevelt carry out to a successful conclusion his great liberal program in behalf of the American people. I for one join Senator Barkley and President Roosevelt with full appreciation of the splendid record made in State Government by Governor Chandler, for the reason that I have stated above and for the additional reason that I believe further rewards will be given to Governor Chandler by the people of Kentucky in appreciation of his services to this Commonwealth, and they will be given at a time when to do so would not bring harm to this great Commonwealth, to the Democratic Party in the State and Nation, to a great leader in the White House and to the cause of liberalism he represents and fights for.

I urge all the people of Kentucky to join with me in returning to the Senate of the United States the Honorable Alben W. Barkley, whose reelection means so much to all of us now and in the future.

THOS. M. LOGAN.

Sponsored By CHANDLER CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

Louisville, Kenturky, July 13th—Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler marched toward the coming week-end confident his political fences in the fifth congressional district and northern Kentucky were in good repair, and that he was still the "favorite" candidate in that section of the State.

Last Friday President Franklin D. Roosevelt in an address at the Latonia Race Track said "Happy" had made a good Governor, and would make a good Senator. On Sunday "Happy" had already invaded the district and today after a series of meetings, speeches, and a handshaking tour declared "I've got 'em—the can't take 'em from me—"

"Happy" has always been strong as a candidate in northern Kentucky and the fifth congressional district. It was in the fifth district he polled tremendous majorities in his race for the gubernatorial nomination and the election that followed.

"They are for me and they are going to vote for me on August 6" was the way he summed it up late today.

Tomorrow he leaves the fifth district only to return again on Friwhen he will make two speeches in the district, one at Warsaw in Gallatin county and the other in Williamstown in Grant county. At night he wil lspeak at Carlisle in Nicholas county.

Saturday he will participate in the didication ceremonies opening U. S. 60 at St. Matthews in Jefferson county, and in the evening he will address the voters of Lawrenceburg in Anderson county.

"Happy's" tour of the fifth district actually began last Sunday when he spoke at an Orphan's picnic in Kenton county. On Monday he spent the entire day in Campbell and Kenton county. In a flying tour of the two counties he made occasional speeches and shook hands with thousands. He ended the day with a formal engagement in Ludlow.

On Tuesday e spoke in Falmouth, Pendleton county; at Carrollton in Carroll county, and in Burlington in Boone county. At every engagement he was greeted by large and enthusiastic crowds.

Today he spoke in Flemingsburg and Morehead and tomorrow he will speak in Bedford in Trimble, using other available time for unscheduled talks and a handshaking tour among the voters.
